Last year, Emory Rigney of the Detroit Tigers turned in the most miscues in the American League. He made 50, one more than the total hung up by Joe Sewell of the Cleveland Indians. All told, Rigney accepted 755 chances and Sewell 757.

Why do shortstops pile up the most miscues? One reason is that a short fielder will, as a rule, have about half again as many chances in a season as will the third baseman. Along with the second sacker, he is right in the center of the inner defense. There are double plays that must be executed hurriedly. There are thrown balls from the catcher to handle and be put on attempted base stealers.

Some short fielders accrue more "boots" than do others. Especially is this true of a fast man because he can cover more ground and is consequently apt to make omre errors for he takes more chances. But his fielding average will be as consequently apt to make more errplayer afoot for he will accept more chances.

Donie Bush, when with the Detroit Tigers, was this type of shortstop. Bush went after everything possible. Consequently, his error column figures were always high though he made up for this by cutting off many base hits which the fielders wouldn't have got.

UMPIRES IN MAJORS PLAN FOR PROTECTION

NEW YORK, May 28. -Umpires from the majors and leading minor leagues are seriously contemplating forming a protective association. The purpose of the organization is the betterment of conditions for the umpires.

Recently in New York at an informal gathering of a dozen umpires working in the major and minor leagues in New York and vicinity, the matter was given much consideration.

The original thought is to band together the umpires from the two majors and the larger minors, the International League, American Association, Pacific Coast League and Southern.

If such a combine is formed no doubt all the smaller minors would seek affiliation. Just at present the umpires have many grievances, which it is believed could be adjusted to their advantage, if the officials were banded together.

It was proposed that some retired veteran umpire be placed at the head of the organization.

"RABBIT" BALL CAUSE OF HOMERS, SAYS CHANCE

NEW YORK, May 28. -Frank Chance, manager of the Boston Red Sox, says he is already convinced that a rabbit ball is responsible for the many home runs being made in the majors.

"The ball in use today is radically different from the one in vogue when I retired from the American League in 1914. A rabbit plus inferior pitching are the reasons for the home-run orgy," says Chance.

"Babe Ruth is a great batsman, but if the late Ed Delahanty could come back and play under the same conditions, a lively ball, inferior pitching and small parks, he would break Ruth's mark of 59 home runs."

DENY REPORTS AS COMMUNIST MOVE SPREADS

Shop Keepers Forced to Keep Prices Down to Level Directed by Committee.

FRENCH IMPLICATED

ESSEN, May 29. — (Canadian Press).—The Burgomaster of Essen began negotiations today with communists and representatives of workers for the formation of workers, police force to assist the firemen under an agreement similar to that reached at Gelsenkirchen. Communist committee of control is apparently gaining the upper hand here having little difficulty in forcing shop keepers to keep prices down to a mark directed by the committee. French authorities at Duesseldorf issued an official denial today of widespread reports that the French had supplied firemen and workers of Bochum with firearms.

DE LAVAL INSTALLATION IN LINDSAY

N. Mark One of the First of Individual Dealers to Install a Pasteurizer

Mr. N. Mark, a milk dealer in Lindsay, has installed a new De Laval Pasteurizer, thoroughly modern and up-to-date. He pasteurizes his own milk and is advertising it free from germs of any kind.

Outside of the larger plants, this is one of the first small dealers to install a plant of this kind in the district.

De Laval Company manufactures pasteurizers from one thousand gallons down to one hundred gallons, or big enough for the largest users and small enough for the smallest producers.

For the great effort that is being made in all municipalities for a pure milk supply, the installation of Mr. Mark in Lindsay looks like a leader in this regard. Probably brought about from the fact that the Ontario government takes such an interest in the health of the young hogs on the farm, Mr. Mark has felt that the boys and girls of the homes should have an equal chance. Following from an exchange gives some information on the subject:

"Unquestioned authorities are agreed that 25 p.c. of all tubercular patients under 16 years of age are suffering from bovine tuberculosis.

"The Ontario government, when they learned that 20 p.c. of Ontario hogs were suffering from bovine tuberculosis, passed a law known as The Dairy Standards Act, which makes it compulsory for the cheese factories in Ontario to pasteurize the whey before it is returned to the farmers for feed for swine.

When we come to a realization of the fact that the infants of this province are of as much importance as pigs we will pass like laws for their protection."

Pure milk is always necessary to the health of a community, just as much or more so than pure water.

TORONTO, May 29— (Canadian Press).—The Attorney General's department was advised to-day by the British Consul at San Francisco that Sydney Murrell, arrested there last week and wanted in London, Ontario, on charge of murder has admitted his identity. It is not known whether Murrell will fight extradition proceedisgs.

Dandelion Wine Popular Beverage in Detroit City

It appears that when a citizen's lawn is seen to be covered by dandelions the condition should not be set down to carelessness It may be premeditated, and the luxuriant growth may be the result of earnest effort, if one may judge by experience in other parts of dry North America.

In Detroit the dandelion-wine-makers have increased the garbage tonnage to such an extent that more men are needed in this division. In every block someone has a can full of dandelion mash, according to the collectors.

Another thing that is troubling the man in charge of garbage collection in Detroit is the failure of the city to provide masks for the horses. Dandelion mash smells good to horses.

The garbage men are afraid that some of the animals will be afflicted with the "blind staggers."

"If making dendelion wine is a criminal offence, then half the residents of Detroit should be in jail," the garbage foreman reports.

PLAGUE CASES ALARM EUROPE

Four Victims Reported From Outskirts of the French Capital—Pestilence in Algeria Also

PARIS, May 29. — (Special.)—Four cases of plague have been discovered in the outskirts of Paris. Two victims have died. The Ministry of Health has ordered extreme precautions. The great sewers are to be completely cleaned and all the rats that infect them slain.

A despatch to the Paris Journal from Alexandria states that a plague has broken out in Egypt since the opening of the tomb of Tutankhamen. Natives there believe that the germs from the ancient Pharaoh's catafalque caused the death of Lord Carnarvon and of George J. Gould, who visited Luxor.

Other Cases.

One case of Plague is reported from Algeria. The steamer Gibel Gerjon, which left Oran has been quarantined at Gibraltar with sixty passengers aboard. The pestilence is reported at Seville and a steamer, the Jarlot, with Spanish passengers, is quarantined at Gibraltar.

GIRL WAS THROWN FROM HORSE WITH SERIOUS RESULTS

Daughter of City Engineer Parsons Lies in a Critical Condition.

Forester, the seventeen year old daughter of Roy H. Parsons, City Engineer, was the victim of a serious accident yesterday evening when she was thrown from her saddle horse.

The accident occurred near the Lift Lock and it is thought that the horse took fright at a passing automobile and plunged, throwing the girl to the ground. The motorist took the victim to her home, where she was unconscious until after midnight with three doctors in attendance. The latest reports are that she is conscious, and her condition is slightly improved.

THE DANGER POINT AT WHITE RIVER PASSED

FORT WILLIAM, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Latest reports from White River indicate that the bush fires which for a time threatened the town, and which almost surrounded it with a semi-circle of flame, have been turned by a lucky change in the wind, and are now under control. Fire rangers have been gathered together in the immediate danger zone. Late last night a dense smoke was hanging over the country in the vicinity of White River, but the alarm which was felt on Sunday and which caused many people to prepare to evacuate their homes, has subsided, as it is believed that the danger point has been passed.

PROBLEM PICTURES

By MARIE DORLAND

Canadians in London—and one sees them everywhere—are invariably enthusiastic about the theatre. At the high commissioner's office the other day a young girl was giving an animated description of "Puss In Boots," the new performance of the Italian marionettes. She had been "absolutely fascinated" by the little wooden creatures and "simply adored" the cat and the ogre.

These "seasons" of the cream of foreign theatres are among the greatest attractions London has to offer. Duse, the celebrated Italian tragedienne, will be here in June and so will the Guitrys, father, son and daughter-in-law, supreme in French farce.

Music lovers are delighted that Covent Garden, the famous home of opera, has been rescued from jazz by the British National Opera Company, if only temporarily. British opera had had hard going since the war. A writer in the London press caustically remarked that the wealthy aristocrats who used to support it are now poor and the new rich would only endure the boredom if they could see "society" beside them in the stall and boxes. Which reminds me that Arthur Beverley Baxter, the Canadian managing editor of the "Sunday Express" will make his second professional excursion into opera this week. He made his debut as Pinkerton in "Madame Butterfly" a few weeks ago. An extraordinarily versatile person, "Bax." He also plays the piano more than well. That is probably one of the reasons why, in the days before the war, when editors knew him not and spurned all advances, he sold pianos in Ontario and was "a darned good salesman, too," as he sometimes remarks reminiscently.

It is interesting to watch the reflection of the seasons' changes in the London street barrows. At the moment they are gay with roses, irises, the first forget-me-nots and lily-of-the-valley, cherry polyanthus and asparagus. One sees this delicious vegetable everywhere in fat, green bundles. The French asparagus is much larger than anything we get in Canada, but very delicate, and the English variety also has a fine flavor. Sometimes the tips are eaten as a separate course, hot, with buttered sauce.

The genius of the Ritz hotel kitchens told me some of his secrets the other day. The first English strawberries and peaches, worth their weight in silver anyway, had inspired him to "create" a new "sweet" (in England dessert is the fruit course). So the ultra-fashionable are clamoring for cooked peaches, stoned and filled with a mixture of strawberries and maraschino, and served with a sauce of cream and berry juice.

Lady Duff-Gordon's plans are probably public property in the United States and Canada by now, although I have noticed nothing concerning them in the London press. She tells me she has given up the name "Lucile," by which she became famous as a dressmaker in London, Paris and New York, and will probably leave for New York about the end of June to begin her new career as head designer for an American firm organized with an enormous capital who it was known that she has severed connections with Lucile, Limited. "It is the biggest thing I have attempted yet," she told me. "I shall be delighted to return to New York. This climate is abominable."

When Lady Duff-Gordon and her sister, Elinor Glyn, the novelist, first became known in London—they are natives of Toronto—an English journalist glowing described them as "Canadian ladies, possessing all the charm of that French-American nationality." But that was many years ago and it is is only fair to say that while occasionally one does find a little confusion in the mind of English persons when Canada is mentioned, the war has given the "Dominion" and the people in it a very different status from that of the remote "colony" and "colonials" of a few years ago.

This week Lady Duff-Gordon is showing some models at a dress show, engineered by the "Daily Sketch" at Murray's Club (not known to Canadian officers, I believe). They were all rather stagey and favored period styles. One gorgeous creation out-Egypted Egypt.

The exhibition at the Royal Academy is much discussed. Some of the artists who have been struggling for months in attics in less fashionable districts than Chelsea have achieved the ambition of a life-time; they have been "hung" at Burlington House. Others have carried their masterpieces and their hopes back to unrelieved poverty.

Government Report Shows Peterboro Taxes Are Low

Seventh From Bottom of List of Combined Municipal and School Taxes Per Head of Population in Ontario—Is Seventeenth in List of Twenty-Four.

That Peterborough's taxes for municipal and school purposes compare favourably with those of other cities in Ontario is shown in the following tabulated list, which, if it had no other effect should silence the wails that are occasionally heard from ratepayers about this city's tax "burdens." Most of the cities, according to the latest Government report of municipal statistics which was received on 23rd May, stand above Peterborough in the total of their municipal and school taxes, and for municipal taxes alone Peterborough is sixth lowest, while for school taxes it is seventh highest. IMPORTANT TO SEE THAT YOU ARE ON LISTS

Provincial Elections Now Less Than Four Weeks Away—Appeals Will Be Heard.

SITTINGS HERE

With the Provincial elections now less than four weeks away, Peterborough voters should realize the extreme importance of registering, so that their names will appear on the voters' lists on election day. At the last election there were many people disappointed to find that they could not cast a vote because of their neglecting to ascertain whether they were listed as qualified voters.

It is therefore necessary that all those who are qualified to vote in the coming election should see that their names are on the list If they find they are not, they should have their names registered.

The revising officers for the City of Peterborough will sit as follows: For Ward No. 1, in the Court-Room of the Court-House on June 8; for Ward No. 2, in the County Council Room at the Court-House on June 8; for Ward No. 3, in the Council Room on June 9; for Ward No. 4, in the Judge's Chambers at the Court-House on June 8; and for Ward No. 5, in the Judge's Chambers on June 9. All of these sittings commence at 10.30 a.m., and will continue until all the appeals have been disposed of.

Voters in Asphodel can register at the Town Hall in Westwood on June 7; Lakefield voters can register in the Town Hall there on the same date.

In the rural West Riding, voters in Galway and Cavendish can register in the School-House at Mount Irwin on May 30 at 10.30 a.m.; those in the Township of Smith at Carlton's Hall in Young's Point on May 31 at 10.30 a.m., or at Foresters' Hall at Bridgenorth on June 1 at 2 pm., and in Harvey Township the revising officers will sit in the Town Hall at Hall's Bridge on June 6 at 10.30 a.m.

Compensation For Loss Chester Deal

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 29.— (Special.)— As compensation for the loss of the Chester project to America, Angora has offered France a concession to build a railway from Broussa to the Dardanelles, with the construction of a port at the latter.

Doubt is expressed, however, as to how England will regard the move, which threatens her traditional claims to the guardianship of the Dardanelles as one of the "Gates of Empire."

BIDS FOR U.S. ENTIRE FLEET

Shipping Board to Investigate Offer of Billion Dollars by Columbia Postal Supply Co.

WASHINGTON, May 29. Canadian Press. — The Shipping Board will investigate thoroughly the billion dollar offer received for the entire government fleet, from John W. Stack, president of the Columbia Postal Supply Company, of Silver Creek, New York.

It is proposed to pay a billion, fifty-one million dollars "for all ships active and inactive, and all other property of the United States shipping board, real, personal, and mixed." An initial payment of fifty-one million dollars would be made October 1 and fifty million yearly thereafter until the entire sum has been paid.

Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board said to-day that if the bidders backed up the proposal, "there can be no doubt that the Board will make the award to them."

CHILD ABDUCTION NOT PROSECUTED

TORONTO, May 29. Canadian Press. — Mrs. Margaret Cameron, who was charged with abducting the infant daughter of a patient in a private hospital several weeks ago, was set at liberty to-day by Dr. Margaret Patterson in the Women's Police Court here, the charge being withdrawn.

When arrested Mrs. Cameron declared that her love for children had led her to take the infant from the hospital. Because of mental suffering and peculiar circumstances in connection with the case, Dr. Patterson set her free. The young mother of the child also asked that no prosecution be made of the erring woman.

NOW PLANNING BEAUTIFY THE NEW PARK LOT

Government Forestry Expert Yesterday Made Survey of Armour Hill With Promising Results

TO MAKE A PLAN

Enthusiastic commendation of the project entered upon by the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham was voiced by H. J. Moore, Highway Forester for the Provincial Government, in his inspection of Armour Hill yesterday afternoon. An extensive survey of the ground and a discussionof the possibilities for beautifying it were carried out by Mr. Moore in company with Mrs. Roy Parsons, President of the League, Mrs. T. H. Glover, Treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Scott; Mr. E. A. Peck; Roy Parsons, City Engineer; C. H. Ackerman; Dr. E. E. Harper; E. Courtney; T. Tooms, and Leon Frazer, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Moore is the expert who laid out the beautiful Victoria Park in Niagara Falls, and he rhapsodized over the wonderful view and the suitability of the site on Armour Hill, provided by the Ashburnham ladies, is a compliment to their discernment and iniative.

No definite plans were formulated during the visit yesterday, but plans will be drawn up by the expert on his return to Toronto and submitted to the League for consideration. Mr. Moore stated that there will be no difficulty in fostering a healthy growth of Scotch pine and white elm on the hill, and, with other trees and shrubs, it is his opinion that this can be made one of the beauty spots of Ontario. No fertilizer will be necessary, as Mr. Moore decided that the soil contains everything necessary to a strong growth.

The great problem now is the proposed roadway to the summit of the 170 foot hill. It will necessarily be constructed in a series of easy gradients, and this engineering feat the forestry expert left in the hands of the City Engineer. Three proposed entrances are under discussion.

The plan to form a memorial park on Armour Hill was fostered by the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, numbering about thirty members. Most of the subscriptions for its attainment came from old Ashburnham boys who have left the city and now the League is, with Mr. Moore's endorsation of the scheme, within measurable distance of its objective.

A POLITICAL MOVE BY U.S. METHODISTS

ROME, May 29.—(Special.)— In an interpellation in the Chamber on Monday the Populist Deputy Cingolani declared that the plan of American Methodists to build a university on Mont Mario Hill is a direct challenge to the Vatican. He charged that the ultimate aim of the Methodists was political and the expansion of their propaganda, and said that Italy's prestige would suffer from the move.

Cingolani asserted that the Methodist plan was "an insult to the religious sentiment of Italians, who would be justified in retaliation." Under Secretary Finzi, replying to the charges on behalf of the Government, stated that the Government realized the seriousness of the question, but for obvious reasons was unable to give a complete reply.

UNION OF CHURCHES VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED AT PUBLIC MEETING

"How Do You Know That the Methodist Tree Would Not Be Harmed by the Cold Sap of the Northern Ash?" Queries Rev. Dr. Nelson.

NOTE OF WARNING

"How do you know that it will be a good thing? How do you know that the Methodist tree won't be harmed by the cold sap of the northern ash, the Presbyterian tree? How do you know that you won't have something like the Burbank seedless orange? How do you know that it will produce fruit? Presbyterianism and Methodism both have been a blessing, but they are of differing origin. The Presbyterian is a doctrinal church, copied from the Bible, Methodism was a revival church, born in an emergency. How do you know that these two will mix?" said Rev. Dr. Nelson, of Hamilton, speaking last night to between sixty and seventy people on the subject of "Church Union and Objections To It," at the public meeting held in the Public Library Hall, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church Association. Rev. J. W. Macnamara, of Toronto, also spoke briefly on the subject.

An Interesting Speaker.

Rev. Dr. Nelson, who proclaimed himself as one of the "improved" Scotch, a Scotsman, born in Dublin, Ireland, gave an interesting and eloquent address, his melodious voice rising to thundering heights at intervals, his Scotch-Irish accent and real Irish humour softening what at times was an impassioned and vigorous denunciation of the idea of union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches in Canada.

Church Achievements.

Saying that the time had come to relate something of the achievements of the Presbyterian church, which Dr. Nelson claimed was identical with the Jewish religion, with the only difference in the incorporation of the Gospel in its formation, and which he said was modelled exactly on the pattern of the Biblical church, the speaker launched into a eulogy of Presbyterianism and its adherents. Like a Christmas tree hung with rich gifts was the Presbyterian church. On it, he saw the first steam engine, the stereotyping process, the first telephone and wireless telegraph, the first gas jet and piece of linen. "Where would ye have got your reaping machines if Peter Bell hadn't put a pair of shears under the horse's tail? Ye got the wireless telegraph from a lad named Marconi, whose mother was Sarah Jamieson, a Belfast Scotch-Irish Presbyterian. The first electric car, the first steam boat, the first Lee rifle, were invented by Presbyterians. Without the ingenuity of the Presbyterian you would be going to bed this night by the light of a tallow candle. There surely must be some particular virtue in the religion of the Presbyterian church when it develops the type of mind that discovers and learns the mind of the Creator himself. I will go with you to the library of any educated clergyman in the land, outside of the Catholic church, and you will find that two-thirds of their cherished volumes are written by Presbyterians. You will probably tell me that the Methodist and Anglican churches have produced great inventors, but, I ask you, where are they? "Oh, what a tool!" said the reverend speaker, who turned suddenly to a solemn vein in his description of the character of the Presbyterian denomination.

Stubborn Scotsmen.

"I want to warn the Methodists that the Union church will be run like a Prehbyterian church. The majority of Presbyterians are Scotch or northern Irish, who are "unco Scotch." And this is a dominating and a domineering race, a stubborn people who will not change, independent, critical, fault-finding, a plain-spoken people, careful, canny, and a wee bit cool, inclined to be parsimonious, but still giving to their church a greater amount per capita than any other denomination in North America. A church in Canada of 40,000 people who love arguments, who come to the annual meetings to watch and criticize the managers and yet you find them united with reverence at the Lords' Table. It is a sin to put your hand on this ark of God. It is crime to rock this boat."

"Concerning tastes we must not

AUTOISTS MUST OBSERVE RULES

Carry Lighted Lamps on Parked Cars and Have Brakes in Good Condition.

Motorists must carry lighted lamps on all parked cars, following the Motor Vehicles Act in the hands of Chief Newhall. A fine of $50 is provided for the third offence, and other heavy penalties are incurred. Another section requires brakes to be in good working order, and provides for a 30-day jail term as a maximum penalty for disregard of the law.

Realizing that this act would work a hardship on motorists by compelling them to burn up their batteries, the City Council has arranged for the use of the Market Square as a parking ground, and it is used by many cars. When parked on the square it is not necessary to have lights burning, and in addition to this concession there is a man appointed by Chief Newhall to give protection to cars parked there. If automobiles are parked by the roadside the three lights called for by Statute must be kept burning —two on the front of the car and a red light at the rear. This rule will henceforth be enforced.

Another section of the Act requires the number plate to be conspicuously illuminated, and motorists are advised by the Chief Constable to clean up dirty lamps which do not conform to this law.

The Act reads as follows, and should be studied by every motorist:

Whenever on a highway after dusk and before dawn every motor vehicle shall carry three lighted lamps in a conspicuous position, one on each side of the front which shall cast a white, green or amber-colored light only, and one on the back of the vehicle, which shall cast from its face a red light only, except in the case of a motor bicycle without a sidecar, which shall carry one lamp on front, which shall cast a white light only, and one on the back of the vehicle, which shall cast from its face a red light only. Any lamp so used shall be clearly visible at a distance of at least two hundred feet.

A motor vehicle, while standing upon any highway at such times as lights are required by the provisions of this section for such vehicle may, in lieu of the lighting equipment specified in this section, show one light carried on the left side of the car, in such manner as to be clearly visible to the front and rear for a distance of at least two hundred feet, and to show white to the front and red to the rear of the vehicle, provided, however, that such light shall not be displayed while the motor vehicle is in motion.

Any person who violates any of the provisions of subsections 9 or 10 shall incur, for the first offense, a penalty of not more than $10; for the second offense a penalty of not less than $10 and not more than $25, and for any subsequent offense, a penalty of not less than $25 and not more than $50, and in addition, his license or permit may be suspended for any period not exceeding 60 days.

able gathering where people go to look at each other and what they are wearing as much as the pictures. There was such a crush that about all one saw was a sea of almond green and pale grey hats. Later I returned to look at the paintings and particularly Sir William Orpen's much talked of one, "The Unknown British Soldier in France." He painted the portraits of the thirty-nine most famous men in the world in the great hall of the palace at Versailles, where the peace treaty was signed. Then he felt a sudden impulse to paint them all out, and in their stead, put in the flag-covered coffin of a "British soldier man" guarded by two grim helmeted figures, ghostly spectres, their uniforms in tatters, their faces gaunt, decayed almost. Above them were two ornate figures of cupids, and the lofty splendor of gilt and marble walls. A streak of light from a narrow window fell aslant a crucifix and touched the coffin behind the flag. "Unnecessarily gruesome" as the general comment, yet I feel sure the emaciated, be-medalled match sellers and street artists in the vicinity of Piccadilly have seen more silver coins this week than for months past.

Perhaps you have not heard of the problem picture tradition of the Royal Academy. Each year the public seizes upon an apparently inexplicable painting, and attempts to interpret its meaning. Rarely is the problem solved, but it provides dinner table conversation for a week or so, and excellent publicity for the artist. This year there are two. One is a harrowing affair too involved to describe and the other a ballet dance who has flung herself face downward on a couch, holding a long string of pearls in one hand, is entitled "Cui Bono?" or, translated, "What's the Use?"

TOOMS RENOMINATED BY LABOR PARTY FOR W. PETERBORO RIDING

Hon. H. Mills Principal Speaker at Labor Convention Held Last Evening.

DRURY DEFENDED.

Thomas Tooms was again nominated Independent Labor Candidate for West Peterborough at a convention held in the Labor Hall last night, no competitor for the honor appearing. The meeting was enthusiastic and ready with applause for the may points driven home by the speakers. Hon. H. Mills, Minister of Mines was the principal speaker, and Mr. Tooms spoke at length on the work accomplished by the late Government and by himself as a representative of Peterboro West riding.

The speakers confined themselves to defensive tactics, and did not set up any platform except their wholehearted allegiance to Premier Drury. The O.T.A., to the disappointment of many who had looked for a declaration on this issue, was not mentioned.

Alderman Joseph Crowe acted as chairman.

Labor Appreciates Drury.

In his opening speech, Mr. Tooms said that the reason labor supports Premier Drury is because anything Labor has got came through the Drury Government. The Independent Labor Party has a kinship with the Farmer Party because the prices they get for their respective produce is fixed by the same corporations. "The Cabinet Ministers under the Drury Government are practical men. I believe Drury is the biggest man in the Province of Ontario, honest as day and endeavouring to purify politics." Mentioning the Ministers by name, Mr. Tooms extolled their virtues, and said that when deputations went to them they were received with courtesy and their requests given considerate attention. "The Ministers did not cloak themselves in their dignity to hide their ignorance" he said.

Because of the Mothers' Allowance Act Mr. Tooms cannot see how any lady can turn down the Drury Government. There are 70 widowed mothers in the City and County of Peterborough receiving assistance from this source to the extent of an average of $36 per month each.

The minimum wage law for female workers is in vogue in most of the factories in Peterboro, and the Drury Government are the only people who have given this matter proper thought and study. The Provincial Banking system has been set on a firm foundation and has shown its practicability in the year of its existence. Personally, Mr. Tooms introduced 14 bills of which 10 are on the statute books now, and for these he has received many recommendatory letters from outside the city.

More credit has been given him outside the riding, he said, than by his own constituents.

THOMAS TOOMS.
Sitting Member for the Riding of West Peterboro, in the Provincial Legislature, who was last night renominatee as an Independent Labor Candidate. Mr. Tooms is a supporter of Premier Drury.

A great plank in the Drury and Labor platform was the development of natural resources, the speaker said. As a result of the formation of a new portfolio, that of Minister of Mines, Northern Ontario has developed wonderfully under the Drury regime. The output of this northern country has grown from $8,000,000 to $22,000,000 a year.

"It would be a shame" Mr. Tooms exclaimed, "if Premier Drury did not get another four years to complete the development of the work which he has so well started.

Opposition Responsible.

Regarding extravagance, the opposition were equally responsible with the Drury followers for any extravagance, the speaker declared. The Drury government had no majority, and its opponents had the power to defeat any plans they brought forward. Instead of trying to defeat these measures, Mr. Nickle wanted more money for higher education.

Drury said he would give the grants to the public school where they would benefit the working man's children.

In view of the fact that many people think the only timber dues collected by the Drury Government were from the Shevelin-Clarke Company, Mr. Tooms thought it wise to make public a number of other firms who also paid these dues. They are:

Marshay Lumber Co., Sudbury, $37,759.82.

James Horrigan & Co., Port Arthur, $12,600.

George E. Farlinger, Sioux Lookout, $13,030.74.

Russell Timber Co., Port Arthur, $55,000.

S. L. Lambert, Welland, $4,218.76.

Altogether the receipts from Crown Timber Dues amounted to $4,400,000. "The press said that the public pays for this in the end, but lumber is cheaper today than it was in 1919," Mr. Tooms said." In concluding, he said his record would stand any scrutiny and that his aim in the Legislature is to be of service.

Criticisms Untrue.

Mr. Mills declared that the criticisms made about the Drury Administration are unfair, unjust, and in many cases, untrue.

FORCES OF NEW GOVERNMENT IN FIRST TROUBLE

Indemnity Bill Meets With Stiff Opposition From the Labor Benches—Concessions Made.

BRIDGEMAN SPOKE.

LONDON, May 29.— (Canadian Press.)—The new Government, completed by the appointment of Sir Laming Worthington Evans as Postmaster General with a seat in the Cabinet, started its active career yesterday in uneventful fashion.

Stanley Baldwin, the new Prime Minister, was elected leader of the Conservative Party in place of the retiring Premier, Andrew Bonar Law, at a party meeting which was noteworthy only for the absence of Lord Birkenhead and Austen Chamberlain, the latter of whom was evidently aggrieved at being ignored in the formation of the Government.

The new Premier and his ministers met Parliament without ceremony. The customary speeches of eulogy and sympathy for the retiring Premier and of welcome for the head of the new Government were delivered briefly by the leaders of the various parties. Mr. Baldwin gave no direct expression of policy, except for the very general statement that he would continue along the lines laid down by Mr. Bonar Law and by Conservative tradition.

The House of Commons plunged forthwith into the debate on the secon reading of the Indemnity Bill to protect Home Secretary Bridgeman from the penalties threatening him as a result of the Appeal Court's decision in the case of the Irish deportees. The Government desires to secure the adoption of all stages of the bill in two days, and an all-night sitting is not improbable.

Teh Opposition parties are putting up a bitter fight against the measure and J. Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor leader, opened the attack with a slashing speech in which he moved rejection of the bill. Premier Baldwin had attempted to mollify the House by announcing the Government had decided to receive claims from the deportees for their losses in consequence of arrest and deportation, and to appoint a committee of investigation.

This, however, failed to ward off the severity of the attack and Secretary Bridgeman himself aggravated the case by delivering a speech attempting justification of his action, in which he provoked the intense anger of the Laborites by repeating the charges of conspiracy against the deportees, and then leaving the House to debate the bill in his absence.

Thus the Government at the threshold of its career, meets the worst situation that it is likely to encounter during the present session of Parliament. Former Premier Lloyd George, while expressing sympathy for Mr. Bridgeman, who, he said, had acted illegally under bad advice, declared Mr. Baldwin's offer to compensate the deportees, "for their travelling expenses," was quite inadequate. The Government, he contended, should frankly assume responsibility for the illegality of its action, and "pay like gentlemen." He said he could not support the bill in its present form and suggested that instead of depriving the deportees of their legal rights, the Government should insert a clause in teh bill enabling the deportees to make ther claims and creating a judicial tribunal to decide the question of fair compensation.

Lord Robert Cecil, making his first speech as member of the Government, expressed his readiness to give the most absolute assurance that there was no intention to use the bill as a ground for repealing the deportations. The Government desired to secure for the deportees such compensation as they would be entiled to recover in ordinary courts and was prepared to insert a clause making that quite clear. He also agreed that damages should be recovered before a legal tribunal.

This concession was accepted by C. A. McCurdy, National Liberal, in behalf of the Lloyd Georgites, and the bill passed its second reading 297 to 143. The figures were greeted with hearty ministerial cheers, being a much larger majority than the Government's normal strength, owing to the Lloyd George group voting with the Government.

DE VALERA ORDERS ALL HOSTILITIES TO CEASE

Rebel Leader Realizes Futility of Further Resistance and Orders His Forces to Leave Their Arms in Dumps Where They Will Be Captured By Free State Forces—Will Appeal to Electors.

DUBLIN, May 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Captured documents made public yesterday by the Free Sttae Government show that Eamon De Valera and his "Chief of Staff," Frank Aitkin, have definitely ordered a cessation of active hostilities by the Republic, admitting that "the Republic can no longer be defended successfully by your arms."

The statement emanating from De Valera comes as a quick change of attitude on the part of the Republican leader and is regarded in Free Sttae quarters as porving the effectiveness of the Government's campaign. Scarcely more than a week ago, in a communication sent to the Associated Press, he declared that the "one-sided truce" could not continue indefinitely, but this brought no response from the Government and the document now made public shows he has brought the fighting to a definite end.

There will be no formal surrender of arms, but the order signed by Aitkin that they shall be dumped is almost the equivalent, for arms dumps are easily discovered by the Free Sttae patrols. It is believed the Republicans now are likely to concentrate their efforts upon the election campaign, believing that their chances of influencing the voters are greater with the cessation of the armed campaign and attacks on property.

Definite abandonment of the state of war is expected to prove embarrassing to the Government, whose imprisonment and military measures have up to this time been legally justified by the decision of the courts that they were necessary to the campaign against the irregulars. No immediate large releases of prisoners, however, are probable.

STRIKES SPREADING IN THE RUHR DISTRICT AND REDS ARE IN CONTROL

Citizens of Bochum Have Armed Themselves Against the Reds and Pitched Battle Follows.

MANY INJURED.

ESSEN, May 29. — (Canadian Press). — The strike movement is spreading throughout the Ruhr and fresh walkouts among the metal workers and miners are reported in nearby unoccupied territory.

A general strike called at Hamborn is affecting the iron works there belonging to the Stinnes interests. Communist manifestants at Wanne became so threatening that the French intervened for the first time, as a result of which the demonstration collapsed.

The sale of alcoholic liquors has been prohibited in the entire disturbed area by the German authorities, but the regulation is not being greatly observed.

The Communists in Bochum extended the ir position yesterday but the city firemen and civilian volunteers, wearing white arm bands, still hold the fire house. The Communists for the third time stormed this position at daylight yesterday, the fighting lasting more than an hour.

The shooting was heaviest since the siege began, but only a few casualties are reported. The main attack of the Reds was from the railroad viaduct crossing the street near the fire house, where the Reds took up their position at dawn, using rifles and revolvers. The defenders found refuge behind barricades and drove off the enemy.

Simultaneously the Reds delivered attacks in the streets leading to Fire House Square. The firemen have an observation post in a small steel tower, where ordinarily hose is stored. Attempts by the Reds to pick off "white" lookouts failed. Further attacks are expected and in the meantime the Reds are in control of the western part of the town—the factory district — the Whites holding the business quarter where the banks and chief shops are located. Two shopkeepers in the working district were taken as hostages, and other shopkeepers will likely be seized unless food prices are reduced.

The Communist efforts at Duessel dorf to reduce prices were blocked by the report that Security Police were proceeding to that place, in consequence of which the Control Commission disbanded.

The strikers at Duesseldorf will hold a meeting and endeavor to organize a general strike in the city, which has a half million inhabitants The men now on strike include all gas employees, many of those employed in electrical plants and some of the street car workers.

Five hundred Communists and strikers visited a factory to induce the men to strike. The Director of the works summoned the Security Police, who arrived in a big autotruck. A fight ensued and one rioter was killed and four were wounded. A child was trampled to death.

The Security Police report that the Communists are plotting to obtain green uniforms and assign certain followers clad in these uniforms to attack French officers in order to embroil the Security Police with the French.

GERMANS HONOR VOLTAIRE.

BERLIN, May 29.—(Associated Press)—Voltaire is sharing in the Frederick the Great revival which is spreading all over Germany. The books of the eccentric French philosopher who lived so long at San Souci Palace, Potsdam, with Frederick the Great, are being offered in the bookshops along with the works of the idolized Prussian king.

The general hatred of Frenchmen because of the Ruhr occupation apparently does not extend to Voltaire, whose portraits are freely exhibited beside those of Frederick the Great.

KINGSTON, May 28.—Twenty Kingston young men who were enticed to go to Massena, N.Y., to work in the aluminum plant are back again and content to remain in Canada. They claim they found conditions not as represented.

For fifty cents an hour they worked in a blast furnace in eight-hour shifts, but could not stand the terrific heat. Their money was held back three weeks, and board was found to be two dollars a week more than advertised.

Forty Canadians in all left the plant, and the plant manager endeavored to have them all arrested for not living up to their contracts, as h. had paid their head-tax.

SEEDING BACKWARD IN THIS PROVINCE

Fall Wheat is in Good Shape and All Clover and Grass Fields Improving.

TORONTO, May 29 (Canadian Press). — Fall wheat is improving in appearance with the warmer weather, according to the latest official reports to the Ontario Department of Agriculture. During the past week or two considerable barley and other grains have been drilled into the bare spots in the wheat fields, the Department states in it's summary of returns.

All the clover and grass are looking well, and live stock are thriving in the pasture fields.

Seeding is very backward in Eastern Ontario. Some farmers in that part of the Province started only last week to put in their spring grains, and considerable low land yet remains to be sown.

The Bruce representative of the Agricultural Department states that the farmers in that county will have a good opportunity to observe whether early or late seasons are the most beneficial.

Orchards are nicely in bloom, and there is a fair prospect for tree fruits.

Spring frosts so far have done little or no injury to orchards.

Small fruits generally are giving good promise, especially strawberries, which are looking well where well cared for.

The Department's representatives in Leeds and Lennox and and Addington fear an outbreak of tent caterpillars this season, and they express anxiety regarding the result in many of the smaller orchards where there are very few sprayers to combat the attacks of leaf-eating insects.

SHIPPING TO SOUTH AMERICA.

HAMBURG, May 29.—(Associated Press)—Regular shipping service between Germany and the western coasts of Central and South America is provided for in an agreement concluded by all the German lines interested in the traffic.

It is planned to have one ship go through the Panama Canal every ten days by way of Bremen, Rotterdam, and Antwerp to western ports in South America. Every six weeks one ship is to go through the Strait of Magellan to western South American harbors by way of the same intermediate stops in Europe.

In addition to this schedule, it is intended to send one ship through the Panama Canal every month to Pacific ports of Central America.

Refusal to Admit Alexander Howatt Raised a Small Storm in the House — Had a Prison Record.

ON LECTURE TOUR.

OTTAWA, May 29.— (Canadian Press.) — The case of Alexander Howatt, deposed president of the Kansas miners and recently refused admission to Canada when on his way to Glace Bay, was again raised in the House of Commons yesterday. J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Centre Winnipeg, declared that the exclusion of Howatt was an attack on the freedom of speech.

The ground for declining admission to Howatt was that he was likely to become a public charge, said Mr. Woodsworth. Such persons came under the proposed class of the immigration act. "I submit that there was no reasonable probability that he would become a public charge," Mr. Woodsworth declared. He explained that Howatt was coming to lecture and that there was little likelihood that he would lack funds. But Hon. Chas. Stewart, Acting Minister of Immigration had explained that this ground for his exclusion was merely an excuse. The real reason was that Howatt had a prison record. "I charge the acting Minister of Immigration with not acting in accordance with the law," said Mr. Woodsworth, "he has absolutely no right to exclude a man because he has a prison record."

Howatt was been imprisoned, Mr. Woodsworth said further, for violation of a Kansas law which made it a crime to strike. The government's action was unwarranted interference with Labor's private affairs. Labor had a right to invite whom it pleased.

"Surely the people of Canada have a right to say whom they will admit," said Hon. Charles Stewart in reply. Howatt was in a different position from Irish organizers. He had spent 15 months in jail and was deposed by his own association. Howatt was a man who might become a public charge if admitted.

"Was Howatt a public charge in Kansas?" asked Mr. Woodsworth.

"He certainly was when in jail," replied the Minister. It was reasonable to suppose that a prisoner was a public charge. Yesterday's papers said Howatt was refused the right of speaking in his own country. The department had to be guided by the precedents and laws before it. It cold not investigate the causes behind every prison sentence.

This ended the discussion.

AN IMPROVEMENT NOT EXPECTED IN RAILWAY EARNINGS

Sir Henry Thornton Presents Report to Board of Directors — Decrease in Land Values.

DROP IN SALES.

OTTAWA, May 29. Canadian Press. — An improvement in the net earnings of the Canadian National Lines is not to be expected during the current year, states Sir Henry Thornton in his annual report of the directors for 1922, which was made public yesterday. This report covers the Canadian Northern System, the Canadian Government Railways and the Grand Trunk Pacific, but does not include the Grand Trunk; and Sir Henry states that this is the last report to be made for these three groups of lines by themselves.

"On account of the situation outlined," says Sir Henry in explanation of the statement in regard to the net returns, "with reference to the lines previously comprising the Canadian National Railways and to the fact that some time will necessarily be required to develop plans for improving the situation as it is now affected by the inclusion of the Grand Trunk lines, and leaving in mind other conditions which the reorganization of so vast a system involves, your directors feel is necessary to warn the owners of the system that the present year is not likely to show any great advance in operating performance, except as the situation may be improved by increased traffic, and while there may be an improvement in the traffic returns in the months prior to the crop movement it is rather optimistic to expect a geater seasonal movement than took place in the last quarter of 1922. As the rates over the entire year will be at a lower level the expectations of improved net are not likely to be realized."

President Thornton calls attention to the falling off in sales of land and in land values. In 1922, he says, there were 9025 acres sold at an average price of $18.6, as compared with 17,031 acres at $18.85 in the previous year, while in 1920 the sales were 84,002 acres at $20.70. Moreover in 1922 there were cancellations of sale of 114,056 acres as compared with 17,032 acres cancelled in 1921, and 31,188 acres cancelled in 1920. There remained at the end of 1922, 825,008 acres of land owned by the company and owing to the decline in these land values these have been written down in the list of the company's assets.

The general figures contained in directors' report have already been made public in the statement of the Minister of Railways in the House of Commons.

Ireland Proposes Radical Changes in Property Ownership

DUBLIN, May 29. — (Canadian Press.)—The Government Bill providing for abolition of the landlord system and the substitution of a peasant proprietorship was introduced in the Dail Eireann yesterday. The operation will require £25,000,000 to complete and will affect 70,000 tenants now paying annual rentals of nearly £1,000,000.

The measure provides that, after a fixed date, all land shall be vested in land commissions. The present landlords will be paid in four and three-fourths per cent. stock on a flat rate for fifteen years in purchase of their property. The tenants will pay 65 per cent. of their present rent in the form of purchase annuities, the Government to bridge the difference with a ten per cent. bonus.

All arrears in rent prior to 1920 are wiped out, and arrears since then are payable at a reduction of 25 per cent. The farmers' deputies are understood to favor the bill.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE ESCAPES FROM LOCKUP

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 29.—(Canadan Press.) — Michell Libertine, arrested last Friday night and wanted in Montreal on a charge of attempted murder, escaped through the window of the local police court lockup yesterday when he and several other prisoners were being removed from their cells into the square to eat breakfast.

Several prisoners saw Libertine escape. No trace of him has been found.

The world wants whole wheat

Physicians prescribe whole wheat, food experts recommend it—but the millers go right on making white flour. Of course whole wheat is man's "staff of life," but how are you going to get it? You can get it in Shredded Wheat in a digestible form. It contains everything the human body needs, including the BRAN which is so useful in stimulating bowel movement. In making Shredded Wheat we use only the large, plump, meaty grains of whole wheat. Two Biscuits with milk or cream make a perfect meal. Delicious with fruits.

MR. TOOMS' CANDIDATURE.

The West Peterboro campaign has been rounded out by the nomination by the Independent Labour Party of Mr. Thos. Tooms, the sitting member, who will undoubtedly receive the endorsation of Premier Drury as the Government candidate in this riding. ,(

With such candidate as Ald. Meyers, ex-mayor Bradburn and Mr. Tooms, there is every reason to expect a clean, gentlemanly fight in West Peterborough, with personalities and abusive language nowhere in the picture.

Mr. Tooms, elected four years ago as a representative of Labour but unquestionably supported by the votes of hundreds of members of the old political parties, has, during his term of office, shown no desire to play politics in a partizan manner.

It is but doing him justice to say that no resident of his constituency has asked his assistance in matters affecting the Legislature or under provincial control, and has been refused.

In that respect Mr. Tooms has been an excellent representative of West Peterborough, a fact that will be admitted even by those who do not see eye to eye with him on political matters and who regard the cause for which he stands as detrimental to the general interest of the province.

Mr. Tooms has been faithful in his attendance at the House and in committee work—and the fact that his voice has not been heard very often in debate will appeal to many voters as a virtue rather than a failing.

AN EXCELLENT POLICY.

Mr. G. A. Brethen, the Progressive member for East Peterborough in the Federal House, has made it a practice since he has been a member of Parliament to periodically lay before his constituents a summary of the progress of affairs at Ottawa by means of concise letters in the newspapers.

Mr. Brethen's plan strikes the Examiner as worthy of emulation by members of the House generally.

Although the newspapers do their best to keep their readers supplied with information as to the activities of Parliament, in some cases the field is only sketchily covered and matters that may be of interest to a particular district are dismissed in a paragraph, or not touched upon at all.

And, in addition, many people do not read their newspapers—particularly the political intelligence—as religiously as they should in their own and the general interest.

Mr. Brethen's communications therefore fill the gap, as they are written from an angle that makes them of particular interest to the people of East Peterborough and that keeps the electors in the riding much more closely in touch with what is going on than they could otherwise hope to be.

Far too many members practically ignore this particular part of their responsibility, and the only time their constituents hear from them on Parliamentary matters is when a campaign is being fought.

The Federal member for East Peterborough has inaugurated a policy that might profitably be followed by his colleagues in the House.

SHOULD BE WARNED.

The drowning of a Toronto youth through the capsizing of a canoe in which he was engaged in throwing cushions at the occupants of another boat, agains draws attention to the fact that the Canadian canoe is a craft with which no liberties can be taken.

Most Canadians are, or should be acquainted with the peculiarities of this type of boat, but new comers in this country should be warned by their friends that a canoe, unless carefully handled, is not the sort of a boat in which non-swimmers should embark for a voyage.

In the hands of a man who knows how to be careful there is no more delightful small craft afloat than the canoe.

But it is not to be treated as if it were a flat bottomed scow.

Rocking the boat, changing places while in midstream, paddling back in the stern with the bow swinging clear of the water, getting too close to passing steamers and other pranks of that kind are a long way from being a safe pastime in a boat built on the lines of the standard canoe.

Those who have boats for hire have a peculiar responsibility in this respect.

They should take pains to see that those who are obviously ignorant of the art of paddling are warned that they are exposing themselves to danger when they set forth in a canoe.

MADE-IN-PETERBOROUGH.

Stratford manufacturers are still receiving orders as a result of the splendid made-in-Stratford exhibition staged by them at the Toronto Exhibition last year—a demonstration of the extent of Stratford's industrial growth that put the classic city very much on the map, and that has, in addition, produced a considerable volume of business for the manufacturers who co-operated in the display.

The manufacturers of Peterborough might do well to consider the idea of copying the very excellent policy so successfully carried out by Stratford.

A number of Peterborough firms have been in the habit of making individual displays at the Canadian National.

Would it not be good business to talk over the advisability of combining these exhibits and enlisting other manufacturers in the scheme so that a real made-in-Peterborough exhibition could be arranged on a scale large enough to impress the hundreds of thousands of visitors to the Canadian National Exhibition with the important place held by Peterborough's industries?

A co-operative effort of this kind would be economical as well, as one scheme of decoration could be used throughout at a saving.

Stratford's effort was a conspicuous success—and there is no reason to fear that a similar attempt by Peterborough would be crowned by equally happy results.

It is none too early to begin planning if anything of this kind is to be attempted next autumn.

GERMANY'S DOMESTIC TROUBLES.

Chancellor Cuno's plan of passive resistance against France may break down of its own weight, says the New York Times. So long as the mark could be held up, it was possible for the German workmen to buy what they needed with the wages paid them. With the recent breaks, however, foreshadowing the steady decline of the purchasing power of the paper mark, the workers are beginning to talk of demanding payment in gold or its equivalent in real value. Should this demand increase, and should the decline of the mark continue, there is little doubt that it will hasten the realization of the futility of the present policy. The only solution lies in promptly coming to an agreement with France and forthwith beginning the arduous task of re-establishing German finances upon a sound basis. It would seem that mere expediency, which has so often dictated Germany's policies, would make this clear to Germany.

What the effect will be of the reported Communist uprising at Gelsenkirchen, in the mining district, cannot be predicted. Such outbreaks are usually spasmodic, and due to local conditions. Even if encouraged by Russian money, they are little more than symptoms of unrest. Too often in the past there have come from Central Europe similar reports, in which hundreds of thousands of Communists were pictured as about to spring up and overturn the existing order. Taken in conjunction with the demands for surer pay, however, the present outbreak is a clear indication that Germany's internal problems, which are closely intertwined with the reparations problem, cannot be solved by postponement.

One of the excuses which the Government leaders are making for delaying action is that something may be gained by waiting until Premier Baldwin's exact views on the reparations problem are known. This is but a slender hope. The Cuno Government is in the position of a nervous person with an ulcerated tooth, who puts off until the last possible moment the fateful necessity of going to the dentist. The longer the day of reckoning is put off, the greater is the suffering. The cure is to make an appointment with the dentist and keep it

THE FASHION OF DIVORCE.

It is stated that one out of every five marriages in Chicago is followed by divorce. Where that can happen moral decay is eating down towards the roots of society. All over the world, no doubt, the attitude towards divorce is less rigid. In Great Britain many people who reverence the institution of marriage insist that there are other causes than unfaithfulness to justify divorce. It is easy to imagine circumstances which give strong support to this opinion. Whether or not one agrees with all of Lord Birkenhead's contentions for a wider legal recognition of causes of divorce it will be admitted that he supports his position by powerful arguments.

Even so conservative a thinker as the historian Lecky was doubtful if only a single class of offence should constitute cause for divorce. He described marriage as the most intimate of all relations. "It is," he said, "that which affects most closely and most constantly the daily happiness of life; and as its natural end is a complete identification of feelings and interest, as it brings with it a far ampler knowledge of the circumstances of a life than any other relation, it may, if it fails in its purpose become in the highest degree calamitous, and it gives either party an extraordinary power of injuring the other."

But while Lecky recognized these considerations he agreed that "the stability of the family is more essential than any other single element to the moral, social, and even political well-being of a nation." "It is," he added, "the special seed plot and condition of the best virtues of the community, the foundation stone on which the whole social system must rest." He further declared that "few greater misfortunes can happen to a nation than that the domestic virtues should cease to be prized; that family life, with all its momentous interests, should have become the sport of passion and of caprice."

Few who are concerned for the integrity and solidity of human institutions will challenge this judgment. It will be a supreme misfortune for mankind if the most populous of English-speaking nations lends its sanction to easy and convenient divorce and sets a lesser value than the fathers did upon the sanctity and permanence of the marriage relation. This is not denied by the churches, the great social organizations, and many of the most influential writers and statesmen of the Republic. It can hardly be doubted that if the National Congress had control over divorce more rigid laws would be enacted. The chances are that few causes for divorce would be recognized. Congress expressed its attitude toward marriage and the family by its resolute suppression of polygamy in Utah and its determined attempt to exclude a statesman of Mr. Smoot's character and quality from the Senate.

But in too many of the States the moral tone is lower and divorce flourishes under the easy toleration of elected judges. Indeed in cases divorce has been used as a lure to attract a certain class of tourists who spend freely while they wait for freedom to contract another temporary marriage. It is said that all great wars are followed by increase in divorce and loosening of the marriage relations. So much may be said in mitigation of what is now happening in the United States and to a lesser degree in Great Britain, and even in Canada. But before the war there was a disturbing tendency towards this unwholesome condition.—Montreal Star.

SMALL BLACK DOG ACTS MOTHER TO YOUNG LION

BERLIN, May 29.—(Associated Press)—Berlin's Zoo is probably more successful than any other in the world as a breeding place for wild animals. While it lost many inhabitants during the war, care was taken to keep pairs, and the cages are gradually being restocked with animal born in captivity.

Strange foster families are developed by the keepers, who have learned the difficulties of compelling certain mothers to look after their young under the unnatural conditions they face in captivity.

A few months ago a fine lion cub was entrusted to a small black female dog. The young lion is now five times as large as his foster mother and is developing a heavy mane. Still he is a docile as a puppy and he and the little dog remain on the best of term and play about together to the great joy of visiting children.

Manitoba Missionary Tells His Story

Of What Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Done for Him.

They relieved him of rheumatism and neuralgia after he had suffered for ten years.

South Junction, Man., May 28.—(Special)—"I became sick with rheumatism and neuralgia about 10 or 12 years ago. After 6 years it began to get serious and I had to give up my work. I had special treatment for a while, without much, if any benefit. I took different kinds of medicines both for internal and external use. I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them excellent. I have derived a great deal of encouragement and benefit from using them. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful remedy to do work of this kind. I recommended them to many friends and neighbors." This statement is made by Rev. Severt Ilsen—well known and highly respected in this place.

Dodd's Kidney Pills will relieve Kidney trouble no matter where or in what form it is found.

C.N.R. NOT ADVERTISED.

OTTAWA, May 29 (Canadian Press). — Thomas Sales, Progressive, Saltcoats, complained in the House last night that he had travelled across the country a short time ago on the C.P.R. with Old Country men who did not know anything at all about the C.N.R.

What sort of service had the National Railways in the Old Country that they were unknown?

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, replied that he thought there will be no room for complaint on the score whin a few months.

T. TOOMS IS RENOMINATED

"Instead of telling us the issue," he said, "our opponents go about the province voicing the old cry 'extravagance.' Charging Hon. G. Howard Ferguson with using objectionable language in referring to the Premier as a knave, and calling his party Pharisees, hypocrites, and reckless wastrels, the speaker said "you will express in your vote four weeks from to-night whom you want as your leader." He pointed out several items in the maladministration of the Conservative party, saying that the Hearst Government appointed 21 commissions at an average cost of $8,886.88; the average cost of the much maligned Drury commissions being only $2,430, omitting the three major commissions which returned vastly more than they cost. The Drury administration is also criticized for employing so many lawyers, but as a matter of fact, the speaker said, the old government spent $18,000 more on lawyers' fees than the Drury government. "Those who live in glass houses," he quoted, "should not throw stones."

Drury's Achievements.

Other acts put through by the Drury Government were the Superannuation Act, the increase in the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Minimum Wage Act, the Mothers' Allowance Act, and Bill 66, the Blue Sky Law, which will come into effect in September, if the Drury Government is returned again. "Ferguson," the speaker declared, "says to us, "increase all your items, but keep your totals down.' That is somegirls and without being separated thing we have not learned to do."

CAMPERS ARRIVE CRAWFORD'S GROVE.

First White Tent This Season Seen Sunday — Personal Mention.

BROWNTOWN, May 29.—Mrs. H. C. Barnes, Orpington road, is visiting her daughter in Toronto.

The many friends of Mrs. Hanson, Cameron street will be pleased to hear that she is improving after her recent illness.

The first camper arrived at Crawford's Grove on Sunday. The sight of a tent pitched in the open makes one believe that summer is really coming, although some people still doubt it.

Trout fishing is in full swing. The creek which flows along the River road is always well patronized, though more often than not "fisherman's luck" follows the youthful fisherman, rather than the angler of experience. Despite lamentations over the weather, vegetables are beginning to send out their tender shoots above the earth.

A New Transportation Service in Peterboro.

Peterboro has a new public transportation service in the form of a thoroughly up-to-date and beautifully upholstered motor bus seating 20 persons, which commenced its regular schedule last evening.

The new venture is an attempt by Gordon Mein to give a transportation service from the South end of the city and intermediate points to the Westclox factory, and at regular scheduled times, to Chemong. Mr. Mein believes that his business will be good and that the service will be appreciated by many, the "Peterboro Comet" being a commodious and comfortable vehicle.

The schedule prepared by Mr. Mein at present calls for a departure from East City at 6.30 a.m. to Princess street and return to the Westclox factory. At 7 a.m. he will leave for Chemong, arriving in Peterboro on his return at 8 a.m. The South end trip will be repeated twice at noon and at night. At 2 p.m., 5.30 p.m., 8 p.m. and 9 p.m. the bus will run to Chemong, the last trip to Peterboro being made at 12 midnight. This schedule started tonight and for the time being the bus will be at the corner of George and Charlotte streets.

SEEK GAME PROTECTION.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(Associated Press) — Hunting clubs, game protective associations and other nature lovers, alarmed by the rapid disappearance of feathered game in America, are conducting an agitation to limit the use of the automatic shot gun, if not to abolish its use entirely.

Sportsmen who already have automatic shot guns are being urged to arrange the magazines of their weapons so as to limit their use to two shells. The fact that an automatic contains five shells which can be fired with great rapidity, they say, is resulting in countless crippled birds unrecovered by the hunters.

Death of Mrs. R. Graham

The oldest resident of Hamilton Township probably of Northumberland County, was buried Friday at Coldsprings, when Mrs. Graham, widow of the late Robert Graham and before her marriage Margaret McElroy, was laid to rest. Mrs. Graham was 97 years of age. She was born in Ireland and came with her parents to Hope Township when she was three years of age. After her marriage to the late Robert Graham they went to reside on a farm near Coldsprings in Hamilton Township, which has since been her home. During the three quarters of a century that she has resided there she has seen many changes. In 1895 Mr. Graham passed away. Of their family of seven children, three daughters survive, Mrs. George Kerr of Peterborough and Misses Lucy and Eva Graham at home. She could relate many interesting stories of pioneer days in this county. Rev. F. W. K. Harris of London assisted Rev. J. E. LOST BREATH, HEART FLUTTERED after least exertion

Weak, Nervous Woman Obtains New Health

"Some months ago, I found that after the slightest exertion I suffered from shortness of breath and fluttering of the heart. Frequently I would get a stabbing pain in my left side. I tried various remedies but instead of improving I became worse. My appetite failed and soon even the sight of food became repulsive. Then my nerves became so weak that I would "jump" at any sudden sound.

One day a friend called and, seeing my exhausted condition, told me that what I needed was Wincarnis. I began taking it right away and in all I have taken four bottles and I am amazed at the wonderful result. Today I am strong and well and I owe all my renewed health to Wincarnis."

Young People Close the Season — News Notes— Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 29. — The members of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church last night held the closing meeting of the season with an enjoyable social session. The programme after the business of the evening had been disposed of, consisted of a reading by Miss Andrews, and two contests, the first a trial of skill in naming the different parts of the human body and the other identifying dishes served at a dinner in the country.

The society has had a successful season, both socially and financially. Among the contributions to aid in the work of the church were: A Christmas present of $35.00 to Rev. G. A. OPPOSITION IN TORONTO SEATS

Counting Heads Today at Conference of Liberals and "Progressives."

TORONTO, May 29.—(Canadian Press). — Committee meetings of Liberals and "Progressives" being held here to-day to make sure of placing candidates for every one of the thirteen seats in the Legislature, as representing Toronto and its environs, call to mind the fact that Toronto is not as "Tory" as it used to be. It is expected that there will be opposition by both Liberal and United Farmer or Labor Independent to all the Conservative candidates for Toronto and York seats as a result of to-day's conference. Included in the Progressive or U.F.O. Government candidates already mentioned for Toronto are two women nominees: Mrs. W. E. Groves, prominent member of the Board of Education, and Mrs. W. H. Becker. It is interesting to note that, despite the expression of some doubts about his securing nomination, Col. J. A. Currie, member for South-East Toronto in the last Legislature, and former member of the House of Commons, was again given nomination by the Conservative party convention last night. Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, injected a new phrase into the campaign argument at North Bay last night when he talked of Premier Drury being "under the thumb of George Street." The headquarters of the United Farmers are on George Street, and Mr. Hay's reference implied that the present Government was purely an "occupational party." The statement of Hon Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, at Spencerville yesterday, that his party would maintain a consistent attitude in regard to prohibition and make no change till the electors demanded it, has admittedly cleared the air in respect to the position of Mr. Ferguson and his party on this much discussed question.

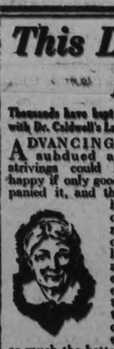
This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.



The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a truly worthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. Ellen Laire of Pictou, N. S. who is 87, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Chas. N. Nicholas of Winnipeg, Man., finds it both helpful and beneficial, and everything that can be desired from a laxative standpoint.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps.

Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

CAMPBELLFORD TO LET CONTRACT STREET OIL

Oil Will Be Applied by Steam Pressure Process at a Considerable Saving of Oil—Council Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 29.—Is there anything further on the High School question " asked Councillor Carter at the special meeting of the Council last night, referring to the request sent at a previous meeting to the Board of Education asking for final figures on the cost of completing the building in accordance with the original plans.

"Two of the councillors are absent," said Mayor Meyers. "We should have a unanimous vote to take the matter up again so that we had better postpone it until there is a full meeting."

It was finally decided to hold another special meeting Friday night when it is expected that the High School problem will be finally disposed of.

The absentees last night were Deputy Reeve Wilkinson and Councillor Allan. As stated in the Examiner last week the formal request for an additional issue of debentures has been prepared by the Board of Education and the resolution is now in the hands of the Council.

Oiling the Streets

The dust nuisance, which within the past few days has become acute, is to be abated. Oil will be applied to the leading thoroughfares not later than next Tuesday unless presents plans miscarry. The Council last night voted unanimously to engage the Law Construction Company of Toronto to apply the oil by the steam pressure process, the cost to be paid or under the local improvement act, the only expense to the town being the oiling of the crossings and street intersections. It is estimated that the new process will man a saving of at least 2,000 gallons of oil, or about sufficient to pay for the work. As next Monday is a holiday the oiling will not likely begin before the following Tuesday. Councillor Cole, chairman of the committee on roads and bridges, is putting in ten or more strenuous hours a day getting the streets repaired in preparation for the oil.

Mayor Meyers was authorized to sign a contract with the Law Company and on motion of Cuncillors Cole and Burke it was decided to purchase from the Imperial Oil Company, 14,000 gallons of 50 per cent. asphalt oil to be delivered not later than Saturday. If the town applied the oil the amount required would be at least 16,000 gallons.

The bylaw providing for this work was put through its several readings.

Collector Cummings Re-Appointed.

J. D. Cummings was re-appointed collector of taxes for 1923 at the usual salary, $400 a year.

To Leave Town

Councillor H. W. Carter who has been a resident of Campbellford for the past 20 years, has offered his home on Frank street for sale, as he intends to remove to Toronto. The members of his family will leave for that city in August but Mr. Carter intends to remain until the end of the year. Several of his children have already secured lucrative positions in Toronto. Mr. Carter came here from Toronto 20 years ago with the Weston Shoe Company and has been one of the department heads ever since. He is serving his first year in the Council and has made an active and efficient official.

The departure of Mr. Carter and his family will be regretted by a large circle of friends and Mrs. Carter will be especially missed by the members of the Baptist Church and by the W.C.T.U. and other societies in which she has been an active worker.

The Bible contains 3,566,480 letters, 819,697 words, 31,175 verses, 8189 chapters and 66 books.

WHITE RIVER IS IN DANGER OF FIRE

Semi-Circle of Fire Surrounds the "Coldest Spot in Canada."

FORT WILLIAM, May 29. — (Canadian Press).—A despatch from White River indicates that, turned by a lucky change in the wind, the fires which have been threatening that town and which yesterday had almost surrounded it by a semi-circle of flames, have swept past it, and that the blaze is now under control. A brush fire which originated near Depew is sweeping forward north-east of the town toward Kootenay Lake.

WORK AMONG THE UNDERPRIVILEGED

Kiwanians' Policy is to Assure a Square Deal For Such Children.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 29 (Canadian Press). — The policy of bringing about a closer relationship between the farmers and the city folk and of obtaining a "square deal for the under-privileged child, the future citizen," has been carried out during the past year, President George H. Ross, of Toronto, Canada, told the Kiwanis Club International in their seventh annual convention here last night.

This declaration was made in his annual address following the opening formalities.

There was no work, he said, that yielded such dividends in pure satisfaction of duty well done as work among under-privileged children.

Mrs. Ross was the guest of honour at a reception tendered to the women visitors.

TO HOLD PLEDGES TILL DEBT IS PAID

France Intends to Get What's Due Her Says President Millerand.

MULHOUSE, Alsace-Lorraine, May 29 (Canadian Press). — President Millerand yesterday re-affirmed France's unshakable resolution to obtain payment by Germany of just reparations.

He spoke at a banquet in his honour, saying: "No ulterior design lurks behind France's acts. She wants what is due her. She will get it. She has seized pledges because it was not paid. She will relinquish these pledges when the debt is paid, and not before. To accuse his country of militarist designs and plans of conquest in connection with so simple and justifiable proceedings is simply ridiculous. Have no fear —France's determination will prevail in peace as it prevailed in war."

WELCOME RAIN IN WESTERN DISTRICT

EDMONTON, Alta., May 29. — (Canadian Press.) — Rains began falling here Friday and continued until night, which have changed the whole situation as far as both crops and live stock are concerned in Northern Alberta.

While the southern part of the province has had plenty of moisture there has been little rain here on opening of spring until the beginning of the downpour that is reported at anywhere from one and a half to 2 inches.

The soil is now moist for a foot down and as a result grain crops will go forward with a bound, and pastures, short up to the present, will now provide abundance of feed.

Had the rain been delayed much longer, Live Stock Commissioner Carlyle says, there would have been forced liquidation of live stock owing to lack of food. Prof. Cutler of the University of Alberta, posibly does not exaggerate in claiming it "a twenty-five million dollar blessing." Certainly it has changed the feeling akin to despondency in Northern Alberta to one of unbounded optimism.

A Thought

Art thou called being a servant? Care not for it. But if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.—I Corinthians 7: 21.

And ye shall succor men;
'Tis nobleness to serve;
Help them who cannot help again!
Beware from right to swerve.

A Business Policy for a Business Man!

THE London Life Insurance Company senses a growing demand for a class of insurance that will meet the needs of business and professional men who MUST carry sufficient insurance, but yet are compelled to use every possible dollar in the conduct of their business or the pursuit of their calling.

"Low premiums" is the answer.

In the past "low premiums" have meant policies which did not share in profits; in other words, straight guaranteed contracts with no opportunity to participate in the improvement of the business or the prosperity of the Company.

The new Superselect policies of the London Life grant these low premiums without the sacrifice of the other very decided advantages.

Insurance with annual dividends at non-profit rates.

The age limit for Superselect London Life Insurance is 16 to 60. The following examples splendidly demonstrate its remarkable economy:—

AGE	AMOUNT OF INSURANCE	PAID-UP POLICY 20th YEAR	CASH VALUE 20th YEAR	*FIRST ANNUAL PREMIUM
27	$10,000.	$4,680.	$2,450.	$167.50

43	10,000.	5,680.	3,980.	292.50

*Subsequent annual premiums reduced by dividends.

Making Air Travel Height of Luxury

By F. A. Collins

IT will soon be possible to enjoy all the luxuries of modern travel high in the air. The great air liners of tomorrow are to be fitted with luxurious drawing-rooms, dining salons, staterooms and decks like a great steamship. The latest designs of airships have a surprising amount of cabin space, and the rooms set aside for the comfort of air travelers are more spacious than those of a private railroad car or even many steamers.

As the air passenger of tomorrow steps aboard the aerial greyhound he will be shown to a luxurious stateroom which he may have all to himself. It is furnished with a comfortable bed, not a bunk; upholstered chairs, bureaus and tables. The room will be lighted by a broad window, not a port hole, which will command marvellous views of the earth far beneath. The drawing-room of the airship is roomy and luxurious. Comfortable chairs, lounges and cozy corners are found on every hand. The walls are lined with bookcases and plenty of broad windows. The decorations are amazingly elaborate and artistic.

135,000 Cubic Meter Fast Passenger Airship for Long Distance Passenger and Mail Service.

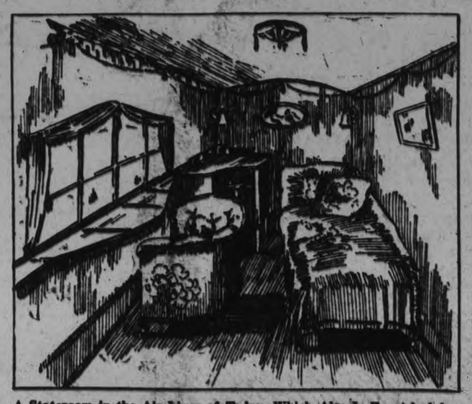
Land Lighthouse and Wind Indicator to Guide Airships. The Device Automatically Swings on Ball Bearings and Always Remains Head-on in the Direction of the Wind. It Automatically Flashes Night Signals for Six Months, the Light Being Turned On and Off by a Thermostat. At the Left Is Shown the Lighthouse in Operation at Night.

These spacious and elaborate cabins have been designed for the great 175,000 cubic meter fast-passenger Zeppelin airships. They have long since passed their experimental stage. One of them made 195 regular commercial flights in 93 days, carrying 1380 passengers, besides large quantities of mail and baggage. The average speed in flight was 62 miles an hour. Much faster time has been made by other airships.

It is estimated that these luxurious air liners will cross the Atlantic in two and a half days. A careful survey has also been made of the air route from Chicago to New York. Judging from the past records, it is believed that this schedule could be maintained with 90 per cent. regularity in the winter and with practically 100 per cent. of the time in the summer months, making for the year an average of 96 per cent. efficiency. The great air liners would fly back and forth on a regular schedule of twelve hours between the two cities.

Giant air craft designed for flying the Atlantic and the American continent are now being built. Such air craft have sailed for 5000 miles under difficult conditions without coming to earth. It is believed that the new airships can sail from Europe to America, return to Europe and again fly to America, thus crossing the Atlantic Ocean three times without once coming to earth. The speed of such craft has been increased from forty to nearly ninety miles an hour. The United States already has a great hangar ready to house the giant airships. Under the direction of the Government land lighthouses are being built to guide the air pilots across the country. In the near future such air travel will be a commonplace.

How the MODERN AIRSHIP Rivals the OCEAN LINER For COMFORT



A Stateroom in the Air Liner of Today, Which Also Is Furnished for Use as an Observation Car.

The great airways of America will soon be safeguarded by land lighthouses just as the seacoast is provided with sea beacons. The first of these signal devices has just been installed at Dayton, Ohio. It is a very different looking device than the familiar sea lighthouse. It is so designed that its warning signal can be seen by the air pilot from a great distance, whether far to one side or directly above it.

The new lighting device tells the sky-pilot all he needs to know in order to make a safe landing. It not only indicates where the landing field lies, but indicates the direction the wind is blowing down near the ground. The land lighthouse consists of a square metal structure which holds the apparatus for keeping the light going, and the necessary supply of fuel. On top this little house swings an immense arrow with a broad surface painted pure white. At the head of the arrow are two side surfaces large enough to be visible from a great altitude. The arrow swings so smoothly on a pivot that it constantly sweeps around to the changes of the wind.

At night when the sky-pilot is in danger of losing his way, bright lights shine upon the white surfaces of the arrow which make it clearly visible for a great distance. A remarkable feature of the new land lighthouse is that it works automatically, without being touched by human hands, for six months or more at a time. The powerful lights are controlled by a delicate thermostat, which is affected in turn by the light. Now, when the sun sets and darkness comes on the thermostat quickly turns on the light, which shines upon the white top of the arrow. In the morning when the sun rises the light is automatically turned off.

The new land lighthouse is illuminated by gas supplied from tanks in the little metal house beneath. A supply sufficient to run the light for six months or more is kept on hand. It is only necessary for the men who keep the light going to visit the station once in several months. In the old-fashioned lighthouses along our coasts it is necessary for a keeper to be on the job constantly, and if he fails for a single night to keep the light burning, serious accidents may occur. The important lights are therefore tended by two or even three men. The automatic self-operating light opens a new era in such signals.

It is only a question of time when these land lighthouses will be very common the country over. They will not only be placed on all the landing fields, but will mark the airways across mountains and valleys from one coast to the other. The most powerful of these lights are visible to aviators flying aloft for at least thirty miles. They will be placed at regular intervals so that a flier can always keep on his course no matter how black the night. These powerful lights will lend a new interest to our landscapes.

How QUININE Affects the HEARING

QUININE in certain doses produces marked effects on the auditory apparatus, including a degree of deafness. The disadvantages of the watch-tick as a test for minimum audibility are obvious, nor is the tuning-fork free from error. A. G. Pohlman and F. W. Kranz describe their method for determining minimum audibility as a function of pitch, pointing out, however, the extreme importance, in work on minimum audibility, of bearing in mind the variable factor of attention.

It was found, according to the London Lancet, that a 25 gr. dose of quinine sulphate taken in 5 gr. gelatin capsules at hourly intervals does not materially influence the acuity of hearing. A 45 gr. dose, taken in 15 gr. doses one half-hour apart, produces in five hours pronounced tinnitus—defined as a subjective sound like locusts singing in the trees—a more marked sensation of fulness in the ears, and a pronounced decrease in acuity, particularly for high-pitched sounds (1000-1800). A total dose of 75 gr. taken in sub-divided doses within a few hours, also produces a pronounced decrease of acuity, appearing to affect the lower part of the scale (256-1000) more markedly than the upper (1000-1800). It would, however, be difficult to be sure of the amount of the drug absorbed. It was found that the amount of actual loss of acuity of hearing was not proportionate to the loudness of the tinnitus. After hearing returned to normal, the tinnitus continued for at least 24 hours.

Are WOMEN HEALTHIER and STRONGER Than MEN?

NATURE, it would seem, is more careful of girls than of boys, with the result, as vital statistics show, that women live longer and are healthier than men. Every disease, with one exception, is said to be more dangerous to boys than to girls. For, while many more boys are born than girls, fewer reach maturity. There is, for the boy babies, what Darwin called "a struggle for the survival of the fittest," which extends right through the nursery days.

Few people know how fierce is this battle which the boy must fight in order to make good his place in the world. For some reason some have the idea that the chances are about equal between the sexes, but figures taken from official reports will show how incorrect such a view is.

For example, there has not been one year since 1831, according to a medical authority writing in London Answers—that is, since these figures were first collected—in which the death-rate of women has not been less than the death-rate of men. Just glance at this table, which was taken at random:

Year.	Death-rate for Men.	Death-rate for Women.
1896.....	18.1 per 1000	16.1 per 1000
1905.....	16.3 per 1000	14.4 per 1000
1911.....	15.6 per 1000	13.7 per 1000
1921.....	13.0 per 1000	11.3 per 1000

"Our world grows steadily more and more healthy," this writer goes on to say, "as these figures show; but always woman reaps the chief benefit. Not only that, but she 'keeps her lead' in the most astonishing way. The difference between 18.1 and 16.1, the figures for 1896, is 2; the difference between 13.0 and 11.3, the figures for 1921, is 1.7. In other words, there has been only the smallest fractional change in woman's 'health handicap' during a quarter of a century. Yet in that time the death-rates for both men and women have fallen by five points.

"But it is not only the general death-rate which shows this strange advantage that women enjoy. In the case of almost every disease she fares better than man. When she is a small girl the difference is often very great. For example, in the year 1921, sixty-six boy babies out of every million people alive died of measles; only fifty-three girl babies out of every million died of this disease. Influenza and scarlet fever also were much more severe among boys and men than among girls and women.

"It is much the same with accidental and violent forms of death. As a general rule, almost three times as many men commit suicide each year as women.

"There were, too, many more fatal accidents to men than women, both in trains and in the streets. If a man and a woman are riding in a train which comes to grief the man has more chances of being killed than the woman. This is, indeed, a great mystery. But it is a fact.

"Stranger still, there are always many more deaths from 'old age' among women than among men. On the other hand, being a woman has a few special risks. There is the chance—very remote—of being murdered. Nearly twice as many men as women are murdered.

"On the other hand, women's clothes are very much more apt to catch fire than those of men, and statistics show that three times as many women are burned to death as men.

"The ordinary woman has a much better chance than the ordinary man—as, indeed, is shown by comparing the numbers of widows and widowers.

"Is there any explanation of this remarkable state of affairs? A short time ago a very ingenious one was suggested. Nature, it was said, loves hardy, vigorous men. Consequently, while she makes man much stronger than woman in a physical sense, she makes him weaker in regard to disease. The result is that only the toughest boys grow up to manhood.

"On the other hand, toughness is not so needful in women. Their work is in the home or in sheltered occupations, and they can usually take care of themselves in a way which is impossible for their brothers and husbands.

"Unfortunately this explanation does not fit all the facts. Because, even when women lead outdoor lives and share in all the hardships of men, they still remain healthier.

"The last few years have brought millions of girls to work in offices and other places, where once only men worked. Yet, as I have shown, there has been no change in the figures of the death-rates. The truth would seem to be that women are really born stronger.

"It is well known, for example, that men stand pain far less heroically than do women. A man will face death without flinching; but his nervous system is not to be trusted when he has to face toothache. In other words, he is more highly strung than his sisters—though his sisters do not very often realize this. A delicate instrument is easily broken. Most doctors have seen cases in which, in the presence of some great strain or shock, a husband has broken down while his wife remained quite calm. Indeed, I would go so far as to say that this is the general rule."

To KEEP COOL by CANNED COLD

SCIENTISTS at the Bureau of Standards in Washington have just discovered how to produce a temperature of 425 degrees below zero, freezing hydrogen, the most difficult of all gases to condense, except helium. This degree of coldness, which was the result of experiments in charge of Dr. C. A. Kanott, a chemist, broke all records at the government's experimental laboratory, being 115 degrees colder than liquid air.

Practical minds at once sought to turn the "canned blizzard" achievement into channels to benefit suffering humanity when the mercury mounts to 110 degrees above, under a summer sun.

The experiment was accomplished by compressing hydrogen under a high pressure. The result left the gas "warm"—about 200 degrees below zero—after which it was chilled with liquid air, at 310 below zero. An expansion process which followed produced the record coldness.

Dr. Kanott says that extreme cold has a curious effect on gases and metals. Some metals, which under normal conditions resist the flow of electricity, lose this resistance entirely under low temperatures.

Experiments with liquid air permitted extraction of oxygen and hydrogen from the ordinary atmosphere leaving helium which could then be collected and utilized. Helium freezes under temperature of approximately 447 degrees below zero, a degree not yet accomplished at the Bureau of Standards.

"The experiment with hydrogen was conducted to satisfy our curiosity," explains Dr. Kanott. "We can't visualize what the accomplishment will lead to—but undoubtedly there will be far-reaching consequences from a scientific and practical standpoint.

"By condensing gases we are able to separate various elements and make minute studies of the properties and the constitution of matter. We are getting down to the basic elements that go to make up the universe."

SPANISH MOSS for MATTRESSES

IN the bayou districts of Louisiana there has been developed a unique industry from which the state derives an income of $3,000,000 yearly by converting the picturesque but tree-destroying "Spanish moss" into a cheap substitute for horsehair for use in mattresses and upholstery. Each year Louisiana ships from 2000 to 5000 carloads of ginned moss, bringing from 6 to 11 cents a pound.

Collecting Spanish Moss in Bayous of Louisiana.

Spanish moss is the name given by Spanish settlers to an epiphyte or "air plant," gray in color, which hangs from the tree branches in the South, looking like enormous beards. Although like an ordinary parasite in that it grows over the tree, it does not derive its nutrition from the tree, but from the air.

The best Spanish moss grows to a length of four or five feet. Most of it is gathered after cypress trees are felled for the sawmills. A writer in Popular Science Monthly gives the following description of the method of gathering the moss: In the bayou district, moss gatherers float under trees in flat boats and drag the air plants down with long poles. Then they carry the moss in bundles to their homes, where they heap it in big piles, sprinkling these with water, which causes the outer bark to rot off. After it has been thus cured, the moss is sent to a ginnery, where it is run through a set of double rollers equipped with teeth, a fan blower and a baler. The rollers crush the sticks, teeth comb out the moss, while blowers dry the moss and blow away the trash.

How INDIAN WOMEN Make TAPIOCA From the CASSAVA, a POISONOUS PLANT

ARE you who are accustomed to the delicious puddings made from tapioca able to tell its source? Probably not one person in a thousand knows that tapioca is made from the tuberous root of the cassava plant, a tropical shrub about six feet in height.

Describing the preparation of tapioca, Charles W. Mead of the American Museum of Natural History says: Two species of cassava are cultivated: the bitter cassava and the sweet cassava. The first, the more useful of the two, contains hydrocyanic acid and cannot be eaten in its natural state, but its harmful qualities are quickly dissipated by heat. This is the variety from which tapioca is made. The sweet variety is innocuous and is used as a table vegetable. Both the bitter and sweet cassava had their origin in tropical South America. The former has been introduced into many tropical countries and is very extensively cultivated in the western part of tropical Africa and in the Malay Archipelago. Its starch, in the form of tapioca, is a staple export from these regions as well as from Brazil and other South American countries. This starch is sold also under the name of Brazilian arrowroot. The roots are sometimes sliced, dried and grated, to be made into cassava bread.

The juice expressed from the poisonous cassava is converted into a beverage by heating and fermentation, and by evaporation and concentration, with the addition of various aromatics, it becomes "cassareep," the favorite condiment of the South American Indians. Cassareep is imported in considerable quantities into Holland and Britain. It is the basis of the favorite West Indian dish called pepper pot.

In making tapioca, the Indian woman takes a large piece of cassava root in both hands and rubs it back and forth on a board studded with hundreds of sharp pebbles until the root is reduced to pulp. When a sufficient quantity has been grated, the next step is to press as much water out of it as possible. For this purpose a long, narrow tube of basketwork, called a tipiti, is used. This basket work press has a loop at either end. The pulp is forced into the press, which is then hung up by one of the loops. Through the lower loop is inserted a long, stout pole which in turn is run under some convenient object that serves as a fulcrum. The woman thereupon sits on the free end of the pole, her weight stretching out the press and forcing the liquid through the interstices of the basket work. This liquid is caught in a pottery vessel and is then prepared in the manner stated above.

The wet mass is taken from the press and spread on a very large, flat dish of pottery having a raised rim, under which a fire is built. If stirred rapidly, the preparation is prevented from caking into large masses and quickly agglomerates into small, irregular pellets, the tapioca of commerce.

Does Your SENSE of TOUCH Ever PLAY You FALSE?

DID you know that besides optical illusions, there are illusions of feeling? The proof is very simple. Take a small round pellet about the size of a pea. Cross the middle finger over the first finger in such a way that the tip of the middle finger is on the thumb side of the first finger. Now insert the pellet between the crossed fingers and roll it about the surface of the table. You will be astounded to find that you distinctly feel two objects about half an inch apart.

The explanation of the experiment, according to Popular Science Monthly, rests in the fact that the pellet is touched by the opposite sides of the two fingers, and, consequently, two sensations of touch arise instead of one.

Mountains Under the Sea

NOT many people know that just as there are mountains on dry land, so there are mountains beneath the sea, some of them as high as the peaks in the Alps and the Andes.

One of the biggest of these submarine mountains is Laura Ethel, situated in mid-Atlantic. It is over 12,000 feet high, its summit being less than 200 feet below the surface.

So often has this mountain been explored by oceanographers, with the aid of sounding apparatus, that its characteristics are as well known as those of Ben Nevis or Snowdon, although it has never been seen.

In the same locality is another great sea mountain, Mt. Chaucer, first discovered seventy years ago. Its summit is only just over 100 feet below the surface, while its height is 10,000 feet. The summit of another peak, Mt. Piscentia, is only 30 feet below the surface.

A mountain range whose peaks are named after members of the Royal Family, is another little-known feature of the Atlantic bottom. Every one of its ten peaks is higher than Snowdon.

The real "Davy Jones's locker" is to be found at the foot of the Faraday Hills, in the South Atlantic. It is estimated that at the base of the highest peak in the range, Sainthill, there lie no fewer than five thousand wrecks.

BOILS

Made Him Sick and Miserable

Mr. Richard Zaienzoski, McLean, Sask., writes:—"I had been suffering continuously, with boils, for three years, and during that time I tried many different remedies without any success whatever. In spite of all my efforts I was compelled to go to the hospital. This was in the Fall of the year, and right in the busiest time of the season. Upon my return home it just took about two weeks until my neck and arms were again occupied by the boils which made me feel very sick and miserable.

One day one of my friends advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after I had used less than two bottles I was very much surprised at the result.

It is now over two years since I got in touch with B.B.B., and I have had no bother with boils since. I will recommend it to all persons suffering from any defect in the blood."

B. B. B. is manufacutred only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ELECTRICAL EXPERTS TO MEET IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 29.—(Associated Press)—Farm electrification and the further electrification of American industries and commerce as a means of offsetting farm labor shortage and the growing scarcity of labor resulting from prosperity coupled with restricted immigration, will be two of the many subjects coming before the forty-sixth convention of the National Electric Light Association in New York city June 4 to 8.

Progress in electrical science, research, invention and physical development also will be outlined in the reports to be presented and the discussions which will follow their presentation.

Electrical experts from all over the United States and its territorial possessions, from Canada and from foreign countries will participate in the program. Those present will include Thomas A. Edison, the father of the industry in this country, and Dr. Steinmetz, the "Wizard of Schenectady."

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

A WANT AD APPOINTMENT WITH INQUIRERS.

"I know that a Want Ad would sell these at a fair price," reflected Ezra Stone, viewing his correspondence school textbooks. I certainly do need the money—right away. The rub is, there isn't any time I have to show the books to people.

"Suppose I run a Want Ad on the books. I'm not here at my room all through the day. Every evening this week is spoken for. Two lodge meetings. An invitation out to Dick Johnson's for Wednesday evening. Thursday evening I take Eva to the movies. Friday night...." he paused. Friday night was clear.

The reader who thinks he hasn't time to answer inquiries or show offered goods usually can manage to, if will figure closely. It is easy to word one's Want Ad to help solve the problem.

What young Stone did was to describe his books in a Want Ad, and then, since he could not handle phone inquiries—conclude, "Ezra Stone, Room 367, Gem Hotel, Friday evening after 7." He inserted his Want Ad for three days prior to Friday, got dinner out of the way early that evening, and was on deck at 7 o'clock waiting for inquirers. They came—several. The books all were sold at 8.30.

When you are pressed for time, yet wish to sell, describe your offering well and then make a Want Ad appointment with interested people—setting a time, if possible, several days in advance. Advertise in the interim. With a definite time named in the Want Ad, a large proportion of interested parties will be able to suit their own convenience to yours.

A good general principle always when using Want Ads is to make it as easy as possible for inquirers to do business with you. Give readers as wide an opportunity to call on you as you can. If you can't handle inquiries through the day, but can evenings, say, "Any evening after 6.30," rather than a single named evening. If you will be at home or office every day in the week except one say, "Any day except Wednesday."

Having very little open time, however, should never prevent you from using a Want Ad. In your message make an appointment with buyers.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

SLEEP.

Next to proper feeding in the care of the growing child comes sleep. Children play hard and they should sleep long. The idea that if you put a child to bed later at night he will sleep later in the morning is a pernicious one. The baby who sleeps the best is the one who is put to bed at 6 or 7 o'clock every night and who wakes bright and refreshed in the morning. Perhaps it is at 6 o'clock but putting him to bed later tends to do just this, the baby wakes just as early but he hasn't had enough sleep and he is irritable and cross all day.

The child who goes to bed early and sleeps all night will usually take a long day time nap. The children who go to bed with the family are the ones who refuse also to sleep in the day time. It is all a matter of habit and the habit of long sleeping must be started and kept up.

Undernourished children must have even more sleep. Very frequently a child fails to gain even with good feeding because he is too energetic and active to get the real benefit of his food. A nap in the day time (forcible rest if necessary) will do wonders for this type.

These are the amounts of sleep necessary for the growing child. From 1 to 2 years, thirteen hours; 2 to 4 years, twelve hours, 4 to 6 years, eleven hours; 6 to 10, ten hours; from 10 to 14, nine hours.

If the amount of time is sufficient for the child's need he will waken every morning simply itching to get up. The lazy, want-to-sleep child had best be put to bed earlier, he is not slept out.

Chronic Constipation
Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. MANY WITNESSES WERE NOT CALLED

A. W. Neill Accuses Wreck Commissioner With Carelessness, Incompetence, or Both.

OTTAWA, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Complaining that material evidence had not been adduced at the inquiry which could have been procured A. W. Neill, Independent from Comox-Alberni, B.C., brought up in the House yesterday the wreck of the 'Alaskan" which went down with the loss of thirteen lives off Vancouver Island last January Mr. Neill suggested that the wreck commissioner who investigated the wreck was either careless or incompetent, or both. Important witnesses had not been called and the commissioner had not visited the scene of the wreck.

Mr. Neill produced a pieces of chain which had figured in the evidence. This, he said was a limber chain from the wreck and as a sample of the equipment of the boat he wanted the governmem to see it. The ends of some links were as thin as paper.

The report of the commission had said that the wreck was due to the violence of the gale and an annex to that report had stated that evidence presented by reputable persons was to the effect when she left Victoria the hull and equipment of the "Alaskan" were sea-worthy. Mr. Neill added that the reputable persons were people interested in showing that the vessel was seaworthy.

Mr. Neill held that the boat had become disabled and this, he believed, was because tubes of the boiler had burst and put out the fire. A former engineer had warned that the boilers should be re-tubed.

The vessel had been bought for $6,000 and immediately insured for $9,000. The extra profit, declared Mr. Neill, was "blood money" made at the risk of men's lives. Judas Iscariot had betrayed the Savior for thirty pieces of silver but these men got three thousand pieces of silver, profit by risking men's lives. Judas had repented but the owners of this boat showed no sign of repentance. The owners were guilty of risking lives from careless greed.

Mr. Neill suggested that all vessels over fifty or seventy-five tons should be inspected to see that their hulls were in a seaworthy condition. At present all vessels over 150 tons were required to have this inspection, but the dropping of the limit would include a large number of ships which were constantly in danger of accident. The cost of this inspection would not be large, because the government already had an inspection force which could be somewhat augmented. He also advocated the installation of a wireless direction finding station on Vancouver Island and the improvement and maintenance of the trail along this coast. The matter was a national, not a sectional one.

Hon. George P. Graham Minister of Railways said that the Minister of Marine was unavoidably absent. He suggested that the item in the marine estimates under discussion stand over until members could read the speech of Mr. Neill and give it some consideration.

NEWFOUNDLAND TO HAVE NEW FACTORY

Special Session of the Legislature to Confirm Contract With Big Lumber Company.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 29. — (Canadian Press.)—The Newfoundland Legislature has been summoned to meet Wednesday, June 6, the special business of the section being to pass a bill confirming a contract entered into by the Government and the Armstrong Whitworth Company of London for the construction of a paper industry on the west coast of the island. The plant is to have a capacaity of 400 tons daily.

The Government of Sir Richard Squires was sustained in the general election of last month on this issue. Under the agreement the Newfoundland Government would guarantee principal and interest of $6,000,000 for the paper enterprise. A similar sum has been guaranted by the British Government. The money raised under the Newfoundland guarantee would be expended in construction here, and that from British sources in the purchase of machinery and materials in England.

WARM DISCUSSION IN OTTAWA HOUSE

Hon. F. B. Carvell Was the Subject—MacLeod Wants Him Removed.

OTTAWA, May 29. — (Canadian Press.)—An alleged election promise of Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, that he would move for the removal of Hon. F. B. Carvell as chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, led to warm discussion of the board in the House last night. It was C. G. Coote, Progressive member for MacLeod, who raised the topic. He said that last year, Mr. Motherwell had promised to make a statement in the House but had not done so. The Prime Minister had also said, added Mr. Coote, that the Minister of Agriculture had made to the government certain representations with regard to such a removal and that the matter was under consideration.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, replied that the chairman of the Railway Commissioners could not be removed except by vote of the House. It was not in the power of the government to remove Mr. Carvell even if it wished to do so. "So far as I am concerned, it does not wish," added Mr. Graham.

If he, Mr. Coote, wished to move in regard to the chairman of the Railway Board, "it is his duty to do so as much as it is of any other member of the House."

Mr. Coote characterized Mr. Graham's reply as an evasion. The Minister of Agriculture had promised a statement and the Prime Minister had declared the matter was under consideration by the government. Mr. Coote said that if the Minister of Agriculture had any sense of political honor, he would stand by his declaration. Had the government yet reached any decision of the matter?

"The government has arrived at no decision to ask for the retirement for the present chairman of the present chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners," replied Mr. Graham.

Mr. Coote next asked whether the representations of the Vancouver Board of Trade had been considered.

Mr. Graham said he had not read the correspondence. If Mr. Coote wished he could move for the retirement of Mr. Carvell. It was a matter for parliament, not for the government. "I can see that the government desires to shift responsibility," remarked Mr. Coote. "I am sorry the Minister cannot answer more definitely."

"I do not know what more you would like," said Mr. Graham.

"I am glad it is still under consideration," came back Mr. Coote.

"I did not say that," retorted Mr. Graham.

"You did not say that it was not," was Mr. Coote's reply.

Mr. Coote went on to say that he had been told by a prominent gentleman from the Maritime provinces that the chairman of the Railway Commission should be hung on a gallows as high as that of Haman. "That is plagiarism," observed Mr. Graham.

Mr. Coote described as not too strong the description of the Railway Commission last session by George Langley, of Saskatchewan as "the Board of Railway Company Commission." He charged that the commission was more ready to raise rates than it was to lower them, and said that as long as we had in Canada men in position as important as those of the Chief Railway Commissioners who placed more value on the dollar than on human life, we were going to find difficulty in keeping people in Canada.

Her Heart Skipped Every Third Beat

Mrs. James Burleigh, 248 King St. E., Chatham Ont., writes:—"I think it my duty to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves. I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like letting everyone know what they did for me."

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

News of Interest From Town and Country—Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, May 29.—A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr and Mrs. Herbert Fletcher, 492 Macdonald street, Peterborough, on Thursday, May 24th, when Nettie, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McIvor, Millbrok, became the bride of Mr. Hugh Campbell Blair, Rev. James Rollins, pastor of St. Andrew's church, officiating. The bride wore a becoming dress of white organdie, and was unattended, only immediate friends being present. A large gathering of relatives and intimate friends was held at 6 p.m. the following Saturday, the large number of beautiful gifts which were received showing that the young couple were remembered by many here and at other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair will reside in Peterborough. The groom has been in the employ of the G.T.R. for about fourteen years, and is at present fireman on the local which runs through here at 8.40 a.m. returning to Peterborough at 11.45 a.m.

Miss Maragret Needler, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Needler, formerly of Millbrook, and but recently removed to Toronto to reside, was among the graduate nurses who received their diplomas at the 37th graduation exercises of the Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto last week. The certificates were presented by Mrs. H. Cockshutt, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, and the opening prayer was offered by Right Rev. Bishop Reeves. The address of the evening was given by General J. T. Fotheringham, and Miss Kathleen Panton, Superintendent, anounced that a $300 scholarship, to be known as the "Florence Potts Scholarship," is being established by the alumnae this year in loving appreciation of Miss Potts, who retired, after many years of faithful service as head of the training school and hospital, early in the year. High tribute was paid to the lasting influence of Miss Potts' work by Miss Panton, and others who spoke. The scholarship will be good for a course either at Toronto University or at McGill. Following the exercise a delightful dance was held in the Nurses' Residence, the drawing room, where the guests were received, being a veritable bower of roses, gifts received by the graduates.

Mrs. Maitland Roy, of Hamilton, was the guest of Miss M. B. Turner last week.

Mrs. (Rev.) Alex. Allen and two daughters, of Oaklands, Cal., are guests of her mother, Mrs. A. Wood, arriving on Monday. Rev. Mr. Allen, and son, Archie, are expected later in the summer and will be here for the Old Boys' and Girls' Re-union in August.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McRoberts, of South Monaghan, and Mrs. H. A. Fallis, attended the graduation exercises of Grace Hospital Training School for Nurses in Toronto last Friday, Miss Florence McIndoe, daughter of the former, and Miss Vinetta Marian Fallis, being among the graduates. Miss Jean Blewett presented the diplomas and school pins.

Miss McRoberts is receiving warm congratulations upon winning the silver medal for second place in the final examinations, Dr. C. H. Wales making the presentation. Dr. E. B. Hardy presented hypodermic syringes—the gift of the staff—to all the graduates. At the close of the formal programme a reception was held.

That the new Albert College, Belleville, is soon to be an accomplished fact, will be news of special interest to the many young people in Milbrook and vicinity who either are now, or have been, attending that institution as regular students, and to many others also who take the course at the summer school which has been held there for at least eight consecutive years. The laying of the corner stone of the new college took place last Tuesday, Rev. Dr. J. W. Graham, general secretary of the educational work of the Methodist church in Canada, performing the ceremony in the presence of a large number of church dignitaries, faculty, students, and representatives of many bodies. Two years ago the first sod was turned, and when completed the college will cost over a quarter of a million dollars, and will accommodate 600 boys. Mr. W. H. Ackerman, Bursar of the college, who with Mr. R. J. Graham subscribed $50,000 each, their subscriptions being the first received when the work was begun, presented Dr. Graham with a silver trowel to mark the occasion. The corner stone bears the inscription, "Christ, the Chief Corner Stone," and is in the wall at the entrance to the main building. Miss E. Lazzie Brown, daughter of Rev. George Brown, formerly pastor on the Millbrook circuit, is secretary of the college.

MILLIONAIRES OF TWO NATIONS MAY SETTLE RUHR PROBLEM

By J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, May 29. (United Press.)—Note exchanges in arrogant tones between Germany and France do not portend any breakdown in the negotiations for the settlement of the indemnity question and the evacuation of the Ruhr. Baragaining is going on in the accustomed European diplomatic way. A common France-German understanding is more probable now than at any previous time.

A new force in French industrial diplomacy is coming to the front in the joint personalities of the five members of the De Wendel family, who are reaching out for the control of the "Comite des Forges," the Steel Trust of France. If the De Wendels succeed in securing the diminating position in the Comite des Forges, a settlement of the Ruhr difficulties can be made almost over night. They represent the purely industrial mentality of the French, as distinct from the political influences in commerce.

International Partnership

It is the desire of these industrialists to come to such an agreement with the Germans as will permit a sort of international partnership between the French who possess the iron ore and blast furnaces in Lorraine and the Germans who own the coke supplies in the Ruhr. It is necessary for the ore and the coke to be bough to-gether if adequate profits are to be assured. The De Wendel group understands this and is working toward its realization.

Opfimistic views are being expressed in important Paris financial circles concerning the new common sense attitude of French big business. e Hitherto, it has been generally understood that powerful personalities in the Comite des Forges were uring Premier Poincare to take an imperialistic attitude in the Rhur, because the Steel Trust desired to have the Ruhr coal mines eventually for its own personal possession. Undoubtedly this has been one of the dreams of the French steel magnates, but the resistance of the Germans and the reaction on world public opinion have made it impossible of realization.

The De Wendel group has abandoned all such annexations and schemes, there fore as far as the Steel Trust is concerned, Premier Poincare can change his attitude without offending his great client. Premier Poincare, in the past has been the principal lawyer of the Steel Trust, and as such is in a special position to understand the change of sentiment among the industrialists brought about by the De Wendel influence.

Industrial Control

The effect of a desire on the part of the Comite des Forges for a compromise will be farreaching on the German industrialists. These magnates across the Rhine entirely control the Berlin government's Rhur pllicy about repsations, because they will have to find most of the money.

An attitude of complaisance in Paris toward the idea of a Franco-German co-operative agreement in the Runr and Lorraine is what the Germans ardently desire. They have said repeatedly that the Ruhr and Lorraine cannot prosper without co-operation.

Once the certainty of an agreement between the Ruhr and the Lorraine millionaires is assured, the principal bridge will have bben crossed toward The German industrialists will be able to assure themselves of prosperity by co-operation with the Comite des Forges in Lorraine. Out of that prosperity the larger port of the indemnity will be paid.

ADVERTISING RESULTS TELL THE WHOLE STORY

If You've Something to Sell Say So in the Examiner.

Emerson is credited with the remark that a man living in the midst of a wilderness had but to build a better mouse-trap than anyone else, and the world would beat a path to his door to purchase it. But the Sage of Concord was wrong. Dwellers in the hurrying age knows that the world will not step out of the beaten path to patronize a product, however wonderful, of which it knows nothing. If a man has something to sell, he has got to talk about it, long and hard and loud, otherwise the world will pass him by. That's where the printed advertisement steps in, and says it for you in loud black accents on a staring white background. Patronize The Examiner advertisement columns, and watch results.

Why Men Outgrow Their Wives

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 29 (United Press).—Have you ever wondered why it is that men outgrow their wives?

Reason tells us that the wives who has lived under the same roof with her husband for twenty years, eaten the same meals, discussed the same topics and thought the same thoughts, surely must be his equal as far as brains are concerned. She knows more about his business and his aspirations than any other living creature. Still folks say he has outgrown her. Why?

It's because the middle aged women doesn't keep up with the styles and doesn't try to keep her self as charming as she was in her youth. The minute a woman says "I'm too old to bother about clothes," she sounds the death knell to martial bliss. A woman can never be too old to try to make herself as attractive as possible. If she's ninety years of age, she should take an interest in the lace used on her cap. She'll find some laces more flattering than others to her withered face.

Men Stay Young

Men—bless them—never grow old at heart. And most of them don't grow old in their dress. Watch them them cavorting around the golf links in knickerbockers and plaid hose with a sporty golf cap perched over one eye. That's what makes them young. Take hats, for instance—an elderly man wears the same sort of hats today as do the young college sprigs. The dignified derby has almost gone out of existence. Watch the colorful ties on the old boys! And the newest model collars!

Women seem to think that as soon as their family is grown, their business in life is to settle back and watch their children live their lives. This is especially true of women who have daughters. They sacrifice themselves so that their daughters can have clothes of the latest cut and they skimp and save and slave to keep their daughters looking attractive, while they themselves let their husbands slip away from them by dressing poorly. Youth needs less expensive clothes than age, for youth hides a multitude of dress flaws. Middle aged women have many things to combat. Besides wrinkles and crows-feet, which demand the most flattering of bonnets, there is that feminine bugaboo—fat. Only the best gown-makers are adept at concealing bulging lines.

Dressing Older Women

Older women must also have the best of materials for their costumes—clinging satins, velvets, brocades and like materials which demand dignity. Youth can be beautiful and alluring in crisp organdy, voiles, homespuns and even ginghams.

It is every woman's business to keep years to try to cope with the flappers of today by wearing flapperish-cut clothes. She will only seem older by so doing. But she can find numerous styles which are designed for women of her age and which will make her as attractive as the young miss she calls daughter.

It is every woman's business to keep herself attractive in her husband's eyes. For the successful woman dresses not for women or for men but for one man. Better to let oleomargarine supplant butter in the larder than to let a fastidiously gowned woman supplant yourself in your husband's eyes.

Buried Over a Million Years

By JOHN O'BRIEN

PARIS, May 29. (United Press.)—Geological experts after detailed study of thirty or forty skeletons of men, women and children, unearthed recently at Creil, near Paris, have exploded the theory that they were those of victims of the religious wars of the reign of Henri IV, proving instead that they are the remains of prehistoric man, going back to the latest period of the stone age.

Tutankamen, the discovery of whose tomb in the Valley of the Kings has aroused such intense interest throughout the world, was born probably a million years later than those people whose skeletons have just been brought to light.

They belonged to the epoch in which man had learned the art of polishing stones to make weapons and tools. Priceless specimens of these have been found in the soil around the grotto which served as a sepulchre. They include lances, knives and other cutting instruments, arrow heads and even a saw, all odiu rebly carved and polished. There are also bone awls and several pendants of greenish hard slate, punched with holes.

"The people of the neolithic, or polished stone age," said M. Louis Giraux, former vice-president of the Prehistoric Society of France, who made an exhaustive report for the International Anthropological Institute, "buried their dead in various ways. Sometimes they were cremated. Sometimes, as in the present case, they were subjected to a process which destroyed the flesh but left the bones, which were then interred in grottoes similar to that at Ceil.

"In the construction of the grottoes the excavators naturally used stone instruments—flint being most in vogue—to dig into the hard material known to geologists as 'Ypres sand.' Certain layers of this sand are especially hard, forming what we call 'tables.' One of these 'tables' becomes the ceiling of the gotto and you can imagine its strength when you remember that it has supported the weight of fifty feet of rock resting above it for all these countless centuries. Slabs of limestone closed the entrance. It is a great pity that the grotto at Creil could not be preserved intact."

BETHANY GIRLS STAGE PLAY IN PETERBORO

The Girls' Guild of St. Paul's Church, Bethany, enacted the play, "An Old-Fashioned Mother," a drama in three acts, at All Saints' Parish Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the church, to a well-filled hall. Rev. R. B. Grobb acted as chairman for the occasion.

The play is based practically on the story of "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse," the movie drama which depicts the trials of an old-fashioned mother who has spent her life in bringing up her family, to be left unregarded in her old age. The youngest son, the black sheep, who becomes involved in a murder charge, rescues her from the ingratitude of an older brother, and the grasping schemes of the old deacon who holds a mortgage on her home. The play was very well presented by the young men and women taking part, the part of "the mother in Israel," of her maid, and of the village gossip being especially well taken. The following is the cast of characters: Deborah Underhill, the mother, Mrs. H. Carscadden; John Underhill, the black sheep, E. J. Lang; Chas. Underhill, the older brother, Chas. Reynolds; Jerry Goselin, "a merry heart," Frank Hannah; John Quackenbush, the deacon, Keith Sisson; Enoch Rown, a reformed drunkard, Chas. Smith; Quintus Todd, the sheriff, Louis McGill; Sukie Pindle, a child actor, Frank Hamilton; the 'Widder' Pindle, leader of the village choir, Laura Morton; Louizy Loviny Custard, the village seamstress and gossip, Mrs. Keith Sisson; Gloriana Perkins, maid to Mrs. Underhill, Mary McGill; Isabel Simpscott, the village belle, Mary Sisson.

Specialties between acts were given in vocal solos by Mrs. Trotter and Mr. Stanley Willis, and instrumental selections by Madeline Willis.

A Worth-while Reputation

THE head of one of this country's great manufacturing institution says:

"The man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive-- to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy."

Patronize the manufacturer or merchant who has a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the good-will of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed.

Every time he advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or the wares he has for sale must make good. His service must be advertised.

That is why it pays to read advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods.

"Yes, it is worth your while to read the advertisements"

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, May 29. — (Special.) — The approaching holiday slowed up trading on the stock market to-day and movements were generally insignificant. Over night news had little on securities values and stocks on the early dealings, continued under influences which had dominated the previous session. A further advance took place in the railroad group, issues like Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Union Pacific scoring fair gains over the previous close. Equipments also moved ahead in the wake of the carrier list, but profit taking tendencies were still in evidence among the general run of industrials.

Stocks displayed a confident tone in the first hour under the stimulus of rail leadership. Standard carriers like Atchison and Atlantic Coast Line made new highs on the move, while strength in the Eries featured the low-priced group. Baldwin reached further high grounds on the move and other industrials threw aside some of their reactionary tendencies. Fifth Avenue Bus touched a new high on the move at 9 3-4. The increased turnover was accompanied by reports that the dividend rate may be increased later in the year. Oils were held back by the report that another cut in Pennsylvania crude would be made this week. These reports may be correct but with the improvement in the statistical reports of Petroleum, Gasoline and other by-products it would be strange if prices were not close to the bottom.

Trading proceeded in leisurely fashion in the late morning preventing falling in speculative interest on account of the approaching holiday. Price swings among the market leaders were confined to a narrow range. Sinclair duplicated its high on the move at 31, reflecting the earnings which are running considerably above the average of 1922. Prospects are that 1923 will be a record year. The visit of M. Sinclair and his staff to Europe is expected to be followed by interesting foreign developments. The Copper issues have not been weak in spite of the sagging tendency of the metal, the fact that Copper prices are weak in face of the strong statistical position of the industry has caused some comment. It is now said that the big banking interests who are back of one or more copper combinations are not in favor of soaring prices and do not care to see a boiling market in copper stocks. Such a situation would make it more difficult to effect a merger on an equitable basis. It will be recalled that the big independent steel merger was abandoned largely on account of the wild upward swing in steel shares.

FLOW OF CANADIANS TO U.S. IS ALARMING

Up to April 9 Quebec Sent 14,060 to the United States.

MONTREAL, May 29.—In a pastoral letter addressed to the clergy of te diocese and read in all Montreal churches, Archbishop Gauthier, apostolic administrator of the diocese of Montreal, declares that the flow of Canadian to the United States is reaching alarming proportions, and states that statistics show that 14,060 individuals from Quebec province have passed the border up to April 9, while since then the movement has become more accentuated. He quotes similar pastoral letters dating back to 1871, in which the bishops deplore similar emigration and warn the faithful against exploitation in a foreign land where they may be exposed to heresy and loss of faith and become 'the mere toilers of a rich and independent nation."

His Grace concludes by saying that these exhortations from the past are no less applicable to-day, and that they form as powerful an appeal now as then.

ALUMINUM COINS WILL SOON CIRCULATE

BERLIN, May 29 (Associated Press).—It will not be long before the jingle of metal coins will again be freely heard in Berlin shop and banks. It is it is estimated that there will soon be 210,000,000,000 marks in aluminum "small change" in circulation.

The enormous depreciation of the mark has made the pfenning pieces such insignificant bits that they have disappeared from virtually all cash tills. Before the war there were one and two-pfennig coins in copper, five, ten, and 25-pfennig pieces in nickel, and 50-pfennig coins in silver, besides the ten and 20-mark gold pieces.

The practice of minting alumunum coins orginated during the war, when this material was used to replace the copper coinage in the smaller denomination. Later iron also was used, and the Saxon town of Meissen, famous for its porcelain ware, even resorted to the use of porcelain for this purpose.

All of the new coins now being minted are made of alumium. Only recently a large number of 200-mark pieces were put into circulation, and plans are nearly completed for issuing 500-mark coins as well. The former are about the size of an American quarter and the latter will measure something like a United States half dollar. The mintage of 1,000-mark coins also in being considered.

ANOTHER PRIZE BUTTER MAKER

CHICAGO, May 29 (Associated Press).—California Pietertje Bloom Mead, a pure bred Holstein cow, owned and bred by the University of California, has just completed a year test which makes her the sixty-seventh Holstein in the United States to produce over 1,000 pounds of butterfat in one year. In 365 days she produced 28,236 pounds of milk containing 1,004.62 pounds of butterfat, according to official announcement from the Holstein Association of America. This fat production is equal to 1,255.77 pounds of butter.

BUILDING FOR EARTHQUAKES.

Chile Is Developing Science to High Degree With Steel and Concrete..

SANTIAGO- Chile, May 29.—Renewed popular anxiety in the district devastated by the earthquake of last November, due to recent recurrence of earth tremors of more than ordinary violence, has compelled the Chilean government to resort to a campaign of publicity to forestall what threatened to become a considerable exodus of population from the earthquake zone.

Through its seismological service, the government is assuring dwellers in the stricken area that no part of Chile is completely immune from earthquakes, and that the only practical means of insuring the safety of life and property from them lies in constructing buildings and dwellings capable of withstanding the shocks.

Earthquakes are part of the daily life of Chile; that is to say, two in a week are not regarded as meriting special comment, while the occasional quake once or twice a month, unless unusually violent, never figures as a topic of conversation.

The phenomena which occasioned the recent anxiety in Coquimbo and Atacama Provinces, however, have been of unusual vigor and duration. They also were especially disquieting, because they were shown by sisemological observation to have centered in the very district which suffered most from last November's earth shock. But, even so far away from the center of the disturbance as Valparaiso, more than 200 miles from Coquimbo, the manifestations of the one of April 29 were so pronounced that many people fled in panic from houses and buildings.

Building Problem

The problem of providing against the stresses to which all buildings must be subjected during the earth tremors has been given much study in Chile, and the account taken by builders of the, as it were, unstable condition of Chilean real estate has had a pronounced influence on the architecture and general appearance of the cities.

While two, three and even four story residential and business structures are by no means uncommon, higher buildings are a rarety. A large proportion of the buildings in any of the towns are certain to be of only one story, the one-story building being found, especially in recent years, in the best residential districts.

The result is to give the cities a peculiarly squat and featureless aspect when viewed from an elevation, an effect heightened by the uniform use of the virtually flat roof, typical of Spanish architecture. The towers and domes of public and church edifices stand out prominently here and there on the flat sky-lines are usually of extremely heavy construction; and, even so, are generally found on inspection to have been cracked in several places by the action of earth tremors.

The tallest building in Chile is a recently constructed office building in Santiago, which boasts of nine stories and the proud record of having gone through the severe shock of last November without suffering a single fracture.

Down to a Science

The art of anti-earthquake or "asismico" architecture has been developed to a fine point in recent years, as the existence and survival of a nine-story building well attests. There are two types of construction, one which aims at great strength and solidity as well and another which seeks to combine great strength with a certain amount of resiliency, permitting the building to yield somewhat before the shock.

The former type, which is of poured, reinforced concrete of massive designs, is used even in the case of large public edifices. Even when granite, or some other ornamental stone, is to be employ it is used only as a facing, the real supporting walls of the building being immense monoliths of steel-bound concrete.

The other type of construction, much used of late for office buildings, is a combination of the structural steel framework used in similar American buildings, with the monolithic concrete type. The steel framework is usually somewhat lighter than an American architect would use on a like building, the strength of the structure being in the monolithic concrete walls in which the framework, after erection, is enclosed. Both types of construction, if well done, are said by seismologists to be capable of withstanding any shock they are likely, according to the lessons of seismological history to be subjected to.

Winter is near

One good reason for the restlessness of the inhabitants in the earthquake zone, so-called, is the fact that the government, though winter in this latitude is not many weeks distant, still is delaying the extension of the financial assistance necessary for rebuilding the shattered cities of the area. The total amount of relief money spent and still available for use in the work of rehabilitation has been only a trifle over $30,000, if which $10,000 was furnished by the American Red Cross.

This money, the total being scarcely adequate for the work of immediate relief is neither available, nor worth considering as regards quanity for use in building reconstruction. A bill intended to provide for the extending of government loans to property owners in the stricken area has been passed by the Senate, but has been pending for some time in the Chamber of Deputies without action, despite repeated petitions from the earthquake victims for its speedy passage.

There are indications, however, that the executive is preparing to go over the head of congress and establish a relief program without waiting for legislative action.

You need not suffer another day from ill-fitting trusses. Correct retention with comfort will relieve you at once and afford lasting benefit. Greatest success where others fail. If you have tried most everything, now is the time you need personal scientific service. So says Thos. Y. The Egan "Curatrus" with new "Easyfit" retentive shields (as now used and approved) are nature's own method. They retain with perfect ease, and allow nature to close the opening quicker and better than any other known appliance or non-operative method, and at small cost—prepared to measure (men, women, children, infants), for all conditions before and after operations. Newspapers of Poland Requested to Give More Sport News

WARSAW, May 29 (Associated Press).—Polish newspapers were requested to give more space to sporting events, both domestic and international, by the 700 delegates who attended the first Polish Sporting Congress here during April.

Sports in connection with the improvement of military training for soldiers, were placed first in the agenda of the congress. Establishment of military sporting clubs, and the cooperation of military sporting organizations with the civilian, were recommended in guiding the physical education of the Polish nation.

Football, which since the armstice has become almost the national game of Poland, was the subject of a keen discussion by the delegates. The military representatives favored intensifying the game, while delegates from the universities were inclined to the belief that it was excluding many other forms of sport which should be indulged in. A compromise was reached by deciding to foster swimming, the teaching of which in the schools will be made compulsory by an act of parliament.

Before adjournment, the delegates secured the promise of financial assistance from the government to defray the expenses of Polish athletes to the Paris Olympiad next year.

YOUTHFUL FROCKS

Youthful and charming summer frocks are made of striped flannel, figured silk or cotton, or of challis or calico.

To The Electors Of The Riding of West Peterboro.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The Liberal Convention having honoured me with the nomination, I take this early opportunity of expressing my thanks for the confidence shown in me, and in asking the Electors generally for their support in the coming Election.

The supreme need of this great Province at the present time is a Govrnment which will conduct public affairs in a sound, prudent, business-like manner, and put a curb on all extravagant expenditures. With a public debt of $240,000,000 and an annual expenditure which has reached $38,000,000, the future credit of the Province absolutely depends on economic, business-like administration. This is the kind of administration the country may expect with Mr. Wellington Hay as Premier, and to such a Government I will give my unqualified support.

Having been in the closest touch with agricultural interests all my life, it is my ambition to make myself particularly useful to those engaged in the basic industry of this Dominion. If elected, I can be safely depended upon to give the closest attention to agricultural problems generally, and to watch carefully the rural needs of this constituency. Believing that there must be closer co-operation between the man who produces in the country and the man who consumes in the city, I will do my utmost to solve this problem so far as it may be considered a local or Provincial problem.

Labour will also find me sympathetic to its needs. I consider that I am particularly well adapted to represent labour, because both as an employee and employer I have had a long experience with both sides of the many problems that have come up in this field from time to time. The Liberal Party has invariably stood for the rights of the toiler, as against the privilege of the idle rich, and under all circumstances I may be absolutely depended upon to see to it that the men in our industrial life and all those dependent upon them will receive a square deal in the Legislature.

My views on temperance are well known. The Ontario Temperance Act was passed following a direct demand for prohibitory legislation on the part of an overwhelming majority of the people of this Province, and if elected I purpose to give it my hearty support.

It is my intention to meet as many as possible of the Electors of this Riding before Election Day, and I will avail myself of every opportunity to discuss public questions with members of the Electorate. In seeking your support and influence, I promise, if elected as your Member, to devote myself faithfully and earnestly to the duties of the position, and to uphold and advance the best interest of the people of West Peterborough.

Faithfully yours,

J. W. MEYERS.

300,000 FAMILIES MOVE EVERY YEAR IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 30 (Associated Press).—About 1,285,000 people change their dwelling places in this city every year, according to statistics compiled by the People's Gas, Light and Coke Company. These totals are reached by figuring 4¼ members to a family, and the records show that something more than 300,000 families move annually.

The gas company claims it knows because it must turn off and turn on the gas in the dwellings as old tenants move out and new ones come in. The statistics show that more people move on May 1, Chicago's big moving day, than at all other times of the year combined. They show that while about 42 per cent. of Chicago's total population of over 2,800,000 moves yearly, from 25 to 27 per cent. moves on May 1 and about 12 per cent. on October 1, Chicago other big moving day.

4087 "THE PROOF"

HUMAN FEATURES ARE RAPIDLY CHANGING

LONDON, May 29 (Associated Press).—We do not use our brains to half their capacity, says Sir Arthur Keith, British scientist, who has just returned from the African jungle where he made a minute study of the brains of gorillas and gibbons.

"Most of us," declares Sir Arthur, "have more brains than we know what to do with."

The famous anthropologist said that changes are now taking place in the human world more rapidly than at any former period, but that the time has not yet come for the production of supermen. During the war, he explained, the average stature for a man was 5 feet 6 inches, the same as in the neolithic period. The average for men leading professional lives is 5 feet 8 inches.

The scientist says he is convinced that certain characteristics, which are easily recognized in the bodies of a large proportion of our modern population, are of recent origin. The most plastic bone in the human body he said, is that under the gums, in which the teeth are rooted, and it i here that the most marked changes are to be noted.

"In quite 30 percent of the people this bone," continued Sir Arthur, "instead of spreading outwards and giving the roof of the month a wide and low vault, as in perhistoric races, grows in a verical direction, giving the palate a narrow and high arch.

"In these contracted palates there is no longer room for the normal number of teeth. Such as appear are crowded; the wisdom teeth often fail to cut or are absent altogether.

"The recession of the teeth give the modern nose and chin an undue prominence; the tendency of all modern changes is toward the production of long and narrow faces. The 'adenoid' type of face, with which medical men are so familiar in modern children, was unknown in prehistoric times."

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down feelings on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMMONS, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

INVESTIGATING SLAVERY IN CONVICT CAMP

Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died following a beating in a Florida prison camp, is buried in one of the two spots shown above—but there is a dispute as to which one. The Putnam Lumber Company says he was buried in the cemetery below, while a fellow prisoner says the body was buried in the swamp above. At the right is Representative C. H. Kennerly of the Committee probing charges of beating prisoners. He is halding the strap with which witnesses say Tabert was beaten.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 29—Martin Tabert did not die in vain.

The state of Florida, shaken to its foundation with the realization that virtual slavery exists within its boundaries is cleansing its soul.

The lash must go! The convict lease system must be ended!

These two thoughts dominate a report just completed by a joint legislative committee investigating reported brutalities in convict camps in Florida.

It only remains for the Assembly to act.

Who is Martin Tabert about whom so much has been written? What is the convict system, tolerated in Florida?

* * *

Tabert, 22, left his cozy little home at Munich, N. D., in the fall of 1921. He wanted to see the world. For the past few years he had generously devoted all his time to his family, because he knew he was needed on the farm.

Things worked themselves about, however, so that a time came when he knew it would be all right to go away for a while and find out what the outside world was like—that world from which those big, snorting locomotives came.

He could have taken more money had he wished, but boyish thought suggested it would be great to work his way about the country. All went well until he came into Florida. The labor situation was not good and he found himself without funds.

He tried to steal a ride on a train. Florida was looking for such men. He was arrested in Leon county, Fla. His choice was a $25 fine or 90 days at hard labor.

Taber wired home for the money and his family sent him $50 by registered mail and urged him to come back. He had seen enough for his first big trip, they wrote.

But that letter never reached Martin. And because it didn't, Martin died and a whole nation was to read later on of what seemed in this age and time an impossible reality.

The letter, sent in care of the sheriff, was returned to the family, "unclaimed." The family thereupon believed their boy had been able to leave and forgot about the matter.

In the meanwhile, however, Tabert was taken under guard to the lumber camp of the Putnam Lumber Company, at Clara, Fla., 60 miles away, to work out his fine.

* * *

Under existing laws, this lumber company, owned by State Senator T. J. Knabb, utilizes convict labor from several nearby counties.

A month and a half after his arrest, Tabert died in camp. The cause given was fever. Company officials assured his family in North Dakota, the lad had been given a Christian burial.

A fellow prisoner in the prison camp wrote to the Tabert family five months later, strongly intimating that Martin died under unnatural circumstances. The investigation machinery then started into action.

A long hearing followed. Witnesses by the score testified that the "whipping boss" of the camp had beaten Tabert unmercifully, because Martin was too weak to labor as fast as the boss liked throughout that particular day. To help grade the road Tabert was forced to stand knee-deep in mud and water in the treacherous swampland. It was work that only those seasoned to that part of country really could bear.

* * *

On a certain Friday night the youth was called out of line just after dinner. A leather strap, three and a half feet long and some four and a half inches wide was obtained, and used, men testified.

* * *

"Get down," the boss demanded.

Tabert dropped to a prone position, and then blows as hard as it was possible for the "boss" to strike, rained on the lad's back, which was left a mass of pulpy welts.

After the death, it was testified by the negro who helped prepare the body for burial, a sheet was dried to the body, fastened by hardened blood.

The "boss" is now under indictment, charged with murder. Sheriffs of two counties probably will pay with their official heads before the investigation is completed.

Just now the question is, "Where is Tabert buried?"

Fellow convicts swore the body was dressed in cast-off clothing of a negro and put in a cheap box, which was thrown in a hole half filled with swamp water. No mound to show the spot of the grave. No stone to tell its sad story. Just smooth earth, said these witnesses.

* * *

But company officials deny this. They say three white women and a minister were present at the burial which took place in a hallowed Florida ground. This body will be exhumed soon, just after authorities down there receive a chart of Tabert's teeth, which remain the only possible means of identification.

These three women testified they sang, and that the minister asked for the peace of the soul of the departed. But they admit they did not know whom they were burying. They did not know what he looked like.

North Dakota, as a state, is satisfied that Florida as a state, did not know of the conditions that made possible the death of one of the former's young and husky farmer boys.

"But it must not be again," came the warning, and now on completion of the report which, when enacted into law, will abolish the whip and the convict labor system, the mid-western state congratulates the southern one and assures that instead of becoming estranged, the two will draw closer together as sisters pledged to the task of making the union a place really free—for free men to live in.

GOD'S MEASURE OF MAN'S TRUE VALUE

Interest-Holding Discourse by Rev. G. E. Ross at Mark Street Church.

"God's Measure of Man's Value" was the subject of the evening sermon at Mark Street Church Sunday and was developed from Isaiah xxxii. 2: "A man shall be as an hiding place, a covert from the tempest, as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." The following is an outline of the sermon:

The oasis in the Arabian desert lies in the lee of mighty hills of rock and is a haven of rest to the weary traveller. Beneath those tropical skies the broad yellow desert waste burns like a furnace. The waves of heated air continue to rise all through the day, but toward evening the heat diminishes, and is often followed by fierce sand storms. It is then that we behold the ministry of the rocks as they mystically rise, and seem to say to the driving, burning sand: "Thus far and no farther." Thus, we find in the shelter of these rocks calm, cool, quiet rest, and we slake our thirst at the living springs.

God's picture of true man is always generous, but never overdrawn. Multitudes to-day are struggling in a sea of trouble, or trudging their weary way through the burning sand of the world's desert. The rocks that skirt the cool, calm, fruitful oasis loom up in the distance, but many totter and fall and die in the burning, blinding sand-drifts, e'er they reach the shelter.

Modern Man-Hunt.

Where is the man who is not seeking a refuge? Sorrow, suffering, disease, and death are on his track. He staggers under the weight of a thousand cares. His head and heart ache at the attempted solution of a hundred problems. Conscience stings, memory burns, while the phantoms of a thousand evil deeds haunt him. Who shall estimate the value of a hiding place to such a man as this? He is hunted like a wild beast. Why is this? Is it not due, in part at least, to man's inhumanity to man? Are we to dishonor the law and cover up wrong? No, indeed, we are proud of the law and seek its honor, but love is the law's fulfillment.

Some men could never be a shelter for the weak. They never can do more than care for themselves. You cannot find any support from them, for they are lean-to's themselves. They never cultivated the qualities which go to make up a big man and a "great heart." Their shadow is never large enough to shade the weary famishing traveller at their side. Are we big enough to stand like the rock, and shelter from the burning storm that weaker brother whose feet are blistered with the journey of the day? Are we like the shadow of a great rock in a weary land? Christ is the Rock, and we may be the shadows.

DARING EXPLORER DRIVEN AWAY FROM FORBIDDEN LHASSA

CALCUTTA, May 29 (Associated Press).—Dr. Hugh McGovern, the Irish Buddist priest who recently succeeded in penetrating the world's greatest rampart of mountains, the Himalayas, behind which lies the forbidden city of Lhassa, has justed returned to Darjeeling after having been arrested by British frontier authorities for violating Tibet's sacred ground. The doctor reports that in his attempts to get into Lhassa he and his four companions suffered intense privations and exposure in the snowclad mountains, which are 500 feet higher than the highest peaks in the United States.

After battling with snowstorms day and night and being compelled more than once to retrace his teps, McGovern at Hangu was confronted with a strike of his servants, who refused to go further. He had to beat them into submission before they would resume the journey. He kept his ultimate destination secret from his companions, fearing they would desert him if they knew the distance and the hardships. On the desolate mountain pass of Karula the Irah prelate revealed his objective. Only under compulsion did his companions continue the journey with him.

To avoid detection by the fanatical Tibetans, Dr. McGovern dyed his hair and painted his whole body so as to look like a native. Thus disguised and attired in the dress of a peasant, he played the role of coolie and cook. After many weeks of trying experiences and reverses he finally reached Lhassa, only to be apprehended by the Tibetans who ordered his immediate deportation. He is now with friends in Darjeeling and will soon leave for England.

An American who is planning to enter Tibet is Captain Merl La Voy, of Seattle, Washington. Armed with credentials from the American State Department and permits from the Chinese Government, La Voy with a number of American scientists and explorers will leave India late in the fall and proceed directly for Lhassa.

UNION OF CHURCHES

dispute," said Dr. Nelson, who asserted that interference in matters of religious belief was as delicate an undertaking as interference in matters of love. A strong protest was made against the idea of majority rule in things affecting a man's religion. "The happiest marriages, sometimes, are those that have met with the most opposition from the families directly concerned. Religion, like love, is not a family affair. It is the business of the individual." In the union as proposed, the speaker saw a menace of many of the of the great foundation principles of the Presbyterian church. The word "presbyter" would be deleted and the annual meeting would be called a council instead of an assembly, the Biblical word. "The word 'majority' has never before been heard in the House of God. It should be left in politics, where it belongs.

Autocratic Action

The action of the church authorities in bringing on the question of Union in war time, when it was impossible to obtain a clear understanding of the question and the autocratic methods adopted by the proponents of the scheme were characterized as conduct worthy of tyrants. "There's a little of the upstart in everyone of us," said Dr. Nelson, "and most of us can be spoiled by being too long in one place."

The imposition of the proposed Bill, making church union a law of the land, was considered by Dr. Nelson as an unjust, coercive measre, directly contrary to all the laws of democracy. "If this law goes through there will be a revival of an independent religion in the Presbyterian church. It was done before, my friends, in the days of the Covenanters, when an English law made in the name of religion drove our fathers to holding their services in caves and barns. Shall the laws of Canada compel us to worship after a manner, or force us to follow a church that we don't personally prefer. There is no more law-abiding or patriotic people than the Presbyterian people, and will they drive us to be a non-patriotic, law-breaking people because a majority of politicans, including Quebeckers, decides that we shall do as they say? It is unthinkable. History does repeat itself, and sometimes providence allows us to be chastened to strengthen us. Perhaps Canada needs real religion," said the speaker, who alluded to what he called "vaudeville stunts" practised in Canadian churches, instead of the preaching of the word of God. The minister who voted for union at the assembly was thinking only of his own business, and the elder who voted for it was acting as a sort of autocratic overseer, instead of a mouthpiece for the people, who did not really understand the issues which were being decided for them.

"We are told that it would be a wonderful thing if there were no differing denominations in the Protestant Church, but there are differing denominations because the people want them. I would rather see people going out to start different churches than see them going to the movies and pool-rooms. The Apostles themselves were one in only this respect that they stuck together on the great fundamentals of religion, on the belief that Christ was the Son of God, that He died for our sins, and then rose triumphant on the third day.

The speaker spoke in eulogistc terms of the work of the women of the church, "the pillars of the congregation," who did such noble service for the advancement of religion, and concluded with a wish that "however they finally vote in the General Assembly, that we may still be true to the light as God gives us to see it, and may the whole Presbyterian church act more like a family than like a political gathering, and unite to do the necessary things, instead of breaking up into majorities and minorities over unnecessary things."

Review of Movement

Rev. J W. Macnamara, of Toronto, who proceeded Dr. Nelson in a brief address, reviewed the progress of the church union movement since its inception. The first vote on the subject taken in 1911 showed a total of 113,000 for the consummation of Union, and 50,000 against it.

In 1915, the vote for the movement had increased to 113,600, while the contra opinion had increased to over 73,000. The Assembly ceased activities then, feeling that light and guidance from the War would help in the final solution. The Presbyterian Church Association had been formed in order to give the minority an opportunity to voice its views on the matter. It was felt that a great many people were in favor of the larger federation, a union which would embrace all Protestant peoples, to secure autonomy and independence of name and doctrine. It was also felt that the union was palpably a thing of compromised doctrine, that the great principles of Presbyterianism were weeded out and diluted down. An ordained pracher, who was also ordained, not in the old sacred manner of the Presbyterian church, in his own congregation, but in batches at specified times in distant cities, could go on preaching practically what he liked, in a creed less church, with no control exercised by his congregation, who were merely in the position of being providers of funds. In the matter of church polity, many changes were contemplated. Instead of ordained elders, an unsatisfactory substitute was offered, the right for ministers to go to the synod would be lost, the privilege o attendance at the assembly was destroyed, and one of the dearest privileges of the Presbyterian church was done away with; the privilege of attendance at the assministers in their own congregations. Instead of the present democratic system, an autocratic body would be set up. The Bill, as proposed, was denounced as iniquitous, coercive and unjust and had been condemned generally in press and pulpit. The people generally asserted the speaker, were not conversant with the facts, as they were downed by the ministers, who frowned on the distribution of literature giving the facts of the matter.

T. C. Elliott, who presided at the meeting, said that he was reminded that "although there is good in every minister, all ministers will not always be good," and said that the congregation, in event of Union being consummated, would have little or no influence over a minister or his manner of teaching the Gospel, if he taught it at all, holding little more than the privilege of putting the money on the plate.

GERMAN GIRLS PREFER STRIKE PAY TO WORK

ESSEN, May 29 (Associated Press).—Thousands of women and girls have been thrown out of work due to the closing of factories in the Ruhr as an outcome of French and Belgian occupation, but nevertheless domestics are as difficult to acquire as in the cities of the United States. This is largely due to the fact that the women and girls draw strike funds of one kind or another, either from the municipalities or from the Berlin government which ususally amount to more than they would receive for household services.

In many instances the women are furnished lodging and food by the authorities, and in addition, as part of the passive resistance program, they get a weekly allowance of marks as pin money. Near Essen an old German barracks has been converted into a sort of camp for unemployed women, and in this place alone more than 400 women are quartered.

Germans say there was never a time in recent years when servants were so scarce as today. The French and Belgian officers' families now in the Ruhr and Rhineland have the greatest difficulty in requisitioning cooks, maids and nurses, and often have to a pay a premium to the German women as an inducement to come and work for them.

The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. QUIZ CORNER

LABOR STRIKES.

Q—What was the extent of labor strikes in Canada in 1922?

A—While the number of strikes and lockouts in Canada during 1922 was only 85, as compared with 145 during 1921, the number of workers involved in 1922 was 41,050 as compared with 22,932 and the number of working days lost amounted to 1,975,276 as compared with 956,461 during the previous year. Approximately 50 per cent of the time lost on this account in 1922 was in connection with strikes of coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia, which laster from April till the end of August.

CANADA'S GOLD PRODUCTION

Q—What is Canada's gold production?

A—Canada was the only country to show a marked improvement in gold production in 1922. The Dominion now ranks second highest produced in the Empire, and third in the world. In 1922 Canada produced gold to the value of $26,500,000, compared with $19,400,000 in 1921 and $16,500,000 in 1920.

MISSIONARY REFUSES TO LEAVE DANGEROUS POST

SYDNEY, N.S.W., May 29.—(Associated Press)—The story of the zeal of a lone missionary on one of the uncivilized islands of the Solomon group, who was rescued from the hands of head-hunters, but refused to be taken away from his chosen station, has just been brought to Sydney by an island schooner. Men aboard the schooner, nearing the island, saw a number of natives in war paint dancing around a blazing fire, according to their story.

The captain, believing that some person might be in danger, armed the crew and sent them ashore. They fire a volley over the heads of the natives who ran into the bush. The crew investigated a European-built house and found a white man inside, praying on his knees. He said that he was a missionary and had been on the island for a year. Sickness had broken out among the natives and he had been blamed for the loss of life. The natives had sent their women-folk into the bush and started a war dance. As that was a sign of future trouble, he had locked himself in the house.

The missionary was importuned to abandon his idea of staying among the natives, and invited to come aboard the vessel for safety. He refused, however, and the ship sailed away leaving him at his lonely and dangerous post.

FERGUSON DEFINES ATTITUDE ON O.T.A.

Prohibition Must Stand Until the People of the Province By Their Votes Declare Against It.

SPENCERVILLE, Ont., May 29.—Prohibition must prevail and be preserved until the people of the province by their votes declare against it, said Hon. G. Howard Ferguson in defining his attitude on the temperance question at the nomination convention here yesterday afternoon. He said that it was a good sane British principle and no government could go against it. The government of the day must maintain the law and see it is actively and rigidly enforced, he said. He contrasted Hon. E. W. Raney's methods with those of the late W. J. Hanna.

The former, he said, was "tyrannical and his methods primitive, while Hanna's method was curative."

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson was introduced amid applause as the coming premier of Ontario.

He said that it was the seventh time he had been before them and thanked the convention for its confidence. Dealing with what he called the great moral issue of temperance he said that Drury and Raney were trying to suggest that the Conservative party was unsympathetic to the temperance cause, and that it would be unsafe in the hands of a Conservative government. Why single out the Conservatives, he demanded, and the speaker charged that many Liberals were avowedly opposed to the O.T.A. He said the government realized the Conservatives were in the ascendant and that was why reckless statements were being made to try to destroy the prospects of the Conservative party. Hon. Mr. Ferguson reviewed the history of Conservative legislation in the interests of temperance, and said its policy was the sane to-day.

EPISCOPAL BROTHERHOOD FOREGATHER IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 29.—(Associated Press)—Arrangements are already in full swing for the reception here during September of the largest gathering of laymen of the Episcopal church to held this year, when the fortieth anniversay of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is celebrated.

Not only will every Episcopal pafish in the United States be represented by men and boys, but almost every parish of this denomination in England, Scotland, Ireland, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the West Indies also will send delegates and members. The gathering is known as the International Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The organization of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was inspired by the late James L. Houghteling of this city in 1883 and from a very meagre beginning it has spread to be one of the largest organizations for men and boys in religious work in the world.

"Since its birth it has been and always will be the heart of a movement to spiritually vitalize the man and boy power of the church" said Courtenay Barber, of this city, chairman of the convention committee. The national body has held 37 conferences, none of which is restricted to members of the Brotherhood, but to all church men and boys.

WHEN SHEETS WEAR.

When your sheets seem to be wearing out, cut them down the middle, sew the outer edges together and hem the raw edges. This will put the strain in a new place and will sometimes cause them to last considerably longer.

Travels Far on Thin Dime

Little James Chester Nalin, 6, Tiptonville, Tenn., smiled during his trip to Chicago, for wasn't he going to the big doctors who are going to straighten his limbs? He had a tick et and a dime when he started out alone. Passengers raised it to $10. James will be the first subject for surgeons trying a new operation.

Toronto Mechanic Profits

Use of Dreco pays Mr. Bell dividends of health after other remedies fail, "I think it is a wonderful medicine," he says.

Mr. John Bell, a machine tender, of 164 Bellwoods Ave., Toronto, found his work greatly impeded by severe dizzy spells, rheumatism and general internal disorder, brought about by a weakened digestive system. How Dreco speedily rectified this condition by toning and regulating his stomach so that it properly nourished and strengthened the other organs, is outlined by Mr. Bell in the following statement:

"For many years I have suffered stomach, and liver trouble. My case was a serious one and caused me untold suffering. Every time I'd bend over or look up, I'd almost fall from dizziness. Things I ate never agreed with me. Gas would form in my stomach and I would get a sour, bitter taste in my mouth. I often had pains around my heart. My appetite was also very poor and I had pains across my back. My joints and muscles ached with rheumatism.

Mr. Bell's symptoms are common to those whose digestive organs get out of hand. Dreco is prepared especially as a corrective for this condition. Compounded from medicinal herbs, roots, bark and leaves, it restores the whole system to proper working order. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs and is a reliable spring tonic and restorative.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

FREE SWIMMING LESSONS AT Y.M.C.A.

Parents Are Urged to Encourage Boys to Take This Course.

Commencing on Monday next, June 4th, the Y.M.C.A. will give swimming instruction to the school boys of the city without charge. Parents and teachers are asked to bear this in mind and urge upon the boys the great value of a knowledge of the art of swimming. Many of the accidents which occur every summer on our many lakes and rivers could be avoided through a competent knowledge of taking care of one's self in the water. The Y.M.C.A. each year promotes this "Learn to Swim" campaign as a piece of community service recognizing the great need which exists.

This week will be devoted to the accepting of registration from those who would like to be enrolled in the classes. Every boy in the city schools over the age of eight years will be eligible. Classes will be made up according to the age of the boys and a schedule of regular periods will be followed. Here is a chance for every boy to receive swimming instruction under competent supervision. There is no charge.

HOW TO FEED A GROWING CHILD IN HOT WEATHER

To keep growing children well in winter, feed them properly in summer.

"Excess Acid" foods are "denatured" white flour, refined cereals, sweet, and meats. These make the blood acid and lower the body vitality of the child. The blood gets rid of these food acids through the skin and lining of the nose, throat, lungs stomach, etc. In winter the skin is sluggish and the linings of nose, throat, lungs, etc., have to do it all. These parts become irritated in the process and adenoids, tonsils, bronchitis, pneumonia, diphtheria, ear disease, etc., find an easy victim in the child fed largely upon "Excess Acid" foods.

Feed your child richly alkaline foods, like Roman Meal, milk, eggs nuts, ebans, potatoes, leafy vegetables and fruits in summer. These keep the blood normally alkaline or non-acid. There will be no acids to irritate th enose, throat, lungs etc in winter, and your child will feel better, be better, and remain free from disease.

Roman Meal is the most alkaline (opposite of acid) food known. It makes normal non-acid blood, nourishes better than meat, prevents indigestion, positively relieves constipation, and "Keeps the Family Fit."

For hot weather try the new icy-cold recipes on package. Roman Meal BROSE-O, CHOCOL-O, and JELL-E. They are a real treat that the child will revel in. But Roman Meal, cooked in any way is delicious, and prevents the "all in" feeling so common on hot days, when eating "Excess Acid" foods.

Your child deserves the best and Roman Meal is the best food money can buy. At all grocers.

REFUGEE TELLS THE PLIGHT OF MILLIONS.

Sad Story of Encounter With the Turks in Asia Minor.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

PIRAES, GREECE, May 29.—If you live in Huntington, L.I., or somewhere in Alabama or Mississippi, may be you knew Horace, or his folks.

But whether or not you knew them his sad story of his encounter with the Turks in Asia Minor at the time of the Greek debacle and the burning and sack of Smyrna, may interest you.

Destroyer 336—the U. S. A. Litchfiend, gallant "Dusty" Rhodes, commanding—had just put me ashore here with my bags bespattered with labels from many European points.

"They say, Mister," said a small voice under my elbow in as perfect English as any American boy of 12 anywhere could command, "that you can get a car in to Athens for 200 drachmas."

"And how much is a drachma, young man," I asked.

"Yesterday's exchange was 80 to the dollar, sir," the boy replied.

"What's your name?"

"Horace."

"Where did you learn to speak American?"

"In America."

"Huntington, Long Island, sir I was born in America."

"But you're Greek?"

"No sir I'm American. My mother and father were Greek but my father took out his papers. He worked in Huntington, then in Alabama and in Mississippi."

Tragedy Told.

"What are you doing here Why aren't you in the United States"

"You see," he began, his voice catching a little as he swallowed what seemed to be an awfully big lump in his throat, "my father had two farms in Anatolia, not far from Smyrna. And, as he was about to get his final citizenship papers, he thought he would sell the farms and put the money in his business in America.

"So my mother and father and little sister and I, we came over to Smyrna to settle my father's business. Then the Turks came. They took my father away prisoner and killed my little sister, and drove my mother and me away.

"The Litchfield brought us away from Smyrna. That's why I came down to the beach. I know Captain Rhodes. He saved us brought our clothes here on his destroyer. I wanted to see the Litchfield and maybe the captain. Kinda like seeing something from home, seeing the Litchfield. I get pretty homesick sometimes."

"Why don't you go back to America" I knew the answer before I asked the question. But I had to say something.

"We have to wait, he said. "We haven't anything now. My father is still prisoner and my mother and I, we have to do anything we can to get along."

I tell this story because it is typical. It may help you visualize some of the things that happen in a Balkan war. Horace caused no unusual comment here.

KING SAVED HIS PENNIES TO RE-FIT ROYAL YACHT

LONDON, May 29.—(Associated Press)—King George's 30-year-old racing yacht, the Britannia, which he could not afford to replace with a more modern cutter, has just come off the ways for another season of racing. She has been re-coppered, overhauled, and equipped with new running gear.

King George has never hesitated to say that he could not afford to build another big yacht, and last year he even went so far as to tell yachting enthusiasts that the Britannia would have to remain idle until he had saved up enough money to fit her out with new equipment.

He has decided to race the old craft this year chiefly for the purpose of reviving the sport, and for the benefit of spectators at regattas, as the Britannia under full sail, in a good breeze, is said to be a sight worth seeing.

Yachtsmen here says the days of racing big expensive vessels have passed forever. It has become such a costly sport, they say, that kings are no longer able to afford it, and even syndicates of millionaire sportsmen hesitate to undertake the huge outlay necessary.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions

ONE—If, with a runner on first, the batsman hits a home run, and the runner on first fails to touch third, does that have any effect on the man who hit the home run?

TWO—To what distance can the pitcher's mound be elevated?

THREE—Has the pitcher the right to discolor the ball?

FOUR—If a batsman after missing the third strike starts for his bench, believing the ball has been caught, and then discovers that the ball has gotten away from the catcher, has he a right to make an attempt to reach first base, or is he out for running out of the line?

FIVE—Explain what is mean by a force-out?

Answers

ONE—The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base shall in no way affect the status of a succeeding runner who has touched each base in its proper order unless two men are out at the time.

TWO—The pitcher's plate shall not be more than 15 inches higher than the base lines or the home plate.

THREE—The pitchers has no right to discolor the ball. Such an act on his part calls for his immediate removal from the game.

FOUR—The batsman has such a right, unless in running he ran out of line to avoid being touched. When he takes it for granted that the ball has been caught, and instead of immediately starting for the base, as he should have, he simply delays his getting there, and makes the distance that much longer.

FIVE—A force-out can only be made when a base runner legally loses the right to the base he occupies by reason of the batsman becoming a base runner, and he is thereby forced to vacate.

CLEGG PRESIDENT OF FOOTBALL ASSN.

British Football Association Makes Several Minor Changes in the Rules.

LONDON, May 29.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — J. C. Clegg, the chairman in his opening remarks at the twentieth annual meeting of the British football association yesterday, referred to the loss the association had sustained in the recetn deaths of Lord Kinnaird, president, and Charles Crump, senior vice-president of the Football Association. All the delegates stood in silence for one minute.

Mr. Clegg was re-elected president.

The proposal that the off-side area be limited to a playing area within forty yards of each goal line was lost but the proposed alteration regarding substitutes taking the place of injured players by arrangement before the start of the match proviing the match is not in any competition, was agreed to.

The proposal that when taking a free kick all players with the exception of the goalkeeper stand outside the penalty area and inside the field of play and no player with the exception of the kicker approach within ten yards of the ball was also agreed to. The practice of players in lining up on a penalty line with the object of impeding a player when taking a penalty, it was decided, was contrary to the intention of the rules and must be discontinued.

The ground committee recommended that Wembley stadium, where the turnstiles were broken down by the rush at the last cup final, should be encircled and made self-contained and more entrances made to the terraces which should be divided into self-contained sections and an unclimable fence erected between the terraces and the stand.

The council reported that upwards of five thousand applications had been receeived from cup-final ticket holders for a refund of money representing £4,100, due to their being unable to get into the grounds. The council proposes to make all repayments by cheque.

President Heydler Disallowed Protest.

NEW YORK, May 29 (Canadian Press). — President Heydler, of the National Baseball League, yesterday disallowed Cincinnati's protest of the game with the New York Giants here on 19th May, in which Umpire Quigley refused to allow Bohne, the Cincinnati second baseman, to take his base after being hit by a pitched ball.

The Cincinnati Club also charged that Pitcher McQuillan's delivery was illegal, but Quigley asserted that Bohne deliberately stepped into the ball.

Heydler ruled that the decision was solely of judgment, and therefore not subject to appeal.

CHICAGO BOUT TO BE A TEST CASE

To Test Anti-Prize Fight Law—Promoter Will Be Arrested Immediately After the Scrap.

CHICAGO, May 29 (Canadian Press). — Pinkey Mitchell, 22-year-old product of amateur ranks, and brother of Ritchie Mitchell, will meet Beny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, in a ten-round match here to-night, with indications that the gate receipts will reach the $85,000 to $100,000 mark.

The conest probably will be the last seen in Chicago for some time, as it will be staged to test the Illinois anti-prize fight law.

As the result of an agreement reached between James G. Mullen, the promoter, and city officials, the bouts will be fought without interference, but Promoter Mullen will be arrested afterwards.

Contests heretofore have been staged under Court injunctions preventing the police from interference.

Leonard's title will not be at stake for the reason that neither he nor the Milwaukee boxer are making 135 pounds. They will enter the ring at catchweights, but both will be under 140 pounds.

Leonard has not engaged in a contest since last September, while Mitchell has been in a steady campaign of preparation, his last bout resulting in a four-round knock-out.

Mitchell is regarded as a ring freak, as he is five feet eleven inches in height, with a reach correspondingly long.

Besides the Leonard-Mitchell bout there will be another ten-round go and three eight-round bouts.

Travelled Faster Than 100 Miles an Hour.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Jimmy Murphy, winner of last year's 500 mile automobile race, showed the greatest speed of fourteen drivers who qualified their cars yesterday to participate in the annual event here Memorial Day. His time for ten miles was 5:45:94, an average of 104.05 miles an hour.

Twenty-ttwo drivers to date have qualified their mounts for the race, which will begin at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Murphy's performance in an 8-cylinder machine was the nearest approach to the record-making time of 108.1-2 miles per hour established last Saturday by Tommy Milton, Cliff Durant and De Palma were the only other drivers to hurl their cars around the oval at a speed greater than 100 miles an hour.

WILL PLAY AMERICAN MUSIC AT ASHEVILLE

ASHEVILLE, N.C., May 29.—(Associated Press)—"All-American" music will characterize the program of the thirteenth biennial festival of the National Federation of Music Clubs here June 9-17, and is expected by its sponsors to prove that it is not always necessary to turn to Europe for good music, and to show that eventually America should be the music center of the world.

Two outstanding features of the festival, which will also mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization, will be the appearance of a Festival Symphony Orchestra, composed of 45 first-chairmen of various symphony orchestras; and a Festival Chorus of several hundred voices. Henry Hadley, American conductor, will lead the orchestra, and Charles N. Boyd will direct the chorus.

The usual biennal contests, open to American composers to encourage the writing of musical compositions, will precede the annual convention. At the June festival there will be held also the finals in the biennial contests for young American-trained musical artists which are now under way in the states and districts, in voice, violin and piano. Following the tests the winners will appear in concert.

For the 800 Junior and Juvenile clubs affiliated with the Federation, a Children's Day will be designated.

In the new auditorium at Montreat, eighteen miles from Asheville, a vesper service will be held Sunday June 10. A "Sunrise Sing," featured morning chorals and odes to the sun, will be given June 13.

BELLEVILLE TIED KINGSTON BY 5-5

Sixteen Hundred Fans Saw Opening Fixture C. O. B. L.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 29. — (Special).—Staging a come-back in the eighth innings, Kingston tied up the game with Belleville at the Fair Grounds last evening in the opening fixture of the C.O.B.L. here and the game was called at the end of the ninth inning with the score 5 to 5.

Belleville uncorked a bunch of heavy hitters, who slammed the offerings of three pitchers for twelve safeties, but their own errors proved their undoing, and allowed Kingston to get the bulge in the second inning.

The grounds, which were used for the first time, were in excellent shape, and over 1,600 people saw the game. In the first inning Kingston started the ball rolling by scoring one run, on two errors and a single. In the second, with one out, Weir made two errors in succession. Moore then fanned and Nicholson was walked, filling the bases. J. Evans then doubled, scoring three runs. Kingston failed to score again until the eighth, when an error, a sacrifice and a double sent in a lone counter.

Belleville failed to land a notcher until the fifth, when they fell on Moore for two runs. They followed with another in the sixth, and with two out, Gallagher was sent to the mound. He was hit hard for an innings, and then Cherry, the Kingston centre fielder, took up the mound, and got by well, though one run was scored on his delivery. He pitched the best ball of the trio. Oulette pitched a steady game for Belleville, and but for errors would have won his game handily.

Weir was particularly faulty, bobbling four hard slams. In the seventh H. Mills sent a mighty clout to left, but was out when he failed to touch second.

The score:

CELEBRATES 250th BIRTHDAY

JENA, May 29.—(Associated Press)—The Jenaische Zeitung, a daily newspaper, has just observed the 250th anniversary of its establishment. On the basis of available records, it was founded 31 years before the first American newspaper, which is said to have been the Boston News Letter, established by Bartholomew Green in 1704.

The Jenaische Zeitung is still published by the descendants of its founders, Johann Ludwig Neunhaln. The biggest local story of its history undoubtedly was Napoleon's complete defeat of the Prussians at Jean in 1806.

Found Firpo Suspicious

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sport Editor)

NEW YORK, May 26.—(United Press)—Gratitude is one of the many virtues that is not an outstanding characteristic of the fighting game. Selfishiness and greed have made the "double-cross" almost the native tongue of the prize ring and one of the outstanding victims of the preesnt days is Jimmy De Forest the wisest old handler of boxers in the game.

De Forest took Jack Dempsey when he was a crude product, with only a little natural ability, and worked with him for two years, during which he transformed him into one of the ring's most formidable fighting machines.

The day after Dempsey won the heavyweight championship from Jess Willard, back in 1919, De Forest was "given the gate" out of the Dempsey camp. Jack Kearns, the new champion's manager, said De Forest was trying to get Dempsey away from him.

The man who had made Dempsey champion finally landed a job as trainer and boxing instructor at an athletic club in Newark and to those who, at times, offered sympathy to him for his bad break, Jimmy often replied:

"They keep coming up all the time. There's always a prospect around some place and maybe I'll have the good luck to dig up the next champion."

Found in a Cellar.

One day, about a year ago, one of the gentry peculiar to the boxing game, who neither sows nor reaps, came to De Forest with the word that there was a fine looking heavyweight, big strong fellow, living in a celler in the tenement district of Newark. "A spiggity," he added as a detail.

"No chance. Never was one of those who could fight. Strong, that's all, every one of them, but no heart," De Forest replied.

When this prospect was urged upon him from other sources, De Forest finally decided that there might be something in the stories and he sent word to have the "hope" brought up to him.

This Angel Firpo, frightened and suspicious, acting as if a trolley was about ot run over him at any moment, came up to the gymnasium to undergo the process of being looked over by a man said to be one who get get him big things in the business.

De Forest was immediately struck with the possibilities in the huge fellow and he agreed to work with him. He appreciated the difficulties resulting from the necesisty of transmitting his instructions through an interpreter, but he found Firpo quick to get on to the sign language and things went fine for a while.

Agonies of Shower Bath.

He induced Firpo to move out of the cellar and take up an abode where he would have light and air. The worst difficulty he experienced in his early work was to get his big pupil broken to the agonies of a shower bath. Firpo had never been under one, and he thought it was an instrument of modern torture. De Forest almost had to force him under the spray when he finished work, and he knew that his charge was "cheating" by slipping out of the prescribed ducking after ht arose in the mornings.

Everything went well for weeks, until De Forest noticed that Firpo was not carrying out the instructions that were given to the interpreter. Jimmy couldn't understand it for a long time, until one of the members of the club, who could understand Spanish, told him that the interpreter was not relaying him the instructions offered.

Firpo Suspicious.

De Forest learned later that Firpo's friends, many of them waiters in Brazilian coffee houses, which were then the rage in New York, had told Firpo that De Forest was a friend of Dempsey's and that Jimmy was teaching him wrong so that Dempsey could beat him easily when they met.

Relations became strained and they were finally broken when De Forest, acting through self-protection broached the subject of a contract. Firpo said he wanted no manager and he would sign no papers. De Forest pointed out that he was getting nothing for his services but promises for the future, and that he would not proceed without assurance of the protection of his interest, but Firpo remained obdurate and they split.

Firpo then went out and got several small fights for purses running from $150 to $500, but he made only an ordinary showing and he was making no progress under the instruction of friends, who knew how to carry a dozen cups of coffee without spilling a drop, but didn't know even how to wrap up a hand.

The giant then went home to cash in on his glory and he did well in South America financially.

Tex Rickard, keenest of all showmen, then saw the possibilities in Firpo and when Rickard got a hand in it, Firpo got his start.

LACROSSE

The juniors and juveniles will practice at King Edward Park on Wednesday night. Vince O'Connell has asked for the turnout in the south end for a change and although only a few of the southenders have appeared at Central Park so far it is hoped that all the north-end boys will go down for the workout. Unless the two groups get together at once and forget the fact that they were opponents in the City League last year, they will not develop the spirit that makes a winning team.

A special practice of the intermediates will be held at Central Park Thursday nght. Vic. Hamilton says this is the last summons for the appointment of a manager in so far as he is concerned.

Albert Armstrong, of Havelock, has suggested that a game be arranged in Peterboro with the team from Cambridge University, England, who will tour Canada this summer. As the largest centre in the Midland district, Mr. Armstrong believes that Peterboro is the logical place for a game. If sponsored by some of the public bodies that have the strength to handle such matters it would be easy to select a team probably from the district in order that the visitors might be given a real opposition here.

TRAPSHOOTING IN LAKEFIELD

Trapshooting will be a feature in Lakefield to-night, and a number of the local club members will join in the event.

The series is under the auspices of the physical department of the Y.M.C.A., and is open to all young men in the city who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity of learning the fine points of events which are included in every card of athletics. The dates for these twilight meets are June 5-11-18-25. Doug. Loomis, physical director of the "Y," said it might be possible to present prizes for the competitions, but the contests are not being arranged with that object in view. Two junior and senior events will be held each night and will be announced later.

GALLAGHER TO FACE PETES AT KINGSTON

Heckman Will Be Manager Solomon's Choice Tomorrow—Return Game Will Be Played Here Saturday.

PORT HOPE ARE OUT

Hoping to make their record on the road two wins the Petes leave on the midnight C.P.R. train tonight for Kingston where to-morrow evening they will clash with the Ponies in a twilight game.

Al. Heckman will be on the firing line for the Petes while there is considerable speculation as to the Kingston selection. However Gallagher who only pitched two thirds of an inning against Belleville last night is regarded as the most likely starter for the Ponies. The Petes beat the big southpaw four times in five starts when he was pitching for Oshawa last year and Manager Solo man can shove a batting order containing seven right handed hitters at him to-morrow night.

Kingston are billed to play the return game here on Saturday afternoon and it is hoped that Riverside Park will be ready for use by that time. The water has not gone up any for several days and it is expected that it will start to drop rapidly soon. A record crowd will see the battle for the local fans are hungry for baseball and the Ponies are considered as a splendid drawing card.

IT'S UP TO JAKE
(Kingston Whig)

Following close on the heels of the Belleville game here the Kingstons meet Peterboro on Wednesday night, and the fans will have an opportunity of gazing on the far-famed Jake Solomon and his gang. If he does not produce rabbits from his hat, or lift a pumpkin out of the referee's pocket he will be a disappointment as he has a great reputation as a juggler and magician hereabouts.

"OUT AGAIN, IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN."
(Port Hope Guide)

Port Hope is under an obligation to the C.G.I. team of Peterboro for on Saturday the visitors convinced their opponents and also the public of Port Hope that we had no ball team at all. The exhibition was the poorest ever witnessed on the local diamond and while we are satisfied that there is better material in Port Hope than represented the town Saturday still it was quite apparent to everybody that Port Hope would be out of her class in the Central League. Under all the circumstances the Port Hope team has been obliged to withdraw once more, leaving four teams in section A Leaside, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Port Hope. The efforts of Mr. G. V. Strong to keep baseball alive in Port Hope is appreciated by every fan in Port Hope; the kindly interest of President Dedman, and the executive committee of the Central League is also appreciated and the management of the team are grateful indeed for the kindly interest taken by all the league officials. No one regrets the withdrawal from the league more than Port Hope but no baseball would be better than the calibre given the fans on Saturday.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

"Let's make him president of the merger," the president of the South Coast Corporation suggested. "He ought to make good. He held us up with a gun that wasn't loaded. Whew-w Boys! Whatever happens, let us keep this a secret, Parker."

"Secret your grandmother! I'm going to tell the world. We deserve it. Moreover, that fine lad is going to marry my daughter; she's the genius who double-crossed her own father and got behind Bill Conway. God bless her. God bless him. Nobody can throttle my pride in that boy and his achievements. You two tried to mangle him and you forced me to play your game. While he was earning the medal of honor from Congress, I sat around planning to parcel out his ranch to a hating myself."

That night at the hacienda, Don Mike, taking advantage of Kay's momentary absence, drew Mr. and Mrs. Parker aside.

"I have the honor to ask you both for permission to seek your daughter's hand in marriage," he announced with a hat charming, old-fashioned Castilian courtliness which never failed to impress Mrs. Parker. Without an instant's hesitation she lifted her handsome face and kissed him.

"I move that we make it unanimous," Parker suggested, and gripped Don Mike's hand.

"Fine," Don Mike cried happily. He was no longer the least bit Castilian; he was all Gaelic-American. "Please clear out and let me have air," he pleaded, and fled from the room. In the garden he met Kay, and without an instant's hesitation took her by the arm and led her over to the sweet lime tree.

"Kay," he began, "on such a moonlit night as this, on this same spot, my father asked my mother to marry him. Kay, dear, I love you. I always shall. I have never been in love before and I shall never be in love again. There's just enough Celt in me to make me a one-girl man, and since that day on the train when you cut my roast beef because my hand was crippled you've been the one girl in the world for me. Until to-day, however, I did not have the right to tell you this and to ask you, as I now do, if you love me enough to marry me; if you think you could manage to live with me here most of the time—after I've restored the old place somewhat. Will you marry me, Kay—ah, you will, you will!"

She was in his arms, her flower face upturned to his for his first kiss.

They were married in the quaint, old-world chapel of the now restored Mission de la Madre Dolorosa by Father Dominic, and in accordance with ancient custom, revived for the last time, the master of Palomar gave his long-delayed fiesta and barbecue, and the rich and the poor, honest men and wastrels, the gente and the peons of San Marcos County came to dance at his wedding.

Their wedding night Don Mike and his bride spent, unattended save for Pablo and Carolina, in the home of his ancestors. It was still daylight when they found themselves speeding the last departing wedding guest; hand in hand they seated themselves on the old bench under the catalpa tree and gazed down into the valley. There fell between them the old sweet silence that comes when hearts are too filled with happiness to find expression in words. From the Mission de la Madre Dolorosa there floated up to them the mellow music of the Angelus; the hills far to the west were long in the valley, and Don Mike, gazing down on his kingdom regained, felt his heart filled to overflowing.

His wife interrupted his meditations. He was to learn later that this is a habit of all wives.

"Miguel, dear, what are you thinking about?"

"I cannot take time to tell you now, Kay, because my thoughts, if transmuted into print, would fill a book. Mostly, however, I have been thinking how happy and fortunate I am, and how much I love you and that—yonder. And when I look at it I am reminded that but for you it would not be mine. Mine? I loathe the word. From this day forward—ours! I have had the ranch homesteaded, little wife. It belongs to us both now. I owed you so much that I could never repay in cash—and I couldn't speak about it until I had the right—and now that Bill Conway has taken up all of his promissory notes to you, and his suit against your father has been dismissed and we've all smoked the pipe of peace, I've come to the conclusion that I cannot keep a secret any longer. Oh, my dear, my dear, you loved me so you wouldn't let them hurt me, would you?"

She was holding his hand in both of hers and she bent now and kissed the old red scar in the old tender, adoring way; but said nothing. So he was moved to query:

"And you, little wife—what are you thinking of now?"

"I was thinking, my husband, of the words of Ruth: 'Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge: thy people shall be my people and thy God my God. Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do also to me and more also if aught but death part thee and me.'"

SPLENDID VAUDEVILLE.

Peterboro people have for a long time been demanding good vaudeville. This week in the visit to the Grand of the Cultural Vaudeville circle the people have exactly what they have been asking for—a high-class bill with every number a winner, and for the balance of the week there should be few vacant seats at the Grand. This city has rarely had an opportunity of seeing a vaudeville programme of this nature and the chance is too good to be missed.

The bill is headed by Tamco Kajuyama, a Japanese exponent of the art of penmanship as applied to experimental psychology. Here is an act that is new, clever and mystifying. A man who can read, write, talk, listen and mentally extract cube roots all at the same time, is a novelty to Peterboro audiences, and Kajuyama does all these things with more ease than the average individual signs his own name. Mental simultanism is something new on the stage of the Grand and this artist's feats in quintupel concentration are a revelation. Kajayama writes backwards, forwards or upside down with equal precision and speed, and does other things at the same time that keeps his audience mystified as to how it is all accomplished. Playgoers who lament that there is nothing new in vaudeville should see this Japanese wizard. His act alone justifies a visit to the Grand.

The other acts are fully up to the standard of the head liner. Bobbie Bolliger and Alma Reynolds, who open the bill in "A Trip on the Wire," have a rope act that is original, skilful and, at the same time, funny. Bolliger's feats on the rope are different from anything seen here.

Dan Casler, composer and pianist, scores heavily in his piano numbers, playing with splendid effect Liszt's second Rhapsody, the quartette from Rigoletta, a concert waltz of his own composition, an improvisation of "The Rosary," played with his left hand, and a medley of late song hits.

A dainty number is that staged by Grace King, "from Bost n," and Maurice Briene "from New Orleans" whose singing and dancing are away above the average. Briene's imitation of a Frenchman is clever and Miss King's impersonation of a New England man is skilfully sketched. The duet, "Will that be All," adds charm to the act.

Freddie Clinton and Angie Campbell, in "The Little Wop," have a novel and thoroughly pleasing musical act in which Clinton shines at the piano and Miss Campbell sings splendidly in Italian a number of grand opera gems. Half a dozen curtain calls followed this act, and they were earned.

Walter Lewis, a little colored boy, with a pleasing voice and an infectious manner put over a group of songs most effectively.

Kluting's entertainers, a general act, in whinh species of conflicting dispositions are used to great advantage, closed the bill. Cats, dogs, rabbits and birds all do their stunt in this act and it is unique in its features.

The Cultural Vaudeville Circle has something new to offer the pubshould be enthusiastically received for the balance of the week.

AT THE ROYAL.

SHIRLEY MASON'S NEW PICTURE SCORES HIT.

One of the most pleasing photoplays that has been shown on the screen at the Royal Theatre in many a day made its initial appearance last night. The picture, "Pawn Ticket 210," with Shirley Mason starring, is of exceptional merit and should enjoy a successful run. It is a William Fox production adapted from the stage play by David Belasco and Clay M. Greene and was directed by Scott Dunlap, who has been responsible for some excellent productions.

Miss Mason is seen, at the opening of the story, as the ward of an aged pawnbroker. It develops that when she was a baby she was left at the pawnshop by her mother. The pawnbroker in exchange for the baby gave the mother a pawnticket numbered 210, and thereby hangs the tale.

While we never saw Lotta Crabtree in the original stage production which was produced by David Belasco many years ago, we are certain that her performance could not surpass that of the diminutive star, Shirley Mason, in the screen version.

It is a truly fine picture and Miss Mason is supported by an excellent cast which is deserving of special mention. The cast includes, besides Miss Mason, Robert Agnew, Dorothy Manners, Jacob Abrams, Irene Hunt and Fred. Warren.

"You can't do right and think wrong, and you can't think right and do wrong," said little David, the small child preacher, to his audience in the old barn where "The Little Church Around the Corner" was held. It is rather a misleading title. "The Little Church Around the Corner" has always been associated in people's minds with the famed theatrical church in New York City, but this picture is a melodrama based on the conflict between love and duty suffered by a young minister who has been educated by a rich New Yorker, and who returns finally to the scenes of his childhood, to work among the mining population of a small town. The big scene is the mine which caves in and traps its men. There is vivid, life-like quality to the pictured disaster, showing the underground workings of the mine, with the trapped men struggling in semi-darkness, the frantic searchers with gas-masks and canary cages to warn them of the onslaught of deadly gases, the tortured women with children in arms standing at the pit mouth through long weary hours.

It is a powerful picture, of strong and moving atmosphere, and there is a wonderful moment where the faith of the dumb girl, working through years of expectant waiting for the return of David, brings speech to her lips, after many years of dumb longing. The acting of Pauline Starke as this dumb girl, Hetty, is splendid. Mary Jane Irving does some good acting as the child Hetty, while Kenneth Harlan plays the part of the adult David Graham, in love with a rich girl, the daughter of his benefactor, and still yearning for his own rough people. Heart interest and a strong spiritual atmosphere make it an entertaining and worth-while picture, its scenes of luxury and elegance contrasting markedly with the squalor and poverty of the miners' community.

A good comedy and the usual run of short reels complete the Capitol programme for the beginning of this week.

LIQUID YEAST

If you use liquid yeast, remember a cupful is equivalent to about half a cake of the compressed variety or a whole cake of the dry.

FRYING GREASE

Never put a frying pan or skillet over the flame without first putting in the butter or lard, and do not put your pan over until it is required for use. Frying grease always leaves that unpleasant odor of cooking.

LOCAL SCOTS ENJOYED A PLEASANT EVENING

Members of the Peterborough Caledonian Club recently held a whist drive in the W. O. W. Hall, when well over a hundred participated in the game, which resulted in Mrs. Peter McArthur winning ladies' first prize, and Robert Veitch the gentlemen's first prize.

Light refreshments were served during the interval. Also a preliminary banquet was given to the Thistle players, who responded to various toasts, Mr. Rae replying to the principal one, 'The Fitba' Club.'

The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing, and, as usual, the 'Scotch Reel' being the favorite number.

Great praise is due the energetic committee, who have provided many an enjoyable evening during the winter and have a field day arranged for the near future; also the annual excursion on July 1.

EAST PETERBORO LIBERALS LEAVE FIELD TO OTHERS

Decided in Midnight Session at Norwood Not to Unfurl Their Standard in the Present Campaign - Reports Were Discouraging.

NORWOOD, May 29.—East Peterbodo Liberals decided last night not to contest the election in this riding in which the present member E. N. McDonald, U.F.O. is opposed by Major T. Dalton Johnston, Conservative.

Representatives of the Liberal party met in the office of the secretary, Mr. W. A. Richardson and discussed the prospects until mid night. Delegates from Otonabee, Douro, Asphodel and parts of Dummer reported that the U.F.O. were still strong in those sections while the far east was regarded as Conservative territory. It was stated that some Conservatives who were dissatisfied over the rejection of Ex-Warden J. C. Strickland as a candidate were urging the Grits to put a man in the field, but support from that quarter was regarded as so doubtful that it was discounted.

In abandoning the field to the U.F.O. and the Conservatives the East Peterboro Liberals realized the danger of inaction to their own ranks and in order to reassert their principles and unity it was proposed that a convention should be called shortly at which Liberalism should eb given an opportunity to express itself and prepare for future activities.

Several men were mentioned as possible candidates, but in the end it was felt that on the strength of the reports from sections that had usually given Liberal majorities the present campaign would end in a loss.

WOMAN'S DEATH A PUZZLE FOR POLICE FORCE

Robbery, Business Enmity or Revenge, Are All Theories in Lansing Slaying.

$2,000 REWARD POSTED

LANSING, Mich., May 30. — Spurred by the city council's offer of a $2,000 reward, local and State police were redoubling their efforts to-day to solve the mystery surrounding the slaying of Mrs. Pearl Britten, wife of William T. Britten, former alderman and contractor, in the Britten's new home here early Sunday.

While still inclined to accept the original theory that Mrs. Britten was shot by an inexperienced burglar who lost his head when discovered in the house, the investigators were also working on the possibility that the slaying may have been the result of business or labor enmity toward Britten, or of an attempt to obtain important papers.

Mrs. Britten was alone in the house with Miss Helen Powers, a life-long friend, when she was slain. Her husband had left for Chicago the day before. The two were lying in bed talking when Mrs Britten got up and went into the hall to investigate a noise that Miss Powers said sounded like a muffled sneeze. Suddenly there was an exclamation of "Oh" by Mrs. Britten and a shot.

Did She Know Intruder?

This exclamation, Miss Powers told police, seemed to be uttered more in surprise than in fright. That is what is puzzling the investigators. Did Mrs. Britten recognize the identity of the intruder and did he kill her because of this recognition? That is being pondered in connection with the theory that the intruder may have been an enemy of the husband, or have sought important papers.

The thing that casts doubt on the burglary theory, in the opinion of the police, is that nothing has been discovered missing from the house and only one drawer of a table had been opened by the intruder. Miss Powers' story of hearing various noises while she and Mrs. Britten lay abed talking indicates that the intruder must have been in the house for a considerable time before Mrs. Britten finally arose to investigate.

Mrs. Britten's death was instantaneous. The shot entered the nose and passed through the brain. That the shot was fired at close range was indicated by the powder burns on her face. The bullet was a 32 short, indicating that a short-muzzled revolver of this calibre had been used. This is an old-fashioned type of revolver and, in the opinion of the police, not the kind that a professional burglar would carry.

IMPORTANT GATHERING OF LOCAL PRESBYTERIAL

Peterboro Presbyterial Meets in Knox Church.

An important meeting will convene here this week, when the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Peterborough will be held in Knox Church on Thursday and Friday. The Presbyterial represents all missionary organizations as well as Mission Bands in the different congregations of the Peterborough Presbytery. The convention opens on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and will continue until Friday at noon. There will be three sessions on Thursday, the evening meeting of which is open to the public. At this meeting the greetings of the Presbytery will be conveyed by the pastor of St. Paul's Church, Rev. R. Pogue, and that of the city by the Mayor. An important address will be given by Miss Cass, of Korea.

NEW GRAVEL PIT IS PROVING ITS VALUE

Production and Short Haul an Economy to the Board of Works.

Forty loads of broken stone from the new pit in Ashburnham is one day's record reported by Ald. Stocker who contrasted it with 27 loads delivered in the city from the old pit north of the city last year. And the work is only getting started. The chairman of the Board of Works believes that this performance will be improved when the operations are reduced to their fullest efficiency.

In the meantime preparations are under way for the oiling of the streets, which have been delayed for a day or two owing to the anxiety of City Engineer Parsons for the life of his daughter, who was injured Monday night.

Former Holder-up of Building in New York Transferred to More Isolated Spot.

TRAVELLED IN IRONS

NEW YORK, May 30.—Robert P. Brindell, former building trades "czar" of New York City, is on his way to Clinton Prison at Dannemora as a result of the outing he enjoyed at Sing Sing through the aid of a keeper. The transfer was decided up on after Warden Lawes on Sunday found Brindell at a clandestine meeting with his family in a deserted house near the prison. Manacled and attached by leg-irons to another prisoner, Brindell with forty other prisoners was put aboard a train at Ossining.

The prisoners should arrive about noon at Dannemora which prisoners regard as the Siberia of New York because of its remoteness.

The transfer of Brindell and the others was made so suddenly that there was no chance for a word of farwell. A prison attendant went to Brindell's cell, where he was in solitary confinement as punishment for his absence without leave, and returned to him all his belongings, such as comb and brush, which were taken from him when his privileges were curtailed. In the transfer order Brindell was classified as a "discipline case."

At Dannemora, instead of being able to go to the movies every day, he will have, if he likes, the privilege only once a week. There are no privileges such as are granted at Sing Sing to trusted inmates. The work is more like work than at Sing Sing

The transfer of Brindell was planned before Warden Lawes left Sing Sing or Albany. State Superintendent of Prisons —abes S) Long had sent of Prisons James E. Long had ordered it and Warden Lawes had approved.

Warden Lawes within the next few days will complete his inquiry in to the escape of Brindell from Sing Sing, and his report, which will militate against efforts by Brindell to win commutation, will be forwarded to Dannemora.

BISHOP O'BRIEN VISITS HAMILTON

St. Patrick's Church Thronged to Capacity at Confirmation Service

HAMILTON, May 30.—Large as St. Patrick's Church is, it proved almost inadequate to accommodate the throng which attended, when two hundred and thirty-one young members of the congregation, ranging in age from 11 to 15 years, were confirmed by the hand of Bishop O'Brien, of Peterboro.

The Bishop was welcomed by Dean Cassidy, of St. Patrick's, who voiced his regrets that Bishop Dowling, who has officiated at the confirmation services in this district for many years, could not be present. Bishop O'Brien questioned the young candidates on religious subjects, and was satisfied with the knowledge which they displayed. The ceremony was gone on with and terminated, when, after solemnly marching around the church, the boys and girls received the sacrament.

Following the administration, his Lordship addressed himself to the parents of the congregation. He urged that they lend their co-operation in all projects which tended towards education, spiritual or otherwise, and that they inculcate into their young hearts a firm grounding in the knowledge of good citizenship, both to God and country. All of the candidates then pledged themselves to abstain from liquor or tobacco in any form until the age of 21 years was reached. Benediction was pronounced by the Bishop, assisted by Rev. Donald Curtis as subdeacon. St. Patrick's chancel choir, assisted by the men's choir, was in attendance at the service, with Miss Florence Filgiano at the organ.

It is a strange coincidence that, when Bishop O'Brien, of Peterboro, was an altar boy in that place, Bishop Dowling was then Bishop of Peterboro.

VISITORS FROM SPIRIT WORLD WERE "HUMAN"

Hidden Devices Showed Medium Left Chair 15 Times to Do Psychic Wonders.

EXPOSED AS FAKE

NEW YORK, May 30.—The neatest bit of ultra-scientific detective work ever brought to bear upon phenomena supposed to have their origin in the intangible, spiritual world, was disclosed yesterday when investigators for the Scientific American revealed the methods by which a "medium" had been exposed at seances held in their offices. Delicate electrical devices used to record infallibly the movements of the medium, and to show that the "psychic phenomena" which he brought about were evident only when he was moving around the room.

The editors of the Scientific American had hoped to keep their findings secret for a time so that more seances might have been held with this "medium." They had gone into the seances in the hope that something genuine might come out of them. They had heard that the medium, George Valentine of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., had produced phenomena which had convinced many persons, some of them men of affairs, that they had had communion with the spirit world.

"If all we hear about this man is true, he is one of the best mediums in this country," said J. Malcolm Bird, associate editor of the magazine and chairman of the committee which is investigating psychic phenomena, which has offered prizes of $5,000 for genuine results. So Valentine went into a seance with men who were sympathetic, but wished to be shown, and every opportunity was given to him to do what he wanted in his own way.

Trap Cleverly Concealed.

Valentine was trapped by electrical appliances which were so deftly concealed that he did not know of their existence, and only suspected after an hour of the last seance had passed that something was being recorded which would expose him. Dictographs, lights connected with his chair, and two stenographers, furnished a record of what went on in the seance room; that was proof of the material origin of the phenomena.

There was nothing lacking in the atmosphere of the seances to make them convincing, even though they were held in the materialistic library of a magazine in the Woolworth Building. They were conducted in absolute darkness, which is an essential to all seances, and the reasons for it in the case of mediums like Valentine became more and more evident as the seances proceeded. Without darkness nothing would have happened, for it was behind the shield of darkness that Valenine moved and made his lights and voices and music that came with such weird and, at times, impressive effect.

Sitting in darkness for two or three hours had a curious effect upon the observers. There was a hypnotic suggestion in it, the eyes saw things that were not there, the nerves became tense and jumpy, and it was impossible to understand why persons who were inclined to believe in psychic phenomena by the first touch of a "spirit" hand, or at the sound of a "spirit" voice out of the dark.

Start With Prayers and Hymns.

Valentine sat in the middle of a circle of chairs in which were the observers, among whom were men associated with the magazine, Dr.

Polls Located For Coming Election, 41 in the City

Deputy-Sheriff F. J. A. Hall, returning officer for West Peterborough in the coming election, has concluded his task of locating the polls. There will be 41 polling places in the city.

According to a proclamation just prepared, nominations must be made between noon and 2 o'clock p.m. on June 14.

The chief election officer for Ontario has sent out a circular letter to all returning officers pointing out that they should refrain from taking any active part in politics during the term of their office.

He suggested that they refrain from attending conventions, political clubs, or meetings for promoting the interests of candidates, or taking any active part in political public meetings. He draws attention to the law, which does not allow a returning officer to exercise his vote except in the case of a tie vote, when he has the casting vote. A returning officer is expected to take an unbiased position during an election.

BATHING BEACHES OPEN ON 1st JUNE

Parks Committee Accept Turner Company's Tender for Signs at Riverside Park.

The dressing quarters at the bathing beaches will be opened to the public on June 1st, when the caretakers will assume charge of the Inverlea Park and Lake Street beaches. Provision for safety improvements at Lake street, as suggested to the Park committee last night by the caretaker at that place, Mr. Thos. Raymond, will be put into effect especially for the children who can only wade, and for imperfect swimmers who might venture beyond a certain range where the bottom is uneven.

The purchase of two urns and three wire baskets to contain waste paper were authorized for the Central and Victoria parks. Ald. Turner, chairman of the committee, reported on the work that had been done at King Edward Park. The south half has been ploughed and seeded and rolled. He asked the members of his committee to inspect the work and to make any other practicable suggestions which they considered would be of advantage. Ald. Stocker advised that signs be put up requesting the public to keep off that part of the park until the grass had come through and the surface had hardened and knit together.

An Ald. Stocker's motion, seconded by Ald. Morrison the committee recommended the acceptance of the offer of J. J. Turner and Sons for painted sign board privileges at Riverside park. They tendered $100 for year for five years for the use of the east fence and the grandstands for painted signs, providing that the Central League ball games were played there. The rebuilding of most of the east fence will cost several hundred dollars, it was estimated, but a new fence is required, and as big signs are a feature of every ball park and the proffered revenue might as well be realized, the committee decided to accept the Turner offer, stipulating that it in no way includes printed advertising such as programmes.

SUGAR ROCKETING AGAIN RAW PRODUCT IS SCARCE

With Preserving Season Just About to Commence Retailers Look for Advance in Price to $15 Per Hundredweight.

With the preserving season just commencing, sugar is rocketing again. Prices on the raw product have advanced half a cent on the pound. Retailers look for a price of $15.00 per hundredweight before the season is over Dealers say that the raw product is really scarce this year, and that the European market requires more sugar than in former years when German sugar beets helped considerably.

In the fruit stores, the strawberries are coming in from Michigan now. As they progress from Florida, they appear to be redder and bigger fruit. In a fortnight or so, domestic berries will be on the market.

From the Argentine Republic come green grapes, and from Florida the watermelons, which form the latest arrival in the fruit line.

Maple syrup is still on sale at $2.30 a gallon, and maple sugar at 30 cents a pound.

This is the season for plants of all sorts in boxes, with seedlings and floral bedders.

A FARMER SAW ROGERS AFTER THE SHOOTING

Had Been Wounded in the Face by Broken Glass or a Bullet—Police Issue Statement.

STORY OF FIGHT

TORONTO, May 30.—(Special).—In a statement given out by the Provincial Police Commissioner's office at noon to-day, it was disclosed that Leo Rogers was seen about six o'clock (standard time) when he crossed Lake Nipissing in a skiff.

He had been wounded in the face either by broken glass when he fired through the door, or by a police bullet, according to a farmer who saw him land on the other side. Rogers approached the farmer and asked him if he had a gun for sale. The farmer replied that he had not. The fugitive then entered the bush without further questions.

After making his escape from the house, Rogers rushed through the main section of the town and broke into a store, presumably with the intention of obtaining ammunition, but he was disturbed before he could equip himself. He next entered a garage and endeavored to start a motor car, but finding it not in working condition, fled to the lake front, where he stole a skiff and crossed the lake. The police net is believed to be slowly closing around the fugitive. He is known to have a Winchester rifle and a few cartridges. Referring to the raid on Rogers' house, when Sergeant Urquhart was killed, the statement says that at 1.15 a.m. (standard time) Urquhart and four constables saw a man entering Rogers' home. Urquhart placed men at the back and front of the house and then went to the door and knocked. A light in the house was extinguished, and a voice asked, "Who is there?" Some one in the police party shouted "police." Immediately a number of shots were fired through the glass door at the rear, and Urquhart fell with a bullet in his breast. The four policemen then fired at the house and rushed the door, but Rogers had disappeared. A few moments later a shadow was seen in the bushes, and his chase was taken up.

Owing to the fact that Rogers could see the police while he was inside of the house, he had a drop on our men, who could not see him. General Victor Williams, Commissioner of the Provincial Police, stated this morning. The Commissioner made arrangements for Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy and 12 experienced Provincial officers from various points of the Province to leave for North Bay to-night.

Adds a Second Life.

This latest chapter in the tragic career of the youthful criminal adds a second life to his list of victims, and has North Bay again seething with interest, and trepidation. A special meeting of the Town Council and the Board of Trade was called by Mayor McDonald for nine o'clock, when the whole situation will be canvassed, and steps will be taken to assist the Provincial Police, who are now more than ever aroused to the dangerous character of the hunt. The events of the early morning have only served to renew the tragedy in the wake of Rogers' escape on Wednesday, May 16, and the question comes from more than one pair of lips, "Who will be next?"

While still reticent regarding the nature of clues on which they based their belief that Rogers was being harbored in the vicinity of North Bay, the police admit that his spectacular re-appearance and the consequent tragedy has been their first actual knowledge of Rogers' movements.

It was about midnight when Sergeant Urquhart, on orders from Inspector W. Moore, accompanied by Provincial Constables Crow, Delves and Simpson, relieved the guard that had been stationed in the vicinity of the Rogers' home. Taking their position among the rocks in front of the house and among the neighboring yards, the police waited patiently for the night to wane. The whole scene was flooded with moonlight.

The monotony of the ceaseless vigilance was beginning to tell on the men. They smoked and chatted. It was two or some minutes after when a figure was seen boldly approaching the house and entering from the rear door. Was it Rogers? In the uncertain light of the moon

LANG TOWNHALL FOR CLASSROOM

Trustees Will Avoid Cost of New Building—Consolidated School Idea Was Abandoned—New Room Ready for Fall.

The trustees of the Public school at Lang in Otonabee township, decided last night to utilize the town hall as an additional room, to prepare it for the fall term and to engage a teacher to take charge of the senior classes that will be allocated to it.

This action reported to the Examiner by one of the trustees, puts a period to the deliberations which have been in progress for some time, including proposals for a consolidated school which were discussed at a previous public meeting and rejected. Last night's decision avoids the cost of an addition to the present school building. The town hall will be fitted with desks and other essential fixtures of a class room, and will be ready for occupancy when the September term opens. The work for the higher grades will be carried on in the town hall, but will not be carried beyond the Entrance work.

WORKERS WANTED OUTSIDE POINTS

But No Desire Shown to Leave City—Contractors Busy.

There has been no noticeable change in the employment situation in the city during the past week.

Temporary labouring jobs form the bulk of the city orders, and out-of-the-city requests go for the most part unfilled. The wages offered for all classes of labour out of Peterborough range from 27½ cents an hour up.

The superintendent of the Government Employment Bureau here considers the lower rate mentioned better than the 30 cents offered for labouring in the city, taking into account the lo wrate of board, which in some places is $5.25 a week.

Some building contractors are busy on summer cottage work, and are compelled to refuse new orders when they cannot persuade the client to wait.

WHY BUILDING IS POSTPONED IN PETERBORO

Waiting for 1914 Level of Costs While Other Cities Are Going Ahead, Realizing New Conditions.

CARS NOT HOMES

"Opinion in Peterborough doesn't seem to realize that a new basis of normalcy in prices and costs has been in practical effect during the last four years," said a citizen who is connected with the building trades, in a conversation with the Examiner in which he was commenting upon the stagnation of the outdoor industries here this spring.

"If anyone talks about building, invariably his mind goes back to prices that prevailed before the war, but in most other progressive cities and towns in the country the people have accepted what may be called the new normalcy and since they are reconciled to it they are going ahead on that basis. Consider our building permits. I can name cities not very much bigger than Peterborough where the building permits for one month are bigger than ours for a whole year. Supposing we had $80,000 in building permits this season, that would be equivalent to $32,000 before the war. And at the present time the only works of any size are what might be called patch jobs, the rebuilding of the Salvation Army Temple and the alterations to St. Andrew's church.

While the opinions of those who propose building are in that state we can't expect to go ahead very fast. In 1908 or 1909 we had 1,500 new homes erected. If their cost averaged $1,500 the total value of them would amount to almost a million dollars, which at to-day's basis of prices would amount to two and a quarter millions.

Higher This Year.

Peterborough people have been kidding themselves for four years that conditions were working back or would move that way toward the 1914 levels of costs. For a comparison of percentages we may take 100 as the 1914 average, and on that basis the 1920 average was 275. In 1922 this proportion had decreased to 220, but this year it has gone up fifteen per cent to 253. In other words the cost of building to-day is 153 per cent. higher than in 1914 and fifteen per cent. above last year's costs. And while the people here have been talking about waiting for a return to the old pre-war costs, other cities have recognized the fact that a new level of prices has become fixed and established and their progress has been laid on that basis.

I don't want to discourage building; in fact I don't think you could discourage it any more than it is; but we're not going to get anywhere, we're going to fall behind in the race, if we are going to wait until costs get back to those before the war.

I have figured on jobs both last year and this year, have done everything I could to reduce the price as much as possible, but those who had the work to let cancelled the whole thing because they were thinking of 1914 conditions and were going to wait until they were restored. The proportions of increases for the last four years ought to convince anybody that deflation in the building trades has reached the limit, and by the trades I mean the cost of labor and materials."

Construction Deferred.

This citizen said that in so far as he could learn some of the bigger jobs that were mooted before spring broke have been indefinitely deferred. People were spending more for pleasure than they did ten years ago. The tendency to-day even for the average man was to scratch and save for a motor car, whereas ten years ago his chief desire would have been to own property of permanent value, a house and lot for example. And the man who could have afforded to take on the responsibility of a $1,500 house, but although his wages have increased he baulks at the same house to-day because it costs two or three times more than in 1914.

HUMOR COMING BACK.

Sense of humor is coming back strongly, indicating that the world is emerging from its war trance.

In England a labor leader, discussing the Ruhr siutation, says: "France is using a whale as bait to catch a small fish." He means the game will not be worth the candle, financially.

Strongheart, the Indian chief who toured as a Liberty Loan speaker, visits New York, goes to the top of the Woolworth building. He says the view from there was excellent until he noticed the Statue of Liberty, which reminded him that "liberty is offered to almost all persons except those who originally owned the country." He refers to thousands of Indians he claims are not allowed to vote.

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1923 — PRICE THREE CENTS

SERGT. JOHN URQUHART OF THE PROVINCIAL POLICE WAS SHOT DEAD TODAY

CIGARETTE TAX WAS ABOLISHED BY THE HOUSE

First Resolution Passed Yesterday—Tax Resulted in Loss of Revenue and Start of Bootlegging.

SOME DEBATE.

OTTAWA, May 30. —(Canadian Press.)— Discussion of the Budget resolution was commenced in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon just before the dinner recess. The first resolution to be moved was that to abolish the increased taxes on cigarettes and the tax on beet root sugar.

The motion was greeted by the Conservative leader with a remark that this was "another case of repentance," a reference to the discussion upon the Hoppe leases.

Sir Henry Drayton followed up Mr. Meighen's remarks by reminding the House that he had predicted last year that this increase in taxation would result in loss to the revenue. He estimated the loss on cigarettes alone at $1,250,000.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance said that if the Opposition agreed with the resolution he was not disposed to quarrel over the amount of the loss. Still that was not as great as Sir Henry had estimated. The revenue for the fiscal year 1922 under this section was $14,710,860, while for the fiscal year 1923 it was $14,079,062.

Mr. Meighen said that Mr. Fielding was including in his revenue statement an increase in the receipts of raw tobacco. Leaving that out the loss on cigarettes alone was a little greater than Sir Henry Drayton stated. Moreover the Minister had forgotten the damage to Canadian business through the growth of smuggling. Bootlegging in cigarettes between United States and Canada had now been commenced and it would be harder to stop than bootlegging in liquor.

Mr. Fielding replied that there always had been a certain amount of bootlegging. He doubted whether the dreadful conditions sketched by Mr. Meighen really existed.

Mr. Meighen returned that half of the cigarettes now being used in the larger Canadian cities were of American manufacture.

"I cannot help remarking," interposed Robert Forke, Progressive leader, "that when the Right Honorable gentleman has made a thrust, he cannot help turning it round and round."

"The thrust I made last year," responded Mr. Meighen, "did not have any effect for a year. I am now trying to get a little more prompt action."

The resolutions to amend the inland revenue act then carried and the House rose for dinner.

POINCARE SUSTAINED BY HUGE MAJORITY IN THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

Voted Money to Carry on Occupational Programme in the Ruhr District — Refused to Change Plan.

WAS CRITICIZED.

PARIS, May 30. — (Canadian Press).—Any doubts as to the solidity of Premier Poincare's position were set at rest a rest last night when the Chamber of Deputies by a majority of 438, expressed confidence in him and his government, and voted him the money needed to carry out his policy in the Ruhr.

Only the Extreme Left voted against the Premier. His other critics did not even resort to the common practice of abstaining, but added their vote to the Premier's triumphant majority.

The Chamber voted an appropriation of 35,500,000 francs for the occupation of the Ruhr expenses for the month of June.

The debate on the subject took on the appearance of an assault on the Poincare Cabinet. M. Tardieu severely criticized the Government's methods and demanded of Mr. Poincare whether he would change them at the same time declaring to the Chamber that he would vote for the appropriations.

The Premier showed plainly that he interpreted this method of debate as an attempt to shake the Cabinet without immediately overthrowing it. He called on M. Tardieu and his friends to vote as they talked and said he would not admit that orators could from the Speaker's stand, shake the confidence of the country in the Cabinet, then come down and reassure him with their votes.

This summons to the Opposition to come out into the open put the Chamber into a dilemma; many of the Deputies showed by their applause that they approved of M. Tardieu's words, yet were not ready to attempt the overthrow of the Poincare Ministry.

The Premier declared flatly that he could change nothing in the methods decided upon in common with the Allies, that he would not call out another soldier to reinforce the occupying troops as demanded by M. Tardieu, asserting that any increase there now would add to the expenses without adding to efficiency. He charged the Chamber to decide between the Governmnt and the Government's critics.

Some of the Deputies interrupted with assurance of support; others declared it was impossible to make an issue out of a vote on appropriations.

M. Poincare insisted that a way could easily be found, and he expected to count among the Opposition those who had criticized the Government and those who applauded the criticisms.

While speakers discussing the provisional appropriations were making severe attacks on the Senate for holding up the budget and blocking legislation passed by the Chamber, the Communists staged a demonstration in honor of Andre Marty, the Paris Municipal Councillor, a leading Communist, who has just been elected to a minor office for the thirty sixth time, although he is in prison in connection with the mutiny of French sailors in the Black Sea during the war.

The Communists brought in a banner several yards long and eighteen inches wide with the word 'Amnesty' printed in big letters on it, and tried to spread it out in front of the Chamber. The members of the Right and Center rose indignantly and the ushers rushed up and seized the banner Spirited verbal exchanges followed the altercation continuing some twenty minutes.

Andre Tardieu, who took part in the discussion after this interruption, said he would vote for the Ruhr appropriation, although he criticized the manner in which the appropriation had been conducted. He recalled that Premier Poincare had said in announcing the occupation that he counted on the good willl of the German Government to make no resistance. M. Tardieu was proceeding to ridicule any such idea when Premier Poincare exclaimed:

"The logical conclusion is that if you do not like my policy you should not vote for the appropriation, but overthrow the Cabinet."

There was applause from a considerable portion of the Chamber for M. Tardieu, who continued his criticisms.

The occupation of the Ruhr had been a failure, he declared. France had received 1,500,000 tons less coal since the occupation began than during the corresponding period last year, and French coal purchasers in England had increased proportionately.

It could be seen that the pledges seized were not only unproductive but the French iron industry was suffering from lack of coke.

Mr. Tardieu said a plan or a small annuity from Germany was preferable to this method, or to the international loan which he though was impossible of fulfillment. In conclusion he asked Premier Poincare if he would make a declaration for the benefit of Germany and the Allies to the effect that a new regime would be instituted in the Ruhr.

Several deputies cried: "What regime?"

Mr. Tardieu replied: "The regime of martial law."

Premier Poincare reminded M. Tardieu that martial law had been proclaimed in the Ruhr long ago and announced that he intended to put forward a question of confidence. The Chamber would be called upon to decide whether it approved the Government's action in the Ruhr or M. Tardieu's criticism. He remarked that the latter had been published in substance for the last four months in France and America, and had been copiously reproduced in Germany.

WOMEN BOSS POLICE FORCE

Thebes, Ill., Acquired a Petticoat Council and Chose a Mere Man as Town Marshal.

THEBES, Ill., May 30—The police force of this little town is a happy man just now. Oscar Garrett is his name. Didn't a "bunch of women," as he puts it, choose him? Yep! And won't things hum during the present petticoat regime? You said it, brother!

Thebes recently underwent a political eruption. In the last election the Citizens' ticket, composed of women with one exception, was pitted against the People's ticket, composed of men. The women won, and from mayor down, went into office.

Mrs. Nora H. Gammon, mayor, called a meeting and the important subject of a police force arose. Three boldover men trustees still were in office. One of them quit cold, saying he wouldn't have anything to do with petticoat government. Another failed to show up, and so with the women sticking together, Garret was chosen 3 to 1, as town marshal.

Proud of Honor

"I'm proud to be chosen by women," he spake gracefully, "and I'm glad to be bossed by them. I doubt if there is another bunch of women in the country that have the ability these women here in Thebes have. Of course, there is quite a taskk ahead of us in cleaning up the town, But I am sure that they will establish a precedent for the rest of the country."

One cherished theory that women placed in political control would lose their sense of humour has already been blasted higher than Pike's Peak.

With nary a chuckle they filled the Fire Department Committee with men. Now this in itself doesn't show a sense of the ridiculous until it is known that the Thebes Fire Department simply "tin't." It's just a case of everybody grabbing a bucket and throwing all the water he can.

Oscar's main concern, he has been impressed by his feminine bosses, is in cleaning the town, morally and physically.

Just Like Shelby

"I took this job with a view of cleaning out the monshine element here," he says. And when he gets through, he ads, Thebes is going to be as dry as the grapefruit you buy in an arm-chair lunch room.

Like the women in control, the marshol rejoices at the result of the election if only because of its publicity value to the town. It works just like a prize fight, it was explained. Look at Shelby, Montana, where the Dempsey-Gibbons championship match is to be held. Who ever heard of Shelby before- And who ever heard of Thebes before now?

BISHOP PLEADS FOR RETURN OF A STABLE GOVT.

Bishop Bidwell Deplores Spirit of Unrest Which Prevails in All Parts of the World.

CHURCH UNION.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 30. Canadian Press. — In his annual charge at the opening of the 57th session of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario in St. George's Cathedral, last evening, His Lordship Bishop Bidwell deplored the conditions prevailing in a great part of the world to-day, pointing out that theer had been a spirit of lawlessness spreading over the world, and that Canada was not entirely free of this wave.

Bishop Bidwell referred to the coming Provincial Elections. "The Church," he said, "which ministers to men of all parties and persuasions is bound to keep clear of all partisanship. But it is its duty to pray for the return of a strong and stable government which may possess the confidence of the people, and work for their welfare."

Dealing with the religious side of the country, His Lordship said that there was far too much self-acquired liberty, too much refraining from church attendance, an action which was sure to end in disaster unless it was checked.

Touching on the question of Christion Reunion, His Lordship said that the fact that three other great Christian Communions were still engaged in bringing about a union between themselves had made it incumbent upon Anglicans to do nothing which might seem to interfere with their negotiations. "The problem," he continued, "is clearly one of great difficulty, and so far as one can judge, a solution is not yet in sight. Still we must not conclude that such a consummation is impossible nor cease to pray for it.

When God wills it, then it will certainly come. Meanwhile cooperaton wherever possible with other Christion bodies in work for the general welfare of the community is the best course to be pursued."

At the opening of the Synod yestrday morning the Archdeacon of Ontario, expressed the congratulations of the clergy of the Diocese to the Bishop on attaining the tenth anniversary of his consecration. R. J. Carson, on behalf of the laity, presented His Lordship with a handsome bouquet of roses.

The election of Synod officers resulted as follows:

Hon. Clerical Secretary, Rev. A. L. McTear, Trenton; Hon. Lay Secretary, Francis King, K.C., Kingston; Hon. Treasurer, R. J. Carson, Kingston; Clerical Secretary of the Synod, Canon J. W. Jones. Kingston.

TEMPERANCE ACT THE MAIN ISSUE

Such is Indicated by Attention Given Measure at Campaign Meetings

TORONTO, May 30.—(Canadian Press.)—With the exception of the usual general charges by the "outs" of government mismanagement, and arguments of the "ins" in defence thereto, the paramount issue in the present campaign for the Ontario Provincial elections on June 25, is in regard to the administration of the Ontario Temperance Act. This is indicated by the attention paid to this subject by political speakers at party nomination meetings, as well as by leaders in their various speaking tours. There is no suggestion, officially, by any of the responsible leaders of parties that there should be any modification in prohibition applied to the province by the Ontario Temperance Act. All parties advocate rigid enforcement of the measure unless and until people of the province by plebiscite or referendum ask for something different.

In regard to enforcement and administration of the Temperance Act, however, Conservatives and Liberals are united in their attack on the U.F.O.-Labor government. All parties seem anxious to impress voters with the sincerity of their intention in the matter of liquor law enforcement.

Premier Drury and Hon. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, are both campaigning in Eastern Ontario, the latter in his own constituency of Grenville, where he last night strongly criticized the government's policies of public expenditures.

NOT GUILTY OF THEFT.

EDMONTON, Alta., May 30. — (Canadian Press.)— After ten minutes' deliberation a jury in the Criminal Court here late yesterday afternoon found George S. Armstrong, former Postmaster of Edmonton, not guilty of the theft of registered packages containing $30,000 in Merchants' Bank bills from the post office on August 10, 1919.

BANDITS THROW CAPTIVES FROM MOUNTAIN CLIFFS

Eighty Chinese Prisoners Massacred on Account of the Shortage of Food and Water.

FAMILIES NOTIFIED.

SANGHAI, May 30.— (Canadian Press.)— Shortage of food in the bandit stronghold at Paotsuku before the kitnapping of a number of foreigners from the Shanghai-Peking Express, May 6, caused the brigands to throw eighty Chinese prisoners to death from one of the mountain cliffs, according to information received yesterday from Father William Lenfers, German priest, who has made several trips to the outlaw headquarters.

The information from Father Lenfers, which came in a letter from the prelate at Lincheng, declared that the prisoners' feet were found and each was labelled with his name and identification before being hurled to death. One of the prisoners, a woman, was thrown over with her child in her arms.

Later the bandits notified the families of the massacred captives, and relatives were permitted to remove the bodies, identification being facilitated by the tags.

"One Christian Chinese, who already had paid $1,000 for the release of his son, yesterday took delivery of the corpse," Father Lenfers wrote, adding, "many pallbearers still are climbing the mountain."

"The only way to maintain peace here is to enlist the bandits and keep them in this territory for years as a police force, since they alone are familiar with the inaccessible mountain fastnesses and trails. If they are withdrawn lesser bandits will band together and cause a similar situation in the future."

Father Lenfers denies that troops were in league with the outlaws. He declares that the soldiers have been besieging the brigands for months near Paotzuku, resulting in an acute shortage of water and food at Paotzuku. The raid on the train at Suchow the priest says, was in the nature of a diversion to force the troops to withdraw from Paotzuku.

KIWANIS TO CEASE SINGING WET SONGS.

Keep Clear of Making Light of Prohibition Laws at Gatherings.

ATLANTA, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—Kiwanis in the United States and Canada will try to stop the singing of songs making light of the prohibition laws and the eighteenth amendment. This measure was urged upon all Kiwanis clubs at the international convention yesterday as an inevitable part of the Kiwanis programme, which is to uphold the laws of the land.

Kiwanians should forbid the singing of "wet" songs at their meetings or songs of questionable character, said Charles Gage, chairman of the Music Committee.

Lord Robert Cecil As a Peacemaker.

LONDON, May 30.—(Special). — The House of Commons celebrated a "night out," and early this morning members of the British Legislature were snoozing in their chairs as the good-natured debate droned on. An all-night session was held so that the flood of talk on the Indemnity Bill, pertaining to Irish deportations, might spend its fury. At dawn the members were tired and wane. Some slumbered peacefully in their places. Others nervously paced the corridors, attempting to chase away drowsiness with walking. Once during a division the Laborites "pepped" things up a little by singing "Glory Hallelujah" and "We'll Hang Bob Cecil to a Sour Apple Tree." The latter song referred to Lord Robert Cecil, who recently completed a tour of the United States on behalf of the League of Nations. The session was not adjourned until 6.10 a.m.

Selling Ford Cars on $5 Week Deposit Plan.

NEW YORK, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—"The world is on wheels and will never get off," said Henry Ford yesterday, in connection with the statement that his company is porducing more cars now than it ever did before, and that the company was making a profit of from eight to ten million dollars a month. The $5 a week deposit plan, inaugurated for the purpose of stimulating sale, among people who could not afford to buy cars outright he said, was tremendous success, Ford is now producing an average of 6,700 cars daily.

LEO ROGERS RETURNED AND SHOT AN OFFICER TO DEATH IN A FIGHT

Desperado Returned to His Home to Eat—Sergeant John Urquhart is the Latest Victim of the Bandit's Gun — Police Hot on His Trail.

NORTH BAY EXCITED

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 30. — Sergeant of Provincial Police John Urquhart was shot and killed at two o'clock this morning when he and two constables closed in on Leo Rogers' home in North Bay, in an endeavor to discover if a man who had entered the house was Leo Rogers. As Sergeant Urquhart was running towards the front door a bullet crashed through the door panel and he collapsed.

Sergeant Urquhart was among the first of the Provincial men to be called on the man hunt. His wife is living at Englehart, where he had been stationed.

A man was seen to enter the back door of the Rogers house, and Urquhart, with two other police officers, surrounded the place and were about to make an entry. Urquhart made a rush for the front door when a shot rang out; the bullet crashed through the panel of the door, killing the officer.

Rogers made his getaway following a furious gun battle, and up till ten this morning was still at large.

For the past seven days all trace of Rogers has been lost, although from time to time the Provincial Police have had the Rogers home under surveillance. Early this morning a man was seen to enter the back door of Rogers' home — the desperado had come home to eat. The police then surrounded the house, and when Urquhart attempted to enter the front door, he met his death, while Rogers made his escape out the rear door.

The Provincial Police have been satisfied, from the outset, that Rogers was being harbored by some one, and were pretty sure he was in communication with his home. All sorts of rumors and yarns as to his appearance in other place were received, but the police held to the theory he was not far from North Bay. His sudden appearance and the killing of Urquhart has created tremendous excitement in North Bay.

Speaking to the Examiner early today Commissioner of Police Williams confirmed the report that Sergeant Urquhart had been killed. "I received a telephone smesage at six this morning," stated the Commissioner. "Rogers came back home, and when the police rushed the house to make an entry, Urquhart was killed."

General Williams stated Deputy Commissioner of Police Alf. Cuddy, head of the Criminal Investigation Branch, will go to North Bay tonight to take charge of the man hunt.

"It shows some one has been harboring and looking after Rogers," stated the Commissioner. "No stone will be left unturned to get Rogers."

TORONTO, May 30. — Sergeant Urquhart, with Constables Crowe, Simpson and Delves, entered Rogers' house about 3 o'clock, daylight saving time. With Urquhart leading, they proceeded upstairs. Just as the Sergeant reached the top the figure of Leo Rogers loomed up on the landing in the light of the police searchlights. At the same instant Rogers opened fire and Urquhart fell back dead, shot through the chest.

The other police were met by a rain of bullets, Rogers apparently firing from automatics in both hands. They were forced to take cover. Reinforcements were secured and the house again surrounded, but despite this fact the desperado got out within the next hour and escaped to the woods.

About 4 a.m. Bert Osborne, guard at the Temiskaming and Ontario railway crossing, saw Rogers approaching, and challenged him. The bandit answered with a string of oaths and a fire from his revolver. Osborne replied with his rifle, but in the darkness Rogers disappeared into the bush.

This morning the Board of Trade and Town Council held emergency meetings and arranged for special police to assist the regulars in rounding up the man who has already killed two policemen and seriously wounded another. Rogers is surrounded in the bush, and it is thought that he cannot possibly get away, despite his desperation and evident intention to hold his liberty at all costs.

HELD UP A CLERK AT POINT OF GUN

Two Men Get Away With $225 From Toronto Drug Store.

TORONTO, May 30.—(Canadian Press). — Two men held up Harold Reid clerk in a drug store in Danforth avenue, at the point of revolver last night, and escaped in car with $225.

The two men entered the store shortly after 11 o'clock and asked for 25 cents worth of gum.

As Reid opened the till to make change one of the men drew a revolver and covered him while his confederate rifled the till. Both escaped in motor car.

THE RECALL SYSTEM.

There is a somewhat widespread opinion that the recall system is being generally used by the United Farmers' organization in connection with the present campaign.

That is not exactly the case.

It is true that the U. F. O. executive has drawn up forms of recall which will be forwarded to the U. F. O. directors, together with information regarding the operation of the initiative, referendum and recall.

But the question of whether or not the recall is to be issued is being left to the option of the local organizations.

If the Farmers' party in any particular riding decides that it desires to keep a rope on its standard-bearer the candidate signs his resignation in advance, leaving it with the director of the organization in the riding to be forwarded in case it is regarded as advisable for such action.

Whether or not the system is being adopted in many of the ridings, the Examiner is not in a position to state.

It is to be hoped that its use is not general, for the recall method makes the candidate less of a representative than he is a puppet controlled by the organization at home, and in a position where his own judgment is not to be trusted.

The recall is an American institution that might better be left to function on its native heath rather than imported into Ontario to interfere with the British ideas of representative government.

THE USE OF CANOES.

The Examiner yesterday referred to the drowning of a Toronto youth as the result of the capsizing of a canoe and used the incident as a warning to those unfamiliar with the characteristics of such craft.

At the inquest in Toronto Crown Attorney Murphy asked the jury if they did not think that some regulation should be made fixing the age at which boys might hire canoes.

It is difficult to see how such a plan could be adopted.

As a matter of fact, there are plenty of boys in their early 'teens who are much more to be trusted with a canoe than would be many of their elders.

They have had the opportunity of learning the art of paddling early and they know that they have to be careful.

It would be manifestly unfair to make it illegal for such boys to secure canoes, and at the same time allow other people who do not know the difference between a thwart and the gunwale of a canoe to rent one whenever the whim seized them.

The Examiner, however, believes that those who have such craft for hire should consider it their duty to assure themselves that the people desiring to rent canoes are in some measure at least capable of handling them.

Some boat liverymen have always done so—in fact, have refused to rent their boats to people who were plainly ignorant of how they should be operated.

NOT AN ISSUE.

Now that all three leaders in Ontario have expressed themselves upon the prohibition question and have declared that Mr. Ferguson's words are typical of all three, "Prohibition must prevail and be observed until the people by their votes pronounce against it," the Ontario Temperance Act as an issue should fade from the scene.

The Act is on the statute books, and unless the people themselves say different it will remain on the statute books.

That being so, cannot Ontario settle down to decide the question of by whom she wishes to be governed for the next four years without attempts being made to detract her attention from the important business at hand to something that does not logically enter into the campaign at all?

The balloting on June 25th, will determine the composition of Ontario's Government, and the chief concern of the electors of the Province should be to see to it that the strongest possible administration is selected, forgetting matters that cannot possibly be considered an issue.

There are men in all parties who are not in accord with the Ontario Temperance Act, but that should not cause surprise, for it must be remembered that a large percentage of the electorate share their views.

The main point is that the three leaders have taken the same position that the Act must remain in force—and be enforced—until the electors of the Province want the measure repealed.

It will be up to the people eventually, as it was up to the people before.

WHY NOT BEGIN ON TIME?

Not long ago the Male Voice Choir of Peterborough held a concert in the Grand Opera House, and an outstanding feature, in addition to the excellency of the programme, was that it started promptly at the advertised time.

The matter is mentioned here because of the novelty of the event.

How many Peterborough concerts, public meetings and entertainments get under way at the announced hour?

Newspaper men are perhaps in a better position than the public to answer that question, and their reply would be that not one public gathering in fifteen begins on time.

In this connection a contemporary declares that out of a group of 216 Canadian concerts in the past three years, of which a certain concert-goer has kept a record, there were not quite twenty that commenced promptly.

Evidently Peterborough's failing is shared by other centres, for it is recorded that in one American city only four concerts out of a group of 151 were started as advertised.

Where does the fault lie—with the promoters of concerts or with the people who attend?

In other words, do people go late to such events because they know they will be late in starting, or are concerts started late because those in charge know that people will be late in arriving.

There does not seem to be any reason why promptness should not be insisted upon.

Church services always begin on time and the late arrivals are few; trains run to schedule and few people miss them.

But in the matter of entertainments there is a general tendency towards a late start.

THE DANGERS OF FIRECRACKERS.

In this community on the holiday a child lost its life, a store was destroyed, and several other buildings were endangered in consequence of the use of fireworks in the streets, says the Ottawa Journal.

The Chief of Police had warned the citizens against the setting off of firecrackers in the streets and the constables on duty endeavored to prevent it, but of course there could not be a policeman in every block and the bylaws and the order of the Chief were ignored in many cases.

Mostly it was children who played with fireworks. But does not the blame for this useless and dangerous practice rest with parents? Parents, if they do not encourage their children in it, at least permit them to indulge in it. As a rule parents have sufficient control over their children to enable them to prevent the use of firecrackers.

Why do parents either permit or encourage their children to play with firecrackers? There are plenty of other things the youngsters could do from which they would get far more pleasure. That they are not really fond of firecrackers is evident enough from the fact that it is only on one day in the year that they bother with them. They do it on that day largely because they conceive it to be the thing to do. Their parents encourage or allow them to think it is.

Parents ought to be able to make an end of the dangerous practice. It is too bad they don't.

RED MENACE IN U. S.?

There will be an extraordinary session of the United States Congress within three months, and a special session of the New York State Legislature within four months ,called for the purpose of warding off a revolutionary outbreak of the Reds, if the statements made to Governor Smith of New York on Wednesday at the public hearing of arguments against the repeal of the Lusk Anti-Sedition laws, are true.

This is very disquieting news, and it comes with a dramatic suddenness that is calculated to arouse much uneasiness in Canada as well as in the United States.

The Lusk Anti-Sedition laws were passed during the war and the New York State Legislature passed a bill repealing them during the recent session. Before giving his assent or exercising his veto, Governor Smith granted a public hearing at Albany on Wednesday to the advocates and opponents of the repeal bill. The Governor was disposed to favor the repeal of the anti-sedition laws as being a reversal of the traditional American ideas of freedom of thought, freedom of expression and freedom of conscience. "You cannot instill patriotism into the hearts of the people by binding them to earth and telling them they must not think," said he.

Dwight Braman, President of the Allied Patriotic Societies of New York, who urged the veto of the repeal, declared that the Reds are holding 10,000 meetings in the country every week, that they had 350 radical newspapers spreading Red propaganda, and detectives of the Federal Department of Justice were daily seizing rifles and machine guns. He said Soviet agents were busily engaged in efforts to secure their ends by means of the schools, colleges and churches.

The arguments for the repeal were presented by representatives of the American Federation of Labor, the Teachers' Union and Senator Dowling, sponsor of the bill. The strange thing about the Red revolutionary scare is that nobody else appeared to be aware of the imminence of hostile activity. There is always more or less agitation, but the extreme socialists who may be said to represent the Russian Communists have greatly dwindled in number during the past few years. Only conditions such as prevailed in Russia could bring about a Soviet revolution in the United States, and such conditions never will be found to exist. Russia in 1917 was a nation of ignorance and superstition, suffering from oppression, and when the people possessed the means to overthrow despotism they readily responded to the Communist leaders. America, and by this we mean both Canada and the United States, will never have a similar revolution because of the intelligence and enlightenment of the people.—Kingston Whig.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

So far as business and industrial concerns are concerned, it should be understood that next Monday, June 4th, will not be observed as a public holiday, meeting.

The next word in West Peterborough should come from the United Farmers, although there seems little likelihood of a Farmer candidate in this riding.

The fact that lumber is cheaper now than in 1919 does not disprove the fact that Crown timber fees collected from the lumber companies are eventually passed on to the public, who in the long run have to pay.

Canadian fire losses continue to keep up to last year's high level. The per capita loss from this source in the Dominion is the highest in the world.

Next winter's fuel supply is still being discussed in the House of Commons, and it would be just as well if the public generally would keep the matter in mind.

Public opinion will support the Government in its refusal to grant admission to Canada to Alexander Howart, deposed President of the Kansas miners, whose object in seeking to enter this country was to stir up trouble at Glace Bay.

A number of Canadians who went across the line to work are returning to Canada. "Distant fields, etc."

AUTOISTS PAY TOLL.

HARRISBURG, May 30.—(Associated Press)—Death, abetted by carelessness, is gathering a large harvest this year at the railroad crossings in the state of Pennsylvania. During January, February and March there were 238 grade accidents compared with 112 in the first quarter of 1922. The deaths numbered 33 as against five, and the injured 143 as against 73. Of these total's, automobiles figured in 202 accidents, with death to 21 and injuries to 110 occupants.

One hundred and twenty-seven automobiles ran into and through lowered gates, but were stopped in time to prevent serious injury to occupants.

DEATH FOR CANNIBALS.

PARIS, May 30.—Cannibalism in western and central Africa is punishable by death under a decree just promulgated by the French government. Cases formerly were dealt with according to local native customs. Sentences frequently were mild.

SEARCHING FOR HOARD.

REGINA, Sask., May 30.—(Canadian Press)—Ten years ago a farmer, Norman Curtis, arrived from Iowa, and settled with his family on a farm near Langbank, Sask. He brought $5,000 cash with him, paid $1,500 down on his farm, and being a non-believer in banks, buried the remaining $3,500 in a field. He hid it while no one was looking, and told no one, not even members of the family, where it was concealed. During the winter of 1913 he was frozen to death and with him died the secret of the hiding place of the money.

For the past decade members of his family have organized many futile searches for the hidden treasure. Every conceivable place has been dug up, stones moved and hunches followed, but still Curtis' hoard remains safe from everyone, bank robbers included.

There was a good attendance at the Methodist Sunday School, and also at evening service. Rev. F. G. Weir preached an interesting sermon.

There was no Bible Class last Thursday, and there will be none this week on account of the Sunday School convention.

River High.

The river has risen since the recent rains, and one man's garden is partially flooded. The water is as high as in early spring, and the falls at Warminster are a beautiful sight. Blocks of stone standing well out of the water two weeks ago, are now covered with a foaming torrent. These falls and their not yet fully explored cave are one of the wonders of mother nature, and people often travel farther to visit spots much less marvellous.

JAPAN HOTELS ARE FILLED WITH FOREIGNERS

By CLARENCE DUBOSE.

TOKYO.—(By Mail to United Press).—The cherry blossoms that bloom in Japan in the spring—tra-la-la!—are very pretty, provided you don't have to sleep in the park.

Tokyo hotels have been turning 'em away this season. Literally hundreds of foreign visitors, after travelling half way around the world to be in Japan at cherry blossom time, found themselves unable to get a hotel room for love or money. They had to sleep on their ship or hike to a "hick hotel," in some interior village.

So here's a tip to tourists that's worth its weight in gold.

If you're coming to Japan leave nothing to chance. Wire for hotel reservations and be sure you get a reply.

A party of Americans who had all the drag in the world breezed into Tokyo a few days ago. They had enough money to buy the biggest hotel in town if they wanted to. They had enough political influence back home, if they cared to use it, to get the State Department on the job. They had the Japanese Foreign Office and half the men in Tokyo of real influence, both foreigners and Japanese, trying to get them rooms at the Imperial Hotel. But they were out of luck.

Tourist travel to Japan has increased very greatly during the last six months. Tourist business is booming and it bids fair to continue to do so.

CHECK NEGRO MOVEMENT.

OXFORD, O., May 30.—(Associated Press)—The providing of means for the education of the negroes is one way to keep them in the southern states and check the alarming movement of the blacks northward, is the opinion of Dr. H. C. Minnich, head of the State College, Miami University in a statement made here upon his return from a tour of the negro educational institutions of the south. According to Dean Minnich, one-third of the negro population of the state of Georgia has migrated to northern states.

Dean Minnich said that unless the negroes are educated in the south they will continue to move northward. His tour, he said, showed conclusively that the attitude of southern whites has changed from that of hostility to friendship in the matter of education of the negroes. It also showed that the standard of these negro educational institutions is steadily rising, and that the number of students matriculated in these various institutions is growing by leaps and bounds.

HOME RULE IN INDIA HAS MET SERIOUS CHECKS

Still the Movement is Progressing — New Act Designed to Train Hindus to Govern Themselves.

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, May 30.—In India at the present time the British government is undertaking one of the greatest jobs in history—that of teaching western governmental notions to 320,000,000 orientals, belonging to numerous races, worshiping God in diverse ways and speaking 220 languages.

Imagine then the job in India where for centuries some 50 million members of warlike races, converted to the Moslem faith, have lorded it over hundreds of millions of gentler races practicing Hindu cults.

The Indian Hostel, run here by the Indian Y. M. C. A. for the benefit of the hundreds of Hindu students at London colleges, will give you a tiny perception of the Indian problem. In this hostel the men have rooms and board, study rooms, lecture rooms and recreation rooms.

The other afternoon I took tea there with a highly educated Hindu Christian. As I glanced around the big room I saw many racial types and many hues of skin. But I noticed, too, that the little groups which sat at the various tables were always of the same type and the same color of skin.

Caste Still Rules.

In other words, race stuck to race, caste to caste, religion to religion.

Furthermore, if by chance a member of one group wanted to talk to the member of another, the language used was English. That is the only way in which they can address each other!

But that is not all. Perhaps 200 million Indians belong to the ryot class—ignorant peasant farmers. They can't read or write. The rulers who are at the top in India scarcely interest them.

In one province, it is said, 93 per cent. of the people live and die in the place where they were born. It was not these ryots who demanded home rule for India. It was the Indians who had been educated in foreign schools, the intelligentsia, who demanded India for the Indians.

Then Mahatma Gandhi took up the work among the Hindus, and the Ali brothers among the Mohammedans. The unrest which started at the top finally permeated to the bottom.

Britain responded through E. S. Montague, then secretary of state for India, and Lord Chelmsford, then viceroy of India, by a new parliamentary act regulating India. It is in principle the famous "Dyarchy" whereby the Indians are given gradual control of their own affairs.

The bill is designed to train the Indians gradually to rule themselves. Under this, the government of India as a whole is stil conducted by the viceroy, subject to the secretary of state for India and the British Parliament.

In India, the viceroy has to assist him in an Indian Legislature, composed of two chambers. The council of state consists of 34 elected members and 25 nominated by the government. The legislative assembly consists of 104 elected members and 39 nominated by the government.

The governor has power to veto bills. Also, if the chambers vote down a tax, he has power to place it on the books nevertheless, if he deems it necessary for India.

Home Rule Seen.

But in the eight great provinces of India a much larger measure of real home rule has been granted. In these provinces, the supreme government, centreing in the viceroy, retains power over such subjects as defense, political relations, railways and tariffs. But the provincial governments are given power over public health, education, local self government, public works, water supply, famine relief, agriculture and local taxation.

THOS. H. ROBINSON VANCOUVER, PASSES

A Former Peterborough Man Dies in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Daily Province, of Vancouver, in its issue of May 22nd, prints reference to the death in that city, of Thomas Hall Robinson, who has been a resident of the city for the last eighteen years. His death takes away another Peterboro man of the old regime, and one who may be remembered by many now along in years who knew him when a resident.

He, as the expression goes, served his time as a druggist with the old firm of Ormond & Walsh, (Dr. Chas Ormond and William Walsh, both deceased. And was for two terms engaged in business on his own account at Orillia and at Montreal, Quebec. While in the latter city he came to the attention of the proprietors of the Georgia Pharmacy, the most important of the drug firms of the city, (Vancouver) who secured his services as an expert chemist and dispensor, and placed him in charge, until he passed away.

He came to be well and favorably known and esteemed in a large circle of friends, being elected as President of the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Council, the governing body for the profession in that Province. In all his service in the drug profession included over fifty years of active work.

He was a cousin of Mr. T. W. Robinson, of Weller street, and came of the Hill family so well known as the pioneers of the township of Smith. Born in Peterboro, his earlier years were passed in the town until other opportunities called him to other fields of work. His wife died many years ago, but two daugthers, Miss Mildred Robinson and Mrs. Daisy Johnston, now residents of Los Angeles survive him. In spite of his age Mr. Robinson was a very active man, and spent Sunday, (May 20), in a neighboring suburb, walking with friends. On his return to his home he was stricken with acute indigestion and died on Monday folowing.

When a young man Mr. Robinson joined the Masonic order and was a Past Master Mason. His funeral, on Saturday following, was conducted under the auspices of Cascade Lodge of the city Masonic Order.

Following along in the footsteps of his forbears, Mr. Robinson was a Methodist, and as a boy and young man associated with George Street Church and as an esteemed member and assistant in the Sunday School of the church. When he lived at other places he associated himself in a similar capacity with the inteerst of the local Methodist churches, and was ever a welcome adherent.

The Post of Thorold Ceases Publication.

ST. CATHERINES, May 30.—After a continuous life of forty-eight years, the Thorold Semi-Weekly Post ceased publication on Friday, following an assignment made Wednesday by the firm of Thompson & Son to P. I. Price, authorized trustee, of this city. Work is still being carried on under the trustee in the Post Show Printing Company plant, and it is the intention of J. H. Thompson, the veteran editor of the Post, to reopen a job printing office in the old building. This is the second paper in Welland County to suspend publication within a month, the first being the Welland Daily News.

Born on May 24, 1875, the last issue of the Post was published May 25, 1923, just 48 years of community boosting. In his valedictory J. H. Thompson states that the paper itself has been an obligation, not an asset, for many years. Until 1919, when the expenses of running and publication were much less than they subsequently became, the job printing department was able to carry the paper.

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every-day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.

Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!

You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddle cakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

"THE GIRL IN RED" A BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Campbellford Audience Acclaims Racy Musical Comedy Staged By Local Talent — Beautiful Costumes a Feature.

BENEFIT OFFERING.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30. — There is a rich and racy comedy without stint. an interesting plot, on obvious moral, splendid singing and brilliant costumes in the musical comedy, "The Girl in Red," that opened in Cole's Opera House last night and which will be repeated tonight and Thursday for the benefit of the Northuberland Regiment. The house was filled to capacity and the hearty and generous applause with which each number was greeted was the highest expression of appreciation that could be given by an audience. The cast, including the chorus, consisted of 125 Campbellford people. Those who took part in the play proper were all well known amateurs who found in the different roles excellent opportunities for the display of individual talent.

The story opens in a handsomely furnished Campbellford residence, the whole play being given a local color and containing as many home thrusts as the average minstrel show At the head of the household is a young husband skilled in the art of prevarication and a wife unworldly enough to believe his specious inventions. There is an austere mother-in-law who rules her own husband with all the relentlessness of any heroine of the present day comic strip. The play abounds in ludicrous situations and startling climaxes. If by a stretch of imagination it can be said to contain a moral the truth taught is that the nagging wife usually drives her unfortunate spouse to lying more or less like a gentleman following a famous imperial example.

There is a hard looking character from Crow Bay and a whole bevy of relatives from Trenton swoop down upon the young couple for a friendly visit and then the trouble begins.

Miss Hazel Atkinson in the part of the trusting young wife gave a fine exhibition of vocal and dramatic talent and even the author of the play, if at all a reasonable person, could not possibly have found anything to criticize in his interpretation of the role.

Miss Marion Smith was the mother-in-law whose acid disposition found its only solace in the austerity with which she ruled her husband and all those around her.

Miss Gertrude Maynard and Miss Faye Ketcheson were the sisters of the young wife and both showed independence and temerity in braving the maternal wrath when it came to a choice of lovers.

Miss Isobel Bygott. was the dainty maid of the household who lightened the routine of her daily labor with sweet snatches of song thus affording an avenue for the display of her fine vocal talent.

Harry Anderson the young husband and A. J. Wood, the victim of the stern discipline of the former's mother-in-law furnished some of the best comedy of the evening, comedy all the more telling because they acting was most mirth provoking when they were in their most serious and desperate moods. Mr. Wood was what is generally described as "a gay old boy," and this characteristic led him to follow many ways that were dark and to perpetrate tricks that in the end proved in vain.

Percy Gould was the one lone member of a secret society, known as the Doakies a connection which furnished him with a valid weekly excuse for remaining out until all hours of the night. This fact tempted the young husband and his father-in-law to pose as members of the same society and in this they deceive each other as well as the partners of their joys and sorrows.

Carl Maguire, the gentleman from Crow Bay, is brought in to play the role of the uncouth visitor from the country who is ambitious to absorb the ways of the town and to become as a starter, a member of the society that gives use to so many complications. The solution can be imagined when he applies to the two fake members to propose him as a brother.

Robert Dunk his face colored to a stunning ebony hue, acted the part of the man servant of the establishment and rendered several ethiopian songs during the evening.

The Girl in Red

It was Theodore Bird, the successful director of the play who had the title role. a dual part which called for an exhibition of female imperson ation. In order to put up a job on the gay old Lothario, Mr. Bird, known in the beginning as Jack Reynolds, dons a striking crimson feminine attire, and proceeds to vamp the old fellow who soon, falls a victim to his wiles. Mr. Bird's acting was that of a professional with the true dramatic instinct carefully cultivated and his skill was reflected in the performance of every member of the cast he had so carefully trained.

The Children's Chorus

The opening number of the evening roused the enthusiasm of the audience right at the start. A prettier stage picture it would be hard to imagine, much less arrange, than that presented by the little people. boys and girls, of the play, all dressed in white and decorated with the National colors. Their leader was Miss Emma Meiklejohn dressed to represent Britannia. As she sang "For the Glory of the Grand Old Flag," the children on the stage were apparently asleep. Suddenly they woke up and springing to their feet each boy and girl waved a tiny Union Jack and joined heartily in the chorus with a skill and enthusiasm that fairly carried the house by storm.

The Specialties.

Between the first and second acts, Mrs. E. Bates and James Benor rendered a duet, "Cynical Owl." In this they were assisted by 13 of what the programme described as Campbellford's "most beautiful young women," and 13 of the town's handsomest young men. Whoever made the selection was certainly an expert as a judge in such a choice.

Young Bernard Blute, dressed as an old, and acting a decrepit man between the second and third acts, captured the audience with a song in keeping with his assumed character. This was followed by a duet by Mrs. Ernest Cochrane and George Lucy, assisted by 26 members of the chorus, all in striking Chinese costumes.

During the last act Mrs. William Welsh, assisted by the entire adult chorus, gave a charming rendition of "Poppyland."

During the play the following solos were rendered "Just like a Doll," by Miss Isobel Bygott; "Don't Leave Me, Mammy," by Robert Dunk;; "One Horse Town," by Carl McGuire; "Gift of Roses," by Miss Hazel Atkinson, and a duet, "For Love," by Miss Faye Ketcheson and Percy Gould.

Mrs. Frank Daly acted as accompanist on the piano and Leonard's Orchestra of five pieces also furnished music.

The handsome furniture used on the stage was kindly loaned for the occasion by A. G. Watson & Co.

The entire cast was as follows:

Donald B. MacMillan, the famous artic explorer, is making plans to speak to radio fans in the United States from the Eskimo lands in the artic region. His ship, the Bowdoin, will be equipped with a powerful transmitter for this purpose.

Far better than transmitting radio messages, however, will be the reception of concerts from large broadcasting station in this country, for the enjoyment of the artic natives and the explorer's force. MacMillan has made arrangements for this with E. F. McDonald of Chicago, millionaire radio fan, and Hiram P. Maxim, president of the American Radio Relay League.

CHARGES DRURY WITH HYPOCRISY

Ferguson Says Government's Main Achievement Was to Spend Money.

KEMPTVILLE, May 30.—(Canadian Press.)— Denunciation of the Drury administration was enunciated by G. Howard Ferguson at a mass meeting here last night. He touched at length on every phase of his administration, charging, "extravagance, incompetence, insincerity and practice of patronage and hypocrisy."

The only thing, he said, which the Drury government did well was to collect and spend money. In matters of public expenditure, Mr. Ferguson recalled that Mr. Drury had criticized the Hearst government for spending nineteen million dollars a year for governing Ontario. Last year, he said, it had cost over thirty-eight million dollars to govern Ontario.

Mr. Ferguson charged that the provincial treasurer had offered a big discount on succession duties on the late Sir John Eaton estate if part of three or four million dollars due was paid a year in advance so that the treasurer could show a surplus in the budget.

WILL REPRESENT THE SASKATCHEWAN GOVT.

REGINA, Sask., May 30.—(Canadian Press)— The Saskatchewan government will be officially represented on the cruise to the Hudson Bay organized by a private syndicate for the coming summer. Hon. A. P. McNab, minister of public works, and H. S. Carpenter, deputy minister of highways, will be the representatives.

In announcing the government's representatives, Premier Charles A. Dunning said:

"The province is being represented on this occasion for the purpose of having such observations made as may be useful in the future, but the government does not regard the trip as establishing an any definite way the value or otherwise of the route for regular traffic service, as this could not be demonstrated by a single voyage."

CAPTIVES' RELEASE EXPECTED SHORTLY

PEKING, May 30. — (United Press.) — New negotiations beginning to-day will result in the release of the Shantung captives, it is hoped. The entire situation seems optimistic. The bandits, surrounded by troops, have submitted a new offer, receding from their previous extravagant demands and merely asking readmission into the Chinese army.

Negotiations will be held at the bandits' camp between Vice-Governor Thung of the Shantung Province and bandits leaders. The bandits admit that the delays are endangering their safety and the government's military display, especially the use of airplanes, is believed to have frightened them into submission of new terms.

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

RADICALS PUSH FIGHT ON PARIS.

PARIS, May 30.—Continued failure of the French occupation of the Ruhr to bring to France the wished for reparations has caused the Radical party to become bolder in its criticisms of the government.

Both the Ere Nouvelle and the Oeuvre have recently pointed out what they consider the faults of the government's program, the one declaring in an article signed by Victor Basch, that the French had made a huge mistake in psychology by entering the Ruhr and thus bringing all parties in Germany to the support of the reactionary Cuno regime; the other maintaining that France's program is is costing her heavy sums which the country is in no condition to sustain.

In spite of these criticisms, the Radicals in both chambers and the Senate are supporting the program of the government. They reason that since the mistake of invading the Ruhr has been made, and France has committed herself to the policy of coercing Germany, loyal Frenchmen must support their government, however, reluctantly and critically, rather than permit Germany to score a victory. The Radicals are taunted with inconsistency by the press of the Bloc National. They are said to be preparing campaign material for the parliamentary elections of 1924. No doubt they are, but their stand is not inconsistent. They disapproved the invasion of the Ruhr, but they were powerless to stop it. Now that the invasion is an accomplished fact, they feel that rather than permit Germany to score a defeat over France, they must support the government. But they do not feel that they are debarred from criticizing the government for what they consider to have been a politic and financial blunder.

1,652,000 CAN SHOOT STRAIGHT IN U.S.

WASHINGTON, MAY 30 (United Press).—"How many people in the United States do you suppose can shoot straight?" F. M. Phillips, Jr., asked, with an air that implied there was something behind his question.

As Phillips is executive officer of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, it was assumed his question was asked merely to permit him to give an answer. It was.

"There are at least 1,652,000 sportsmen and sportswomen in the country who are organized in rifle and pistol clubs, or who by taking out hunting licenses, have manifested their interest in this sport," Phillips went on.

"Why don't we hear more about them, then?" he proceeded.

"Because it is an unwritten law among devotees of the target sport not to boast about their exploits," he answered. "The result has been that very few people outside the ranks of the organized shooters realize the number of persons to whom rifle matches are interesting.

Phillips said the organized rifle and pistol shooters number 1,051,000. There were 1,000,000 hunting licenses taken out last year, he said.

Phillips says he is almost swamped with inquiries about the big international rifle matches which will be held at Camp Perry, O., in September. He thinks from that that interest in shooting is increasing.

GAMES HELP TO TEACH CORRECT USE OF ENGLISH

HALIFAX, N.S. May 30 (Associated Press).—Nova Scotia, long regarded as a "well of English, pure and undefiled," today launches a "Better English Week Drive," with Miss Rosamond M. de Wolfe Archibald, a teacher at Acadia Seminary in Wolfeville, as one of the leaders.

Miss Archibald claims to have a brand new system of teaching the spoken word. She has invented a game, known as "corrections."

"One day during the war," she explains, "I realized the swift change from a raw recruit to a finished soldier that a month of military drill produced. Then I saw the amazing folly in ou methods of teaching correct speech.

"I called my pupils to their feet, to stand at attention, to salute the flag, and to recite in a few correct sentences, drill fashion. Then I sent them forth to correct errors, copying down corrections only of all mistakes dected at home, in school and in public speaking.

"The effect on their speech was magical. In a week of practice we had accomplished what a lifetime of theory has often failed to do.

"Today parents are playing the game of corrections" with their children and, incidentally, benefiting by it.

"The child links up his language with his flag. He is made to feel that it is just as treasonable to make a mistake in his speech as to dishonor that flag."

ECUMENIC COUNCIL IN THE YEAR 1925

Pope Pius Directs Vatican Officials to Start Arrangements.

ROME, May 30.—(United Press.)—It is announced that Pope Pius IX has decided to hold the Ecumenic Council in the Holy Yeare of 1925. The conference was broken in 1870 by the Franco-Prussian war and the occupation of Rome by Italian troops. The Pope has already directed the Vatican officials to start arrangements, chiefly for the selection of a meeting place, which must be unusually large to accommodate the bishops from all parts of the world. The lodging problem involves enormous difficulties, due to the housing shortage in Italy.

Quebec Grants Bonus For New Land Cleared.

MONTREAL, May 30.— (Canadian Press.)—A cost of approximately $250,000 will be borne by the Colonization Department of the province of Quebec in the course of the present year as a result of the decision of the government to grant a bonus of $4 per acre for each acre of land cleared by colonists. This was the estimate which Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries made yesterday in discussing colonization matters. Ordinarily in past years the acreage cleared has been about forty thousand acres and the minister is hopeful that the total this year will run to 80,000 acres.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANTING HOME GROUNDS

(By J. E. Carter, Guelph)

As one result of the wide-spread movements for outdoor improvement that have swept the country, awakening the latent civic pride of individuals and in many cases, of entire communities, considerable progress has been made toward making our country more beautiful.

The neglected grounds of many school houses and public playgrounds have been beautified, waste places reclaimed, vacant lots redeemed, back yards tidied and the home grounds generally made more attractive and livable

As landscape gardening is an art not widely understood or appreciated, it is not at all surprising that mistakes have been made in some of these attempts to beautify. But if these efforts have been instrumental in removing the untidy, telltale signs from heretofore neglected, slovenly place, making the premises more pleasing and orderly in appearance, they have surely not been in vain.

It is much easier to criticize than to rectify, but a few simple suggestions as to what constitutes artistic planting, may be of some assistance in correcting, or at least modifying, the poor effects of most flagrant errors. Haphazard planting and crowding, cause most of the troubles. To set out quantities of trees, shrubs, plants at random without a well defined decorative idea in mind, is bound to produce a "crazy quilt" effect that is confusing and disquieting.

As an artist first makes a study or sketch of a painting he desires to create, so the amateur landscape gardener should study carefully the possibilities of the area to be beautified, and compose a planting scheme that will be harmonious. In this working plan, aim to secure as large an unbroken a vista of velvety lawn as is possible, as this gives a restful effect of spaciousness. Effectively grouped shrubs and plants may be used to round out angles, screen off undesirable objects and to form a kind of frame along the boundaries or division walls of fences. They should never, for good effect, be dotted promiscously on the lawn proper, as such a method tends to dwarf or decrease the apparent size of the plot.

Plants graduated as to height—the talest in the background—planted along the foundation of buildings soften the harsh outlines and serve as a sort of connecting ling in the correlation of buildings and grounds. Stiff, formal lines in the border may be avoided by skillfully massing appropriate varieties, so that the groups dovetail in an irregular fashion. Trees, is used at all, on places of limited areas, are usually better in the background. Those that attain a large size are decidedly out of place in a planting scheme for small yards.

Even the dimutive city yard has its planting possibilities. If the small patch is well sodded or sown with a high grade of lawn mixture, the resulting green sward, bordered with flowering plants and graceful vines trained to drape and screen the fence of the enclosure, will form an oasis that will prove pleasing to the eye, rest to the nerves and a fitting recompense for all the effort put forth and for the faith implied.

NATIONAL BANKS READY TO FLOAT AUSTRIAN LOAN

The Preliminary Arrangements Have Been Completed Between National Banking Groups.

FORM SYNDICATES.

PARIS, May 30. — (Canadian Press), — Preliminary negotiations with national banking groups relative to the proposed $130,000,000 Austrian Government loan, with the exception of the Italian, have been completed.

Baron Franckenstein, Pierre L. Burk and F. H. Nixon, representing Austria, conferred yesterday with Thomas W. Lamont, representing J. P. Morgan and Company, regarding the arrangements for the United States share of $25,000,000.

"We have now completed our preliminary arrangements with all the national banking groups, planning to offer the new loan, with the exception of the Italian, with whom we expect to discuss the matter this week," said Baron Frankenstein last night. "We are not in a position to announce the amounts that will be offered in each financial centre as that has not in all cases been determined."

GOOD MOLARS REQUIRED

PARIS, May 30.—Minister of War Maginot has ordered that any candidate for the colonial army "must have a sufficient number of good teeth." The decree says that by sufficient and good teeth is meant six pairs of teeth directly opposite one another on the upper and lower gums, of which two pairs must be molars or pre-molars, and two pairs front or canine teeth.

Many of the men who want to enlist in Algeria and Morocco were found to have defective teeth and Minister Maginot's ruling was especially intended for North Africa.

The Senegalese battalions show splendid rows of shining ivories.

"They are the peer of any fighting units in the world, but I'll back them against the best eaters any army has ever produced," a colored colonial officer said the other day, referring to the fine presence of his troops in general and their wonderful molars and canines in particular.

Then he added with a touch of dry humor: "You see, we come from a long lineage of cannibals."

Evans Objected to Geodetic Surveys.

OTTAWA, May 30. — Canadian Press. — While the House was in supply last night, John Evans, Progressive, Saskatoon, protested mildly against a vote of $325,000 for geodetic surveys. This was one class of survey Mr. Evans did not see much use for. He had heard that the high steel towers erected on this work were useful sometimes for detecting forest fires. He hardly thought they were necessary, however.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen understood that geodetic surveys were for the purpose of establishing the points from which other surveys were to be carried on. He had hoped however to see a geat contaction in the work, and the consequent amount required.

DOMINION FUEL BOARD SUGGESTS METHODS TO MEET FUEL PROBLEMS

Every Effort Should Be Made to Utilize Canadian Coal From Mines in the East and West.

PEAT AND WOOD.

OTTAWA, May 30.— (Canadian Press.)— Methods of meeting the fuel problem are suggested in an interim report issued by the Dominion Fuel Board, yesterday afternoon. The Board was organized by order-in-council in November last, under the chairmanship of Charles Camsell, Deeputy Minister of Mines. It points out in its report that in the ten year period ending 1921, Canada's bill for imported coal exceeded the sum of $580,000,000 and emphasizes that the ideal solution of the fuel problem is dependence upon our own fuel resources.

The report urges:

Wider range of utilization of the coals of British Columbia, Alberta and the Maritime provinces.

Investigtaion into the feasibility of establishing by-product recovery coking plants in the larger centres of population like Montreal and Toronto.

That peat should be utilized to supply a portion of the fuel needs of Central Canada, and if the results accomplished last year at Alfred are not sufficient to induce private capital to engage in the production of this fuel, further encouragement should be given the industry by the governments concerned.

That our wood resources, under proper management could be utilized for fuel to a greater degree than at present.

The board is of the opinion that, except in an auxiliary capacity electric house heating is impracticable on a large scale, but electricity for industrial and transportation purposes, would set free a large amount of coal for heating. The report concludes with a word as to the need of educating the public away from anthracite.

"After passing through a period in which our supply of antharcite from the United States has been interrupted and restricted by an unusual combination of labor and transportation difficulties," said the report, "it is only natural to expect a period of several years comparatively free from such unusual disturbances. When the usual supply is forthcoming there will be a tendency to forget the relentless approach of the time when anthracite fields are nearing exhaustion, when prices will rise to prohibitive heights for the ordinary consumption and when the pressure of public opinion in the United States will prevent exportation to Canada. Easing in the anthracite supply that, of necessity, can be only temporary, will likely be the strongest force tending to prevent other fuels, including our own, gaining a foothold in the central Ontario market; and it brings with it another danger no less real in the sense of false security it engenders in the mind of the coal consumer in the acute fuel area."

DID NOT LIVE TO COLLECT.

BUENOS AIRES, May 30.—(Associated Press)—At a horse race here recently an excited man attracted attention by shouting frantically the name of the favorite horse as the group of racing animals neared the finish. His excitement was so great that when an outsider passed the favorite and won, he collapsed and expired.

On his body were found 60 tickets on the horse which did win, and no one could understand his excited support of the favorite until an old race goer explained that this reverse method of support was used by some superstititous bettors to "stop" the horse they did not want to win.

MILLBROOK CADET CORPS AT CHURCH

Rev. Tucker Delivered An Inspiring Sermon — Appropriate Music a Feature.

MILLBROOK, May 30.—The local Cadet Corps, under Instruction Officer Earl Doxsee attended divine worship in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, about forty turning out for parade, and a large congregation being in attendance. The hymns chosen for the occasion were particularly appropriate to a service devoted especially to the interests of young manhood. They included, "Just As I Am, Young, Strong and Free," Kipling's "Land of Our Earth, We Pledge to Thee" and F. J. Gilman's "God Send Us Men." The choir had prepared the anthem, "Lift, Lift, Ye Gates," with solo by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, and trio taken by Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, Miss Ella Elson and Mrs. Sayles, and following the sermon three of the boys in uniform, Nelles and Lawrence Rowland and Walter Sayles, sang "The Honor Bright Cadets," to the great enjoyment of the congregation.

Responsibility.

Rev. Tucker spoke upon the subject, "The Responsibility of the True Soldier in Peace as Well as War," choosing his text from II. Timothy, 2:3, "Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." The natural tendency to associate the idea of the soldier in uniform only with war is a mistake, the speaker pointed out, since less than half of the responsibility for the reconstruction necessary as the aftermath of actual fighting rests upon the man in uniform—the entire citizenship must assume this burden. We have ample justification in Scripture for comparing the Christian life to warfare, not alone from the text, but from many other passages as well; for instance, Paul speaks of "putting on the whole armour of God," of having "fought a good fight," of "great conflict" in his spiritual experience. It is a struggle against all evil no matter in what form it may be encountered, in the individual heart, the community and the nation. In this warfare there is no discharge, nor even respite, and it demands constant watchfulness, for it is the acme of Satan's devices to cunningly turn the Christian warfare into carnal warfare and have it waged under the banner of the cross.

The soldier's work is not wholly concerned with destruction; it is far more connected with construction. The latter is its greatest obligation, though destruction of life and property is often necessary before building up may begin. If the cadet work was only to prepare the boys for fighting when they reached military age, the speaker said, he would oppose it, everywhere and always. But it has specific advantages in the characters of the boys as the result of training. They learn obedience to authority and "he who has not learned to obey will never be qualified to command." It promotes alertness of mind in those who may be sluggish by nature, and it teaches reverence for seniority of rank and age. The whole world seems to have lost the spirit of reverence for those who preceded us and by their self-sacrificing devotion have made our lives what they are, and our country what it is today. The spirit of irreverence has pervaded the home, and the civic life of this age, and strict insistence upon discipline as in the cadet training may help in eradicating this evil.

New Relations.

Then, too, as new relationships are assumed when the uniform is donned and training begins, self is eliminated and all identify themselves with the common good; larger interests than those simply personal lead to self-effacement, and something of what the Master meant when He said, "He that loseth his life shall save it," is worked out in the life. The vision of Sir Galahad, "If I lose my self, I save myself," becomes a possibility, and nobler natures grow. Prompt, unquestioning, willing service, the boys of the Cadet Corps learn, and learning this they are ready for high places, and great burdens. As they step out into manhood and its responsibilities, they find that if life brings to them distinguished conditions these will demand exact servitude.

Mr. Tucker closed with a few personal remarks to the boys, urging them to follow Paul's injunction to Timothy and be "good soldiers of Jesus Christ." The destruction of evil to be their great objective, remembering that we "wrestle against principalities, and powers, against wicked spirits in heavenly places." A good ideal for the cadets to copy is that set before the C.S.E.T. organizations, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in a favor with God and man." This will mean the development of the four-fold nature and a solemn and religious regard to spiritual and eternal things is an indispensable element to all true greatness, whether of the soldier in the ranks or of the officer who commands.

The funeral took place on Sunday to the Methodist church, where, on account of the immense crowd, the service was held on the lawn, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Rev. Dr. Daley of Port Hope was the preacher at Cobourg Congregational church and also at the Congregational church at Coldsprings.

At the Methodist church, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, pastor, showed that one of the great needs of the world today is a vision of God. In the evening he discussed a timely subject, when he spoke on "Betting and Gambling." His morning sermon was a strong plea for an experimental religion and a personal knowledge of God.

Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers, M.A., a former Peterboro rector, was in his place at St. Peter's Anglican church and preached excellent sermons.

At the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. A. Bremner, pastor, conducted a service in the evening for the Girl Guides, his subject being "The Aim of the Girl Guides Movement." In the morning he gave an able sermon on Isaih as "The Statesman Prophet." About one hundred and fifty Guides were out at night.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

TOO MUCH PLAY.

During the first weeks of life the infant, in spite of the acute observation of his parents—who see manys things denied to the unbiased observer—does little or nothing except eat and sleep. He may twist his mouth in queer ways, but one would hardly call it a smile. At six weeks perhaps a trifle sooner he will really smile.

From then on the baby shows real signs of "noticing" what is going on about him. He hears the various sounds of the household and will turn his head in all directions to follow the sound of his mother's voice.

One has a hard time to restrain the family from entertaining him constantly, a very bad thing for the baby—and later a real trial to the family woh lose interest in entertainment at three in the morning.

At three or four months the baby will recognize the difference between familiar and strange faces. He will show an interest in his toys, in his small waving hands and feet, which are constantly in motion, and when they come within range of his eyes demand a very profound contemplation. He may even struggle to raise himself up but should not be encouraged to do so, neither should be be propped with pillows.

At six months he will be very much of an individual, laughing, crying with real tears, developing the ability to drool and also a nice little temper. This is the time when the mother can determine if she is to be "boss" or if young son of daughter is to rule the house.

At nine month perhaps he will be rolling and crawling and in the case of very small babies trying to stand on his own feet. The baby should never be urged to do any of these things. Nature is a stronger urge than we and when he is ready and strong enough for any new development he will do it without help from us.

At one year the average well baby will have six teeth, he will be able to stand and perhaps walk alone, he will weigh about twenty-one pounds and be about twenty-nine inches tall. He may even be able to say "Da-da" and "Ma-ma" in a way that is eminently satisfactory to these adoring souls.

Four Thousand Lost Result of Earthquake.

ALLAHABAD, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—Four thousand persons are now reported to have perished in the earthquake which devastated the region about Turbati Haidari in Eastern Persia. Advices received here indicated six villages were completely wiped out. The shocks were said to be continuing.

POLITICIAN SUICIDES

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(Canadian Press).— Jesse W. Smith of Washington Court House, Ohio, prominent in Republican Party affairs in that State, shot himself to death in his apartment here to-day. He was fifty one years old and a member of the party which recently accompanied President Harding to Florida.

MOFFATS ELECTRIC RANGES

THERE'S NO LIMIT TO WOMEN'S WORK.

Only 33 Out of 687 Tasks Still Untouched By Feminine Hands.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Woman's work—there was a time when we thought we could limit her ambitions.

But the occupations reserved for the strong arm of man are dwindling so fast in number, according to the United States Census Bureau, that there's simply no telling where you'll find a woman doing a man's job—and, in many cases, doing it better.

Recent government statistics reveal that out of the 687 possible occupations recognized by the Census Bureau, there are only 33 without women representatives.

In the United Sates today there are 8,549,511 women employed in gainful occupations, and many of these are the sole supports of their families.

In New Fields.

Though the largest classification includes servants and domestics, there is a remarkable increase of women in the professions and in the fields hitherto unexplored by women.

Today we have 1738 women lawyers, 1787 clergywomen, 1117 architects, 1714 chemists, 1829 dentists, 7219 physicians, 41 technical engineers, 14,617 artists and sculptors and 8736 authors, editors and other writers.

But there are still a few women who manage to stand out as unique in their chosen work.

Miss Elda Soller, for instance, who recently came to America from Scandinavia to conduct a band of 100 pieces, is one of the few women orchestra leaders. And all the musicians she directs are men.

Woman Welder.

Mrs. Katherine Nelson of Jersey City has recently risen from ordinary machinist to champion in the field of electrical welding. She began helping her husband in their small garage in Denmark.

When he died she became a stewardess on an ocean liner and came to America where she went into a railroad shop as a machinist and became a welder. She is now in business for herself and has her own workshop mounted on a huge auto truck, traveling wherever necessary. She has worked on bridges, towers, and in all sorts of hazardous jobs.

Mrs. Florence Thompson of New York is perhaps the only woman bricklayer who is an expert in her particular line. She learned her trade from her husband, who conducts a bricklaying school in New York. She is now engaged in laying bricks for a new home of her own.

Bank President.

From lowly labor woman has been ascending just like man up the ladder of success to positions of high repute in the business world. Women lawyers women bankers, women political leaders are gaining in number throughout the country.

An example of one of this group, and a successful one, too, is Mrs. Flora McCormick of Emden, Ill. She's said to be the only woman bank president in Illinois. She succeeded her husband at his death, and her four sons constitute her force of cashier, teller and bookkeepers.

Mrs. McCormick has frequently been called into conference regarding important financial affairs and has exhibited a thorough knowledge of the business.

And besides being bank president she is director of the Emden Community House and a leader in other social and commercial organizations.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

SO THE RIGHT PEOPLE WILL REPLY.

Friendly, pleasant copy pays best in the Want Ad section. And it is always practical to use it, even though, on first thought, it may seem one can't. For example: Advertising for assistants, you wish to be sure that only serious, desirable applicants reply.

Maybe, advertising once, you had some response from an undesirable class—shirkers, actual "bums." In Want Ads, at various time, you have read, "No bums need apply." It seems to fit your need. Shall you use it? "No bums" does sound pretty cold and hard-boiled. Something like, "Curiosity seekers, save your stamps." It ought to discourage undesirables from replying.

It will. If that was all it did, we wouldn't criticize it. The trouble is, it discourages others from replying too—desirable applicants, the very sort you want. "No bums" won't sound so some of the best of the latter as the language of a friendly, appealing employer. It will suggest an interview which would be an unpleasant ordeal. Humanly, the reader doesn't reply to the ad.

The Want advertiser can use a message which, while keeping undesirable applicants away, will not antagonize desirable one. Such stipulations as these effect this object—"Character references required." "References from former employers." "If you are hard-working, straight, and have a record which will stand investigation, we solicit your application." "Must own home." This is pleasant, tactful language, giving the applicant a good impression of the advertiser. Yet it sharply discourages undesirables from applying.

Instead of, "Curiosity seekers, save your stamps," you can say, "Unless actually in the market, please do not reply."

Objectionable replies very seldom are a Want advertiser's problem. Generally when the problem exists the advertiser knows it in advance. He can handle it with tactful language which will actually help him with the desirable people he wishes to answer.

STRIKE IN RUHR NOW CALLED OFF

ESSEN, May 30. — (Canadian Press). — Strike of metal workers throughout Ruhr which involved more than five hundred thousand men, was ended to-day, the men resuming work. They were granted fifty percent increase in wages for which they went on strike, but were refused additional demand of a bonus of one hundred and fifty marks each.

The movement for organization of municipal police to replace security police ejected from Ruhr by the French is spreading throughout the district, principally in Bochum, Mulheim, Oberhausen and this city. The French have granted permission in these cases for a certain number of men to carry arms and thus provide some protection against a recurrence of the sanguinary troubles of the last few days.

MACHINE GUNS GUARD TREASURES OF BANK

CLEVELAND, May 30.—(Associated Press)—The new Fourth Federal Reserve Bank building here is rapidly nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy about June 1. The building has many details of architecture and ingenuity that make it one of the most remarkable in the United States, architects and builders say, with strength and safety the keynotes.

The main vault is 30 feet below the street level. Side and rear walls are six feet thick. The front wall is seven feet thick and has the heaviest door in the world. The vault is designed to hold upward two billion dollars in gold and securities, according to D. C. Wills, chairman of the board.

The first floor, for the transaction of public business, is finished in Italian marble. Csutomers can lock themselves behind iron bars when transacting business with a teller.

A gallery of armor plate surrounds the first floor, with loopholes from which guards can see everything occurring below.

Truck driveways lead directly into the mail roof. It cannot be "rushed." The truck first enters a vestibule and the street door must be closed and locked before the second door, opening direct in the mail room, can be opened.

Armed guards can look down upon the mail room and command it with rifles, and statues at each of the entrances to the building will conceal machine guns.

EUGENIC MARRIAGE IS EFFECTIVE, NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., May 30 (Associated Press).—A new record for low percentage in lawmaking was established by the Nebraska legislature which has just ended its 1923 session. Of 1,056 bills introduced in both houses, only 199 were passed by the legislature, and of these Governor Charles W. Bryan vetoed four leaving a total of 195 new laws.

Among the outstanding measures enacted is one authorizing ratification of a treaty between the states of Nebraska and Colorado, covering joint use of the waters of the South Platte river. Another measure brings outside utility corporations doing business in the state under the jurisdiction of the state railroad commission as to issuance of stocks and bonds.

The new "eugenic marriage law" requires ten days' notice in the office of the county clerk before the applicants can wed. Under this law marriages are prohibited between persons adjudged to have hereditary epilepsy or hereditary insanity.

A resolution was passed memorializing congress to repeal the Esch-Cummins law.

The 1923 legislature was in session longer and adjourned later than any previous lawmaking body in the state. It convened January 2 and adjourned just four months later.

NEWS FROM APSLEY.

APSLEY, May 30.— A deer met an untimely end on Saturday at Lasswade. When the congregation met for service at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon, they saw the dead body of a yearling doe lying by the wire fence surrounding the cemetery. There were no marks of mutilation, but its neck was dislocated. It was surmised that the deer ran with such force against the fence in the dark that it broke its neck.

The fence was only erected on Friday, and now the party who put it up is wondering whether he will be prosecuted for causing the death of a deer out of season.

The Eel's Creek drive of about 18,000 logs has been deposited by William Earnshaw and his gang at Stoney Lake. The drive occupied five weeks, which is considered fast time, and may constitute a record, considering the small number of men employed.

The stone crusher is being put into operation on the Burleigh Road this week, and the road should be in fair shape when the tourist season opens.

Mr. and Mrs. McTavish have returned after a two weeks' holiday.

Most of the seeding has been completed in this district, and with the recent warm weather bringing on the growth, the farmers are feeling a bit more optimistic. Sheep shearing is now in full swing.

Every 16 feet of level surface of the earth in the temperate zone receives an average of one horse-power of heat energy from the sun.

A DOUBLE ELEMENT OF SAFETY

The First Mortgage 6½% Gold Bonds of Western Quebec Paper Mills Limited constitute a safe investment made doubly safe by being insured as to principal with the Travellers' Life Assurance Company of Canada and the restrictions imposed under the Trust Deed given the Montreal Trust Company of Montreal.

Principal of these bonds is backed by plant, property and insurance, and a reserve with the Trustee—equal to two years' bond interest. Further, no dividends may be paid out on capital stock in any year unless the company earns the bond interest requirements three times over in that year, except when the existing surplus exceeds five times the required bond interest for one year.

Western Quebec Paper Mills specialize in fine, thin papers; is a surely financed, soundly managed enterprise with a fully equipped plant of 1800 tons capacity per annum.

The net earnings of this company's mills at St. Andrews, Que., are estimated at $65,000 for the first year—more than three times the required bond interest. Write, telephone or telegraph for full particulars.

his identity could not be distinguished. Besides, it seemed improbable that he should return among the very teeth of the enemy. They waited a few moments, and then, gathering his men, Sergeant Urquhart held a consultation, which resulted in the decision to raid the dwelling.

The party walked up to the back steps of the house, Sergeant Urquhart in the lead. At the top step the door suddenly opened, a rifle spoke, and Urquhart fell dead, shot through the breast. The rifle in the house spoke again, and again the bullets whistled within a few inches of the head of Constable Crow, who was following immediately behind the Sergeant. All three constables fired simultaneously but their assailant was covered by the house, and was returning shot for shot. The constables were forced by the fusillade of bullets to run for shelter. The firing ceased as suddenly as it began. For several hours it was not known whether Rogers had escaped from the house or was still in hiding. A telephone call brought reinforcements from the police headquarters, and it was Inspector Walter Moore himself who helped to get the body of his officer from the side of the steps behind the Rogers' house, and carried it into Martyn's Undertaking Parlors downtown.

Three-quarters of an hour later, at the Golf Street crossing of the C. P. and T. and N. O. Railway tracks rifles were again raised, and bullfiets again sped through the moonlight morning.

NORTH BAY, May 30.—(Canadian Press).— Reinforcement, preferably militia will be reinstated by Mayor McDonald to aid forces now engaged in hunt for Leo Rogers. Authority for this request was given Mayor to-day by a unanimous vote of Council and Board of Trade. There was large attendance of prominent citizens at meeting of two bodies.

Up till 2 o'clock this afternoon police had not located Rogers, but with arrival this morning of Deputy Commissioner Cuddy and twelve of the most experienced members of Provincial Police Force, it is believed that desperado will soon be apprehended. He was last seen on Nipissing side of Lake Nipissing disappearing into woods. Once barricaded in rocks in that section of County it is believed that his position would be almost impregnable.

Suggestion that bloodhounds and aeroplanes be brought into service in hunt for man-killer is said to have been discussed by local authorities and General Williams, but as yet nothing definite on the matter has been decided.

MOTHERS' PETS WERE WEIGHED

Thirty-Six Infant Visitors at Well Babies' Clinic —Interesting Talk.

The last open meeting for this year of the Well Babies' Clinic was held yesterday afternoon in the Clinic Rooms at the G.W.V.A. Hall, with a record attendance of babies and their mothers.

Thirty-six infants were weighed at the Clinic yesterday, after an interesting, brief talk was given by Dr. G. R. Scott on the general care and feeding of babies.

"We could do more to prevent infant mortality in Peterborough by using pasteurised milk than any other way I know of," said Dr. Scott, who was very decidedly in favour of the use of pasteurised milk.

The proper methods of feeding, clothing, and bathing small infants were summarised by the speaker. In breast-fed infants frequent causes of indigestion were irregular feedings and allowing the baby to feed too quickly. Large infants should be fed at four-hour intervals, ordinary size children about three and one-half hours apart. Two or more hours was required for digestion, and an hour for resting its small stomach. When three months old, orange or prune juice should be given to supply the vitamines necessary to ward off rickets.

In bottle-feeding, age and weight were determining factors, and feedings should be of cow's milk unless under the advice of a physician for special cases.

Pasteurized Milk.

Pasteurized milk should be used up to five years of age. "In centres where pasteurized milk is used entirely," declared the doctor, "the infant mortality rate is lowest." Babies should not sleep in the same bed with the mother, and should be outdoors as much as possible. Extra clothing and a hot-water bottle would obviate the risk of cold in wintry or damp weather. Children used to sleeping in the open air were healthier, made quicker gains and were less prone to diseases of the nose and throat.

Old-fashioned ideas regarding long clothes, barrow-coats and lengthy wearing of the binder were frowned on. All clothing should be hung from the shoulders, and the binder should be discarded after the first month.

Babies should be bathed regularly every morning, always before feeding, should be powdered at night and their clothing changed daily.

Mrs. F. C. Neal presided during Dr. Scott's talk, which was heard with close attention by the mothers present, and tea was served by the King's Daughters at its conclusion.

MR. T. H. G. DENNE'S BLACK BASS ON EXHIBITION

On View at Store of Roland Denne, George Street.

As evidence of the "Fish Story" that came up from Florida some time ago that Mr. T. H. G. Denne had caught a 11 1-4 lb. black bass in the South, there is on exhibition in the window of Roland Denne's Flour and Feed Store, the fish itself beautifully mounted and it is safe to say that no such black bass has been seen in this district before either dead or alive.

If you take a look at it you will realize that it would take an experienced fisherman to land this giant fish.

OMEMEE LEAGUERS WERE ENTERTAINED

Sister Organization From Bethel Contributed a Splendid Programme — A Presentation.

OMEMEE, May 30. — The Epworth League, of Bethel Methodist Church, paid their annual visit to the League here on Monday evening, when they were greeted by a splendid attendance of Omemee Leaguers.

After being welcomed by the President, of the League here, the meeting was taken over by the visitors who put on, as is their custom, an excellent programme. Mr. Cecil Casey president of the Bethel League, expressed pleasure on behalf of the League at being able to accept the invitation to visit the village League. After the singing of a hymn, Miss Velma Lowes, president of the Christian Endeavour Department conducted a brief prayer meeting when short earnest prayers were offered by several of the visitors.

During the evening, Mr. Bert Edwards gave a very interesting discourse on "the Bible" following which the Juvenile Male Quartette, Messrs. Broadbent, Edwards, Harrison, and Jackson, rendered that beautiful hymn "Alone."

Mr. Harry Jackson gave the topic for the evening "Am I my Brother's Keeper," in a very impressive manner after which Miss Reid contributed to the splendid programme a piano selection. The rendition of a clarionet solo by Mr. Harry Jackson with piano accompaniment by his mother, was much appreciated.

Miss Parsons, the Omemee President expressed her appreciation on behalf of the League for the treat which Bethel had provided and then called on Mr. Leighton, High School Principal, who expressed his delight at the success of the evening

A Presentation

The Rev. Stillman was then invited to the platform and the following brief address was read by Miss Eva Race:

"Dear Mr. Stillman:—As honorary President of our League you have been ever faithful to the cause and during your four years as pastor you have been an inspiration in your leadership.

"Having heard of your misfortune in losing your fountain pen recently the Epworth Leaguers felt that by replacing it you would have something which would be a pleasant reminder of our many happy gatherings here.

"We ask you then to accept this pen and with it the very best wishes of the members of the League for a long and useful service in the Master's vineyard.

(Signed on) LILA PARSONS, MRS. BOYD, EVA RACE

Mr. Stillman thanked the Omemee League for their thoughtful gift, saying he had carried the missing pen for twenty-five years and felt he had lost a friend indeed. He hoped to carry the new one for the same length of time.

Spelling Match

A novel spelling match followed. Sides were chosen, each person was given a letter of the alphabet, the competing sides having different colors. Words were given out by Miss Alderson and anyone holding a letter in the word had to rush to the end of the room and hold their letters high, the duty of the captains being to see that the letters were in correct order. The contest proved almost as exciting as a ball game, the result being 12-13 in favor of the reds to whom went a prize, box of candy.

Refreshments followed and a jolly social hour was enjoyed by all. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

INVESTIGATE SINKING OF THIS RUM RUNNER

NEW YORK, May 30. Canadian Press. — An investigation into the mysterious sinking of the rum lugger, John Dwight, at Vineyard Haven Mass., with a loss of nine lives several weeks ago, has revealed that James Craven of Lyndhurst, N. J., one of the victims, had one hundred thousand dollars in his possession when the boat sank. The money was missing when his body was washed up on the beach.

Craven was said to have been implicated in a million dollar rum plot.

ELECTION NOTES

From Liberal - Conservative Committee Headquarters.

(Advertisement.)

Bradburn's Committee Rooms held a working crowd last night. The chairmen of the several wards of the city had gathered to confer and lay out the work in anticipation of the gathering of clans to follow on the next two succeeding evenings. For on Wednesday evening chairmen and members of the ward workers for Nos. 1, 2 and 5 wards get together. And on Thursday evening wards three and four congregate. All this is preliminary to getting out and seeing the electorate. By end of the week things will be running smoothly, so far as organization is concerned.

Enough has been done and additional in sight to show that the Liberal-Conservative candidate may look for a hopeful outlook. If a huge bulk of friends and workers and well-wishers indicates anything, it is that the Old Party is getting together as never before for many a day. Those who crowd into the rooms come full of pep and determination to carry the day, the 25th.

Word comes in that the Opera House will hold a big meeting on evening of the 15th June, when a mass meeting of the electors will greet the Liberal-Conservative leader, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, who will address the gathering. Other men prominent in the party councils will also be on hand, with a speaker or two from the local ranks. Further announcements to follow.

This morning Candidate Bradburn started on a three-day trip to the back country. He will hold meetings and address the electors at Union Creek, Swamp Lake and Nogie's Creek, as the several school-houses or halls are named and known. This route through the north country is one that candidates get over as early as possible in the campaign, and while the weather is good for such a trip. Local men of the party are selected, and having been over the ground in previous contests, know the ropes pretty well. Next week another excursion is projected, taking in Harvey. Then comes Smith Township, with several meetings to be held in the near future. North Monaghan completes the circuit.

Increasingly it is realized that the motor car is a valuable feature and facility in a political contest. The roads can be covered in very much less time, and the voters having cars gather from distances that in years gone bye would have been prohibitive. In fact, meetings as far north as Buckhorn and in the district adjoining can be served from the city any evening after six o'clock. Fifteen years ago it was a whole day's work.

Alderman Stocker, who has been out on the roads to the north, brings in stories of the state of the floods that are bothering the inhabitants. Buckhorn dam is buried under two feet depth of water, making a copious flow down to Deer Bay. Roads in many places are absolutely impassable. Across two or three creeks the versatile Alderman had to swim his car. And make devious detours to avoid other crossings. So those who propose to carry on to the back country may go prepared for navigation as well as travel on land.

Applications and appeals to register are coming in in great profusion. It beats all how many people have come into the city and are not on the voters' list, since last October. Men and women, for the franrhise has swelled the available voting strength of the riding. The regular municipal list is now known as Parts 1 and 2, and a supplementary list, Part 3, contains principally women voters, all getting ready to vote as they will determine after a look at the candidates. It is suggested that the three candidates borrow the Fire Department combination motor-piece and hold a general observation tour for the benefit of themselves and the feminine public. Then the daily press could invite letters conveying impressions of observers. In this contest, as to looks, Bradburn would, as he will eventually, win. This observation is offered with apologies to the other candidates and should not be used to their personal prejudice. For Candidate Meyers has an air of benevolence, which is approved, while Candidate Tooms has something of anxiety, as any man will who has been there and anxious to get back again.

BOUT CALLED OFF.

HAVANA, May 30. — (Canadian Press.)— The boxing bout between Luis Angel Firpo, the South American heavyweight, and George White of New York, which had been arranged for next Sunday, has been called off.

Yesterday afternoon, during a sparring match with Estanislao Frais, a Cuban colored welterweight, White was twice knocked out by the lighter man with twelve ounce gloves.

The crowd which was witnessing the training bout made a noisy demonstration and it was necessary for the police to take charge of the situation. The Cuban Boxing Commission, three members of which were at the ringside, immediately convened and reached a decision disqualifying White as an unfit opponent.

Players and Officials of Coventry and Bury Clubs Suspended For "Squaring" Game in 1920.

LONDON, May 30. Canadian Press. Canadian Press Cable. — The strength of the football association's determination to thoroughly cleanse the professional game in both the playing and the managerial departments was exemplified by the severity of the punishment meted out today to directors and players of the Coventry and Bury Clubs who were found guilty of "squaring" the result of their match as Bury as far back as 1920.

The commission of enquiry while unable to ascertain all the facts reported that they were satisfied that an arrangement had been made to allow Coventry to win. Coventry was then threatened with relegation to the third degree.

The association permanently suspended the chairman of both clubs, one director, the secretary and four players of Bury and a former director, and one player, of Coventry, from participation in football or football management, and also suspended the Bury goal-keeper for one year. Each club was fined 100 pounds.

WAR VETS WON FROM QUAKERS

Fast Football Game at the Oval Last Evening Ended With the Score 3 to 1.

The G. W. V. A. team defeated the Quakers by a score of 3 to 1 in a league game at the Oval last evening. The Quakers, who won the toss, and started with the sun at their backs, went in the game with ten men. Young arrived after the game was in progress a few minutes and made up the team.

The The attacking force of the Quakers proved dangerous at all periods of the game, and kept the Vets' defence busy. The Quakers drew first blood when G. Logan carried the ball up and beat Griffin for the opening score. The Vets launched an attack from the centre kick, but found the Quaker defence too strong for them, and half time came with the Quakers in the lead by a score of 1 to 0.

In the second period the G.W.V.A. players carried the play to the Quakers. Wade, the new centre forward, was particularly effective. Bishop soon beat G. Griffin, and equalled the score. He was followed shortly after by Jack Wade, who put the Vets in the lead. From then on the Vets had much the best of it, and were seldom in danger. The Vets were awarded a penalty kick, which Dwyer took, but G. Griffin saved nicely. Jack Wade came on again to score the third goal for the G.W.V.A. when he took a nice centre from Monks, and beat Griffin with a dandy shot.

The teams were:

Quakers — Goal, G. Griffin; backs, Young and R. Wilshaw; halves, Mayette, Foster and Legon; forwards, Mitchell, Montgomery, S. Logan, Croft and Pellow.

G. W. V. A. — Goal, C. Griffon; backs, Bishop and Crowe; halves, Williams, Dwyer and Peel; forwards, Monks, A. Edwards, Jack Wade, F. Wade and Shannon.

Referee, S. Griffin.

INDIANAPOLIS MOTOR SPEEDWAY, May 30.— (United Press).—The motor world turned toward Indianapolis today, for the eleventh annual five hundred mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Thirty-three drivers were at their steering improvements devised by engineering skill, lined up for the start at 10 o'clock with exhausts wide open and engines primed to set new records for endurance and speed.

Thirty-three drivers at their steering wheels anxious to get away in the grueling ride for which they had long been training.

At 10 o'clock the starter gave the signal and the cars leaped off for the first lap. Two hundred times the machines will make the round of the white oval.

At the end the pilot of the swiftest car will receive the checkered flag which greets the victor and will be carried in triumph from his machine by swarming crowds of speed-mad spectators.

Thirty-two more or less exhausted drivers will bring their cars in with a determination to try again next year—for a race driver never gives up, once he has had a taste of the excitement.

It's all a game of chance, the racers say—an even break for victory or defeat, and worth the trial win, or lose.

The list of entries this year is the largest since the smaller piston displacement cars came into vogue shortly after the war. There is a car for every 400 feet of the two and one half miles of oval track.

There are cars from Germany and France, from California, Indiana, New Jersey, Michigan and Missouri. Germany has three entrants and France five. The drivers come from England, France, Poland, Italy, Germany and the Argentine and from every section of the United States.

American Drivers.

Among the better known American drivers are Jimmy Murphy, winner of last year's race, Tommy Milton, Ralph De Palma, Joe Boyer, Dario Resta, Eddie Hearne, Harry Hertz and Cliff Durant.

The aristocracy and nobility of the old world are represented by Count Zborowski, a Polish nobleman, and Prince de Cystria, a member of the old French aristocracy.

Jimmy Murphy, won the 1922 event in five hours, 17 miutes and 30 seconds at an average speed of 94.48 miles an hour, Harroun, winner of the first race in 1911, made the 500 miles at an average speed of 74.59 miles an hour.

A crowd estimated by the speedway managementat from 150,000 to 160,000 persons—the largest number that ever witnessed the races here, overran Indianapolis yesterday and last night and poured out to the speedway long before the first cars were out on the track.

Many, unable to find accomodations in Indianapolis homes and hotels, went out to smaller cities last nigth and then drove back to Indianapolis at daybreak.

Others, caring little for sleep, spent the night in hotel lobbies or wandering about the streets.

KEARNS HAS GOOD OPINION OF CHAMP

Manager Feels Confident That His Protege Can Floor the Challenger.

SHELBY, Mont., May 30. — Jack Kearns believes implicitly in the champion.

Jack Dempsey believes implicitly in his manager.

Kearns looks after the money. Dempsey looks after the fighting.

"I look for Dempsey to have trouble with Tommy Gibbons on Fourth July," says Kearns.

"The fighter who comes to Dempsey will fall.

"But the fighter who steps in and steps out will bother the champ.

"If Gibbons elects to slug with Jack he won't last any longer than Carpentier. I have always thought Carp a great fighter, but he didn't use the right tactics with Dempsey.

"If Gibbons weaves in and out, the fight may go to the limit.

"Both Dempsey and Gibbons weigh around 190 now.

"Gibbons will probably train off more than the champ. I think Dempsey is too light at this stage of his training. He hasn't enough to work on.

"Dempsey is ready to go in there as he is now. I intend to lay him off part of the time. He'd burn himself out if I let him.

"English Billy Wells is rated as one of the best boxers in the country now. Gibbons is just about as clever.

"I saw Wells work with Dempsey in camp. Wells can't hit Dempsey now.

"The champ ducks and slips the punches, judging them to a fraction of an inch. He hasn't fought for two years, but his judge of distance seems as good as ever. A fellow who likes to fight as good as Dempsey never gets out of shape.

"I don't think Gibbons is going to hit Dempsey very often. If he does the best asset the champ has is that he can take it.

"I've seen him shaken from toe to head with a wallop, but he always comes back with his ace in the hole —his punch.

"Dempsey is high strung—but not nervous.

"It isn't nerves. It's energy that burns him up, and keeps him fidgety and jumpy.

"We never have any battle plans before a fight—that is nothing set or anything like that.

"Before the Willard fight at Toledo I did tell him to walk out to Jess, feint and step back to see what the big fellow would do.

"He did. Willard let one go. It missed Jack as far as from here to that door.

"There's nothing that takes the confidence out of a man so quick as to miss a punch.

"Dempsey's fists don't travel far. But there's a kick in them that would upset a building.

"Gibbons is a good hitter, too. He may be able to make Dempsey miss. You can't never tell.

"If we could dope out a fight before they get into the ring, there wouldn't be any fights.

"It can't be done. That's boxing."

Do you know Baseball?

Questions.

One—What are the rights of the base runner to advance on an infield fly?

Two—Does a base runner after crossing first base, and then making a break for second, forfeit his right to return to first without liability to be put out?

Three—Must a base runner after crossing first turn while in foul territory, or is it also permissible in fair territory?

Four—When two runners are standing on the some base, to which runner is the base entitled?

Five—If a base runner starts to run the bases in reverse order to confuse the opposition, how may he be retired?

Answers.

One—A base runner can now advance on an infield fly, just as on any other fly ball that is caught or muffed.

Two—A base runner after crossing first base and making an attempt to go to second, immediately forfeits his right to return to first without liability to be put out.

Three—He can make such a turn on either fair or foul territory, provided he make no attempt to go to second.

Four—The original occupant is always entitled to the base, unless forced to vacate.

Five—A base runner who runs in reverse order can be retired by being touched with the ball or having the ball held on the base to which he was legally entitled.

THE RISE OF DEMPSEY DID NOT RUIN CHAMP.

Remembered the Distance From Hero to Bum Was Short and Saved His Money For the Dark Days.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, May 30.—(United Press)—Jack Dempsey can be judged best as a personality and as a man by considering that in the four years of his reign as the heavyweight champion of the world he has done not one single thing to bring discredit upon himself or upon the game that raised him from the rods under a Pullman to wealth and fame.

Considering the effect that a shower of wealth might have upon a young man who once got his food from back doors, considering that the ethics of his profession are none too exacting and that temptations had the safeguard of tradition that a prize fighter can get away with anything, Dempsey stands out as an extremely sensible young man and that good old "horse sense" is his outstanding characteristic.

Jack Dempsey has more good qualities than he has shortcomings.

Had Dempsey been as successful in some other profession as he has been in fighting, it might be said that to know Jack Dempsey was to love him. That tribute is out of place in its associations with the prize ring, but it can be said that to know Dempsey is to like him.

Hobo to Millionaire.

It was a wonderful accomplishment for a young hobo who had no chances or advantages in his childhood to make a millionaire out of himself and it was a more wonderful accomplishment for him to keep his head when he got there.

The sensible attitude with which Dempsey regarded his position and social standing was shown when he was being idolized by the crowds in Paris. He spent one of his many evenings in a fashionable Paris cabaret, surrounded by girls, who were showering upon him all the attentions for which Parisian girls are so famous. Dempsey became bored and bolted the party. Back in the hotel he said to one of his party:

"I get sick of that. They hand me all that soft stuff not because I'm Jack Dempsey, but because I'm the champion and have got the francs."

On another occasion under similar circumstances, Dempsey remarked that he would give anything to be able to assume another personality for a week and listen to what they were saying about Dempsey when he was not present.

Dempsey knows that in the fickle field of sport a man is a hero one day and a bum the next. In everything that he has done since he became heavyweight champion it has been strikingly apparent that Dempsey has been preparing for that proverbial next day.

Saved His Money.

He has saved his money and has invested it so well that when the time comes, that he must step down as the champion he will be able to step right into a business where he may become as big a "champion" as he was in the ring.

The rough days he had when he was beating his way around the country taught Dempsey the value of money and unlike nearly everyone of his predecessors, he proceeded to salt his money away instead of blowing it on friends who would turn away from him when his pockets were empty.

Dempsey has friends by the thousands but he has very few intimates. Mike Trant, a detective sergeant from Chicago, is about the only one outside of his immediate connections who might be regarded as a close personal friends of the champion's. He has had various other intimacies, but they didn't last long.

While Dempsey has never turned down a friend, he has shown an inclination in the last two years to cut himself away from the associations of his earlier days.

Jimmy DeForest, who trained him for the bout with Jess Willard in which he won the championship, says that seldom a night passed in Toledo that one or two of Jack's old acquaintances of the "blind baggage" days did not drop in on him. They were always received and fed. But now they do not "present their cards" when the champion is around. The difficulties of reviving old ententes, of course, are now pronounced because the way into a fashionable hotel is more difficult for a knight of the road than into a training camp in the country.

Dempsey has always shown a tendency since he won the championship to keep his name free from any of the odium that usually surrounds a heavyweight champion. He took drastic means to protect himself when he was training in Atlantic City for the Carpentier fight and how he succeeded will be related in the next chapter.

IS PLEADING FOR MORE BALL LOTS FOR BOYS

CHICAGO, May 30.—(Associated Press)—A vacant lot where boys can engage in a game of baseball is the best insurance policy obtainable, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, believes.

The former federal jurist, always with a deep interest in boys, said today that too few cities and towns have made the proper provision for a boys' playground. The average boy, he said, may not have a great sense of justice, but no one has a keener sense of injustice.

"It is an injustice not to provide a spot where boys can enjoy themselves at will and with the knowledged they are not victims of injustice," Commissioner Landis said.

"One of my chief reasons for my interest in baseball is that I have always had a deep interest in boys. Baseball must justify the confidence of the boy today.

"Every boy, if he is normal, has a hero and in times of peace that hero is an athlete. In 99 cases out of 100 that athlete is a baseball player.

"To this hero, the boy builds an altar in his heart and keeps the candles burning. Unconsciously or otherwise, he turns to that altar day after day.

"It is my desire that the figure on that altar shall not totter, but always shall be worthy of the faith placed in it."

In Chicago, with its thickly populated districts, Judge Landis said he had frequently watched baseball games played in the streets, with street cars speeding in one direction and motor trucks in another so that the "Kids' had to stop their games every minute in order to allow a street car to pass over home plate.

"Conditions like that should not exist," he declared. "Boys should be provided with a place to enjoy themselves. It's the best insurance in the world against crime, mischief and disease."

BANKS QUIT VLADIVOSTOK.

VLADIVOSTOK, May 30.—(Associated Press)—Te Soviet government, in its endeavor to collect two percent on all money brought into the country, has demanded a considerable sum from the Korean Bank. This institution refuses payment, saying it would rather close up in Vladivostok and move to Harbin. The Yokohama Specie Bank, faced with the same situation, is said to be closing its accounts.

If the government persists in exacting this percentage, Vladivostok will be without foreign banking facilities.

NOTED CANADIAN GOLFERS

No. 5—BALANCE

The manner in which the body plays its part decides largely the success of the golf swing. Balance is important to every game, but in none is it so hard to achieve as in golf. This is mostly due to the fact that the stance is a stationary one which necessitates a twist the body resulting in a circular swing, while in other games the stance changes more or less permitting a straight or direct blow. Balance should be maintained at all times for without it anything approaching consistent golf is impossible. It should also be accomplished in the easiest and most natural manner. It is not an uncommon sight, however, to see a player at the finish of the stroke struggling desperately to maintain his equilibrium. This causes the swing to look awkward, and at the same time makes the shot less effective. Part of the energy which should have gone into the blow has been dissipated maintaining balance. The beginner finds great difficulty in controlling his weight, whereas the accomplished golfer impresses one with the ease and grace with which he controls his body. The reason for this is that the latter has learned a correct pivot which will make or mar the swing more than any other factor.

One may have a fine wrist action and generally manipulate the club very well, but unless the work of the hands and arms is facilitated by a good pivot, their effectiveness will be largely neutralized. Much misapprehension exists in regard to the pivot. The traditional and generally accepted view of it is that the left knee turns in toward the right one, so that the weight gets generally on the inside of the left foot from the ball of the big toe to its end. This method of pivoting has certain difficulties inherent in it. If one examines the movements the left knee is capable of, he will discover that the natural one is straight forward, or that which is employed in walking. In fact th knee joint is so constructed that it can not move to the side. When one starts the swing by moving the left knee toward the right there is the greatest tendency to sway the body, and the fact that swaying is prevalent among beginners may be due not in the least to their faulty methods of pivoting. With this method a sway is the natural result unless the player breaks at the waist which is admittedly wrong, for then the whole plane of the swing is changed. The hips should not go down or up, nor should the shoulders either. The hips should twist around on the same level. Because of the slight stoop at the waist the shoulders will also twist around in the same way without any dipping or raising.

The most effective blow in golf can be delivered with the right elbow close to the body and with the club at the top of the swing somewhere slightly over the right shoulder. In my opinion the pivot that permits this position being reached in the simplest and most direct manner is not where the left knee turns in toward the right, but rather where the left knee points directly at the ball, which is its natural movement. When this happens the weight instead of being on the inside of the left foot is directly across the whole front of the foot from the big toe to the little one. One has only to experiment with these methods to realize how much firmer the whole foundation of the swing is in the latter method. It permits the swing being made without any dipping or raising of the shoulders or breaking at the waist, and also reduces the movement of the head to a minimum.

It seems to me there must always be a slight turning of the head, not very perceptible but nevertheless present, for at the top of the swing the shoulders have moved from a position in the address parallel with line of of flight to a right-angle, which I think is impossible without slightly turning the head unless the player is some kind of an acrobat. The point to notice, however, is that the slight turning of the head does not change the plane of the swing. With the other method of pivoting, the head must either sway with the body or, worse still, must be kept stationary by the artifice of breaking at the waist which robs the swing of its power and makes balance more difficult to maintain. By pointing the left knee at the ball, the twisting movement is done at the hips, which are admirably fitted for this movement. It is almost impossible to sway in this way or as Duncan would say: it is easier to keep within the circle. Furthermore, there is not the same temptation to overswing, and the whole foundation of the swing is firmer than before. A harder blow can be delivered by pivoting in this method in a smaller arc than is possible with the other.

The lengthening of Braid's tee shot, which has always been a mystery, might be explained by a new method of pivoting. One bright and happy day for Braid he discovered that he had lengthened his drive by some 30 yards, which made him one of the longest hitters of the game. To Braid the cause was inexplicable except that he suggested that his muscles must have worked smoother. It is unreasonable to think that his muscles must have worked smoother. It is unreasonable to think that his muscles had developed overnight. My own guess is that he accidently hit upon some trick that helped him to maintain his balance, so that he was firmer on his feet and consequently enabled to deliver a faster blow. The strong muscles of the leg are in a better position to pull the body into position when the left knee points to the ball than the other method, for they do all their work in this direction.

The writer hopes to have something further on this subject of interest to beginners in a later article dealing with their faults.

NATIONAL RAILWAY EARNINGS GREATER.

Increased Earnings in April Result of Growth in the Business of the Railroads.

MONTREAL, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—That the annual report of the directors for 1922 covering the Canadian Northern, Canadian Government and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, published yesterday, does not reflect the present position of the Canadian National system as a whole. was indicated in the statement of earnings for the month of April issued here last night. This earnings statement covers the amalgamated Canadian National System including the Grand Trunk and Central Vermont Railways, and shows notable increases over 1922.

The gross receipts of the Canadian National system in April of this year, the last calendar month for which figures have yet been made up, amounted to $21,056,312 an increase of $5,787,344 or 37.9 per cent as against April 1922. This general increase in gross earnings did not arise, traffic officials of the railway state. from increase tonnage in any one commodity. It was the result of a general growth in the business railway, all classes of traffic being favorably affected. The Canadian National system during April paid out in expenses $18,826,000, this amount being $2,582,187 or 13.9 per cent in excess of the month of April 1922.

The net earnings of the Canadian National system for April 1923 were $2,230,311. repsenting an increase in net o $326,78 per cent over April 1922, when the National system had an operating deficit of $947,865.

WHAT IS A "CARD?"

Arnold Bennett, who wrote a novel of that name, described the character as "that most admired type in the bustling industrial provinces."

In general parlance, a "card" is regarded as a quaint, yet cute, person, always doing unexpected things which arouse either amusement or surprise, or both—a pushful, half-economical, resourceful sort of a fellow.

It is an interesting social type, and Mr. Bennett's story dealing with just such a character is, according to his own statement, one of the two most popular of the twenty or so famous novels he has written.

And now "The Card" has gone the way of most popular stories, and been turned into a picture by Ideal Films, Ltd.

The production derives a double interest from the fact that the leading part is played by the brilliant comedian, of "Co optimists" fame, Laddie Cliff, and that the well known heavyweight champion, Frank Goddard, is introduced into the story, and gives typical examples of his prowess.

"The Card" is being shown at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, along with Reginald Denny in a new round of "The Leather Pushers," and a complete adventure of "Sherlock Holmes."

AT THE GRAND.

There was a good-sized audience at the Grand Opera House last evening for the eight Big Time vaudeville acts, which are exceptionally good in every instance. The Japanese headliner, Tamco Kajuyama, has something novel and interesting in his mental psychology experiments, wizard-like accomplishments in rapid calculation and concentration.

There is variety all along the line, with music ranging from grand opera selections to the newest song hits, in the offerings of Miss Angie Campbell and Dan Casler, who sing and play in a manner that earns them much applause. Miss Campbell and Freddie Clinton have a pleasing musical act, "The Little Wop"; and another duo, Miss Grace Kinig and Maurice Briene, have a clever singing and dancing act. The songs of the little colored lad. Walter Lewis, and a stunt act in which cats, dogs, rabbits and birds take part, adds life and vim to an all-round programme of music and fun.

MALE VOICE CHOIR HAD SOCIAL NIGHT

Business for the Year Wound Up at Annual Meeting.

Last night the above organization met in the Woodmen and the World Hall to wind up the 1923 season. The various committees reported on the season's work and very encouraging reports were given. Prospects are bright for the most successful year of this organization's history for 1923-4 season. Following the heavy business session, the choir, with their wives and friends, enjoyed a light luncheon and a little sing-song and dancing.

Messrs. Heintzman and Co. very kindly provided a gramophone for the choir's use, and some lovely music was enjoyed.

The list of officers for the 1923-4 season:

Hon. President, J. M. Greene; Past President, C. B. Adair; President, Fred. Skitch; Vice-President, John Anderson; Secretary-Treasurer C. S. Thompson; Assistant Treasurer, F. E. Kerr. Chairmen of committees — Musical, W. Moore; Membership, Percy Naish; Publicity Fred. Sutcliffe; Social, Paul Manning. Mr. W. J. Rome was appointed Librarian.

A pleasant evening concluded about midnight with the singing of the National Anthem, and the choir members and friends are looking forward to a motor picnic during the summer, where the members will exhibit their prowess at baseball, football, etc. If they prove as good in these sports as they have done in the musical circles this season, the city baseball and football officials will pick up some good talent.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE OF EAST VICTORIA.

Officers Elected For the Ensuing Year—Presentation to Minister's Lady.

OMEMEE, May 30. — The annual meeting of the East Victoria Women's Institute was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Widdis, taking the form of a picnic.

Mrs. Dr. Gould, of Fenelon Falls, district president, was present, and in her address to the ladies gave such inspiration and encouragement that many new members were added to the list. The re-election of officers took place, with the following result:

President, Mrs. E. MacPherson.
1st vice-president, Mrs. R. Cornwall.
Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. Mills.
Auditors, Miss E. Jewett, Mrs. E. H. Mitchell.
Directors, Mrs. J. Palmer, Mrs. Herb. Jones, Miss Lila Parsons.
District representative, Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. MacPherson, Mrs. Cornwall, given by Mrs. E. MacPherson, entitled "My Financial Career," which caused many a smile and much applause.

Mrs. E. H. Mitchell contributed a beautiful solo in good voice, which was much appreciated.

Miss Jamieson, of Renfrew, a delegate from the Department, gave a most helpful address, and many useful hints as to the benefits which are obtained from Institute membership were emphasised.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Gould and Miss Jamieson for their helpful addresses, following which Miss Eva Race delighted her hearers with a piano selection.

Just at this stage of the meeting Mrs. George McQuade and Mrs. A. Scott arose and the former read the following address to Mrs. (Rev.) James, who leaves on Wednesday for her new home in Newcastle:

Dear Mrs. James,

We are gathered together today in our annual happy picnic party of the Women's Institute, and yet there is a feeling of sadness in the knowledge of the fact that you are about to sever your connection with the branch here, to make your home elsewhere.

During your residence in our pretty little village, you have always been a willing worker in our branch. On many occasions we have enjoyed the hospitality of your home, and as we partook of that hospitality, we realised that our Institute motto, "For Home and Country," was your watchword.

The Institute members feel that some slight token in remembrance of our happy association together, should accompany you to your new home in Newcastle. The committee in charge thought that something which you might use every day would be best. So we ask you to take with you this electric toaster as a small memento of the happy days spent in Omemee.

(Signed) Mrs. Widdis,
Mrs. Cornwall.

Mrs. Scott made the presentation, after which Mrs. James replied in a few words, expressing her surprise and her pleasure for the very useful and needy household article, after which all sang heartily, "For she's a jolly good fellow."

Refreshments followed, and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

CONNIE MACK GETTING BACK TO TOP

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, May 30.—(United Press)—Looks like old times to see the Philadelphia Athletics back in the American League Pennant race. The young team that carries the colors of Connie Mack may feel funny up around the heights, but certainly it is no novel experience for the gaunt old leader of the A's.

Mack deserves to get some results, for he was game enough to withstand the ignominy of eight years at the bottom of the pile to prove the contention that he could build up anothe machine as good as the one he smashed in 1914.

The tall Philadelphia leader has peculiar ideas about ball players. He considers a team great only when it has a man in eight of the regular positions patricularly adapted to that position and he says that he now has such a combination.

Mack's success in building up a new contender from practically nothing is a tribute to perseverance and patience.

Johnny Rawlings, having been bounced around with several major league clubs, came to be known as "Lucky Johnny" when he was rescued from the Phils in mid-summer of 1921 and jumped into a cut of two winning ends of the world's series with the Giants. "Lucky John" was sold recently back to the Phils and he yelled that he was the victim of hard luck. He has funny ideas about luck.

Crew matters at Yale and football also used to be considered from the viewpoint of "how much has he" instead of "how good is he."

Battling Siki, that singular Senegalese, is causing the French almost as much trouble as their political difficulties. The Battler simply will not stay out. He has been even worse since he lost his titles than he was when he took upon himself every liberty as being due as a champion.

Several days ago he got "likker" the place. His defense, when arrested, was that it was "American whiskey" and that the pistol was loaded with blanks.

He had hardy been released when he caused a stampede in a popular dining place by releasing a pet tiger which he was pulling around on a leash. The animal became excited with all the commotion and the police had to send for a couple of animal trainers to effect a capture.

Previous to that he had purchased a pet lion, but his wife and the neighbors objected when Siki gave his pet run of the yard and he had to send the jungle king to a zoo.

Jack Dempsey looks like the only relief France could hope for.

Bobby McLean, former world's champion skater, is another young athlete who is building up against beenfit race for ihmself to hang up the blades. He has secured the title of sixteen acres of ground on Magher Lake, in the Sarnac section, and is going to build a club house and a stadium for the promotion of championship races.

It's Yale's own business how Yale runs athletics, but it might not be considered as impertinent for an outsider to hazard a guess that Ed Leader, the new rowing coach, picked his varsity eight from the squad instead of Bradstreet and Dunn's.

MICHIGAN HONORS YOST IN NAMING CLUB HOUSE

ANN HARBOR, May 30.—(Associated Press)—The decision of the University of Michigan to name the new Ferry Field Club house the "Yost Field House" did not come as an inspiration but rather as the result of a demand to thus honor the football mentor, from followers of the Maize and Blue in every part of the world.

For months past the athletic authorities have been deluged with requests that this tribute be paid the coach. The letters came from alumni associations, state officials, men big in official life of this country, including Judge William Day, of the Supreme Court of the United States, and the university body. The requests took the form of petitions, resolutions and letters which in some cases approached demand.

One of the resolutions passed by the university board in control of athletics is typical. This resolution acknowledges that:

"Fielding H. Yost has faithfully and efficiently discharged the duties of his position with credit to the university and to himself; at all times he sheen earnest in advancing the fame of Michigan in the field of athletic endeavor; has impressed upon those with whom he came in contact ideals of fair play, clean living and of unselfish giving, and has been a contributing factor in moulding the character of those about him."

COLORS FOR SPRING

Everything points to the unrestrained use of color during the spring summer season. At Palm Beach and the winter resorts, at all daytime as well as evening affairs, brilliant reds, greens, blues and figured materials are seen. White is the fad of the hour.

KEPT
By AMY PARKINSON

Although, so little strength is mine,
It seems
I cannot even cling, O Lord, to thee—
Yet Thou upholdest me.

Though puzzles past earth's solving press my soul
Until sometimes I scarcely know Thee nigh—
Thou art, no less, close by.

Not for faint spirit, nor enfeebled frame,
Shall I of safety fail—it is Thy power
That keeps me hour by hour.

Never will Thou forsake me while my trust,
'Mid stress of weakness and perplexity,
Is placed alone in Thee;—

And I shall come (sure as a father hears
His child unharmed home through the perilous night)
Unto Thy heaven's clear light.

Sixty-Five Police Sent to Bochum to Combat the Unrest Caused By 'Red' Activities.

ESSEN, May 30, Canadian Press.—The arrival of trained police at Bochum and at other strike zones in the Ruhr yesterday was welcomed by the German officials as being certain to liquidate the unrest among the large numbers of workmen now on strike. The officials predicted that there now would be little more trouble from the Reds.

Sixty-five police from Duesseldorf were sent into Bochum to reinforce the firemen and the White Guards, who since Friday night have been besieged in the headquarters of the firemen.

On the arrival of the policemen there was a rapid disappearance of all the red armlet wearers.

VISITORS FROM

Walter F. Prince of the Psychical Research Society, Houdini, and others. On two occasions a woman was present. At Valentine's right at the seances sat Richard Worrell, also of Wilkesbarre, a friend of Valentine, who is with him at all his seances. There were indications at times that Worrell knew something of what was going on in the room.

The medium and the observers sat in their shirt sleeves because of the warmth of the room, which was locked, and the windows and doors covered to prevent the entrance of light. When the lights were turned off it was so dark that a hand held in front of the eyes, brushing the face could not be distinguished. The darkness was absolute, profound, disconcerting. In front of Valentine were two long, metallic horns, about five inches wide at the mouth. They were upright at the beginning of the seance, and one of them could be distinguished in the darkness by a band of luminous paint about it.

The seances began with prayer and hymns. Sitting in the intense blackness, isolated completely from everybody else in the room, there was an uncanny suggestion in the melancholy songs which were sung with rather lugubrious effect by untrained voices. After an our of this one was ready to believe in anything. The seances generally opened with the voice of "Dr. Barnett," a departed chemist who asked for patience. After he had announced his presence in a faint rumbling from the horn, there was apt to be a long period of silence before the uncanny touches on the knee and arms began, touches which were intended to announce the presence of "spirits." It was startling after an hour of darkness to have something tap one's knee or hand.

Voice of the Darkness.

At the first seance the phenomena came somewhat slowly. The medium was evidently feeling is way, getting accustomed to the room, and the touches from fingers and one of the trumpets were more than an hour the only revelations from "beyond."

Then a voice suddenly cackled out, weird and shrill, "Here I am!" and ending in a laugh that made the hair rise on one's ead.

The voice came from high up in the air and if it were ventriloquism it was wonderful work. More likely it was excellent voice control from the medium standing up in the circle. Voices from Indians, Kokum, Hawk Chief, Black Feet, followed, and in varying cadences they said that they were present and glad to be among friends. Kokum, especially, was impressive for he had a voice like the booming of a great horn, an explosive burst of sound that shattered the nerves when it was first heard.

The voices became more specific at the second seance an occurred more frequently. They were always preceded however by the horn travelling about the cicle, bumping into chairs and legs, touching one gently on the cheek and caressing the top of the head. After a few touches one became reconciled to them, and decided that if these were spirits they did not intend to assassinate one by a prodigious thump. Frequently the medium or Worrell reassured the sitters by saying that the spirits never hurt anybody.

Worrell played a large part in the seances. He led the songs and it was evident that phenomena occurred frequently just when Worrell was talking or had started to sing, which would have made a sound or movement indistinguishable. He had a habit also of talking about chills and gooseflesh and asking if one did not feelnot feel a draft of cold air. In the last seance he was particularly suggestive when he talked of smelling fresh turned earth. Graves! —Br-r-r!

Psychic Lights Appear.

It was at the second seance that the psychic lights which have excited the interest of Sir Conan Doyle and other observers began to appear. F. Bird saw these lights at the seances that he attended in England with Sir Arthur, but he said he never say such large lights as were produced by Valentine. Two of the lights, about as big as an orange, and much the same color, with a bit of red in them, glowed up in front, and although he regarded them with a good deal of interest he could not abuse a tangible connection between them and anything in the room. They did not seem to radiate light and experiments by those on the Scientific American suggested that they might have been made by a flashlight inside of a piece of cloth. Whatever they were they were startling when they appeared in front of one's nose.

The suspicion that Valentine and Worrel had a good deal to do with the phenomena began to be confirmed at the second seance. Austin C. Lescaboura, managing editor of the magazine, had provided the means of testing the medium. He had placed small buttons on the walls between books so that they were discernible in the darkness only to the one who was sitting directly opposite to them. Any opaque body coming between these lights and the observer would obscure them and this occurred when the psychic lights were seen.

The medium was somewhat upset when the lights were first turned off and he saw one of these buttons shining on the wall in front of him. It apparently had been improperly concealed. He asked somewhat nervously that it be covered up. Then a ray of light came through the covering of the door and he talked about this until it was covered. A light appeared faintly for a time through a transom but he thought that this would not matter much. At another time he saw a light between the books which it was said could not have been seen by him unless he moved out of the chair.

These buttons were merely auxiliary guides however and at the last seance the work of detection was done by electrical contacts with the medium's chair, arranged by Mr. Lescarboura, the electrical detective of the committee.

Unde the rug beneath the chair had been placed strips of wood fastened together with canvas on which were copper contacts. The weight of the chair was not sufficient to close the circuit made by these contacts, but when the medium sat in it the circuit was closed an da light came on in the next room. In this room sat two stenographers with headpieces connected with a dictagraph in the seance room. One of them made as complete a record as possible of what was said, which will be published in the July number of the Scientific American. The other watched the light, and with a stopwatch kept a record of the time when it was out, or when the medium left the chair, and of the words or sounds which occurred at these times.

"Bert," one of the "spirits," had talked quite a bit at the second seance about this gathering under test conditions, and had asked that the seance be postponed for one day so that the "forces" might be gathered for a supreme effort. Valentine and Worrell came to the last seance apparently at ease, but soon showed that they were not at all comfortable.

A square strip of wood had been fastened on the floor about the medium's chair, with the avowed purpose of showing if it were moved. Also a piece of paper was pasted to the floor and over a rung under the seat of the chair, a paper which was overlooked by the medium with disastrous results to him. The chairs in the circle were tied together with string to show if they were moved from white spots chalked on the floor. These precautions were obviously childish, so much so that the medium and Worrell suspected that there was something there which thty could not see, and became uneasy.

The "spirits" were slow in getting started at this last seance. Worrell sang with a fine show of non-chalance. Valentine chatted away with Mr. Bird about seances in England. There was darkness and long spells of silence ,talks by Worrell about freshly turned earth, tremendous efforts to get the minds of the sitters in an apprehensive state, but with less success than at the previous two occasions.

Finally the touches began. Mr. Bird was touched first, as he usually was. He talked at all the seances in a credulous, amazed tone, and evidently the medium selected him as a good person to give tone to the seance, much to Mr. Bird's amusement. Then the others were touched.

There was a young woman present this night, and when she was tapped she uttered a gurgling scream of fright which did more to produce atmosphere than all Worrell's chatter. Worrell gave a gasp of dismay and told her she must control herself or the vibrations would be shattered. Dr. Prince was the last to be touched, and after he had waited patiently in his seat directly in front of the medium for some time he was rewarded with a tap.

Horns Got In Their Work.

The horns did most of the phenomena after the first hour of waiting for something to happen. They taped around the circle, touching Bird on the legs—he had a habit of sticking his feet out in front of him which called forth comment from the spirits—and nestling at one time in the reporter's lap. Next to him was a man who was jebbed in such a way that he involuntarily closed his knees on the trumpet and it fell to the floor with a rattle. It was picked up after a time and carried around until it came into collision with Dr. Prince and fell between his legs, resting against one of them.

Dr. Prince told of its position and said it would be an interesting test to see if the "spirits" would pick it up from his leg They didn't, and it stayed there till he had to shift his legs and it fell to the floor. Houdini also got hold of a trumpet and it fell into sections on the floor in front of him. That ended the trumpet phenomena. It was evident that the spirits were a lot clumsier and more nervous this night than before.

Houdini also got a sounding whack on the head from a hand and also from something cold, apparently representing a dead hand. It was at a time when the only loud voice of the seance was heard, that of Kokum, who announced his presence as he whacked Houdini. Kokum was beseeched to stay, but he would not.

Then a whispering voice of a child was heard, and Worrell said it was Bobbie, his little boy, who died when he was six years old. Bobbie was asked to stay and do some of his tricks, but he did not answer again, and Worrell said cheerfully that he had probably "fallen to pieces." This referred to the materialisation of spirits mentioned often by Worrell in his conversations, particularly after the luminous buttons on the wall had been noticed by the medium.

All the voices were faint at the last seance. One came in front of Mr. Bird and said, "Hello, Malcolm." Mr. Bird asked for the spirit's name, and something unintelligible was whispered. Mr Bird asked if the name were "Harry," and when the spirit said it was, Lescarboura and others began to chuckle, and then laugh out loud The reason for this was that Bird had said before going into the seance that if the tiny voice came to him again he was going to suggest the name "Harry." The laughter got on Worrell's nerves.

"Friends," he said, "I must really ask that you treat this seriously. After all, this is a religion to many persons, whether you believe it or not, and it deserves respect. This is the most sacred of all things, the communion with the spirits, more sacred than the communion of the church. Please do not laugh."

"Yes, that is so," spoke up Valentino, "who always talked in a low, repressed monotone, giving his voice as little individuality as possible in the seance room. "You must not laugh."

But the damage had already been done, and "Harry" did not come back to tell how he died by falling off a ferryboat, which was near as the reporter could come to it. After this the spirits did not function well. One psychic light was seen directly over Worrell's head, but it was faint and was not repeated. There were more hymns to get back the vibrations, but the laughter had affected the psychic machinery, and it didn't run well.

Valentine noticed something under the carpet around his chair. He had felt the edge of the contact mat, and said it felt something like paper. He was told that there was paper under the carpet and that it was a bit uneven. He was silent a long time, and then announced that something was in back of him. Then he felt something lift his chair. This happened twice, he said, the chair benig lifted a few inches from the floor.

Apparently he suspected by this time that there was something to indicate when there was no pressure on the chair. After a time he suggested that the seance migh as well be abandoned for the time, although on other occasions he had been willing to sit as long as anyone wished. He and Worrell announced that they couldtn ot hold a seance the next night as had been planned, and that they had to go to Wilkesbarre.

When the stenographer's record was examined Mr. Lescarboura and Mr. Bird could not restrain their pleasure over the success of the electrical connections. The record showed that the medium had been out of his chair fifteen times, as evidenced by the extinguishing of the electric light at the end of the wire attached to the contacts under his chair. The light went out nearly every time some one touched, or when the horn went bumping around between the chair legs. Next time the chair of the medium's friend—if he has one—will be wired also.

Valentine showed celerity in getting in and out of the chair, despite the darkness, for the time he was away varied from five to eighteen seconds

One of the longest times was when Houdini was whacked on the head and Kokus called out above him. The voices of the sitters coincided every time with the extinguishing of the light, and made a record which Mr. Lescarboura regarded as definitely proving the erposure.

"The devicts were simply, but very effective," said Mr. Lescarboura.

"None of them had been used before in seances. The checks were three—the stenographic record, the light, and the stopwatch. The luminous buttons played an important part, but they were not so accurate or definite as the record made in the other room. We have other devices which we have not used, and when we get another medium we will be able to tell whtther he is in his chair or not withotu any wire connection."

Valentine will not get the $2,500 prize for genuine psychic phenomena.

PREM. BALDWIN TAKES WIND OUT OF SAILS OF RADICAL LEADERS

Readiness to Give Opportunity for Debate in House of Commons on Minimum Wage Bill May Avert the Miners' Strike.

MANY UNEMPLOYED

LONDON, May 31. — (United Press.)—The Premier's readiness to meet the wishes of Labor by giving an opportunity for a debate in the House of Commons on the Minimum Wage Act Amending Bill has taken the wind out of the sails of the radical leaders at Blackpool, where the meeting of the Miners' Federation opened yesterday. These leaders had based their hopes for an effective attack on the national agreement on the lowness of the minimum wage.

May Avert Trouble.

A motion was placed before the conference this morning that in view of the promise of Stanley Baldwin to give a day for discussion, to adjourn the minimum wage discussion until July tenth, and it is felt by moderates that if a date can be thus put forward the chances of a general strike are materially lessened. The leaders of the Boiler Makers' Union, however, after meeting representatives of the shipbuilding interests and the Shipbuilding Employers' Federtaion, have failed to come to any agreement. The situation for a settlement is not hopeful. The probability of such a strike being called and spreading is regarded with serious apprehension.

Unemployment shows an upward movement and in May the number added to the unemployed rolls was 38,779 over April figures, bringing the total for Great Britain to 1,207,300. Fluctuations in the common industry are blamed for this.

LABOR LEADER IN NEW CELL

Robert P. Brindell, Former Building Trades Czar Blames Only Himself for Change.

PLATTSBURG, N.Y., May 31.—Robert P. Brindell occupies Cell 111 in the west hall of Clinton Prison on the labor leader having been received at the institution on Dannemora Mountain as one of a draft of forty-four from Sing Sing The transferred convicts arrived at Dannemore in charge of four officers, having made the trip from the prison on the Hudson to the Siberia of prison institutions seated in the same special day coach for the entire journey.

Brindell, handcuffed to a long-term prisoner and wearing leg irons marched from the railroad station up the hill to the main entrance of Clinton Prison, and passing within the gray walls lost his identity and became known only by his prison number. In the absence(of Warden Kaiser the draft was received by Deputy Warden Granger, who assigned the men temporarily to the west hall. Brindell and his associates will to-morrow be examined by the prison physician, and on Thursday will be assigned to a company and prison workshop. He probably will be put to work in the cotton shop, to which practically all new arrivals are assigned, and there will assist in the manufacture of cloth to be used in uniforms for himself and the other inmates of the prison.

Treatment Depends on Conduct

When asked if Brindell would receive special privileges Deputy Warden Granger stated that all convicts were treated alike in Clinton. No punishment will be meted out to the labor leader because of his infraction of the rules at Sing Sing and he will begin his career at Clinton with a clean slate his treatment in that institution in the future depending entirely on his own conduct. Brindell was put in the cell formerly occupied by Fred Schultz who for a number of years, managed the prison baseball team and was discharged yesterday, after serving 17 years in the institution. He started today for his home in New York City.

Brindell wore a tired, haggard look as he entered the prison gate and appeared relieved as he was conducted by prison guard through the hall in which the cell he now occupies is located. He will have no opportunity in Clinton of holding informal receptions, being allowed to see visitors only from behind a screen and separated from them by six feet. His time in the cotton shop will depend almost entirely on his conduct but will not be for less than six months when, at the discretion of Warden Kaiser, he may be assigned to less arduous duties.

PETERBORO BUYING 1300 ROSE BUSHES

More Than Half the Supply is Gone and Rest Should Be Bought at Once.

Can Peterborough absorb thirteen hundred rose bushes?

Mr. J. S. Peters of William Street, took a chance on the belief that the home and flower lovers of Peterborough would snap at the opportunity of buying at small price rugged, healthy bushes that will bear flowers this year.

About half the 1,300 have been sold through the assistance of Mr. Cecil Williamson of the Peterborough Floral Company, and it is hoped that the rest will be disposed of this week.

Some of the towns and villages near Peterborough have taken quite a number of these plants, which are selling at 50 cents, with several choice varieties at 65 cents.

Among the well-known varieties offered in this sale is Sunburst (yellow), Hoosier Beauty (red), Angelus (white), Crusader, American Beauty and others.

Those who are interested in roses would do well to make a selection from these bushes, and if they are not familiar with rose culture they would be materially assisted by the new booklet issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa on hardy roses. This is a new issue, which may be obtained free on request

RESIDENTS IN ASHBURNHAM WEARY OF DUST MENACE

See No Reason Why Work of Oiling Streets Should Be Delayed Until the Dog Days of Summer

Resident of Ashburnham are beginning to wonder how much more of summer season will be allowed to fade away before Hunter street including the bridge receives an application of oil. They have suffered now for several weeks while streets in every little village between Peterboro and Toronto have been oiled long ago. They contend that the Board of Works department is unnecessarily dilatory in this connection. If the streets are going to be oiled why not have it done early and let the residents have the benefit instead of prolonging the agony until late in the season. They do not take very kindly to the item which appeared in yesterday's paper stating that preparations for street oiling were delayed owing to the enforced absence of City Engineer Parsons from his office. The matter of road oiling they claim is not one that should rest entirely on the shoulders of one man. The streets of Peterboro have been oiled for many years and in that time there ought to be a small army of men capable of doing this work without the personal supervision of the engineer. Let the street commissionr supervise the work.

For some weeks past as in other years the Hunter street bridge has been a disgrace to the civic administration. All the traffic of the East Ward is forced over this structure and the filth and dust that swirls around the structure is unbearable.

INSTALL FLYER ON THE C.N.R.

Fast Train Service Between Peterboro' and and Toronto at Early Date Practically Assured

That the flyer from Peterborough to Toronto will be inaugurated on the Canadian National Railroad in the near future is practically certain according to information received in the city this morning. This first train was requested on the occasion of the recent visit of Sir Henry Thornton, and the speedy action taken toward its installation is a matter for congratulation.

The schedule has not been definitely fixed, but it is probable that it will leave Peterborough at 7.10 a.m. and arrive in Toronto at 10.15 a.m. A return fast train will leave Toronto probably at 7 p.m., arriving in Peterborough at 10 p.m. The new train will run via Lindsay.

CHILDREN'S TAG DAY FOR UNDER-PRIVILEGED CHILD

The Good Work Done at Jackson Park to Be Continued This Summer.

Those of you who visited Jackson Park last summer undoubtedly saw the Children's Camp, and viewed with interest the happy youngsters who were having the time of their lives in the two weeks of freedom and supervised care which they enjoyed at the expense of the Peterborough Health Association.

The under-privileged child is something that we always have with us. They are to form a part of the group of our future citizens. With good care and proper nourishment when they are young at the critical period of their lives, there is a chance for them to grow up into healthy, robust men and women. It is a duty of the citizens of Peterborough which they owe posterity to give them this chance.

The Peterborough Health Association are doing all they can with the limited means at their disposal. This year practically double the number of children will be cared for at Jackson Park. This also will mean that double the amount of funds will be required.

In order to raise the necessary funds, 9th June has been set aside as a Tag Day. The amount you will give for a tag will be small to you, but the aggregate, it is hoped, will amount to enough to help these little youngsters, who have not the privileges of your own children, up the grade toward a better and a healthier future. Let all the citizens of Peterborough join in the good work, and make the Tag Day a glorious success.

LICENSE-LESS CANINES HAD BETTER WATCH OUT

James Gates, D.C., reports that there are still many people without licenses for their dogs. These people think that he does not know of their delinquency, but, astute gentleman that he is, he has some thirty listed for immediate action. Many of these, he says, are on Concession Street and in that vicinity, and if the licenses are not taken out very soon there will be much wailing in that locality over departed dogs.

Dogs are given warning by the Official Dog Catcher that his duties at the bathing beach, which commence to-morrow, will not interfere with his appointments with licenseless dogs.

MONAGHAN MAN IS CHARGED WITH A SERIOUS OFFENCE

Edward Lewis Blackwell appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley in the County Police Court this forenoon on two serious charges. The first was that of assaulting a girl under 16 and over 14 years of age, the offence being perpetrated in North Monaghan. To this charge the prisoner was not prepared to plead, and action was adjourned until June 6 to permit of his considering his action. The second charge was that on April 16 he stole a gold watch valued at $40 from the girl injured under the first charge. To this he pleaded not guilty, and the case was remanded until June 6 at the request of Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton.

Blackwell was arrested in Gooderham two days ago by Provincial Constable Storey and handed over to Provincial Constable George Cookman last night.

LIGHT SESSION FOR CROWE'S COMMITTEE

Request for Better Street Lighting Dealt With—Inspect Overcoats.

The placement of lights on several streets and the inspection of the Fire Department's needs as to overcoats for next winter comprised the minor business at last night's meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Ald. Crowe was authorized to have a light hung on Bonacord Street, at the C.N.R. crossing, and the Utilities Commission will be asked to place one at the corner of Monaghan Road and McDonnel Street. The lighting of Hilliard Street was referred to Aldermen Crowe and Stocker, with power to act. Three lights have been asked for in a petition to the Council, which will likely require some re-arrangement. This sub-committee will also look after the building of a railing along the gravel pit on Hilliard Street.

No Distinctions in the Girl Guides.

MONTREAL, May 31.— (Canadian Press.)— "We have no class distinctions in the Girl Guides; we have Princess Mary as a member and we also have the child from the London slums with her toes sticking out of her boots," declared Lady Baden-Powell, head of the Girl Guide movement in addressing a joint meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and the Women's Caandian Club here yesterday afternoon.

MRS. PHILLIPS RAISING THE FRAME-UP CRY

Appeal Denied, Hammer Slayer Starts on Last Lap of Long Journey to California,

ACCUSES PEGGY

NEW ORLEANS, May 31—Clara Phillips, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meaddws of Los Angeles last summer and captured recently in Honduras, where she fled after escaping from the Los Angeles County Jail, has begun the last lap of her long journey to the California penitentiary at San Quentin to begin her 10 years to life term.

The convicted woman fled from the Los Angeles jail while awaiting action on an appeal. Dispatches from Los Angeles last night stated of the appeal had been dismissed and that commitment papers ordering her confinment in the state penitentiary had been signed.

Mrs. Phillips, in charge of Eugene Biscailuz, under-sheriff of Los Angeles, and Deputy Sheriff Walter Hunter, and accompanied by her sister, Etta May Jackson and Mrs. Biscailuz, wife of the California official, arrived yesterday on the Colonel Fruit Co., steamer Copan from Puerta Cortez. She was escorted immediately to the parish prison. To guard against escape, Mrs. Biscailuz spent the night in the prison with Mrs. Phillips. The prisoner was held incommunicado after she had received newspaper reporters shortly after her arrival here.

Accuses Peggy Caffee.

In her talk with newsaper men Mrs. Phillips stated she was returning to California voluntarily to fight for her freedom. She declared she was innocent of the crime for which she had been convicted and charged that Peggy Caffee, the state's star witness, had killed Mrs. Meadows.

She asserted her conviction was a "frame up" and that she had obtained evidence during the five weeks she remained in and about Los Angeles after her escape from prison, to prove it.

She lost no time in telling newspapermen that she was returning home voluntarily, confident of establishing her innocence.

In City 5 Weeks.

Mrs. Phillips said she remained in concealment in the outskirts of Los Angeles five weeks after her escape and during that time made frequent visits to the business district, disguised only by a pair of shell-rimmed glasses.

When she left Los Angeles, she went to St. Louis, she said, coming to New Orleans from there. She remained here 10 days, using the name of Mrs. Jesse Carsen, and said she moved about the city without fear. Carsen was here at the time, she said.

Mrs. Phillips and Carsen went by boat to Vera Cruz and then to Mexico City, she said. Her sister, Miss Etta May Jackson, joined her there. Because Carsen's drinking and other escapades began to attract attention, she continued, they moved south, finally landing in Honduras, where her arrest ended in her flight.

VILLAGE OUT OF DANGER.

FORT WILLIAM, May 31. — (Canadian Press.) — Fanned by a strong north-west wind, bush fires were still burning in the vicinity of White River late yesterday, but reports indicated there was no immediate danger to the town.

Twenty-five men have been sent from Port Arthur to fight the fires.

ADD NAMES OF VOTERS TO LISTS IN BELMONT

Magistrate Langley's sittings for the revision of the voters' lists in Belmont township resulted in sixty-five names being inscribed at Cordova and seventy-eight in Havelock. Other names were mentioned but the persons did not appear or their names were not put forward for inclusion in the list.

Owing to the resignation of the recording secretary, Miss E. Roberts of Port Hope, Mrs. Wickett of Port Hope, was appointed to fill the office. Mrs. William Hume of Campbellford acting in this capacity inMrs Wickett's absence. Mrs. K. Denoon is the organist for the occasion.

Prayer and Praise.

The prayer and praise service, which opened the morning session, was led by Mrs. R. Pogue, representing the Auxiliary of St. Paul's church. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the corresponding secretary Mrs. A.Harper, of Coldspings, who also led the hearing of abstract reports given by branch Auxiliaries on the year's progress in Women's Missionary Society Work. The report of the Auxiliary of St. Andrew's church was read by Mrs. J. John, in the absence of the secretary,and Mrs. Adam Hall reviewed the work of the Fraser Auxiliary of St. Paul's church, giving some interesting ideas in connection with the raising of funds for missionary work, including the holding of rummage sales, December sales for Christmas gifts, afternoon teas, "cent a day" boxes, and Lenten offerings from self-denial funds.

Good Work Done.

At the conclusion of the reading of these reports, Mrs. Harper congratulated the branches, and Mrs. McKenzie contrasted the good work done by the rural members under great disadvantages, with the work under more favorable conditions of city auxiliaries, which she said should extend a greater degree of sympathy and help to their rural sisters.

The address of welcome was given the visitors in a brief speech by Mrs. John McPherson, followed by the reading of reports by Mission Bands, led by the Mission Band secretary, Mrs. William Hume, of Campbellford. Mrs. W. F. Nelson reported fo the Faithful Workers of St. Paul's church.

Commenting on the splendid work done by the Junior Mission Bands during the year, Mrs. McKenzie said that the training of boys and girls, as carried on in these Bands, was one of the most important of the church's activities. The foundation of adult interest in missionary work was made in these bands, where interest in the church work was fostered, and givings made by the inculcation of a self-sacricing spirit for Jesus' sake. It was not only an important work for the church, but also for the country and the Dominion. Difficulties which now faced the church in lack of interest and of attendance might have been forestalled if the training of children along these lines had been fostered years ago.

Mission Band Work.

In the discussion which followed the reading of Mission Band reports, reference was made by delegates to the difficulty experienced in Mission Band Work by workers in the bands joining C.G.I.T. groups after twelve years of age, the difficulty being further accentuated by the fact that C. G.I.T. groups were composed of workers from different denominations. That the Mission Bands were primarily for members under twelve years of age, and that the C.G.I.T. groups were affiliated now with the Women's Missionary Society, and pledged to hold one meeting monthly in the interests of missionary work, was explained by Mrs. Hume.

Expressions of regret to Mrs. Ewart and Miss Dickson, will be forwarded by the convention.

The Committees.

The appointment of Nominating and resolutions committees was made the Nominating Committee to be composed of the following members: Miss Thompson, of Hastings; Mrs. J. W. Rork, of Norwood; Mrs. McLeod of Brighton; Mrs. G. L. Craw, of Springville; and Mrs. Aitkin, of Millbrook. Mrs. Clark of Brighton and Mrs. William Hume, of Campbellford, form the members of the Resolutions Committee.

This evening a public meeting will be held, with greetings extended by Rev. R. Pogue and Mayor Taylor, and an address by Miss Cass of Korea.

CURIOUS MULTITUDES VIEW THE REMAINS OF DEAD BANDIT, ROGERS

Incidents in Career Desperado Rogers

May 16, 1923—Escaped from North Bay courtroom flourishing fake revolver.
May 18, 1923 — Killed Constable Frank Lefebvre and wounded Constable McGovern.
May 30, 1923 — Re-appeared at his home, and killed Provincial Police Sergeant John Urquhart, and escaped; pursued to the woods and career ended by shots from Provincial Police Squad.

No Weeping Nor Expressions of Sorrow or Pity for Young Desperado Who Held Police at Bay For Two Weeks.

A BRIEF INQUEST

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 31.—(Special).—To-day the undertaking parlours here, where lies the body of Leo. Rogers, the hunted desperado, shot to death by a posse of police yesterday evening, were opened to the public, and from nine o'clock streams of people poured in to look at the dead man.

The upper part of his body was bare. Against the whiteness of his right shoulder stood out the blue scar, where one bullet had struck him. His features showed a change from the pictures for identification which had been shipped out by the police. His cheeks were thinner. His hair was longer and brushed back roughly from a slanting forehead.

In death his lips formed a thin straight line and the set of his jaw evidenced a clenching of the teeth.

Those who entered did not stay to gaze long at the dead bandit. There was no weeping, no expression of sorrow from the towns people who saw him. Rather they stood for a moment, then, with curiosity satisfied, returned to the street to discuss the rapid turn of events.

Johnson's Story

Ensconced at police headquarters sat Mr. John Johnson, who had telephoned the information of Rogers whereabouts to the police.

Though it has not been officially announced as yet, it is understood that he will get the reward of $1,500. "The money goes to the man who gave us the information," said the Provincial Inspector to the Examiner, and it was pointed out that Police officers who shot and killed Rogers are not eligible for the shekels.

"That's our business," one Constable explained.

The sum of $1,500 looks mighty good to Johnson, as evidenced by his remarks to the Examiner. He is a farmer in a none too prosperous bit of stoney territory.

A short set sunburned chap, ordinarily taciturn, he grew loquacious at the mention of money 'Yes, sir,' said he meditatively, "just think! yesterday I was upstairs at my brother's when Rogers came out of the bush

Dirty and Bleeding

He looked pretty dirty and his face was bleeding. As he came near the house the dog ran at him. "Hey," said he, "This dog won't bite, will he?"

My brother ran out then and called off the dog. Then Rogers pretended he was a constable, for he said, "I'm looking for the man who shot Lefebvre." He asked a lot of questions about good roads and if there were any police about, and if he could buy a revolver. My brother never told him much, and then I beat it to Callendar and telephoned the police.

Just Think of It!

He paused and grinned and twisted his pipe to the corner of his mouth. "Just think of it, from the telephone call I get more than a year's pay. I'd like to send a telephone call like that every day."

"What will you do with it?"

"Darned if I know. Anyhow I'll split it with my brother and then

MODERN GIRLS STEPPING OUT

Preparing to Take Place in Competition With Men, Suffer Defeats, Gain Achievements.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., May 31. — Young women are beginning to find the jazz period too shallow, and are turning to things of a more healthy type, Dr. Frank Paxon Bye, Professor of Physchology at the Darlington Seminary, declared to-day at the commencement exercises of that institution. "The girl of to-day," he said, "is not of the clinging type; she has grown out of the old shell, but she doesn't know what direction to take. This has given us the flapper and her fondness for jazz. The modern girl is really stepping out; she is preparing to take her place in competition with man, suffer defeats, and gain achievements; she finds that she cannot remain aloof from the world in general; to be a good housekeeper she must be robust and a good business woman and also a good sport. Women are reaching a more equal basis with men, and the stage of growing equality may reach a point where proposals of marriage may come from women as well as from men."

Experiments to Aid Canadian Cheesemakers.

OTTAWA, May 31.— (Canadian Press.)— With a view to improving the quality of Canadian cheese, the department of agriculture, it was intimated in the House last night, is making experiments in manufacturing cheese in a large factory. Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, said he was satisfied that one reason why Canadian cheese had fallen behind was because it was made in a large number of small factories. Conditions in the small factories were not always satisfactory.

CAUGHT UNAWARES, WASHING HIS HANDS IN A SMALL LAKE LEO ROGERS, THE NOTORIOUS BANDIT OF NORTH BAY, IS SHOT TO DEATH YESTERDAY BY A POSSE OF POLICE

Surrounded in Bush Eight Miles From Nipissing, Man Hunt Which Has Stirred the Whole of Ontario For Thirteen Days Ended By Gun Fire.

STOREY FIRED FIRST.

NORTH BAY, May 31 (Special to The Examiner). — Leo Rogers was shot dead by members of Inspector Storey's party in a bush about eight miles from Nipissing yesterday afternoon.

His body was brought to North Bay.

A telephone message announcing the end of the man hunt was received at 8 o'clock last night by Chief of Police Moreby.

All parties of the Provincial Police are being recalled, as the chase is ended.

The Provincial Police, under Inspector Storey, of Sudbury, reached this city at 10.15 p.m. with Rogers' body, which now lies in the local undertaking parlours.

According to the first reports, Inspector Storey fired the first shot when Rogers was discovered washing his hands in a lake near the small village of Nipissing.

The desperado was caught unawares, and had no opportunity of answering the fire.

Wounded, Rogers fell on the shore, and members of the posse, which numbered seven, shot the fugitive to death.

The reward of $1,000 offered by the Provincial authorities for information leading to Rogers' arrest will in all probability go to Allan Johnson, a farmer, living near Nipissing Village, 20 miles from here, who discovered Rogers as he landed from a skiff yesterday morning.

Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy, head of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Provincial Force, with twelve picked members of the force, was at the Union Station last night waiting for his train to pull out for North Bay, when he received a telephone message that the man killer had been shot to death.

It was not then necessary for the party to make the trip, and their equipment was immediately removed from the train.

Commissioner Satisfied

When the news of the shooting and capture of Rogers was received by General Victor Williams in Toronto, The Commissioner expressed himself as pleased that Rogers removal as a menace to society had been effected without further loss of life which it was feared might be the case.

"The case has now been taken entirely out the hands of the Provincial Police and their connection with it is ended," were the concluding remarks of Commissioner Williams.

There were several dramatic moments connected with the receipt of the news of the shooting in the North country. A party of twelve picked members of the Ontario Provincial Police had been organized under Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy and were to have left last night at 8.45 for the North country.

Every man was a veteran of the Great War and knew the use of fire arms. They were on the station plat form waiting for the train to pull out with the special 'Lindsay' attached when the news was received.

Pre-Confidence

At about 8.20 (Standard Time) Mr. Cuddy came along the train plat form chatting with several friends just before going aboard the train with his men. He was carrying a heavy grip and expressed confidence that it would not be long before Rogers was caught.

Suddenly an attendant of the Union Station came running toward him shouting "Mr. Cuddy.... Mr. Cuddy.....you're wanted on the telephone." Knowing that it was only a few minutes before train time the Deputy Commissioner hurried to the telephone. In less than a minute he was back again, ordering the assembled posse of north-bound police to remove their equipment from the train. Back the Deputy went to the telephone again.

This time the Deputy Commissioner was longer. Then over the telephone came the first sharp outline of what had occurred in the late afternoon and evening of the eventful day. Over the wires came the information from Provincial Police Inspector Moore, that Rogers had been shot, that the chase had ended.

Calling his men to attention on his return, Cuddy told them in a few short sentences what had happened—why it would not be necessary for them to go to the North country. Four minutes later the North Bay train pulled out, but without the additional police who had been assembled in a further effort to "land Rogers."

Dead or Alive

Just before the news came from the North there was grim determination written on the faces of the Deputy Commissioner and his twelve men. They were prepared to "get Rogers dead or alive." From early yesterday morning when the news first reached the city that Sergeant Urquhart had been shot down by the desperado while resisting arrest there were signs of additional preparations by the Provincial Police.

The word was given out that Rogers must be captured at whatever cost it might entail. Commissioner Williams, who was in North Bay, last week, directing operation was in consultation with Attorney General W. E. Raney and Deputy Commissioner Cuddy. It was finally decided that the Deputy Commissioner would personally go north with the special extra force which was detailed to find Rogers. Preparations for firearms and various other supplies were quickly made.

The end of the ex-convict came with all the dramatic suddenness that had been characteristic of the events in the two weeks man hunt, one minute he was running along a beach trying to escape police. A crackling of shooting rang out and he collapsed into a clump of bushes and just as the police reached him he gasped out his last breath. The man hunt began in earnest following the murder of Provincial Sergeant Urquhart yesterday. Inspector Moore called in his reserves from the surrounding country, some two dozen police were on the trail.

Then word came from a little village to the east of North Bay, throwing a light on Roger's movements. The desperado had made his way to the lake from where he had hidden a small motor boat he had stolen two night's before. In this he started across the lake. Nearing Nipissing village he had left the boat and had walked through the bush to the residence of one, Mr. Johnson. This man described the desperado as being unarmed and having a cut and bleeding face. He had asked Johnson many questions Were there any police around? Were there any good roads near Where could you get a good revolver? On getting no information he returned to the lake shore.

Mr. Johnson's story was phoned to North Bay police headquarters and the posse started for Nipissing village, twenty miles by road about ten across the lake, arriving there Inspector Moore commandeered the fishing boats of the district and also a tug from Callandar. These vessels began a patrol of the lake shore, while the posse swept along through the land and the bush. Farmers who knew the country guided the posse.

Rogers Fired

Then all at once out of the bush near the lake shore rang a rifle shot. Rogers had been alarmed by the patrolling boats and had fired. The posse closed in. Several constables saw the desperado at the same time. He was dodging in and out of the bushes.

"Some of my men told me that they watched him for two hours", said Inspector Moore to the Examiner. It was certain that some of them watched him for an hour. He was slipping in and out through the

SIX CROFTERS SEIZED LAND IN ISLAND OF SKYE

Were Imprisoned For Contempt of Court and Cause Was Brought Up in the House of Commons.

EXCEPTIONAL CASES.

LONDON, May 31. Canadian Press Cable. — The case of the six crofters of the Island of Skye, ex-service men, who a few days ago were sentenced to prison for two months for contempt of court in disobeying an order restraining them from encroaching on an estate at Strathaird, came up in the House of Commons yesterday. Indignant Labor members asked a number of questions about the matter.

Captain W. E. Elliott, M. P., for Lanark, Scotland on behalf of the Board of Agriculture in connection with the land settlement scheme, said that none of these men had been included in the 1919 settlement scheme for the township to which they belonged. They could have been considered for holdings on other lands which the board had acquired in Skye, he said, had it not been for their illegitimate action which resulted in their names being removed from the Board's list of approved applicants. He pointed out that as the sentences imposed by the Court were in vindication of its authority the case was not one in which he could intervene. He did not think the suggested enquiry would serve any purpose in expediting land settlement for the Crofters.

A member urged that as these men had applied for land as long ago as 1919 and had been driven by desperation to take small holdings under raid or by threat Captain Elliott replied that as the sentences were passed by the court, no action the executive could take could affect them. With regard to making representations to the court on behalf of the six imprisoned crofters, he said it naturally would weigh with the court whether the men were prepared to carry out the court's judgment.

With reference to striking their names off the list, this action was taken under the policy instituted by the late secretary for Scotland. Elliott said he was willing to consider the question of making representations to the Secretary for Scotland but it would be unjust to the other ex-service men who had been law-abiding in the face of great provocation if the latter's claims were not considered in connection with the matter of restoring the names of the six.

He added that the imprisoned men were receiving special treatment and were not being treated as criminals.

Ask Removal of the Canadian Pension Board

VICTORIA, May 31.—(Canadian Press).—A resolution moved by Right Rev. Dr. Schofield Bishop of Columbia, and seconded by Alderman E. W. Woodward, secretary of the Trades and Labor Council calling upon the Dominion government to remove the members of the Canadian Pension Board was endorsed last night at a meeting of three hundred citizens. N. D. Twigg, commandant of the Canadian Legion here, quoted individual cases of alleged harsh treatment by the board and reviewed the recent report of the Royal Commission which recently investigated the acts of that body.

PUBLICITY FOR PHILIPPINES

MANILA, May 30.—(Associated Press)—Jaime C. de Veyra, former resident Philippine commissioner at Washington, recommends an intensive publicity campaign in the United States in favor of Philippine independence. He says the American people are in favor of insular freedom, and that the expenditure of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 a year in publicity will accomplish the desired end.

TAKE NO CHANCES.

The immediate duty of every citizen in Peterborough who possesses the necessary qualifications is to make sure that his or her name appears on the voters' list.

The first step is to consult the list at once. If the name is there nothing further need to be done except to wait until election day, and then vote.

If, however, from some cause or other the elector finds that his name is not listed he should not fail to take advantage of the chance offered by the sittings of the revising officers to either personally appear before the revising officers or have some one appear in his behalf and have his name registered.

The local sittings begin on June 8th, so that it is highly important to have this matter attended to at once.

The easiest way is to visit the headquarters of the particular political party whose policies you favour. The voters' lists are there and all the necessary information is available, so that the elector who finds himself later on disenfranchised because his name does not appear on the official lists will only have his own carelessness to thank for his inability to vote.

Don't take it for granted your name is on the list. See for yourself now so that there will be time to rectify the omission if by some misadventure your name has been dropped.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

The band concert season is again at hand, and with the pleasure offered thousands of citizens by the weekly programmes given in Victoria Park, comes also the annoyance caused at the same time by scores of thoughtless motorists who seem to select parts of Murray and Brock streets from 8 to 10 p.m. on Friday as the appropriate place and time for a hill-climbing contest with all the noise their machines are capable of as an obligato to the music of the band.

The suggestion has been made that for the benefit of the many citizens whose enjoyment of the weekly concert has in other seasons been persistently marred by such disturbances, the streets on at least three sides of the park be closed to motor traffic between 8 and 10 o'clock on Friday evenings—a proceeding that would put an end to the almost ceaseless procession of cars.

Power to regulate all traffic is in the hands of the Police Commission, and if an order were to be passed prohibiting motor cars from the streets adjoining the park on the south, east and north during the hours of the weekly concerts, it would be hailed with delight by the majority of citizens who want a chance to enjoy good music unaccompanied by the boiler-shop shows usually supplied by motorists who have little regard for the pleasure of others.

Perhaps the mere threat of such an order would do much to remedy the nuisance.

THE NEW CONDITIONS.

Complaints are sometimes heard that the zest has gone out of political campaigns because of the passing of the majority of the party newspapers and the substitution of neutral journals in their place.

But while such a condition may cause an absence of the fireworks that featured the editorial conduct of the old-time campaign, after all it is perhaps much better that the party paper has in many cities disappeared.

In most of the Provincial centres there is but one newspaper, and serving as it does readers of all shades of political opinion, such a journal is far more useful than were the partizan sheets of a decade ago—because it furnishes complete, unbiased and uncoloured news of the activities of all the political parties.

Not so long ago it was not possible for an elector to secure anything like complete news of a political campaign unless he read the papers supporting all sides represented in the fight.

Meetings of the party to whose political tenets a newspaper subscribed were always pictured as scenes of wonderful enthusiasm and marked by gripping oratory; on the other hand, the same papers would ignore opposition meetings or refer to them as a frost or a failure.

Nowadays papers like the Examiner, alone in the field, endeavour to use their news columns to present unvarnished, fair and accurate reports of all political meetings, regardless of party, believing that their readers are entitled to the same service in this regard as they are to information on any other subject of general interest.

Such a policy may detract from the excitement of campaigns, but it gives the electors a much better chance to read and digest the issues as they are discussed from all angles.

IT OFTEN PAYS TO STAY.

Toronto report says farmers near there are coming into the city and city people are going out on the farms.

Why? The farmers claim they have not made a success the last few years, and they want to try the city, says the London Advertiser.

Some city people are tired of the pace, tired of the rush and the competition, and want to get away from it all. So they turn to the farm.

All this changing around is good, at least, for the real estate people, and it may be good for the people themselves. A pasture some distance off may look green, greener than the one at home, and the one sure way to find out that it has its dry spots, its weeds and its stubble is to go over and investigate. Once a man does that and pays for the trip over he is wiser, and he has some wisdom that he has paid for in cash, which, after all, is a most excellent variety.

Back of all this commotion, though, there is a restlessness that is evident in many places; there is a reaching out for something else, a desire to attain, coupled with the idea that attainment is easier of accomplishment some place else.

The man who left the village ten years ago comes down a peg when he goes there on a visit and finds that some of the boys who stayed right there in the "slow" little village are today in possession of very respectable business interests, own their own homes, and are fairly well established. They stuck to the old pasture, and let the others hop out and try the one that looked green from the distance.

The new pasture may have been all it looked, but there was a lot of picking in the old one, too.

The man who accomplishes most is the one who, as a general thing, develops his own territory to the limit before packing up his goods for the next move.

LEARN TO SWIM.

The Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated upon the community spirit indicated in its fine offer to teach all boys in the city who wish to learn to swim, the art of taking care of themselves in the water.

Instruction will be supplied without charge, and the swimming-pool at the Y. M. C. A. is being thrown open for the use of the youngsters of the city, the only restriction being that boys who wish to take advantage of the offer must register this week in order that the Y. M. C. A. authorities may know how many to provide for.

Many Peterborough boys have the Y. M. C. A. to thank for their ability to swim, and undoubtedly their number will be considerably augmented before this season's free classes are through.

Every youngster in Peterborough who has not mastered the useful art would be well advised to enroll himself for the course offered, and parents should see to it that this opportunity is not allowed to go to waste.

With the facilities offered by this city and its immediate environment for indulging in boating and other water sports, a knowledge of swimming is decidedly essential.

There are risks for the non-swimmer, risks that spoil the pleasure of an outing on the water, and considering that it is an easy matter to learn the rudiments of the art and to consistently improve through practice, it is to be hoped that the facilities offered so generously by the local Y. M. C. A. will be fully taken advantage of by Peterborough's boyhood.

Every boy a swimmer is a good slogan that is brought near to realization by the splendid offer of the Red Triangle.

THE "FORD-FOR-PRESIDENT BOOM."

The Henry Ford boom for the American Presidency has had a bad set-back. William Randolph Hearst has announced that, under certain circumstances, the "flivver" king will get his support. This ought to ditch him quicker than a punctured tire. Hearst's support has been fatal to more candidates for high office in the United States—including Hearst—than almost any other single handicap we can at the moment recall. Even "Billy" Bryan was doing fairly well in his first campaign until Hearst came out for him.

But Henry the First of Michigan may easily escape this embarrassment. He is only to be tagged with the Hearst support in case he runs as an Independent candidate; and an Independent candidate, in the Hearst glossary, means a Hearst candidate. It may possibly occur to the shrewd gentleman from Detroit, however, that the New York publisher may be trying to use him and his undoubted popularity for trading purposes. If Ford can be boomed into a menace to the more regular party aspirants, and if Hearst can make it appear as if he were an essential part of the boom, then the latter might easily say to the Democratic party organization: "You can't take Ford, and we will not take your man; but we might coalesce and compromise on some popular idol acceptable to both, say, a certain deserving and modest journalist with a foot—or, rather, a paper—in every city."

Superior people are talking as if the Ford candidature were so inherently absurd that it can only serve as a measure of the amount of feeble-mindedness at large in the United States. But these superior folk are forgetting the amount of honest disgust at large in every thinking community with the ordinary mill-run of politician. The guiding principle with the majority of voters today is: "It can't be worse." This disgusted majority might prefer a more imposing knight-errant than Henry Ford; but what will attract them to Ford is his immense availability. It is obviously of no use to run a man to punish the politicians whom the politicians can bury at the polls.

Henry Ford has done one thing that millions of people in the United States will love him for—he looks as if he had successfully trounced "Wall Street." He does not merely fling fiery but futile epithets at "Wall Street"—he raises money without its help and even finances his own city. Then he has made money without permitting money to unmake him. He is still the simple-minded, simple-living, hard-working mechanic he always was. He has his own opinion on things—usually wrong—commonly without any reference to limitations which hamper men who know more. For instance, after the United States has just covered itself with glory, by bringing all the world to a naval agreement, he proposes light-heartedly to ignore that agreement and build a stronger navy. Possibly he just happened to think of this when he was writing out his policy, and never for a second recalled the Washington Conference or his own Peace Ship. It jumped with his mood at the moment. That may not be the best method for statesmanship, but it is the way a great many voters do their political thinking.

And there is nothing that a free and unterrified democracy likes better than to make rulers after its own image.

Would Henry Ford do any actual harm as President? Probably not so much as a determined and opinionated idealist like Woodrow Wilson. Ford would very likely be amenable to expert advice. He would have to assemble a Cabinet which would enjoy the respect of Congress, or he would find himself entirely neutralized by a perpetual warfare with that body. The Americans put a great deal of power in the hands of their Presidents, but they have ways and means of making it practically impossible for them to use it. —Montreal Star.

East Peterborough is just going to have an old-fashioned two-party election—with the difference that the U. F. O. has displaced the Liberal party as one of the contestants.

Mother and Daughter Banquet

The members a the C.G.I.T. at Baltimore held a mother and daughter banquet the other night in the Community Club room in that village that was greatly enjoyed. The room was handsomely decorated with C.G.I.T. colors, red, green and yellow and certainly presented an artistic and inviting appearance. Miss Pearse of Belleville, gave a interesting and illuminative address on the aims and objects of C.G.I.T. work Mrs. Rev.) C. C. Washington, made a capable toastmistress. The toasts were The King, the church, Our Mothers, Our Girls.

Colborne Board of Education

Colborne School Board has a pleasant surprise up its sleeve for the ratepayers as its requisition is $100 less than it was in 1922. The requisition for the village of Colborne and Township of Cremahe is $7,800, of this $6,942 belongs to Colborne and $858 to that portion of Cremahe Township upon which a high school levy is placed. The scale of salaries is as follows: High School principal $2,450. first assistant $1800, second assistant $1500; Public School Principal $1,350, and three assistants $100 each. The caretaker gets $530; fuel and light accounts for $1200 and sundries make up the additional amount required. Government grants to the two Boards amount to $500.

Resolution of Appreciation.

At a meeting of Hope Township Council a resolution of sincere appreciation of the services of Mr. Thomas Roberts, Township Clerk, was passed and ordered sent to Mr. Roberts. The resolution referred to Mr. Roberts' fourteen years of service, during which time he had proved to be faithful, efficient and courteous in performing his duties. It assured him that his resignation was received with much regret, and the hope was expressed for his speedy restoration to health. Mr. Roberts is a son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Edward Roberts of Cobourg, and is well known throughout the counties. He was formerly a resident of Welcome, but now lives in Port Hope, where he is confined to his home by illness.

Local and Personal.

Mr. Arthur Fulford has moved from Codrington to Beaver Falls, Pa.

Mr. A. A. Gould, who has been in Cobourg with his son, Mr. A. J. Gould, is spending some time at Colborne with his other son, Mr. W. E. Gould.

Mr. James Thomas is being congratulated upon having recently reached his 81st birthday.

Atkin-Harte.

Cobourg friends learned with interest of the announcement of the marriage of Miss Kate Harte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Harte of Hamilton, to Mr. Welberne Graham Atkin of Sault Ste. Marie. The marriage took place at St. George's Church, Toronto, Rev. P. J. Dykes officiating. The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Merrimen, who formerly resided here, and of the late Geo. J. Merrimen of Colborne.

Death of Mrs. Young.

The death took place at Brighton of Mrs. Louisa Young, wife of Rev. C. J. Young, who passed away after much suffering in her 76th year. The funeral service was held at her late residence on Saturday afternoon, and the interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Rebekah Lodge Organized.

Mrs. Watts of Peterborough and about forty members of the Quinte Queen Rebekah Lodge at Trenton were in Brighton recently for the purpose of installing a new lodge, which will be known as Brighton Rebekah Lodge, 247. Twenty-four charter members and thirteen candidates compose the new lodge. Mrs. Watt, as Ontario Grand President, had charge of the institution work, and was assisted by the Past Grands of Trenton lodge. At the conclusion of the installation, luncheon was served by the Brighton ladies.

Schooner Arrives.

The schooner Julia Merrill, Capt. W. H. Peacock in command, arrived at Port Hope on Sunday with a cargo of three hundred tons of coal. The appearance of the Merrill in the harbor was heralded with pleasure, and especially when she carried such a precious cargo. After the sinking of the schooner Jamieson, rumors were afloat that the Merrill also had either sunk or gone aground. It appears, however, that the Merrill after leaving Picton went back to the harbor there for repairs. An ugly storm came along shortly afterwards, and there were plenty of rumors of suspected wrecks. Capt. Peacock, however, and his boat, which is well known on the lakes, were safe in harbor. He is one of the Ontario seamen who knows every mood of the lake.

Transferred to Montreal.

Mr. Otis Shannon, formerly of Cobourg, who has been travelling agent for the Canadian National Express Company in this district for some time, has been transferred to the Montreal district, it is stated.

Fish for Streams.

Sixty thousand small fish were delivered in the town of Brighton recently to be placed in the streams of East Northumberland. A number of them were speckled trout, for which there was a keen demand.

THE ATONEMENT.

Editor Examiner,

Sir,—Toronto papers contain the astonishing news that the Methodist ministers of Western Ontario, meeting in convention at Sarnia, discussed the necessity of a new and more practical theory of the atonement which would appeal to reason more than the present one. Resistance to the proposal, which was contained in a paper read by one of the ministers, was met by loud applause by the speakers who spoke in favor of a new and more reasonable theory. The madness and self-sufficiency of some of the so-called religious people of Ontario is, of course, apparent, but what are we going to do about it? Are we to continue to send missionaries to heathen lands? What need for church union? READER.

HOLSTEIN COW ASSOCIATION TO MEET ON JUNE 6

CLEVELAND, May 31.—(Associated Press)—The thirty-eighth annual convention of the Holstein association of America will be held here June 6.

The first herd books of the association showed 270 registered Holsteins. Today there are more than a million animals registered in these books. In the last year 113,772 registrations were made.

High records of production have been made by 95,000 cows, under the supervision of agricultural colleges, admitting them to the advanced registry. Sixty-seven Holsteins have produced more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat in one year.

The association, of which ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is president, has a reserve and surplus of $459,000.

BRAN AS ELEMENT IN DIET

By GRAHAM STARR.

Ten years ago people who ate unusual food and spoke of dieting were regarded as eccentric. Certain of the now best known ingredients to aid digestion and keep the alimentary tracts clear were considered, if they were considered at all, merely as fads whose values were imagined instead of real. Of such was bran, th healthy wheat husk cast aside after a threshing.

A decade ago a man who suggested bran for the breakfast table would have been laughed at. The individual who today proposes bran as an article of food need no longer fear ridicule. Research and intensive study of food values has elevated this substance to a higher position than granted it just a decade go by encyclopaedic authorities who stated: "Bran, the ground husk of wheat, oats, barley and other cereals, used for feeding cattle, packing and other purposes."

Mistaken Notions.

There existed then, as there exists now in some minds, a mistaken idea that bran is composed almost entirely of fibre. While the fibre structure of bran gives bulk, as a matter of fact, fibre forms but a minor part; the balance being made up of exceedingly nutritious food elements and minerals salts. The caloretic food value of bran is approximately 1,500 calories per pound. Carbohydrates, salts, proteins and fats constitute about ninety per cent of bran; the balance is fibre and moisture. Of these, roughly, eight per cent is salts, sixteen per cent proteins, three per cent fats, ten pen cent fibre and moisture, and the balance carbohydrates.

Analysts and physicians have found that bran has the ability to absorb large quantities of water. Because of the coarse fibre, bran is carried through the alimentary tract undigested and in this undigested state reaches the colon or large intestines. In the digestive process of ordinary foods, which lack bulk and crude fibre, the water is separated in the small intestines, leaving a dry hard buk for the colon to handle. With bran the reverse is the case. The substance in the colon still retains a large percentage of water, almost twice its weight, in fact, and the digestive process is made easy.

In bran the mineral salts are unimpaired and are contained in larger quantities than in any other food substance known.

Medical Profession Favors Bran.

The resurrection of bran can be accredited, first, to medical profession, which appreciated its food values as highly medicinal, when used in place of laxatives and cathartics; second, to dietitians and boards of health who have been delving for several years into the question of human efficiency as affected by the nature of food consumed, and third to the enterprise of manufacturers who have discovered methods of making it a palatable cereal, desirable as a breakfast food. These latter have popularized it by a treatment which has removed the objectionable taste found in the raw product.

Diet today, as a result, bears a more important relation to public health than ever before admitted, and bran has reached the dining room table at home, and can be found on the menus of restaurants and hotels.

Brought in Diet by Modern Living Conditions.

The entrance of bran into the national diet is directly traceable to the modern methods of living, methods which Dr. Harvey W. Wiley accredits to "the exigencies of modern business and recreation." Dr. Wiley deplores the prevalence of careless habits in cleansing the human system and recommends bran as one of the food adjuncts which should be used at home to correct the evil. "Bran is a normal constituent of cereals," he states. "It carries particularly one of the health factors, or vitamins, namely, the one soluble in water. It is particularly rich in minerals which are normal and necessary. Bran, therefore, tends to restore the natural functions of the intestines which have become impaired by reason of a too concentrated diet."

Dr. Wiley does not stand alone in thus recommending bran. Physicians everywhere have realized the important part played by the diet in building up human efficiency. "The diet," says Dr. I. M. Leavy, of New York, "has the most marked influence upon the normal activities of the bowels." He, too, recommends bran, urging its use in bread made from it.

"The diet of the patient" states Dr. Stanley B. Doyle, of Brooklyn, "must be such as to contain a large amout of residue—that is, after digestion enough matter must be left free in the intestines to stimulate the wall as it passes over the mucous membrane. Bran bread, green or canned corn and fruits are very useful in this regard."

Stimulating Qualities of Bran.

"Bran biscuits and potato flour, oatmeal and apple peelings, in short, any inert, mechanical irritant, such as these, taken with meals, will stimulate the sluggish gut, the unsecreting liver and the other lazy tissues," is the statement of Dr. L. K. Hirshberg of Baltimore.

There exists among the medical profession, a fear of the so-called laxative or cathartic medicines. Dr. Wiley states that "the administration of powerful laxatives is of a remedial character and should be left solely to the physician."

The question of the most harmless laxative he regards as a matter of great significance. Dr. William Brady of Elmira, N.Y., speaks of "the habit forming ingredients of most proprietary cathartics" but it remains for Dr. E. S. McIlvain of Nashville, Tenn., to dwell most fervently upon the question of cathartics.

"Through a mistaken notion of what is needed," he says, "enormous quantities of this class of drugs are consumed, chiefly of the proprietary order, and no small proportion of the patients soon arrive at that state where nothing but a repetition of these drastic purges will secure results. The use of cathartics should be avoided as far as possible." In conclusion he remarks that "they afford only temporarily relief," and that "in most cases the efficiency of the drug gradually fails and the patient is forced to take a more powerful remedy or increase the dose in order to get any effect."

Health Experts Favor Bran.

Naturally, with this fear of the cathartic, the medical profession was glad to find in bran the necessary vitamin, of which Dr. Wiley speaks. Their recommendations for its use, embracing as they did at first, merely its use as a curative, aroused the interest of the dietitian, and led to an exhaustive study of the entire subject.

The writer has had tee opportunity to consult the results, as set forth in correspondence with some of the large state agencies, and these afford an excellent idea of the increased use to which bran is now being put. Dr. C. W. Garrison, State Health Officer of Arkansas, concludes that "bran is favorable as a laxative but requires some care in the method of preparation and consumption."

"There is scarcely any question but what the liberal use of bran in the diet will beneficially affect the most obstinate cases of constipation" states Dr. J. S. Crumbine, secretary of the Kansas State Board of Health, "and, so far as I know, no harmful results from such use have ever been recorded."

Writing for the Maine State Department of Health, the division director, Dr. A. G. Young, states that "most case of constipation can be ameliorated or overcome by the regulation of the diet so that it shall contain a sufficient quantity of cellulose such as may be had in graham bread and wheat bran together with liberal quantities of fruits, particularly apples eaten shortly after and not as the first course of a meal."

Natural Laxative Qualities.

Perhaps most emphatic is the statement of Dr. J. C. Price, Director of the New Jersey Department of Health, who says that the use of bran "as a natural laxative has become extensive by the medical profession and a number of people whom I know are constantly taking it. It seems to have a beneficial effect and to my mind is far superior to the continuous use of drugs."

From the foregoing there seems to be no doubt as the position which bran now occupies in the diet. It is served in numerous ways made attractive to the palate by all the art of the culinary expert. Bran breads, gems, muffins, puddings and dozen or other recipes have been concocted, each containing the necessary vitamin and the essential minerals.

Summarized, the results would seem to show that bran has a number of attributes highly desirable from several standpoints. First of these, is its action as a mild laxative. Scarcely less important is its value as a substitute for habit forming cathartics, and thirdly, is its nutritive value as a container of one of the three known vitamins.

Chemically it contains eight per cent of essential salts and is also blessed with a small percentage of phosporus and calcium. Of these, mineral salts is a particularly valuable ingredient, and physicians state that there is no danger of there being too great a supply of the phosporus and calcium elements in the diet.

The preparation of bran is another item which bears special attention. Ordinarily, it is covered with bacteria and it is necessary that it be well processed before it is used. Manufacturers of the product have developed this to a high point and consequently, the bran which reaches the consumers' market is usually ready for the table without any fear as to constituency.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

CAMPBELLFORD DROPPED GAME

Was Badly Beaten By Brighton in a League Fixture Yesterday.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 31. — Campbellford went to Brighton yesterday with a ball team that was crippled by the absence of two of its best players, Jack Cowell, the young man who covers so much ground at third, being engaged in writing on his High School exams, and Weston, the heavy hitter of the nine, and who plays at first, being kept at home by a business engagement. This made necessary a re-arrangement of the positions of the players, Shillinglaw taking the first corner, Nancarrow going to second, and Brady playing at shortstop. Then to make matters worse, on the first inning Hume, the catcher, had his right hand injured by a foul tip, the second time this season, and was obliged to change places with Blackwood in right field.

Under this handicap the Campbellford boys went up against one of the strongest teams in the Northumberland League, playing on new ground and under other unfavourable conditions.

Brighton boasts the best diamond in the League, one from which the "skin" has been carefully stripped, but in the outfield the grass was fully six inches high, and the heavy growth impeded the visiting fielders, who also lacked practice in hunting a baseball in a meadow about ready for the services of a mower.

Brighton has had a strong team in the Northumberland League for the past four years. They are represented this season by a nine likely to maintain the reputation of the town.

The players have practised steadily ever since the grounds became fit for play, and the result was apparent yesterday in their splendid team work. The nine is well balanced, the battery, the infield, and the outfield have no weak corners.

The visitors showed a lack of practice, a defeat that can be remedied easily. They now have a week in which to get into shape to meet Trenton on the Campbellford diamond next Wednesday. The following score tells the sad story of yesterday's slaughter. The game was called at the end of the seventh as a measure of relief:

Campbellford — Eagleson, p; Blackwood, c; Shillinglaw, 1b; Nancarrow, 2b; Saunders, 3b; Brady, ss; Hume, rf; W. Blakely, lf; and Hutton, cf.

Brighton — Roblin, p; Strong, c; Ross, 1b; Halliday, 2b; Solomon, 3b; McKee, ss; King, rf; E. Walt, lf; and C. Walt, cf.

Score by innings:

Campbellford	....	3	0	2	0	0	0	—	5	5	8
Brighton	.....	4	3	7	4	0	0	2	—	20	22	4

QUIET FOLLOWS DRESDEN RIOTS OF COMMUNISTS

Conflicting Reports Regarding Casualties and Number of Demonstrators Arrested.

ASK FOR DOLES.

BERLIN, May 31. — (Canadian Press).—Yesterday was one of calm in Dresden, where demonstrations of the unemployed had caused disquietude recentiy, with the exception of one minor collision yesterday morning between the police and demonstrating laborers, according to special despatches to the Berlin newspapers and semi-official Dresden advices yesterday afternoon. The morning's disturbance is said to have resulted in no casualties. The shops have been re-opened and the markets again are functioning.

The Communists in the Saxon Diet created a brief uproar yesterday morning when the Chamber accepted only with reservations the urgent demand of the Radicals for doles to the unemployed. The Diet refused to regard the matter as urgent, but consented to refer it to a committee.

Rumors are current that a Syndicalist-Anarchist party was founded here Monday night.

RUHR VALLEY WILL START WORK AGAIN

Thousands of Men Back Getting the Mines and Furnaces in Shape For Workers.

DUESSELDORF, May 31.—(Canadian Press).—The Ruhr Valley industries which were closed down by the strike of nearly 500,000 workers, were expected all to be running again next week. Thousands of men resumed work yesterday, operating the pumps in the mines and getting the boilers and furnaces ready and the machinery running in the metal works. The bulk of the workers, it is understood, will be ready to resume their labors when the plants are in running order again.

The violent movement of the workers, led by Communists, seemed suddenly to have collapsed at the sight of a few imported policemen, who arrived in the district after the French had consented to the reinforcement of the local guards and firemen by police forces from the Rhineland, together with the granting of a fifty per cent. increase in wages, although the demands for bonuses were refused.

MARKS BROKE AGAIN.

LONDON, May 31. — (United Press.)— German marks broke to the new low record of 315,000 to the pound sterling, approximately 70,000 to the dollar on the London Exchange to-day.

Rupture Relief

APPLIANCE EXPERT COMING

You need not suffer another day from ill-fitting trusses. Correct retention with comfort will relieve you at once and afford lasting benefit. Greatest success where others fail. If you have tried most everything, now is the time you need personal scientific service. So says Thos. Y. Egan, Surgical Appliances, 1057 College Street, Toronto, who will visit Lindsay, Benson House, June 1; Peterboro, Empress Hotel, Saturday (all day and night) 1 day only, June 2.

The Egan "Curatrus" with new "Easyfit" retentive shields (as now used and approved) are nature's own method. They retain with perfect ease, and allow nature to close the opening quicker and better than any other known appliance or non-operative method, and at small cost—prepared to measure (men, women, children, infants) for all conditions before and after operations. Nothing in the world to equal these new surgical inventions for style, neatness, lightness, reliability and quick results.

If interested, do not fail to call in full confidence no matter how long you have suffered. Note dates, tell others. Ask at Hotel office for Mr. Egan's private sample room. Tear this out now as a reminder. (Advt.)

SHIPPING BACON IN BALES.

The difference between the manner in which Danes and Canadians ship their bacon to the British market is that the Danes ship the sides in bales, whereas the usual Canadian custom is to pack in boxes. Some of the Canadian packing houses, however, have adopted the bale method and are finding it satisfactory. A bale contains four sides wrapped in cheesecloth and covered with jute sacking. The Peterboro packing house has adopted this method, shipping about twenty per cent of its bacon in bales. Only such sides as will make leanest Wiltshires, and are as nearly as possible indentical with the Danish sides of the first grade, are chosen. The percentage corresponds very closely with the percentage of "selects" that are taken in at the Peterboro packing house, indicating that the select bacon hog, as indentified on foot, is the type that is actually turning out the higher priced product.

INTERESTING COMPARISON

Some interesting comparisons of infant deaths in this and past centuries come from Germany. The Berlin correspondent of The Journal of the American Medical Association says that Dr. Hanssen in Kiel reports the results of his investigations on the infant mortality of Schieswig-Holstein in previous centuries, as shown by church registers. In several commumes, the mortality was formerly lower than it is today. For instance, Eichede, with a present population of 2,000, had an infant mortality of 12 per cent. during the period from 1677-1722, whereas, during the period from 1900-1912, the mortality was 14.5 per cent.

In other localities, and, strange to relate, in the very districts that today also show the highest mortality rates, there was an exceedingly high infant mortality during earlier periods. For example, in Wesselburen, Province of Ditmarsh, the mortality rate in 1872 was 63.8 per cent., while in 1904 it was 18.3 per cent. The low rates are commonly ascribed to the wide use of breast feeding, and the high rates to epidemics—chiefly small-pox. It can be shown, however, that in former centuries the "summer peak" of infant mortality was not in evidence.

For the present epoch, Hanssen was able to show that the infant mortality, as the especially critical year 1917 has proved, can be reduced by increasing the number of breast-fed infants, while in other localities (for example, in Mecklenburg), where the percentage of breast-fed infants is smaller, a correspondingly increased mortality has been established.

LINDSAY, May 31. — All roads lead to Emily township these days to the scene of the oil drilling operations on the Perdue farm. Three shifts working eight hours each are employed by this Northern Development Company, and operations are watched daily by scores of people. The big drill is operating in marshy land and the members of the Company are sanguine of results. There is some talk of leasing additional property near Lindsay.

TENDERS FOR A HYDRO STATION CAMPBELLFORD

Contract Will Be Awarded on Wednesday of Next Week — Campbellford News.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 31. — Tenders are in for the construction of a new power house and dam for the Hydro Electric, near Raney Falls, some distance below the present plant, an expansion that has been under consideration for some time. The tenders are now in the hands of the Commission, in Toronto. They will be opened and the contract awarded on Wednesday of next week.

None of the Hydro officials here know anything further than that tenders have been received and they will receive their first intimation of further progress when the name of the successful bidder is announced in the newspapers.

The new plant will have a capacity of about 10,000 horse power and will enable the Hydro to take care of all its Central Ontario subscribers for some time to come. At the session of the Legislature last winter the sum of $1,375,000 wa appropriated for Hydro extension in Central Ontario, and of this amount over half a million will be expended on the new plant here. The new dam will be known as No. 8 and another dam (No. 9) is to be built some distance from the present plant. When work is started a large number of men will be given work, so that the employment outlook in Campbellford for the season is regarded as excellent.

Another Capacity House.

Another capacity house greeted the second presentation of "The Girl in Red" last night, and everything went off successfully. The play will be given at Warkworth Friday night and at Marmora on Monday.

District Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Methodist church for Campbellford district was held on Wednesday morning and afternoon in the Methodist Church here, with the chairman, Rev H. B. Kenny, presiding, and Rev. H. B. Herrington, of Cordova, recording secretary. Rev. M. L. Hinton of Hastings led in the opening prayer All the ministers and two probationers on active work in the district, were present. The district regretted to have to report the death of Rev. Henry C. Garbutt, which took place during the year.

Rev. J. E. Glover brought a suggestion from the Campbellford Ministerial Association, that all rural, village and town schools be given one hour's instruction each week by the resident ministers, in religious instruction. This was left for the consideration of the individual ministers.

Very satisfactory and most encouraging reports were given by the following:

Rev. E. O. Seymour, Missions. — This report showed a marked increase over last year in the missionary givings.

Rev. A. McLachlin gave an excellent report on "Religious Education," Rev. S. A. Kemp on "Evangelism and Social Service," and Rev. M. L. Hinton on "Education."

Very helpful suggestions and discussions took place in which all took part. After much discussion it was decided to hold the next district meeting in Campbellford.

The following were appointed the lay delegates to conference: Alex. Winters, Campbellford; C. W. Thompson (H. C. Martin), Stirling; C. U. Clancy, Rawdon; J. A. Know, Norwood; C. A. Denike Havelock; C. A. Calder, South Dummer; W. J. Harper, Warkworth; W. J. Parks, Seymour; S. Armstrong, Keene; N. Gummer, Norham; W. D. Nichle, Cordova; W. J. Calfley, Norham, N Gummer; Rev M. L. Hinton Hastings, W. Warner; Rev. A McLachlin, Keene, S. Armstrong, Rev. H. B. Herrington, Cordova, Herbert Hoard.

The Late William Clark.

There passed away on Wednesday morning at his residence, Sebastopol Street, Mr. William John Clark, aged 71 years. The late Mr. Clark had not been in good health for the past year, but for the past few weeks had been confined to his home He was born in Seymour west, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Clark and is the last surviving member of the family. In early life he resided in Seymour, later going to Rawdon, where he was engaged in farming until his removal to town some years ago. The late Mr. Clark is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Eliza Barton, of Rawdon township, and three sons and two daughters, all at home, Gordon, George, Alfred Mabel and Mrs. Harry Young one son, Angus, having died fou years ago.

The deceased was a man of quiet, unassuming manner and was respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Methodist church, and the funeral, which is private, takes place this afternoon from his late residence, conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. B. Kenny, and the remains will be laid to rest in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The family have universal sympathy in their bereavement.

bushes. Then Rogers emerged onto the shore of the lake. A rifle cracked and at the fugitive's foot a bit of sand spurted up. He dropped his gun and jumped for the bush. Several of the constables who had a bead on him, fired simultaneously. He dropped, twitching. The police cordon closed in on the twitching figure. Warily the constables crept through the bush. As they advanced Rogers kicked convulsively. As they reached him he gasped his last breath Bullet wounds in the right shoulder and left side of the abdomen showed mb mbm b 7x showed that several police shot him at the same time.

So came the end of the twenty one year old convict, a lad who had evaded the best police brains of the province for two weeks, a boy who was wanted for two murders. He died just two weeks to the day after he had made his sensational escape from the North Bay court-room.

Rogers body was taken to the tug boat. By the time the vessel reached North Bay, the docks were black with crowds of people. They gathered around the equipment from Martyn's undertaking parlors, they surged about it as the body was taken up to the main street. On both sides of the street the people lined. As the body was taken into the undertakers the crowds gathered about the door, old women, little boys, decrepit ancients, small girls, youth and age sought to view the lad who had terrorized Northern Ontario for the two weeks. Even the doors of the undertaking parlors were shut the crowds lingered around the building until midnight people walked the streets discussing Rogers and his death. On the corners stood groups of townsmen, they chatted and gesticulated and laughed.

The death of Rogers took a load off North Bay's mind. When word came of his death, the police over Mrs. Rogers and his sister Mary was removed. On hearing of his death they became hysterical with grief. Even through the thick walls of the house came the sounds of their cries.

And the Roger's house became notorious yesterday. Ever since the shooting of Sergeant Urquhart curious people walked up and down before the brick building. It was not unlike many other North Bay houses but with yesterday's events it became different. If rubber neck buses reach North Bay, this residence will be pointed out to sightseers as "on the right the former home of Leo Rogers."

King and Queen Held First Court of Year.

LONDON, May 31. — (Canadian Press.) — King George and Queen Mary last night held the first court of the season. It was a brilliant function, but there still was a lacking in the pre-war luxury in the gowns of the women. For the first time debutantes were permitted to wear colored frocks. The hues most favoured were rose, pink and forget-me-not blue.

Altogether there were seven hundred guests, the affair being mainly diplomatic and official in character. The Royal circle was rather small, owing to illness and other causes. The absentees included the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, Viscount Lascelles and Princess Mary and Princess Christian. The latter is dangerously ill from a heart attack following influenza.

METHODISTS WILL NOT WAIT LONG

Conference Told That the Methodists Cannot Await the Pleasure of the Presbyterians Much Longer.

SARNIA, Ont., May 31.—(Canadian Press). — That the Methodist Church cannot be expected to much longer await the pleasure of the Presbyterian Church in coming to a decision on the church union question was the keynote of the pastoral address read before the London Methodist Conference late yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, retiring president of the conference. Mr. Millyard spoke as follows on this subject:

"After long uncertainty a final decision on the question of organization between the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist Churches in Canada appears to be in sight. The Congregational and Methodist Churches have already pronounced favorably, and we now await the action of the Presbyterian General Assembly, and, if that is favorable, the action of the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments. Perhaps it is not so important that we should have or not have the proposed union as it is that the matter should be quickly settled one way or the other."

It will enable them to get fullest vacation enjoyment during the season at cottage or camp. These boats are so easy to operate that every member of the family can manage them alone in perfect confidence. $299 to $575.

Summer Hats

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 31.(United Press).—There's a hat born every minute! Just when we thought the turned-down poke had firmly settled itself upon us, it goes and pokes up in front like the nose of a saucy flapper.

The new type poke still follows the line of the cloche of the earlier season, except that it's front brim is slightly wider and turns abruptly up from the face with a slight point in front. It will be becoming to the woman who considers her eyes her best feature, for the small down-turned brim tended to accentuate the lower part of the face, shadowing the eyes. If one feels that the abruptly upturning brim is unbecoming, there are numerous models with brims which roll slightly upwards.

Another new cloche shape that is a little out of the ordinary turn abruptly upwards in back, with a fan shaped cocarde of ribbon placed directly in back and extending over the sides like a huge comb. This is particularly attractive on the dark haired woman, who has even features. The front brim is narrow and rounding.

The Big Hats

Large mushroom hats which are wilter on one side than the other and with short back brims are popular for dress wear. Often the wide side of the brim is pleated, resembling a fan. The opposite brim may be untrimmed or trimmed with a bow of ribbon.

In spite of the earlier predictions for flower trims, ribbons and laces are receiving more popularity than flowers. Ribbon trims most of the street hats in cocardes, huge bows, accordian pleats or frayed-edged borders Here a word might be said about the new border trims which are so softening to the face. Many of the little cloche shapes are indeed hard to wear unless softened by a border of frayed taffeta or ribbon. Trims of this sort are so easily made at home and the plain untrimmed shapes which one can purchase in the stores may be made into lovely hats with little effort.

Cut taffeta in bias strips about an inch and a half wide. A strip three times the circumference of the brim is all that is required. By pulling the blunt edge of a scissors over the bias edge of the taffeta it is easily frayed out. Then, run a shirring thread through the center of the strip gathering it, and sew it to the edge of the hat brim This gives a feathery trimming which is bound to be attractive. Usually the taffeta used matches exactly the shade of the hat.

Black Hats in Paris

Black hats are again very much in vogue in Paris and are often trimmed with clusters of various colored flowers or ribbons. Black felt cloche shapes are especially popular with the Parisian at present, trimmed either in mauve or black cocardes at the side.

For summer dress it is predicted that the leghorn with the upper brim covered with black taffeta will be popular. Recently I saw a French import with the crown left in the natural leghorn, the top brim faced in black taffeta and a row of pink roses bordening one side of the underbrim. A delft blue bow of satin was placed on the opposite underbrim.

Son of Hon. N. W. Rowell Dies in the Hospital.

TORONTO, May 31.—(Canadian Press).—William Langlord, aged 22, only son of Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., died late last night in the private patients' pavilion, Toronto General Hospital. He had been ill for several weeks with septicemia, and in an attempt to save his life a fortnight ago, there was performed the largest blood transfusion ever attempted on an adult in Toronto. For a few days after the operation he rallied. Young Rowell was widely known in sporting circles.

GERMAN TROOPS NOW MASSING

Heavy Artillery, Cavalry and Engineers Concentrating at Muenster, it is Reported.

PARIS, May 31—(United Press)—German troops, including heavy artillery, cavalry and engineers are massing at Muenster, according to a report from French sources at Crefeld to Le Journal.

German Communists as well as French observers in the occupied area, have reported movements of Reich troops since Sunday. Muenster is a short distance outside the new zone established by the French army of occupation in the Ruhr. The German govenments explanation is that the troops are on their way to the usual summer manoeuvers.

Ruthless Campaign

DORTMUND, May 31—Morman vigilants are conducting a ruthless campaign against communist agitators in the Ruhr to-day as numbers of strikers return to work.

The known Red Headquarters are being cleaned by the Self Defence Police. Communist leaders being jailed and radical papers and documents seized. Hundreds of Reds have been arrested in a counter drive organized to combat the campaign of terror which has been carried on for days by the Communists. Settlement of differences between workers and industrialists, however, appears only a temporary arrangement. Wage increases approximately 50 per cent. of the previous toil have been granted but the falling value of the mark may force the workers to new demands to meet further increased costs of living. Arrangements are being made in Essen for return of the metal workers. The banks there have resumed paying workers. The French have seized that state mine Bismark No. 1 Work in some of the pits is being held up by continuous rains.

Had Bad Pains In Her Heart

Nerves Were Very Bad

Mrs. John Case, R. R. No 4, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: — "I wish to say that I have been bothered very much with my heart and nerves. I doctored with two different doctors, but did not find much relief. I would have such bad pains in my heart, at times, I would be almost afraid to move or breathe, and at night I could not sleep. If the pains in my heart were gone, my nerves would be so bad I could not lie still and would only get a little sleep by being tired out. My stomach was also very bad and I could eat but very little, and then only certain things or I would have so much distress, which always made my heart worse.

I had been suffering for nearly two years until one day I was talking to our druggist about the way I felt. He advised me to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a fair trial. I have now taken five boxes and am feeling so much better. I am able to do my own work, and can eat anything I wish. I cannot praise Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills too highly."

EMBARGO'S LIKE WINNING THE WAR

Work of Duncan Marshall in England is Criticized in the Dominion House.

OTTAWA, May 31 (Canadian Press). — The appointment of Duncan Marshall, who has been representing the Department of Agriculture in England, came in for sharp criticism in the House last night.

As a preliminary, there was an animated discusson whether Mr. Marshall's appontment could be discussed under the vote under consideration.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, said that Mr. Marshall was in England in connection with the removal of the embargo on breeding cattle, but this had been suspended till the Imperial Conference.

In the meantime, Mr. Marshall had been asked to remain to superintend the arrival of chilled beef.

WHITE RIVER THOUGHT TO BE OUT OF DANGER.

FORT WILLIAM, May 31.—(Canadian Press).—Word received late yesterday from White River stated that the wind from the west had cleared away the smoke which was hanging over the town, and no further danger was anticipated. All available help is being sent along the line to protect bridges, culverts and telegraph lines. It is believed that nothing but heavy rain will place the district out of danger, but for the present the situation seems to be less acute than it has been for several days.

Roch E. Boisseau, 1334 Chabot St., Montreal, Que., is still another popular young citizen to come forward with a public endorsement of Tanlac.

"But a few bottles of Tanlac made me feel like a different man. I began to gain weight, my old time energy came back, and my work is now a real pleasure. Tanlac is the best medicine I ever saw."

ALLIES WITHOLD TEXT AGREEMENT WITH TURKS

LAUSANNE May 31 (Canadian Press). — The fight for judicial safeguards for foreign residents in Turkey was lost yesterday by the Allies, who accepted Ismet Pasha's proposal.

The Allies had long contended that foreign legal advisers should have veto power over arrests and domiciliary powers in connection with the foreign residents, and this point came near disrupting the conference yesterday, although every one seemed disposed to conceal that fact.

The Allies, pending the approval of their respective Governments, refuse to make public the text of the agreement. They insist that while they may have lost the main point, Turkey has agreed to compensation safeguards, which makes a settlement compromise.

WAR CLOUDS IN EAST CLEARING

British Transports Laden With War Munitions, on Their Way Back to England.

ATHENS, May 31. — (United Press). — War clouds are clearing from the Near East horizon, in the opinion of military observers here today. A satisfactory agreement, involving Greece and Turkey, as well as Great Britain, is expected before the end of the summer.

A most favorable omen was seen in a report to-day from Constantinople that four British transports, laden with war munitions, had left Gallipoli, on their way back to England. Whether these were the ones rushed to the Straits when the war with Turkey seemed imminent was not disclosed, but it is considered a good sign that the British now are moving war materials away from the disputed territory.

QUIZ CORNER

CANADA'S FIRST BOOK.

Q—When and where was Canada's first book published?

A—On or about March 22, 1865 the first book was printed in Canada. Under French rule all printed matter had been imported, but British Dominion had meant the coming of the printing-press and this first volume to issue from a Canadian press was a church catechism, and was published in Quebec city.

THE "BEAVER"

Q—What is the story of the steamer "Beaver"?

A—On March 19, 1836 the Beaver reached Fort Vancouver (on the Columbia River) after leaving England on Aug. 27, 1835. She was one of the first steamers built, and though she sailed to The Pacific coast, her engines were in place; and there the paddle-wheels, which all steamers then used, were fixed on. Then, till 1885, she made many Pacific voyages; and Canadians can be proud that their flag flew on the very first steamer to travel the Pacific ocean.

RADIO IS MAKING IT VERY BAD FOR CROOKS

This is going to be a tough world for criminals, when radio is fully developed along lines already planned.

For example, Washington authorities are already contemplating the institution of a national bureau of identification and information, which would utilize radio to help catch criminals. Not only will the descriptions of these lawbreakers be flashed to all parts of the country—and others, too—but their rogue's gallery portraits and their finger prints will also be sent out in the same way. These features of radio transmission have been developed so fast that it would not surprise many to hear of their actual adoption into everyday practice in a year or so.

No airplane can carry off an escaping convict faster than radio. The radio signal, travelling with the speed of light, encircles the world in less than a second. All that is needed for the realization of this fact is the erection of powerful transmitting and receiving stations at important parts of the globe. Then, according to radio authorities, the whole world will be united—in time at least—by radio.

Speed is one of the greatest boons humanity is receiving from radio, and speed is what the lawbreaker dots not want to see practiced on him.

At Last a Seeing Phone

The weakness of this "seeing phone" is that the user sees herself and not the party at the other end of line. It is the latest fad in San Francisco society. Miss Thama Speed is shown using a combination portable vanity case and tele phone. Miss Speed says the new invention saves times as one may now "make up" while making a date.

Mother and Three Children Drowned.

YARMOUTH, May 31 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Edward Hatfield, aged 23, and three of her children, the oldest seven, were drowned in the Tusket River at Forks Quinan, Yarmouth County, late on Tuesday afternoon, according to information brought here yesterday.

The four were crossing the river in a boat, when the craft was upset by the three children moving to one side and the mother adding her weight to theirs in an effort to put them back to their positions.

The four were plunged into the rapidly flowing river, and Mrs. Hatfield was later seen with one of her children tightly clasped in her arms being carried down stream.

STOMACH TROUBLE

"INDIGESTION"

Relieved By

Burdock Blood Bitters

The sufferers from dyspepsia, indigestion or other stomach troubles who has to pick and choose his food is the most miserable of al mankind.

Even the little that is eaten causes much torture, and is digested so imperfectly it does but little good.

Mr. Wm. Kruschel, Morden, Man. writes:—"Some time ago I had quite a serious case of stomach trouble, indigestion. I could scarcely eat anything, outside of some light food, and even then I generally had pains after each meal. I tried many different medicines, but without any improvement, and had almost given up hope of ever being well. A neighbor recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it a short time I felt much better, so I continued to use it until I was completely relieved. I can honestly say that B.B.B. has done wonders for me after all other medicines failed."

B.B.B. is put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Mayor of Brooklands Disqualified For Office.

WINNIPEG, May 31 (Canadian Press). — George R. Brown, Mayor of the village of Brooklands, near this city, yesterday was disqualified from holding office and disfranchised for a period of seven years, by the terms of a judgment delivered by Mr. Justice Dysart, Court of King's Bench.

The judgment followed quo warranto proceedings charging Mayor Brown with receiving moneys for various services, contrary to the provisions of the Municipal Act.

Good Pickerel Fishing Reported, Trent River.

TRENT RIVER, May 31. — Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose left on Sunday for Toronto, expecting to return in about two weeks. Miss Ethel and Harry, also Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rose, remain here. Harry and Bert are superintending the completion of their new bungalow.

A meeting was held at the school house on Tuesday evening, addressed by Major Belford, the Conservative candidate.

The water in the river has lowered considerably, and will, it is hoped, soon reach normalcy again.

Fishing for pickerel is the nightly sport, and a number of big ones have been landed.

Second Victim of Auto Accident Dies.

SARNIA, Ont., May 31.—(Canadian Press.)— Injuries received by Mrs. Edna M. Dennis, wife of Wellington Dennis of this city, in an auto accident near Wyoming on March 24, resulted in her death at her home here yesterday. Mrs. Dennise, who is the second victim of the accident, accompanied by Mrs. Reuben Munroe, was riding in an auto driven by George Borrowman, en route to the funeral of Hugh Donald, when the car was struck by the Canadian National Railway train operating between Wyoming and Petrolia.

Wedding ring was adopted by the Anglo-Saxons about the year 860.

¶ Every day is Mother's Day in a busy home, but I always feel that other people do a lot to help me.

¶ Do you ever think of this when you sit down to rock and knit and read your daily newspaper? Do you keep track of new products of other brains to save us time and money?

¶ Advertising is as interesting as a fairy tale with its teas and silks and spices from Asia, its styles from an old grave in Egypt, its new foods and clothes from our own factories. I read it every day.

¶ The family always remembers Mother's Day. Sometimes I wish they would read the advertisements and pick out something new that I covet a little for its novelty and attractiveness.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

HOTEL WANT ADS WHICH PULL.

Constructing his Want Ads with good judgment, the proprietor of a small hotel finds advertising very profitable. And it is not difficult to practice the needed judgment. He chiefly needs to get the viewpoint of the public.

Let him ask himself why his present guests patronize his hotel. Probably in the reasons will be the key to his Want Ad problem. Into his advertising he should put facts which will move readers to visit his hotel and give it a trial. Those very things already, probably, influence such guests as he has to stop with him.

One proprietor who subjected his business to this scrutiny decided location was the big factor. He was located in the heart of the city. "Heart of the city" became a statement he put into every Want Ad he used. He gave other facts, too—number of rooms, rates, etc.—but more than any other thing, he traced results to the single argument, "Heart of the city." He put it in the first line of his Want Ad.

Another small hotel occupied by contrast, an outside location. The proprietor invariably featured this in his Want Ad, using the statement, "Live out of the high rent district, and save the difference." He quoted rates and added, "Free shower bath; elevator service; phones in all rooms."

Still another advertiser realized that his big "talking point" was his price on a room with a bath—$1.50. He said other nice things about his hotel in his Want Ad, but he featured, putting the statement in all Capitals, "One Dollar and a Half for a Room With a Bath." Persistent emphasis of this quickly found him as many guests as he could serve.

A residential hotel coined a good name for its service, which it was proud of, "Second-helping-with-a-smile-service." This description of the way guests were treated proved to have a lot of pull.

Determine the things about your hotel which appeal to guests most. Then put them in your Want Ad.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

HOT WEATHER HINTS.

The Baby should be kept as cool as possible. A part wool band, diaper and slip are all the necessities. Sickness is avoided by remembering these things.

Give the baby a cool sponge several times during the day and take off all his clothing at bed time giving him an air bath as well as a sponge.

Give him a drink of cool water many times during the day. He needs a drink between every feeding in the summer time.

Be careful to sterilize every utensil with which you prepare the baby's daily bottles. Don't use the ordinary kitchen utensils, sometimes indifferently cleaned and ont always scalded.

Keep the windows carefully screened from flies. We know the dangers of flies and especially the damage they can do when they light on the baby's bottle.

Loose green bowel movements indicate an infection somewhere in the intestines. Don't attribute it to teeth and disregard it. Cut down on the baby's diet immediately. If this doesn't help, food should be stopped and a doctor called. Milk given when there is diarrhea acts as a poison, not a food.

Boil the milk in hot weather, its a splendid preventive of trouble. The baby may have orange or tomato juice every day to counteract the influence of boiled milk which lacks some necessary vitamins.

SURPLICE EFFECT.

The surplice effect is featured in coat dresses and those of rep and twill. It is an excellent line for the woman who could eliminate a few pounds to advantage.

PRICELESS INDIAN RECORDS DESTROYED

LA POINTE, Wis., May 31. — (United Press).—Priceless historical records were destroyed, when flames swept historic Treaty Hall, the most famous building on Madeline island, recently. The structure, built in 1836 by the American Fur Company, was the scene of the signature of the famous treaty negotiated by United States commissioners with Chief Hole-in-the-Sky, head of the La Pointe Indian tribes.

Some of the most important records, in point of historical value, it is said were recently removed by Father Charron of Ashland, who is preparing a history of the Chequamegon Bay region. Many others, however, including several documents stored in the vault of the Minnesota branch D.A.R., were lost.

Treaty Hall was the most important remaining landmark of pioneer days on Madeline Island. Its name came from the agreement reached by the United States with Chief Hole-in-the-Sky on September 30, 1854. The treaty, the second agreement reached by the Government and the La Pointe Indians, defined the boundaries of the tribes' reservation.

FARM REPORTS

Following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat is improving in appearance with the warmer weather. During the past week or two considerable barley and other grains have been drilled into the bare spots. All the clovers and grasses are looking well, and live stock are now doing nicely on pasture.

Seeding is very backward in Eastern Ontario. Some farmers only started to put in their spring grains last week and considerable low land yet remains to be sown.

The Bruce Representative remarks that farmers will have a good opportunity to observe whether early or late seasons are the more beneficial.

Orchards are nicely in bloom, and there is a fair prospect for tree fruits. Spring frosts so far have done little or no injury to orchards. Small fruits generally are giving good promise, especially strawberries, which are looking well where well cared for. The Representatives in both Leeds and Lennox and Addington fear an outbreak of tent caterpillars this season, and express anxiety regarding the result in many of the smaller orchards where very few have sprayers for combating the attacks of leaf-eating insects.

Middlesex: Potatoes planted four weeks ago are just coming through the ground. There is an increased acreage in oats and there promises to be an increase in sugar beets and corn.

A good deal of corn will be planted this year. A large area of land is now being prepared, and considerable seed already has been got in, in Western Ontario.

Beans are also likely to show an increased acreage.

Fodder supplies have held out well, but the cold winter and the late spring have made heavy drains on all classes of feed.

South Simcoe: A comparatively heavy shipment of live stock was made from the county this week. As high as $7.50 per cwt. was paid for a number of high quality butcher cattle, although the average price would not be higher than $6.50. Hogs brought $10.50 to $10.75 per cwt. on the thick smooth basis. A few good spring lambs were marketed, $10 being the price at point of shipment.

Frontenac: Demand is fairly good for all classes of stock. Offerings only fair in quality. Spring lambs are beginning to come in, and bring from $9 to $12 apiece. Hog market fairly active, bringing $10.50 per cwt. live weight f.o.b. Small pigs are being sold in fair numbers from $10 to $12 a pair.

Peterborough: Practically all live stock are now out on grass. Most of the young stock being put out on the ranches this week. Shipments this week were rather small; calves were 1c to 2c lb. more than last week.

Halton: Many farmers have heavy steers which they intend to run on pasture until July, August or later, when they will sell them for export cattle.

Dairy herds are being pastured to a greater extent than previously on sweet clover, which for the season of the year has made excellent growth. Farmers claim they are able to obtain more milk from sweet clover pasturage than any other kind.

The Port Arthur Dairy says that it never had so much milk and cream shipped in at this time of year, and that production has considerably increased. They are paying 45c a lb. for butterfat at present.

Hastings: The rapid growth of pasture has relieved the feed situation, and a considerable increase in milk flow has resulted. Young pigs are selling at from $10 to $12 per pair, with quite a number being offered for sale.

Kenora: Practically all the sheep have been clipped, and a few shipments have been made to the Canadian Co-operative Growtrs' Association.

Halton: Many farmers are taking advantage of the sheep dipping conducted by the Department of Agriculture this year in the county. We are placing two permanent tanks, following up work done last year.

Lennox and Addington: Reports from various parts of the county would indicate that there has been a heavy mortality in young chicks and that the percentage of the hatch has been very low as compared with other years.

DELORME TRIAL POSTPONED TO THE FALL TERM

No Montreal Judge Available to Try the Case This Summer—Justice Wilson Disqualified.

MAY SEND JUDGE.

MONTREAL, May 31. Canadian Press. — The trial of Father Adelard Delorme on the charge of murder of his half-brother Raoul Delorme, may not be held until the September term of the Court of King's bench here, according to a statement made here last night by R. L. Calder K. C., Crown Prosecutor, charged with the case. Unless the Chief Justice of the District of Quebec consents to name a judge to come to Montreal to preside at the trial the case will not proceed this summer, as there is no local judge available. The June term will be formally opened next Friday by Mr. Justice Wilson, who is disqualified from presiding at the Delorme trial by the fact that he was one of the counsel engaged by the priest. Mr. Jutsice Wilson said yesterday that he would not touch the case in any way not even to the extent of hearing a motion to fix a date for trial.

Mr. Calder declared: "A judge will be specially appointed to take cognizance of Delorme's presence, and to fix a date for trial or to adjourn the case, but there is no judge available to try the case." The Crown Prosecutor added that the Chief Justice of the Quebec district would be asked to solve the difficulty by sending a judge to Montreal. Should this not be possible, the case will go over until the Fall term for trial.

THE WHITE PLAGUE WARS ON RELIGION.

Tuberculosis Joining Bolshevism in Crushed and Bleeding Central Europe.

By DON P. DROHAN.

ERIE, Pa., May 31.—Tuberculosis is joining Bolshevism in a gigantic war on religion in crushed and bleeding Central Europe.

Trailing in starvation's wake, it is exacting an appalling toll among the populace on Christianity's firing line.

Such is the pathetic picture Michael Cardinal Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, painted in an interview here.

Into monasteries, convents and missions, where hungry women and children come begging for bread the white plague—like a thief in the night—is sneaking.

"Our priests and nuns and the other religious workers, already slowly dying from malnutrition, fall easy victims to this dread disease," explains his eminence.

"Thousands have contracted it. Thousands more are suffering from softening of the bones owing to lack of proper food. Operations are out of question because of prohibitive costs.

No Work Available.

"Other thousands are sacrificing their scanty morsels to hordes that storm their doors pleading for something to eat. They labor on indefatigably, without thought of themselves, until they're no longer able to remain on their feet.

"So, too, with the little children in the orphanages. And with men and women who are roaming the streets crying for work. But there is no work to give them.

"In the midst of all this poverty, disease and distress the materialistic philosophy of Bolshevism is certain to appeal. Bolshevism, however, is easier to combat than the plague. That we cannot stave off without aid from the outside.

"Only the generosity of other nations can save us. Your people have been very kind to us. And I know they shall be equally as kind throughout the dark days we have yet to go through.

"We appeal for no alms—merely a 'life,' as you Americans put it. Some day we hope to pay our debt to the last mark.

"I have come to the United States to express my country's appreciation for what you have done toward leading us out of the chaos. My visit is the realization of my life's most cherished ambition.

Pleased With America.

"Even during the war," he continues, "when I was a chaplain at the front, I was impressed with the high regard our troops had for your soldiers. We found our most courageous foe our kindest friend.

"With great expectation I set foot upon your soil. Nor have I been disappointed. I feel as thought I were in another world."

The cardinal is one of the most distinguished theologians of modern times. From his pen have come many of the better known works on exegetic and homiletic nature.

Despite his profound scholarship, he is remarkably democratic. Cardinal Faulhaber cleverly circumvented an attempt to kiss his ring. He preferred the American way of shaking hands.

His face was wreathed in a pleasant smile. But a look of sadness displaced it as he told of the misery of his people.

His eminence got along splendidly without the assistance of an interpreter. He speaks excellent English.

POSTER CREATOR GIRL TELLS OF MANY RECORDS

NEW YORK, May 31.—Vyvyan Donner is the latest artist to capture Broadway.

She's given us something new in the way of posters.

This enterprising and altogether lovely young person looked over her collection of art papers—blues and greens from Japan, golds and lacquer reds from China, calico prints from her mother's day, and wall paper from our own, and created the "vitalized silhouette."

Lots of Color.

The "vitalized silhouette" has colors like Joseph's coat. It makes the old-fashioned silhouette look like ancient history.

"I give my figures lots of vitality, life, color and movement," Miss Donner explains, "and nobody notices that they lack features.

"People can apply this hint to themselves. Bad features won't count against you if you have an abundance of life and pep.

"I did my first color silhouette for a theatrical review. Then I was swamped with orders from theatrical sources.

Decorating Came Next.

"Later came commissions to decorate some of Broadway's fashionable cafes.

"With all this work on my hands I had to turn to history to find inspiration for my figures. That led me into costume designing. So, besides designing costumes for a number of theatrical productions, I have published more than 150 articles on the history of costumes and accessories.

"But my long-distance record is in millinery. For six years I've designed one hat a day for a single large house."

WRATH OF FIRE AND FLOOD.

The central part of Hot Springs, Arkansas looked like this after recent flood waters had receded and fire was under control. No lives were reported to be lost, but property damage of $2,00,000 was caused.

To make meals pleasanter—

THERE'S nothing quite like having enough silverware! It removes annoyance in serving the meal and makes the eating of it more agreeable.

And to try to get along without enough silverware is quite unnecessary. For in 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate you can provide all you need quite reasonably. Tea spoons in the beautiful Old Colony pattern, or in any other, cost only $3.75 the half dozen. The other pieces—table knives and forks, dessert spoons, salad forks—are priced on the same moderate scale.

A sensible scheme is to purchase now the pieces you need most, and to add others in the chosen pattern from time to time. In the newer patterns your dealer always will be ready to supply your wants. Remember that "1847 Rogers Bros." is made to last a lifetime. It leaves nothing to be desired in durability or guarantee.

Send for "How Much Silverware," a new booklet which is a faithful guide to reasonable silverware purchases for families large and small.

HOG GRADING LESSONS

A few hours at the elbow of a hog grader at one of the abbattoirs or stock yards in Canada would be time well spent. One may learn much about hog grading from reading and conversation, but the lesson is much more impressive if one sees a shipment divided into separate lots according to grade, more especially if the shipment contains specimens from one's own farm.

A grader has three principal points to bear in mind—weight, length and form. Many hogs of ideal weight are assigned to the thick-smooth group because they are too short for selects. Others may have the correct length and weight but are so rough in shoulder as to put them oustide the select section. One may doubt the justice of a grading report if he has never witnessed grading in practice, but he is unlikely to do so if he sees the work done by an official grader.

It is equally instructive to go through the packing plant and to be shown collections of sides made from hogs of the different market grade. The Wiltshire side is of definite form, and of weights ranging between certain limits. The characteristics of the side that brings the highest price are well understood and the first grade of Wiltshire is obtainable only from a select bacon hog. Like No. 1 hard wheat, No. 1 cheese, No. 1 creamery butter or fancy fruit, the select hog is worth the higher price. A hog raiser will profit greatly by visiting a stockyard or an abattoir and seeing for himself the actual grading of a shipment or hogs.

SEASON'S WRAPS.

Despite the vogue for flowing capes and fancy wraps, some of the most elegant and the most expensive coats stick to straight lines and the narrow silhouette. Many costumes on strictly tailored lines are seen.

ARRESTS SPOOK OF "GRANDMA"

Patrolman Embraced the Visitor From Spiritland, Who Dived Unceremoniously Beneath a Table.

CINCINNATI, O., May 31—This vicinity either is on the verge of a spiritlat revelation, or about to be entertained to some rich humor.

And all because police and other investigators are determined to rid the community of so-called fake mediums who prey upon the gullible.

Recently a seance in Covington, Ky., a city across the Ohio River, was rudely broken up when a policeman in the "circle" gathered in his arms the supposed spirit of his grandmother.

And upon the heels of this episode, came another alleged expose on which a "trumpet seance" came to grief when a doubter flashed a light. Now believers in the occult are determined to produce psychic phenomena to offset unfavorable publicity.

The Covington case has aroused considerable attention.

Police Present

Twenty-nine persons including police and newspaper men attended the materialization seance held by Mrs. Mary Langley, who was unaware that any law save that of the other world was present.

The unsual songs were sung, and then through the dimness of a very dark room, a curtain of a cabinet opened. Squeak! A white form began to flit about. Horrors!

"It's Rosebud," whispered one of the old-times. Rosebud, it was explained, was the supposed daughter of "Uncle Jim" Alton, who has assisted Mrs. Langley for a year and a half.

"Evening, Rosie," called a regular. "How's everybody?" asked the spook cheerily.

Rosie then asked a series of questions to a man wearing a lodge pin. She also told an elderly man from Louisville to play a horse named Pumps at Churchhill Downs.

"We know what horse will win," piped Rosebud, "cause we go the the jockey shed." (Pumps ran five days later, finished second and paid $4.)

She then scolded Uncle Jim because he hadn't brought candy, but accepted a piece of chewing gum as a substitute. Then she grew playful, and sang "I'm Forever Washing Dirty Dishes," a parody on a well-known song.

Patrolman Herman Ricken's turn came next, and who should appear but the spirit of his grandmother!

"Howdy, Grandma!"

"Well, grandmother," Ricken said, and being of an affectonate bend of mind, he embraced her. At the word "Well," a reporter flashed a light, and oh, boy!

The spook wriggled away and dived unceremoniously under a table, and when the smoke blew over, Mrs. Langley and Alton were under arest for disorderly conduct. Alton later said he had been fooled, and that he believed he had been talking with departed dead.

Mrs. Charles B. Pressnall, trumpet medium, was taken into custody in this city after an investigator claimed to have exposed the voice coming from the trumpet as belonging to Mrs. Pressnall.

Through her attorney she has said she will not consent to a trumpet test in court.

"Such a test would not be conclusive," she explains. "Sir Oliver Lodge is a spiritist believer and yet the same tests that convinced him have failed to move other scientists."

But Mrs. Langley will contest her case to a finish, she said.

"Ever since a child I have been psychic. The spirits would come to me and talk to me. This is all a frame-up.

"Gown Was Planted"

"The gown they say was found, was planted. I never had anything like it. (Officers say the "spirit" was wrapped in a white cloth, which they found.) I was in a trance when the interruption took place, so I do not know what happened. More than one medium has been paralyzed by such interruptions. I am ill now.

"But I have retained a lawyer and will prove I am sincere. I will give a test seance to prove to the satisfaction of the court I can materialize the spirits. They little knew that I am widely known medium and have worked in Cleveland, Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City, Kan., St. Louis, Indianapolis, Kankakee, Ill., and other cities.

"The two worlds can be connected. It is natural law. This condition is brought about by good thoughts and good conditions. I have absolutely no fear of failure or conviction."

$240,000,000 FOR IMPROVING ELECTRIC LINES THIS YEAR

CHICAGO, May 31 (Associated Press).—Electric railways in the United States will spend the enormous sum of $240,000,000 for new equipment and plant facilities during 1923, according to a survey of expansion programs just announced by the Illinois Commission on Public Utilities.

This will be an addition to the large normal expenditures which must alway be made for materials and supplies necessary to the continuous operation of the properties of city and interurban lines.

These proposed expenditures are about 60 per cent. grater than those of 1922' the commissioner's statement says, the 1922 expenditures totalling $151,000,000.

THE RELATION OF BRAINS TO FOOD.

A great artist, when asked what he mixed his colors with, replied "Brains."

Brains mix as well with foods, yet they are entirely unemployed in the feeding problems of civilized races. If we used brains in this connection, we would know that refining out of our most important foodstuffs, the grains, the alkali upon which the blood depends to keep it non-acid, must have serious consequences to the race. Uncivilized races have no cancer, goitre, tuberculosis, heart, kidney, liver or other disease of civilized races, until they adopt civilization's foods. Having lived upon alkaline whole grains, milk, nuts, beans, eggs, vegetables, fruits, when they take to white flour, refined cereals, white sugar, etc., all "acid-formers," they become as subject to diseases as civilized races are. Knowing this, if we mixed brains with our food habits, we would reduce to a minimum the use of acid white flour, refined cereals, sweets, meats, etc., and live more largely upon alkaline whole grains, milk, nuts, greens, fruits, etc. Denmark did so during the war and reduced the death rate thiry-four per cent, in one year. So might we.

Roman Meal is the only alkaline cereal, alkaline enough to correct the acids of flour, other cereals, meats and sweets. Even hot Roman Meal porridge or baked products alkalinize or "cool" the blood, but icy-cold BROSE-O, CHOLO-O, JELLE-E are hot-day delights, prepared in ten minutes and served with milk, cream, whipped cream, honey, preserved or fresh fruits. At grocers.

Cuticura Heals Face Disfigured With Itchy Eczema

"Eczema broke out in watery pimples on my face and head. Later my cheeks and head became so bad that they were covered with large scales. The itching and burning were so severe that I could not sleep at night. My face was badly disfigured. My hair became dry and lifeless and fell out so that I had to have it cut off close to my scalp.

"A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Elmer King, Box 279, Jackson St., Oxford, Nova Scotia.

MORAL INFLUENCE OF YOUR NEIGHBOR.

Thank the Woman Next Door For What Your Children Are.

By Marian Hale

NEW YORK, May 31.—Next time Mrs. Neighbor runs in to borrow some flour or the lawn mower or use the telephone or spend the morning—welcome her with a smile.

You owe her a big debt, says Arthur Train, author of "His Children's Children." As a moral pacifier nothing can supplant Mrs. Neighbor. It is her non-existence that is at the bottom of New York's bad morals.

"The average New Yorker, and in a smaller way the inhabitant of any large city, has seldom known neighbors. Childhood has meant just one moving van after another," he explains.

Only model parents can read their children without the neighbors' help, he believes.

Public Opinion Missed

"The city child," he goes on, "misses the rightful protection of small-town public opinion, where the whole family is known to every one. The small-town boy is born and brought up where for generations his family has been known to everyone. Anything he does is quite sure to please or shock them.

"He starts withan accumulative fund of clean living, life-long associates of his parents, family pride and self-restraint. There is an inherited influence against wrong-doing.

"Now the big city boy has moved there in his infancy or was born there. His early childhood begins in one neighborhood. Then his family moves to another. By the time he is 12 years years old he has been set down among strangers half a dozen times.

More Moving

"Then begins the boarding school and camp period. He is farmed out in rapid succession. He has no tradition and no accumulated influences. If he goes back to any of the old neighborhoods where he spent a part of his childhood, he probably won't recognize a face.

"What is the result? He has no circle of friends who represent public opinion. No one group knows what he does and no one cares.

"So keep your old neibhbors with in sight and sound," he advises.

"Neighbors—and a home that is more than a place to change clothes. In this way you mau help your children to sidestep the jazz age."

"BY THIS SIGN YE SHALL CONQUER"

Reds' Desecration of Cross Makes Christianity Stronger — Crime to Teach Religion.

MOSCOW, May 31.—The Soviet campaign against religion has been forced on the attention of the world by the execution of Dr. Butchkevitch, but for more than a year it has aroused real anxiety among many on the spot.

Religious persecution is no new thing in Russia. Up to the beginning of this century the Greek church ruled absolutely and persecuted nonconformists without mercy. Certain other sects were permitted under sufferance. The Catholic church for example, was allowed to function but was restricted and the Czar claimed the right to control the election of the Catholic bishops. Polish Catholics in the middle of the last century went through experiences that recall what the Russians Christians are now experiencing from the Soviets.

"Why recall old wrongs?" I may be asked. One can not understand the present in Russia, except in the light of the past. Not only, were nonconformists persecuted, but Greek church priests and even bishops who dared to show independence were banished to remote monasteries or sent into exile.

The church was a branch of the state. Any one who suffered from it was guilty of treason to the Czar. That form of religious oppression ceased under Nicholas, but state direction of the church largely killed spiritual life in it. The church was rich, powerful, corrupt, and stood every where for reaction. The life in many monasteries was a scandal.

The Communists see organized religion as the "one of the most powerful weapons at the disposal of the oppressors for the maintenance of inequality, exploitation and slavish obedience on the part of toilers."

Crime to Teach Children

Under Soviet law priests are not allowed to hold office in the state. The collective teaching of religion to children under 18 is forbidden. This bars more than Sunday schools. The Russian who calls the children of a neighbor in with his own to tell them the story of Bethlehem is guilty of a capital crime. He may teach his own children in his own home, but that is all. The churches are forbidden to exercise benevolence, to feed or clothe the hungry, or to distribute alms. Religion must not be taught or exercised in any public institution. These provisions insure that a very large proportion of the next generation will be brought up without religion.

All these measures have been taken, be it noted, in the name of religious liberty.

At the beginning of 1922 the Bolshevviki issued a decree that the surplus treasures of the church were to be sold for famine relief. Here was an opportunity for the churches to make a great renunciation. They lost the opportunity. In place of gladly cooperating they haggled and questioned and when the authorities forcibly seized the treasures, they openly protested. The Catholics, through the Pope, offered to pay the value of the their church treasures to the government if the treasures were left untouched. The Greek church tried diplomatic arguments.

This was bad policy. It may be pleaded on behalf of the church leaders that they did not believe that the government would honestly use their valuables for the relief of starvation.

The Bolshevik authorities seized the opportunity to break up religious organizations. Under Soviet law it is treason, punishable with death, to organize opposition to a decree passed by the people's commissars. Arrests were made all over the country, from the Greek patriarch to the Catholic archbishop and from humble priests to gentlewomen worshippers. The Greek church metropolitan archbishop of Petrograd was shot in July. Many others, preist, bishops and church workers, have been shot and large numbers are in prison under sentence.

"Fanaticism In Trials"

I have attended many of the trials of the churchfolk. They have never had a dog's chance. The communists have used just the same arguments that religious persecutors in all ages have employed. I am trying to write this article as dispassionately as I can but what I have witnessed has set my heart aflame. I do not say this only in print thousands of miles from Russia. I have said it to the Communists to their faces, and I shall be in Russia when they read this article. The persecutions have mostly been as loathsome a display of intolerant fanaticism as history has to show.

"Living Church" Movement

The government welcomed the "Living Church" as a weapon with which to shatter the power of the older episcopate. Archbishop Antonin, a reformer, was called to Moscow. He and others summoned a church council, and took on themselves the duties of the patriarch. Then they decreed th reform of the church in such a way as to give all power to themselves. When bishops have been driven out they consecrate new bishops of their own party.

The mass of church people refuse to recognize the new men but they are gradually acquiring office and authority. I was in Petrograd in the autumn of last year when the archbishop of the new living church arrives and, despite opposition, took over power. Many of the great cathedrals, such as the Church of Our Redeemer, inMoscow, are now in the hands of the new men.

A fight between church and state in Russia will bring great suffering but from the point of view of religion it need not be feared. The world is that the communists have allowed fanatical hatred to blind them to the evident fact that by persecuting religion they are strengthening it. Bukharin, who strangely enough is supporting the present campaign, pointed this out, when he wrote, ""To thrust atheism upon the masses and in conjunction there with to interfere forcibly with religious practices and to make moct of the objects of popular reverence would not assist but would hinder the campaign against religion. If the church were to be persecuted, it would win sympathy among the masses."

One thing can be said with some assurance and even the Communists themselves are beginning to have an inkling that it is true. The recent manifestations of the anti-religious campaign have put back American recognition of the Soviet government for at least two years.

NO OPPOSITION TO AGRICULTURAL BILL

Bill Given Second Reading in House of Commons—To Grant Credit Facilities to Farmers.

TORONTO, May 31. — (Canadian Press.)—Hon. G. H. Ferguson, in the eastern part of the province, leader of the Conservatives, and Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, who is in the north, continue their challenge to Premier Drury, head of the U.F.O.-Labor government, to show where the administration has carried out its pledges of wise and economical government of the province. Government supporters in Toronto are preparing for a big meeting in Massey Hall here on Friday night, to be addressed by the Premier and Attorney-General W. E. Raney, and local Drury candidates. It is expected that the Premier and his followers will at this meeting make reply to allegations levelled at the administration.

Premier Drury is at present campaigning in the Ottawa Valley, where at Pembroke and Eganswille yesterday he made a spirited defence of the government's record.

Party nominations are continuing and indications are that expectations of three-cornered contests in the majority of the constituencies will be realized.

GAVE HIS LIFE TO SAVE FELLOW WORKERS

DETROIT, May 31 (Canadian Press). — Scott W. Markle, aged 35, foreman at the United States Radiator Corporation's plant, gave his life yesterday that others might live.

Markle died in the receiving hospital from burns suffered when he made a heroic but unsuccessful attempt to prevent a gasoline explosion in the plant.

A spark from an acetylene torch in the hands of a structural iron worker fell into a bucket of gasoline and paint.

Fearing it would ignite and endanger the lifes of half a score of men in the place, Markle picked up the bucket and ran towards an exit.

The rush of air fanned the spark, and the contents ignited.

Markle was burned from head to foot.

A FINE COMPLEXION

Can be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure.

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concern to her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girls means a thinning of the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters complexions, and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girl with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired and breathless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ballots Counted in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 31.—(Canadian Press.) — Counting of ballots for St. Barbe district in the Newfoundland General Election began yesterday at Bonne Bay on the west coast, the chief town of the district. The election was held four weeks ago.

The delay was due to the difficulty of getting the ballot boxes back from east coast points, where the breaking up of the ice on the rivers prevented the use of dog teams.

Toronto Man Speaks Highly Of Dreco

Mr. Harry Hipkiss finds relief in Dreco when all other medicines fail. Now has splendid appetite.

Mr. Hipkiss, of 2090 Dundas street West, Toronto, Ont., had suffered for a long time from a run-down digestive system. It simply would not function properly until toned and regulated by the corrective properties of Dreco, the famous herbal remedy.

"My stomach caused all sorts of trouble," says Mr. Hipkiss. "My food wouldn't digest and everything seemed to sour. My liver was sluggish and I would get bilious and have dizzy spells. My joints ached with pain from rheumatism. My bowels never acted regular, and I didn't sleep well at night. My appetite was very poor, but now I can eat almost anything without suffering afterwards. I am certainly glad I heard of Dreco, for it has done away with my troubles. It seemed to hit the spot where everything else failed."

Sluggish action of the organs can be charged with causing suffering such as Mr. Hipkiss describes. Poor digestion causes a weakening of the other organs and speedily takes a toll on the general health. Dreco is made from roots, herbs, bark and leaves, which tone up these vital organs. It keeps them strong and healthy and acting as Nature intended.

Dreco is especially valuable at this season of the year to tone up a system run-down by the rigors of winter. It contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

More Light--- Better Business For the Publisher

THE more light the publisher gives the advertiser on his publication—the greater consideration he receives when it comes to placing advertising.

The facts embodied in an A. B. C. report are those which the advertiser wants to know—facts that he must know to buy space intelligently. He cannot afford the time or expense necessary to collect them either by correspondence with the publisher or by financing his own investigation.

Therefore, the uniform, easily-accessible A. B. C. form, packed with complete dependable facts, is a ready solution to the problem of how to locate the most desirable mediums with the minimum of effort and expense.

The long-established commercial rating agencies have furnished financial information for years. Banks are audited periodically. The Audit Bureau of Circulations performs a similar function by collecting and verifying circulation information for the advertiser.

Publishers subscribing to the A. B. C. standards are helping to stabilize and organize advertising in the way that, by long experience in other commercial lines, has proved to be Good Business.

Milton Wins

500 Mile International Sweepstakes, at Indianapolis ON Firestone CORDS

(Special Telegraphic Dispatch from the Indianapolis Speedway, May 30th)

Tommy Milton in a H.C.S. Special Won To-day on Firestone Cords at average speed 91 and 44 1-100 miles per hour, being only driver in history of this race classic to win a second time. Hartz and Murphy and Cooper, who relieved Hearne, finished second, third and fourth in order named, in Durant Specials, giving clean sweep of first four places to Firestone Cords. Eight of ten Cars to finish in money were Firestone Cord equipped. Not once in entire 500 miles was any driver using Firestone Cords forced to pit with flat tires.

At Indianapolis were gathered the most famous drivers and the foremost racing cars of the world. It was a contest of driving skill, a competition of automotive science and a "Battle of Tires."

Around this sand-surfaced brick oval, Firestone Cords swept through to victory. The grinding wear, the scorching heat, the terrific pace were conditions that only staunch cord plies and scientifically compounded treads could subdue.

The tough, wear-resisting tread and the heat-defying carcass of Firestone Cords reigned supreme, just as they have long done in the daily service of millions of car owners.

By insulating each cord in rubber Firestone protects tires from heat. This process is the development of an organization of specialists—whose sole purpose is to build constantly better tires.

This triumph supplies additional evidence of Firestone's ability to set new standards of tire building year by year.

Like the winning driver you, too, can trust these powerful tires to give you the utmost in performance. If you're not using them, equip all 'round with Firestone Cords—and set new standards of comfort, safety and economical mileage.

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange And Curb Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 31. — (Special.)—The stock market reached higher levels to-day with stocks showing good gains at the opening, which were fairly well maintained as the session moved through the morning. Developments over the holiday furnished further evidence that fears regarding the business let up had been carried to excess. The Federal reserves statistics showed that whole sales in April were nine per cent below March, but were 17 per cent. above April, 1922. Announcement was also made that the Gary Rails Mills were booked ahead for a full year demonstrating that ample business was in sight for the steel industry. Both Industrial and Rails stocks displayed a confident tone in the early dealings. Studebaker reached a new high mark on the move at 114 1-8 and other speculative leaders scored fair gains over the previous close. New York Central continued to head the advance in the carrier group, advancing fractionally to 99. Industrials developed further strength as the first hour progressed and buoyancy was evidenced by several stocks around 11 a.m. Mack Trucks and Stewart Warner made new highs on the move in the wake of Studebaker's up-swing, while General Electric jumped 3 3-4 to 180 1-4, in response to the unprecedented business the company is enjoying. Stimulation was derived from the favorable character of labor development over the holiday. The consensus of steel manufacturers is there will be little if any falling off in steel production this year. Evidence of this is found in the announcement that the Gary Rail Mills are booked ahead for the remainder of 1923.

It is traditional in the steel trade that so long as the rail mills are busy, activity may be looked for in other lines of steel. Domestic demands have been so brisk that no effort has been made to push exports. This country is depended on to make the world's annual deficiency.

PORT HOPE AGAIN QUITS THE LEAGUE

President Dedman Receives Telegram Stating That Lakeshore Town Has Again Withdrawn.

The position of Port Hope in the Central Ontario League is again a matter of doubt. According to a report in a Lindsay paper, the Port Hope team has again been withdrawn from the League, and according to a report from the Port Hope Guide efforts are being made to round up a team in the Lake Shore town.

If a new club can be organised with players that come within the limitations set by the O.B.A.A., and can take over the franchise of the present club, Port Hope may yet be represented in "A" section of the Central loop. Otherwise, it is to be feared that Port Hope is out of the League.

In the following clippings from the Lindsay and Port Hope papers, Port Hope's reference to the "new" residence rule of the O.B.A.A. is interesting.

President Dedman received a telegram from the secretary of the Port Hope Baseball Club stating that that club has once more dropped out of the Central Ontario League. The action of Port Hope this season has been very disappointing to League officials and to the other clubs in the League.

The Lake Ontario town from the outset objected to the first of January rule, but agreed to carry on rather than drop its franchise. Then came the Oshawa meeting when Port Hope flatly withdrew, setting the League in a turmoil.

Oshawa and Leaside followed, but by strenuous efforts on the part of League officials the three teams decided to remain and the clubs went so far as to arrange dates, etc. However, once again Port Hope has faded away and decided to quit baseball.

It is understood that the intention of other clubs in "A" section will be to follow the printed schedule, playing exhibition games in place of the Port Hope schedule dates. — Lindsay Post.

George V. Strong has been on a twenty-four hour shift for the past month endeavouring to gather enough material together to make a ball team. The new residence rule of the O.B.A.A. made it difficult to gather a nine together that would have a fighting chance against the other teams, but Manager Strong combed the Town League and these players, with a number of the old-timers, are all ready now for the season's work. Those who witnessed the game in Oshawa on 24th May state that either of the teams would make the "Big Four" hustle. —Port Hope Guide.

Sunday School to Provide Boys' Camp.

George Street Sunday School believes in keeping abreast of the times, and following the lead of other Sunday Schools in the larger cities, it is going to promote a boys' camp at Sandy Point from July 1 to July 11.

Every detail in connection with the running of a camp is being looked after by the Camp Committee, who have also provided a varied programme of sports.

The camp will be supervised by a number of the male teachers, who are giving up their regular vacation for this purpose.

The ladies of the church are arranging to provide the boys with cakes and pies, which will be sent up to the camp each day, while a number of cars have been placed at the disposal of the Committee to transport the boys to and from the camp.

George Street is the first school in Peterboro to provide its scholars with the opportunity of spending a holiday at camp, and quite a number of boys are going to take advantage of it.

A PRESENTATION.

As the result of a popularity contest Peterboro has presented Al Heckman with a very beautiful canoe. And a couple of years ago the same city endeavored to present Ed. Thomas, a Belleville umpire, with the Otonabee river without even an old punt to cling to.—Port Hope Guide.

AN OMISSION.

Port Hope has just issued by the hundreds a small booklet entitled, "A few facts for manufacturers about Port Hope." No reference is made to the fact that the town is "dead" as far as baseball is concerned.—Lindsay Post.

TOMMY MILTON'S SECOND VICTORY

Won 500-Mile Auto Race at Indianapolis Speedway Yesterday—Won in 1921 Also.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31 (Canadian Press). — Tommy Milton, of St. Paul, Minn., achieved the ambition of his brilliant racing career yesterday whein for the second time he won the 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, repeating his victory of 1921, before a crowd of 150,000 spectators.

It was the greatest throng that ever witnessed a sporting event in the United States.

Milton's time for the 500 miles was speed of 91.4 miles an hour, as compared with the record-breaking speed of 94.48 miles made a year ago.

Harry Hartz, of Los Angeles, who finished second in the 1922 race, thundered across the finishing line five miles behind Milton, while Jimmy Murphy was third, about 13 miles behind Hartz. Hartz's time was 5.33.05.90, for an average of 90.06 miles an hour.

Murphy finished in 5.40.36.64, for an average of 88.08 miles an hour.

PETES NOSED OUT BY THE KINGSTON PONIES

Lose a Ten-Innings Battle 10 to 9 After a Game in Which There Was More Excitement Than Baseball.

SOME HARD HITTING.

The Petes dropped a weird game at Kingston last evening when, after a ten innings battle in which there was some good and much bad baseball, the Ponies finaliy won out by 10 runs to 9, after Manager Solomon's crew, behind 9 to 4 at the end of the eighth, had tied the score by a rally which sent in five runs in the ninth. The Petes outhit Kingston 13 hits to 8, and their safeties included a home run, two triples and three doubles, but in spite of all this swatting, five stolen bases, four bases on balls and a hit by pitcher, they were eventually nosed out by the odd run. A dozen plays, any one of which would have turned the trick had they gone through differently, took the wrong twist, and the breaks favoured the Ponies —as did several bad decisions by the umpires.

The Petes showed the effects of a week without practice and they did not perform with the smoothness that marked their work at Cobourg. On top of that Al. Heckman was far from being at the top of his form, lacking control and a lot of his smoke, and the Ponies' eight hits weer put in just where they would do the most harm, home runs by Batstone and Gallagher being responsible for four counters. The great fielding and all round good work of Shortstop Ansaldo and the hard hitting of Herb Wolfe, who hammered out a homer, triple and double in five trips up, were the bright features in the Petes' play.

They were not working well yesterday and even Manager Solomon shared in the error column by chasing a couple of runners in to be extinguished at the plate when it would have been better baseball to have played safe.

Del Cherry opened for Kingston, and although the big fellow did not appear to have a lot on the ball, he managed to keep the Petes' hits well scattered until ninth when they jumped on him so hard that he walked out of the box and Moore finished the game. The first ball delivered by the new twirler was walloped for a home run by Wolfe, driving in three runs, but Moore steadied down and held the Petes safe afterward. Batstone played nice ball for the winners, both at bat and in the field, but the rest of the Kingston team did not appear very formidable, and the Petes had to play a lot of bad baseball behind pitching not as good as they usually get to lose the verdict.

Umpiring mistakes played a considerable part in the result. Collings' failure to see Nicholson caught off third and Butler's miss of a perfect strike on Batstone, both in the third innings, helped Kingston to four runs.

A huge crowd saw the game, and the diamond at the Exhibition grounds was in good shape.

Kingston hope to win the game here Saturday.

The Petes last a good chance in the first. After Ansaldo had lined viciously into W. Evan's hands, Johnston dropped a single into right, Swanston bunted for a sacrifice, but Jack Evans threw high to first, and both runners were safe. Comolli cracked one to Batstone, who had only to step on third to force Johnston, and Heckman rolled out to Cherry.

Kingston bagged two. Nicholson fanned and Nelson tossed out J. Evans, Daly, however, walked, and rode home ahead of Batstone when the ex-Hillcrest star cracked one down the first base line for the circuit. Twigg fanned for the third out.

The Petes got one back in the second. Somerville robbed Nelson of a hit by a one-handed stop, but Wolfe shot a triple into deep left centre. Lowe fanned, but Evans dropped the third one and had to throw him out at first. Wolfe beating the return throw to the plate, Legon rolled out to Batstone.

For Kingston, Somerville popped to Ansaldo, Gallagher hoisted one to Comolli, and W. Evans fanned.

In the Petes' third, Ansaldo was thrown out by W. Evans, who also gobbled Johnston's fly. Swanston got a life when a third strike got away from Evans. Comolli singled past Batstone, and Heckman walked, filling the bases. Nelson's roller to Batstone wound up the innings.

The Kingston half was a nightmare for the Petes. Cherry opened with a ginger to left and Nicholson bunted safely between Heckman and Comolli. Wolfe dropped Evans' fly after a run, and the bases were full. Daly hit to Comolli, and Cherry was out at the plate. With Batstone up, Swanston caught Nicholson cold off third, but Umpire Collings missed the play and called the runner safe. Then Dick Butler missed a grooved strike on Batstone, and gave the Ponies' captain a walk, forcing in Nicholson. Twigg's single past third scored Evans and Daly, and Somerville's sacrifice fly to Wolfe sent Batstone in. Heckman made a great play on Gallagher's rap to retire the side.

The Solomon outfit carried one at the lead in the fourth. After Wolfe and Lowe had fanned, Legon walked, stole second, went on to third on Evans' bad toss, and registered when Ansaldo singled to left. The Petes' shortstop stole second, but was nipped tryling to steal third.

For Kingston W. Evans rolled to Heckman, Cherry flied to Wolfe. Nicholson singled to left, and J. Evans fanned.

The fifth saw the Petes another run closer. Johnston walked to start with, and Swanston moved him up to second with a sacrifice. Comolli was hit, Heckman's solid single centre scored Johnston, but Helson hoisted to W. Evans, and Wolfe was called out on strikes.

Kingston were easy. Daley rolled to Comolli, Heckman tossed out Batstone, and Twigg was out on a tap in front of the plate.

In the sixth for Peterborough, McElroy, batting for Lowe, popped to Daley. Legon singled to left and stole second. Ansaldo singled through short, but Legon was out at the plate on a fine throw by Gallagher, Ansaldo going to second. Ansaldo stole third and scored when right. Swanston lined into Nicholson's hands in centre.

Kingston scored two in their half. Somerville got a life when Legon dropped his high fly. Ansaldo colliding with the left fielder and jolting the ball out of his hand. Gallagher immediately cracked a terrific home run to deep right, scoring Somerville ahead of him. W. Evans fanned and Ansaldo pulled off two fast plays to retire Cherry and Nicholson.

In the seventh Comolli fanned, Heckman hoisted to Daley. Helson drew a pass, but was out at the plate on a relay, Gallagher to Batstone ot Evans, when Wolfe doubled to left.

For Kingston, J. Evans fanned. Daley cracked a hot one at Helson, who partially stopped the drive, and Ansaldo by fast fielding recovered the ball and tossed out the runner. Wolfe muffed Batstone's fly and the batter reached second, but Twigg fanned.

McElroy led off for the Petes in the eighth with a triple to right, but was stranded at third. Legon rolling to Batstone, Ansaldo flying to short, and Johnston being tossed out by Cherry.

For Kingston Somerville singled over second. Gallagher and W. Evans fanned. Somerville went to second on a passed ball, and scored on Heckman's bad peg to catch him off second, Wolfe letting the ball get away from him. Cherry fanned for the third out.

The Petes' big rally was staged in the ninth. With Kingston leading 9 to 4, Swanston started things by walking. Comolli boomed a long double to the cars in left, scoring Swanston. Heckman was safe on W. Evans' fumble. Helson doubled to centre, scoring Comolli. That was enough for Cherry and he walked out of the box, Moore going to the rubber. Wolfe slammed the first ball pitched by the relief pitcher for a clean homer to deep left centre, scoring Heckman and Helson ahead of him and sewing up the game. McElroy died on a roller to first and Legon was called out on a tap in front of the plate. Ansaldo singled through short and stole second, but Johnston was called out on strieks.

In Kingston's half, Nicholson struck out. J. Egans flied to McElroy and Ansaldo made a fine stop of Dilly's hot one.

The Petes went out in order in the tenth. Swanston fanned. Comolli lifted one to W. Evans and Somerville tossed out Heckman.

Kingston won out in their half. Batstone singled over second. Twigg bunted for a sacrifice and Heckman threw high to second trying to head off Batstone, who went to third. Somerville's slow roller down the first base line sent Batstone in with the winning run with nobody out.

NIGHTIES IN THE ARMY

LONDON, United Press).—Crepe de chine nighties are not a proper stock in trade for an army and navy canteens' board according to Lord Wolmer who has just appeared before the Board in protest against the shimmering sleeping garments. Lord Wolmer says the canteens' board has lots of crepe de chine nighties in stock and he has some picture of display windows with the offending articles in view. No one seems able to explain the connection between the filmy sleeping things and the British Tommy Atkins.

LACROSSE

Last night's practtice at King Edward Park was just the kind the squad needs. About twenty players were out, and Bert Todd and Jack Creighton lent a hand, selecting sides and directing the play. Among those noticed were Alf. Johnston, Jack Killoran, Simms, Foy, Ranger, Fred and Joe Jones, Taylor, Lynch, Brown, Jack Lebarr, Curtin, Curtis, Gene Donovan, Milloy, O'Toole, Fraser and McDonough.

Juniors and intermediates played together, and if the players amalgamate the way they did last night the practices will soon show good results. Many of the boys are already in good shape and are also getting the fine points of the game into their play.

Vic Hamilton has called another workout at Central Park tonight, and it is intended that details of management will be definitely settled at once. Friday night will be vacant, and the will be nothing on the cards until next Monday.

Questions

ONE—Can the pitcher get on the rubber without having the ball in his possession?

TWO—When a balk is called, what are the rights of a base runner? Can a runner score from third?

THREE—When a fielder is making a play on a batted ball, who has the right of way, fielder or base runner?

FOUR—If a pitcher, with a runner on first, starts to deliver the ball to the batsman and it accidentally drops to the ground what is the proper ruling?

FIVE—Has a pitcher the right to snap the ball to any base without first stepping in the direction of that base?

Answers

ONE—The pitcher commits a balk when he gets on the rubber without having the ball in his possession.

TWO—All base runners have the right to advance on base when a balk is called. A runner on third most certainly has the right to score.

THREE—The fielder always has the right of way when making a play on a batted ball. The base runner must avoid a collision or be called out for so doing.

FOUR—The dropping of the ball constitutes a failure to deliver the ball to the batsman, and must be regarded as a balk, even though it was accidental. Runner on first advances to second.

FIVE—A pitcher has no right to snap the ball to any base unless he steps directly toward such base in the act of making such throw.

THIS IS WHAT CANADA'S FOREMOST DRAMATIC CRITIC THINKS OF "THE CARD"

THIS IS THE REQUEST

That Appeared in the Toronto Sunday World April 15th:

Mr. Fred. Jacob,
Toronto Sunday World.

I would like to screen this picture for you privately before its public presentation so you will be able to tell your readers in advance what you think of this picture.

N. K. MILLER,
Manager Pantages Theatre.

THIS IS THE ANSWER

That Appeared in the Toronto Sunday World April 22nd:

It seems to me that pictures like "The Card" are going to be the big things of the screen in the long run. I feel sure that the majority of fans prefer to have their silent drama humorous and wholesome, human and sympathetic. "The Card" was good enough to make me look forward with considerable eagerness to the next Laddie Cliff picture.

MODERN GOLF

By W. J. & Frank Thompson

NOTED CANADIAN GOLFERS

No. 6—GOLF COUEISM

The time element in golf has more to do with its fascination and enigmatic character than any other factor. Substitute the moving ball for the stationary one (with the appropriate changes in the club) and you have, by reducing the time element solved the mystery of golf. Several seconds elapse between the address and the despatch of the ball in which a thousand and one thoughts may occur. If there were no time to reflect in golf during the execution of the stroke, but it took place more or less automatically and unconsciously, as is the case in tennis or baseball, one would hear less about the psychology of the game. Golf is primarily a game of propulsion or muscular effort, or as physiologists would say, it has to do principally with the motor centres, whereas reflection has to do with what is called the ideational centres of the brain.

Now when we reflect how a stroke is to be made at the same time that we make it, there is a certain opposition between the motor and ideational centres resulting in more or less confusion. In playing golf the problem is to allow the motor centres to work while inhibiting all other centres. When we play our best golf we just play without thinking much how it is done, and numerous professionals have testified that while driving the ball their minds were more or less a blank. As one said, "I dinna think at all, I just swoop her awa'."

Somewhat of this opposition is seen in the commonplace experience of thinking how one steps when walking down stairs. It slows up the pace and sometimes causes one to stumble. In the language of Coue we substitute the words conscious and unconscious.

All our moral, social and intellectual concepts are the result of the conscious, while the action of the vital organs, as well as digestion, etc., are the work of the unconscious. The unconscious never makes a mistake in its work. Although it is the engineer, it is dependent on the conscious for its material. If the conscious thinks of a "bunker," the unconscious takes it at its word and realizes its suggestions. How this is done Coue does not say any more than the physiologist can explain how his motor and ideational centres work. Coue is not interested in why or how suggestion works, but more in the fact that it does. His contribution has been in eliminating the element of effort. Whenever is present there is always a certain opposition going on. The efficacy of Coue's rosary is to keep prominently before us whatever is desired.

The golfer has the same problem. He must keep before him the desired end which is the ball. This alone should occupy his attention. Attention from its very nature tends to fluctuate. It will be difficult enough to keep the eye on the ball without deliberately making it more so by thinking of bunkers which may or may not enter into the game.

When one looks at the flag and then at the bunker, the attention fluctuates from flag to bunker, resulting in a certain confusion, and as Coue says, the unconscious accepts the stronger suggestion. All short holes are for the most part mental hazards and are designed purposely to distract the player. If the bunkers were removed, the player would realize how ridiculously easy some of the present formidable looking short holes are. Distraction come from having different lines. Aim in golf is something far more than getting the feet in the right position. This is clearly seen in the case of holes where there is an out of bounds to the right. The player usually faces away from the danger to avoid it, but instead of playing in the direction he stands the tendency is still to think of the out of bounds and unconsciously he aims in this direction. The result is usually a worse slice than before. In fact the stars try to reproduce the above conditions when they deliberately try for a slice.

The putting green is a fertile field for the study of golf psychology. Due to the fact that the putt is the last stroke the mistakes of the green become more apparent. It is oftentime the last chance to recoup oneself against bad play in the field. The hole is more or less a converging point. Players become anxious and apprehensive, for they know what it means to hole or miss a putt. We hope we may not, it but we fear that we shall not. The agitation is increased if one happens to have a reputation for bad putting The task is made if some one insinuates while the putt is about to be made, that it is going to be missed. If one is blessed with a good putting style and is able to ignore such distraction, no harm is done. But for the person who is laboring under a bad putting spell such remarks are almost criminal.

Confidence on the green is more important than anything else. With it wonders can be accomplished, even with defective style. Without it the most perfect mechanical swing is rendered useless. Usually when a player feels he can hole a putt, he does so, and the converse is true also of missing one when the player thinks it impossible of holing. Coue's explanation is that the unconscious accepts our fears and doubts because they are stronger, and realizes them. The cure is to think success. How this is to ve done is the rub. It will depend largely on the ingenuity of the player. So long as he eliminates effort and remains quiet and calm the problem should not be insoluble. Nothing succeeds like success, and this is the reason why a champion is usually so hard to dislodge from his position. He plays with such confidence. The reputation of a formidable player is an additional handicap for the young golfer to overcome so long as he dwells on it. It has well been said: "Cowards die a thousand times before their death, the valiant never taste of death but once."

did weaken the American team, but it is doubtful if the result would have been different had the noted Chick been over there doing his stuff.

Luis Firpo, the South American giant, hurt his hand in the fight with McAuliffe, and had to call off several matches.

Jimmy DeForest, his trainer, explained that Firpo did not hurt the mitt on McAuliffe. He hit one of the ring posts.

Nice, mild boy, Luis!

Richard C. Kendall, a West Virginia midshipman at Annapolis, was given a gold watch as a prize "for trying." It was the first time that a big college recognized the gamest and noblest boys in athletes, the "drudges" who haven't the stuff and refuse to admit it.

Kendall slaved for four hard years trying to earn a place in the 'varsity rowing shell, but he failed. There is no sport calling for so much heart and giving such a little reward as rowing.

Even if Kendall did fail to make good, his example of spirit must have been so inspiring that in his humble place he might have done more good than at the stroke oar of the 'varsity.

The citation for his decoration read:

"To a non-'varsity oarsman whose spirit helped to make the United States Naval Academy crew for 1923."

Life's noblest characters are not those who achieve mighty success, but they are those who always keep trying.

"Ivy" Olson, termed "Ivory" by the rabble, is one baseball player who deserves the same kind of decoration. "Ivy" may be, as the Brooklyn fans consider him, the worst second baseman in baseball, but with it he is just about the gamest player that ever walked on spikes.

For years Olson has been on the diamond trying all the time. He made many errors because he lacked the polish and technique of Collins, McManus, Frisch and other big stars and he made many errors because he went after everything.

His reward was abuse from the stands, day in and day out, season after season. When he had been benched and went out to the coaching line to keep up the valiant spirit of a game loser he was treated no better.

In ten years, a rookie will never be held up as a second Olson, unless it is to razz him, but the future may find some young players who can be flattered with the tribute that—"he's as game and loyal as 'Ivy' Olson."

Major league magnates from the "wide open spaces" are grumbling about the loss of business resulting from the use of the big New York parks for boxing.

Considering the money that the New York club owners have invested in their parks and considering the fact that the money visiting clubs have taken away from games played in New York have kept several of them alive, their wail sounds rather babylike.

If the outside clubs do not want the New York clubs to get some of their money back from outside sources, they should be willing to accept an assessment to cover part of the expenses entailed by the construction of these big parks.

Some of the club owners never consider what they would do in the other fellow's shoes.

P.A.A.A. WORK ON WINTER GAME

Plan Foundation for Two Teams in the O.H.A.

TRACK AND FIELD

At a well attended meeting of the Peterborough A.A.A., held last night at the Chamber of Commerce, the president, Dr. A. W. McPherson, H. T. McFadden, J. P. Bond and J. E. Sullivan, were appointed to select a hockey executive to take charge of the Intermediate and Junior O. H. A. teams. This committee will consider several phases of the hockey situation and will report at the next meeting of the P.A.A.A. executive. Action taken last night was unanimous and it was agreed that the Athletic Association should retain control of the O.H.A. franchise.

Track and Field.

In an effort to create interest in track and field events it was suggested that events might be carried out at the baseball, football and lacrosse games, the trials and elimination events to culminate in finals for local championships. It was felt that by introducing track and field sports at the various games, on a small scale, competition might increase, and a large portion of the public would become more familiar with the competitors and their work.

The Association has been offered a silver trophy for short distance running Charlie Thorpe has accepted the chairman ship for track and field events.

Football Affiliation.

Applications for affiliation from the Peterborough and District Football Association and the Junior Football Association were received and accepted. Fred Sutcliffe is the football representative on the P.A.A.A. executive. Mr. Sutcliffe extended the thanks of the football body for assistance given by the P.A.A. in procuring goal nets which were used for the first time at the Gordon Cup game on May 24th.

Play Quoits.

S. Whatley was appointed chairman for a committee to promote the game of quoits. This game is well under way at the grounds of the G.W.V.A. and interest in it is general throughout the city.

BASEBALL COMMENT

Twilight games are all right from the box office standpoint, but they are started later in Kingston than they should be. Umpire Butler would have been justified in calling last night's game at the end of the ninth, for it was too dark in the extra inning to properly see the ball.

Gallagher's two good throws from left field were a big help in bringing victory to Kingston.

Ansaldo's fast work on Daley's rap which trickled through Nelson was the best play of the game. The little shortstop had to make a lightning throw from deep short to get the runner.

Batstone's homer in the first innings was a lucky one. It was a fast grounder just inside of first base that rolled into the crowd in right field. At that he would have been out at the plate if Heckman had not intercepted the relay throw from Johnston. Gallagher's circuit clout in the seventh and Wolfe's homer in the ninth were real ones, however, Gallagher's being a smash to deep right field, while Wolfe's hit was over the centre fielder's head.

Johnny Evans, the Kingston catcher, looked very bad. He had three errors, and the Petes nicked five stolen bases off him, Ansaldo having three and Legon two.

Lefty McElroy started the Petes' eighth with a triple, but was stranded on third.

Batstone was the big horse for Kingston. He scored three runs, had two hits, including a homer, and handled six fielding chances nicely.

The worst decision of the game was made by Umpire Collings, who called Nicholson safe at third when he was caught three feet away from the bag on a quick throw from Swanston. The decision cost the Petes the ball game.

The Petes hope to reverse the decision on Saturday, when the two teams meet again at Riverside Park in the first home game in the Central Ontario League. A huge crowd will be on hand to see the Kingston Ponies play here for the first time.

Kingston Will Open the Central League Season Here Saturday.

Riverside Park will be ready for use on Saturday, and everything is ready for the opening of the Central Ontario League season which brings Kingston here to clash with the Petes. The latter have broken even in two games on the road, and are anxious to open their home stand by taking a face out of Batstone and his gang, who succeeded last evening in nosing out the Solomon gang 10 to 9 in ten innings.

Saturday's game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp, and there will be opening ceremonies, in which Mayor Taylor and Ald. Holloway and Phelan will take part. A record crowd is certain.

Kingston will have Gallagher, their southpaw star, ready to throw in against the Petes, while Heckman will try to secure revenge for yesterday's loss by putting the blanket on the Ponies. It should be a real ball game, and a fitting opening to what promises to be a great season.

Riot May Finish Boxing in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 31. Canadian Press. Although mayor William E. Dever refused yesterday to confirm reports that he would permit no more boxing matches in Chicago his close friends predicted that the riot at a boxing exhibition on Tuesday night would mean the end of such bouts in Chicago.

The show ended in a riot when Ritchie Mitchell, brother of Pinky Mitchell attacked Referee Dave Miller, after Benny Leonard, lightweight champion had scored a technical knockout over Pinky in the tenth round.

It became known yesterday that Mayor Dever had issued an order a week ago directing that no permits for boxing bouts be issued. This order was not enforced against last Tuesday night's matches, however, because returns were to go to charity.

Jim Mullen, promoter ,did not resort to the usual injunction method to ward off police interference, but submitted to arrest and was released on bond in the ring so that the Illinois law may be tested.

From Springfield yesterday came reports that if the boxing bill which was passed by the House Tuesday ever had a chance in the Senate that chance was eliminated by the riot on Tuesday night. One Senate leader who had not taken a definite stand, said yesterday that he thought that the "boxing game is done." He said that he would not vote for the bill.

OLD JOHN BULL CAN STILL PLAY GOLF

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 31.—(United Press).—Johnny Bull may be the globe's biggest joke in the ring, he may not be able to ride a horse in polo, and as a tenniser he may be a bust, but John can still play golf.

The superiority of the British amateur golf game was shown most conclusively in the recent British championships when the American team was perhaps fortunate in being able to provide the runner-up in Francis Ouimet.

The American team was the most formidable ever sent in quest of the coveted British titles, and even if Ouimet did win that famous St. George's Cup, something no American had ever done before, it is the amateur crowd that John is most proud of and most desirous of retaining.

Chick Evans, in deciding at the last moment not to go to England, did weaken the American team, but it is doubtful if the result would have been different had the noted Chick been over there doing his stuff.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

The eight big time vaudeville acts drew a big crowd to the Grand Opera House last night and those who saw the exhibition were thoroughly appreciative of the ability of the performers and the quality of the show.

Tamco Kajuyama was again seen in his mental psychology experiments and his wonderful achievements in rapid calculation and concentration. The keynote of the programme is variety. Miss Angie Campbell and Dan Casler; Freddie Clinton, Miss Grace Kinig and Maurice Briene render a musical programme ranging in its scope from Grand Opera selections to the latest catchy airs. A musical act and a dancing turn are also among the accomplishments of this versatile party.

Spice is added to an all-round good presentation in the songs of the little colored lad, Walter Lewis, and a stunt act in which cats, dogs, rabbits and birds perform.

"GANG STUFF" DOESN'T "GO" WITH THE CHAMP

Dempsey Careful About the Crowd Attached to His Training Camp — Good Memory and Manners.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 31.—(United Press).—When Jack Dempsey went to Atlantic City to start training for the defense of his title against Georges Carpentier, one of the first acquaintances he made was with Mayor Bader, the city's executive.

Dempsey and the Mayor became fast friends and they used to do an hour or so on saddle horses early every morning. The Mayor was criticized by the reform element which was then waging a campaign against him, and Dempsey knew about it.

Some gangsters, from New York, with whom Dempsey had a passing acquaintance went down to Atlantic City and attached themselves to the champion's retinue. They engaged in brawls nearly every night on the board walk, wrecking eating places and cabarets and indulging in a general rumpus. They were referred to as the "Dempsey crowd," although Jack had nothing to do with them.

Finally when the reformers started after the Mayor about it and asked to have Dempsey, his camp and his staff thrown out of town, Dempsey stormed up the boardwalk one night in a terrible huff. He approached the gang that was hanging out in front of the hotel where he had his business headquarters and he told them in pointed words that if they didn't leave town and stay away from him he would use his good fists on them.

Drove Off Gang.

They left town that night and were not seen again. Dempsey had words with his manager about it and he told him that he would never stand for a repetition of the affair in the future.

The gang has since criticized Dempsey for getting "up stage" against friends "who knew him when he was——."

Since that time Dempsey has been very careful about the element that might be referred to as the "Dempsey crowd."

Dempsey has a remarkable ability for remembering names and faces.

During a baseball meeting at the Belmont Hotel about four years ago, Dempsey strutted through the lobby which was filled with newspapermen, baseball celebrities and hotel guests. He was surrounded by a crowd and among a score or more who were introduced to him was a writer, new in New York from the bushes. He hardly could have caught the name and he scarcely could have had more than a casual glance at the stranger, but he remembered him.

Two years later, without having seen him in the meantime, the short writer went to Summit, N. J., where Dempsey was doing some light training in preparation for the Carpentier fight.

Dempsey walked down from the porch when he approached, stretched out his big hand, called him by name and remarked: "Haven't seen you since that day up at the Belmont. You ought to come around once in a while." The champion then "upbraided" him for riding out to the camp in a taxi when a telephone call would have placed the big Dempsey $15,000 limousine at his disposal.

A Perfect Host.

The champion presides at the table with the finesse of a cultured banker. He has acquired manners that would do justice to one who had had the advantages of education and social culture and as a host he is almost perfect.

Dempsey has read a lot and by doing most of the listening he has become well informed on general subjects. He is very clean spoken, uses mild profanity only for occasional emphasis and has never been known to make a blunder with an untactful remark. He does not like "dirty stories."

The champion likes children and he takes the greatest delight in proving to members of the fair sex that he knows what a knife should be used for on the table and showing them that a fighter can be a gentleman.

Dempsey never uses an unkind word about anyone. He is always gracious in commenting upon opponents that he has vanquished in the ring and he is always willing to give credit. He admitted that Willard hurt him in Toledo and he said also that Bill Brennan had hurt him when they met the last time in Madison Square Garden.

He never defends himself against his critics. He might well have asked for the war records of some of the professional patriots who have been assailing him ever since he failed to get in a uniform, but he has never said a word in defense of himself and he is to be credited for it.

From time to time, it has been reported that Dempsey was about to be married, but he so far has dodged another matrimonial experiment. His ideas on this subject will be told in the next chapter.

He grinned again and added: "Well, I might buy a gun. It seems a good idea to get a gun with money that came like that."

"Did you ever get so much money in one sum before?" he was asked.

Wouldn't Mind More.

The little man twisted his pipe again before making a reply. "Well it would take me a pretty good while to earn that much, but still that aint saying that I aint a good farmer, he said. It's not a fortune but it aint to be sneered at. I wouldn't mind if they had a few more of these desperate fellows that they would pay money for, running around my place."

Brief Inquest.

This morning a very brief inquest into the death of Rogers was held. Half a dozen witnesses were called, who spoke of the escape of the young man from the court, his subsequent two weeks' evasion of the police and his capture. They slowly marched to where the body lay and identified it as that of Leo Rogers. The jury wasted no time. The verdict was that Leo Rogers, escaped ex-convict wanted for murder, had been killed in an attempt to escape capture.

SEEK FIVE SUSPECTS IN BRITTEN SLAYING

Theory That Robbery Was Motive for Taking Life of Former Alderman and Prominent Contractor's Wife Grows Stronger—Police on Trail.

LANSING, Mich., May 31.—Investigation of the killing of Mrs. Pearl Britten, wife of William T. Britten, former alderman and contractor, in the Britten home here early Sunday, centered on the search for two suspects in Lansing, two others in Battle Creek and one in Muskegon.

The two men sought in Lansing are said to have police records. The men hunted in Battle Creek are followers of a carnival which appeared here last week and moved out over the week-end. Known only as "Red" and "Grease," they are said to have boasted of holdups committed in other cities. The man sought in Muskegon is Mike Crowley, an employee of the carnival company.

The local police are looking for the Lansing suspects, while the sheriff's office is trying to find the Battle Creek and Muskegon suspects. Rivalry has developed between the police and the sheriff's force and there is no co-operation between the two. On the receipt of information Tuesday casting suspicion on the carnival men, the sheriff's men jumped into automobiles and started after the suspects without even notifying the police of the clues.

Robbery Theory Gains.

Both Alfred Seymour, chief of police, and Mr. Britten seem to have swung around to the theory that Mrs. Britten was shot by an inexperienced burglar who believed he was trapped, although the Chief maintained that the police are also working on the theory that she might have been slain by a man having a real or fancied grievance against her husband.

The fact that the slayer apparently had plenty of time to escape had he been so inclined, appeared to support the revenge theory. When Mrs. Britten stepped from her room to switch on the light in the hall and investigate noises she heard there, indications are that the intruder shot her from where he was crouching in an adjacent bedroom. The side of the bed was smudged as though from contact with dirty or greasy clothes.

Blood splotches found on the wall casing were explained by police as probably coming from the clothing of the slayer. Mrs. Britten had evidently leaned forward to touch the electric light switch when she was shot. She is believed to have fallen forward into the slayer's arms, who lowered her to the floor before fleeing. It is presumed that his clothing was blood-soaked.

Always Feared Attack.

Friends of Mrs. Britten told of her almost lifelong fear that she would be attacked by thugs or by slayers. She was extremely nervous and invariably took unusual precautions. They declared that it was her natural timidity and that she had no reason to believe that any one was seeking her life.

The chief had a conference last night with Mr. Britten, his daughter, and son-in-law. It is known that Mr. Britten gave the chief new information, but neither would discuss it.

The information concerned an attempt made to enter the house prior to 10 p.m. on Saturday. The shooting did not occur until after 2 a.m. on Sunday. The information also dealt with the tampering with one of the house locks, which was not discovered until yesterday.

NO OPPOSITION

LONDON, May 31.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Commons generally welcomed yesterday the agricultural credits bill, the first of the government's measures to alleviate the agricultural depression. The labor party did not oppose it and the bill was read a second time.

The bill chiefly deals with the granting of credit facilities to farmers. Sir Robert Sanders, minister of agriculture, pointed out that agriculture had the slowest turnover of any industry. Banks, he said, had over £20,000,000 out on overdrafts to farmers. It was proposed, added the minister, to set up under the bill cooperative credit societies with one pound shares. For each share taken up with five shilings paid up the state was prepared to advance another share. No definite limits regarding the scope of these societies is laid down and they can make advances to members on short credit.

DISTRICT NORTH OF SUPERIOR IN DANGER OF FIRE

Practically Whole Front Ready to Break Into Flames Unless a Rain Comes Soon.

INCIPIENT BLAZES

SAULT STE MARIE, June 1. — (Canadian Press).—Practically the whole front along the north of Lake Superior is ready to break into flames unless rain comes soon, is the report received from the offices of the Algoma Central Railway here. At Mile Post 86, north of the Soo, some telephone poles caught fire last night, and two bridges were in danger, but were saved. Incipient blazes are being extinguished at many points, but so far the line appears to be safe. General Superintendent McCormack is now up the line investigating conditions. No reports are available here about the condition at White River.

COMMUNICATION BLOCKED.

TORONTO, June 1.—(Canadian Press).—Forest fires which have been breaking out along the lines of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways in the Sudbury and Algoma districts have seriously hampered communication, both by rail and telegraph, between Eastern and Western Canada. Numerous small fires, breaking out at isolated points, destroyed telegraph poles before the blaze was extinguished, and linemen are kept busily on the move, endeavoring to keep the lines open.

Extra gangs of linemen have been sent into the fire area in an attempt to re-open the lines. This afternoon only a very limited telegraph service between Winnipeg and the East is available, but telegraph companies are momentarily expecting the restoration of their service.

SAULT STE. MARIE—June 1.—(Canadian Press). — It is believed that fires are fairly well under control in Price and White River areas but in the meantime flames have broken out in other sections, forestry officers are patrolling district in aeroplanes, awo hundred and fifty men are fighting the flames around White River.

DELEGATION WALKED OUT OF CONFERENCE

GENEVA, June 1.—(Special.) The entire United States' delegation walked out of the Opium Commission meeting at the League of Nations headquarters here to-day. The Americans refused to answer questions regarding their proposals of participation in any discussion of these proposals. Chairman Porter, of the House Foreign Affairs committee with other American leaders, recently appeared before the Commission urging that steps be taken to stop production of drugs as this alone would curb the traffic.

BOY IS CAUGHT ROBBING CHURCH

In Act of Plundering Poor Boxes, 14 - Year - Old Thief is Shot.

DETROIT, Mich., June 1. Canadian Press. — Rev. Father Michael G. Esper, pastor of St. Boniface Catholic Church early to-day, shot and slightly wounded Harold Smith, aged 14, of Sudbury, Wis., as the boy made a dash for liberty after it is alleged, he was caught in the act of robbing poor boxes in the church.

The priest, he told the police, was awakened by the ringing of a bell so arranged that it will sound if any one enters the church during the night. He took a revolver and entered the church, where he says he found the lad with two poor boxes, each containing a small sum of money, in his hands.

He was conducting the lad from the church ot the parish house, when the youth made a break for freedom.

OILING OF ROADS HAS BEEN STARTED

First Spraying is in North Ward—Committee Discusses Road Maintenance.

The oiling of the streets is now under way Street Commissioner Evans told the Board of Works last night, and will be extended to all parts of the city as rapidly as the facilities will permit. The oil-sprayer was first sent up Water street, which was considered one of the most important of the city's highways. It is returning on George Street north and then goes to McDonald street. Aylmer street and others in order of their convenience and traffic importance.

Mr. Evans explained that in regard to road repairs this season the work had been delayed first by the unfavorable weather and then by the time it took to dismantle the crusher and remove it to the new Ashburnham pit and set it up again.

Crushing operations were started this week, but a shait in the machine had broken causing an unavoidable interruption. Mr. Evans expected that the repairs would be completed by Saturday. In the meantime the road roller had been overhauled at an expenditure of about $1,000 and was ready for road improvements that had been mapped out for it.

Members of the Board discussed with Mr. Evans a definite program of road and maintenance and reconstruction and on Ald. Turner's motion seconded by Ald. McIntyre, the Engineer's Department was asked to submit a report on a better system of street improvement.

PASHA KEMAL HERO OF HOUR IN NEAR EAST

But Walks on Pathway Like a Tight-Rope with Destruction Beneath Him.

MASTER ACTOR

By William Philip Simms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 1. — Mustaph Kemal Pasha—Ghazi Mustapha Kemal, as he signs himself—Kemal the Victorious — is walking through rosy clouds, but his pathway is a perilous tight-rope and beneath him is destruction.

That, in a paragraph, sums up the situation inside of Turkey as the country faces the results of the second Lausanne conference, whether Turkey comes out ahead or not.

Mustapha Kemal is still the hero of the hour, but the first flush of enthusiasm has died and Turks are beginning to watch his every move. They are beginning to criticize, to find fault, to split into factions.

Turkey is beginning to feel maybe she made too much of Kemal. In the National Assembly a pitiless opposition has set in against him which may yet pull him down.

Churchmen Active.

It is difficult to imagine with what violence the "wild men of Angora," as they have been characterized, go after Kemal.

The Turks have suddenly come to fear they are becoming too "western." For centuries the sultan of Turkey has also been the head of the Mussulman church, the "defender of the faith." Now there is no more sultan but a National Assembly with a dictator running the country. The caliph is only a bishop. He has no temporal power. He can no longer be the "defender of the faith" because the Assembly and Kemal control the army and what other earthly power Turkey possesses. Can Turkey keep her hold on the Mohammedan world as the recognized "defender of the faith?"

A lot of Turks fear not.

Only the other day a delegation of Mohammedans came down here from Albania to inform the caliph that Albania had decided to go her own way and would henceforth refuse to recognize the Turkish caliphate.

A people who have slaughtered in the name of religion: who have preached and massacred in "holy wars": who for many hundreds of years have had their own variety of religion interwoven and intertwined with their natures and interbred with their bone, can not suddenly, over night, change their nature completely.

Has to Fight.

In such an atmosphere Kemal the Victorious must keep fighting his way. He must have a new victory to offer every little while, else many of his followers will forget he is not a ghazi god but is, after all, only a man like themselves. And when they do, they will pull him down.

Thus it is that in the national elections now takink place, Kemal must be a master actor to keep up his role.

Wherever he goes he is met by vast crowds, some of whom fall down before him, kiss his hands and call him greater than Alexander, or Noah. He rebukes the latter and says the nation, the people, not he, Kemal, defeated the Greeks.

On the one hand he must not allow his popularity to wane. The less advanced Turks need to be continuously dazzled to make them forget about the sultan and the caliphate. On the other, Kemal must not give the more advanced ones the chance to say he is seeking too much power for himself.

It is a difficult game to play at long. If Kemal succeeds he may well sign himself not just "Ghazi" but a double ghazi, or something like that. For he'll have to be a most superior person.

SUPPLIES FOR THE CAPTIVES SENT FORWARD

Release Has Been Arranged for as a Result of Conference with the Bandits.

MAKE FINAL PLEA

(By Ray G. Marshall, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PEKING, June 1.— (Special.) — Pope Pius XI Thursday cabled from Rome instructing Father Lenfers, aged German Catholic priest at Lincheng to obtain the release of Chevalier Moussos, Italian captive of the Paotzuku bandits or else join him in captivity. Moussos has been ill since being taken prisoner and Father Lenfers has repeatedly visited the camp praying for his release. Now from the Vatican the order of the church comes out to give the sick man the last rites of the church. In case of death. Lenfers declares that he will go to Paotzuku to make a final plea to the bandit chieftain. This failing he will join the prisoner. The negotiators returned Thursday from a conference with the bandits, reporting that they have nearly reached an agreement providing the proper guarantees for the safety of the bandits in return for release of the victims. The brigands further demand reinstatement in the army, together with arrears of army pay.

Food has been supplied the captives, whose release is possible momentarily.

DETERMINED FIGHT SAVED WHITE RIVER

Town No Longer Threatened by Devastating Bush Fires.

PORT ARTHUR, June 1.—(Canadian Press), — Last reports from White River state that the gathering force of a great fire similar to that which destroyed Haileybury and other Northern Ontario towns last fall has been temporarily broken by the desperate uphill fight of the local population and by ever-shifting winds here to-day.

The determined fight by Provincial fire rangers, assisted by special C.P.R. gangs, workmen from the surrounding bush and local high school pupils, saved the town, and this morning trenches are being dug and pumps placed in position of advantage along and adjacent to the C.P.R. tracks.

Due to the shifting wind and the possibility of rain, it is now generally felt the fire is completely under control, and with a burned area encircling the entire business and residential section, making it necessary for the flames to leap these charred stumps and trees, it is not expected that the population will be further menaced, although reserve fire-fighting equipment is continuing its rush to White River and medical assistance is gathering for possible emergencies.

Unless a breeze again comes strongly to life, this town will be safe. An airplane is reporting developments to the Chief Ranger.

THE WEATHER.

Leafy June! The month of brides and roses, the month when nature appears in its most pleasing attire, when the trees are dressed in their greenest and freshest colors, and before insects have mutilated and scorching heat have browned their delicate foliage. The rainfall in May was almost three inches (291.) Practically all fell during the middle of the month. The highest temperature was 83; the lowest 25. May was backward, perhaps decidedly so, and there has been but little growth as yet. Four out of five of our agriculturists appear to be pessimistic in their attitude towards the weather and the outlook for their crops, but a week or so of good warm weather with a few gentle showers, would have a tendency to change their song. The nights still keep cool, and around 40 degrees is generally reached every night.—W. P.

A BRITISH ACTRESS WON A BY-ELECTION

LONDON, June 1.— (Canadian Press.)— Miss Mabel Russell, actress, wife of Capt. Hilton Philipson, was returned in a by-election to-day as a member of the House of Commons for the Berwick-Upon-Tweed division of Northumberland. Running on the Conservative title, she polled 12,000 votes against 5,858 for casting Harold Robson, Liberal, and 3,966 for G. Diver, Labor. The seat was previously held by Mrs. Russell's husband, who lost it because of irregularities by his election. Mrs. Russell will be the third woman to sit in the Commons.

FINAL SESSION W.M.S. AT KNOX

Very Successful Gathering of Peterborough Presbyterial Brought to a Close Today.

To-day's sesion was the final meeting in the Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society at Knox church, and brought to a close what was described as a very successful meeting. The attendance numbered between 25 and 30 delegates, many of the ladies leaving last night during the evening session.

Mrs. W. N. McDougall of Lakeport read the Scripture lesson, and prayer was offered by Mrs. A. E. Eagleson of Coldsprings Miss Fisher of Millbrook presided at the piano.

The Question Drawer held some queries for Miss Cass, the Korean missionary. To the enquiry as to whether the Korean Christians contributed towards the support of their church, Miss Cass replied that, generally speaking, they were liberal givers, and the Korean church was unique in the fact that it was a misisonary church, maintaining missionary endeavor in Vladivostok and China. One church was mentioned with a school in connection, where the Korean pastor, a Christian his evangelistic assistant, a deaconess, and seven teachers were maintained by the Christianized congregation, the pastor receiving 50 yen or about $25 monthly, his assistant $15, the deaconess about $7.50, and the teachers salaries averaging $20 monthly. The running expenses of the church, home and school were all paid by the native Christians.

Several members, including Mrs. R. S. Bell, of Campbellford gave good suggestions regarding the increasing of expense funds by entertainments of various sorts. A discussion as to the advisability of sending a delegate to the annual meetings who would directly represent the presbyterial sending her, and who would make a complete report of proceedings to her presbyterial. was shelved for further discussion later.

The report of the nominating committee was represented by the convenor, Miss Belle Thompson of Hastings, and adopted by the meeting. The old officers were re-instated for the coming year, and the addition of two new officers made, at the request of the Provincial Board Of these two, a social service secretary was appointed, in Miss E. Roberts, of Port Hope, and a library secretary For this position, Miss Maud Edmison of Peterboro was nominated but refused to stand. Miss Elsie Cameron of St. Paul's church was then voted in as library secretary.

The slate of officers for 1923 is as follows: Hon. Presidents—Mrs. W. Roger, Peterboro, and Mrs. Craick, Port Hope; President Mrs. D. Ewart, Cobourg; 1st vice president, Miss M. Dickson, Peterboro; 2nd vice president, Mrs. A. McKenzie, Peterboro; 3rd vice president, Mrs. John McPherson, Peterboro; 4th vice president, Mrs. J. W. Rork, Norwood; Treasurer, Mrs. W. N. McDougall, Lakeport; Recording-secretary, Mrs. Wickett, Port Hope;

ABLE SPEAKER GAVE ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

Dr. J. W. MacMillan, Chairman of Minimum Wage Board Explained the Aims and Objects of Board.

HELP THE GIRLS

At to-day's meeting of the Kiwanis Club, Dr. J. W. Macmillan, chairman of the Minimum Wage Board, gave an interesting address in which he characterized humanity as the most sacred thing on this earth. This is not because life is productive because life is considered just as sacred when it is non-productive. Life is sacred because it is life, and beyond that you cannot go, said Dr. Macmillan. The Apostle Paul once said, "They that preach of the gospel shall live of the gospel." A girl who gives her life's strength has a right to get in return enough comforts as may be necessary. That principle so far has been unchallenged. The Minimum Wage Board was created two and a half years ago. Everything done by the Board has been done harmoniously and unanimously. Some people refer to it as labor legislation. It is not the product of labor but is the product of the good sense of the community. Labor has sometimes opposed it.

The whole thing hangs on the variation in wages. To overcome this, various bodies are brought together and laws eventually adopted to remedy such conditions. Two or more plants of the same type operating in the same locality, and serving the same market will often show a wide variation in wages. That is a situation affecting women workers the world over. Our interest is not to fixe wages but to eliminate wages that are unwholesome. We act as a sort of a police force. Both the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Trades Councils throughout the country testify to the good work we are doing. This work can be compared to that of a traffic officer whose function is to regulate traffic, watch those who would interfere with progress and convoy it along designated channels," said the speaker in conclusion.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Kiwanian Lloyd Hamilton, and seconded by Kiwanian Joseph Wearing.

To-day's booster was Kiwanian W. Warne, and the prize-winners were Kiwanians Walter Kidd, John Allen and Dr. Ray Scott.

Kiwanian John Chadwick was introduced as a new member. The presiding officer to-day was Kiwanian J. W. Worth, who kept the sergeant-at-arms busy collecting fines, including a one dollar fine from each member who failed to participate in the building operations at Jackson Park on May 24.

OTTOMAN DEBT MATTER A PROBLEM

Lausanne Experts Fail to Discover a Formula For Settlement.

LAUSANNE June 1 (Canadian Press). — The experts attached to the Near East Peace Conference today announced that they had failed to discover a satisfactory formula for the settlement of the Ottoman debt question which is the only great outstanding problem remaining before the Conference.

The Allied delegates have let it be known that they cannot subscribe to any article in the forthcoming treaty which would affect the rights of the bondholders, so the Turkish Government must make direct arrangements with these creditors.

AN IMPROVED SERVICE HERE

Two of the Five Proposals Laid Before Sir Henry Thornton Carried Out.

An improved 8ped 28 28 28 11

Two of the five proposals for the improvement of the Canadian National Railway service in Peterboro, which were laid before Sir Henry Thornton on his recent isit, have already been adopted.

The announcement of the institution of a flyer from Peterboro to Toronto, was made yesterday, and to-day it is stated officially that the proposed sleeper via Port Hope will be put on the night train at an early date.

General satisfaction is expressed at this evidence of the acumen and efficiency of the President of Canada's Railway System. A short ten days ago these proposals were officially put before him, and in that time he has considered the questions and not only decided that the improvements shall be made, but has issued specific orders regarding their fulfilment.

Sleeper to Montreal.

The sleeper will run from Lindsay to Montreal daily via Port Hope, leaving Peterboro on train 94 at 9.10 p.m., and arriving in Montreal at 6.45 a.m. In order to give this fast service it has been necessary for the executives of the railway to do a great deal of re-arranging of schedules. On the Eastbound schedule, for instance, it has been necessary to arrange for two transfers of the sleeper in order to avoid slower trains. A change will be made at Port Hope and Brockville, the train on which the coach will proceed Port Hope to Brockville not arriving in Montreal until 7.10.

The Westbound run of the sleeping coach will be made via Belleville and Campbellford, leaving Montreal at 9.30 p.m., and arriving in Peterboro at 8 a.m.

FLYER SCHEDULE FIXED.

The schedule for the Toronto flyer has been decided on, and the train will make its initial run on Monday, June 25. Leaving Peterboro at 7.10 a.m., the fast train will arrive in Toronto at 10.05. On the return trip it will leave Toronto at 7 p.m., and arrive in Peterboro at 10.15 p.m. As previously announced this train will be routed via Lindsay.

In addition to these developments in the service of the Canadian National here, it is authentically announced that the growing freight business of Peterboro will not be neglected, and that serious consideration is being given the request for a new freight shed.

"It is practically certain," the Examiner was told, "that this request also will be granted."

CARROLL'S BID FOR PAVING IS BOARD'S CHOICE

Tenders for Paving of Geor, e and Hunter Sts. Disposed of by Board of Works.

RECOMMEND LOWEST

The acceptance of John Carroll's tender for the concrete paving of George and Hunter streets was recommended to the Council last night by the Board of Works on Ald. Maher's motion seconded by Ald. Morrison.

The work involved is from the C.P.R. on George street to Romaine street, and on Hunter street from Sheridan to the Westclox factory The tenders were as follows:

John Carroll—Concrete paving and grading $2.24 a square yard; concrete curb 30c a lineal foot; concrete sidewalk 25c per square foot.

City Engineer Parsons—Concrete paving and grading $2.37 per sq yd; curb 30c a foot; sidewalk 25c a sq. foot.

Richard Sheehy & Son—Concrete paving and grading $2.32 a sq. yard; curb 35c a foot; sidewalk 30c a sq. foot.

R. B. Rogers—Concrete and grading $2.65 a square yard on George street and $2.75 on Hunter street; curb 35c; sidewalk 25c.

Prices for Asphalt

Standard Paving Company—Asphalt on concrete base $3.18 a square yard; curb 50c, gutter 40c, sidewalk 25c.

Warren Paving Company—Asphalt on concrete $3.10 per sq. yd., curb 53c, gutter 35c, sidewalk 22 c.

Prefer Concrete

It was estimated that the difference between the costs of concrete and asphaltic concrete pavments according to the lowest tender for each would be $14,570.98 in favour of concrete.

Mr. Carroll's price of $2.24 was contrasted with $2.42 which was said to be the lowest tender offered last last year, and members of the committe remarked that the city had saved money by postponing the work until this summer. Seven of the members voted for the motion which was adopted last night, and it was intimated that in Council the carrying vote would have to be two thirds of the members of the Council. The resolution included a preference for concrete instead of asphalt.

Ald. Crowe said he would rather have the work done by the City Engineer. 'It may be a little higher at the start," he remarked, "but it will come out better in the long run. That was our experience in the building of concrete sidewalks."

Should Own Plant

Ald. McIntyre said the city had advertised for tenders and having received bids might as well accept the lowest and get ahead with the work. "I hope the day will come when we will have our own asphalt and concrete plant," he added.

Asked about the effect on traffic of paving the hill on Hunter street east, City Engineer Parsons said that the Avenue Road hill in Toronto showed a grade of about twelve per cent, whereas in the old days four percent. was considered difficult. There wouldn't be much advantage in scoring the surface of the pavement on the incline. Slipperyness was experienced chiefly in cold weather, and rain or wet snow would simply fill up the grooves or corrugations leaving a smooth surface. If a concrete pavement was laid the top coating should be left as rough as possible. This was the only surfacing the City Engineer considered worth suggesting.

Asphalt Best

Discussing the paving question further Mr. Parsons said it seemed to be the universal opinion of engineers that asphalt pavement was the best for city purposes. In the present circumstances the cost spread between concrete and asphalt concrete was apparently too wide.

"I think we should have a definite paving programme," he advised. "We could lay a couple of thousand yards a year and we would soon have something to show. As it is we are twenty years behind nearly every other city in Ontario. I don't think there's any use looking for lower prices. Of course they move up and dowp as they have always done, but we are never going to get abck to prewar prices. We are paying higher prices for food and cloth ing and we might as well get used to higher prices for paving."

GOV. SMITH WAS URGED TO SIGN BILL ENDING PROHIBITION IN STATE

Has Heard Both Sides of the Question But Has Given No Inkling of What Course He Will Take.

MANY SPEAKERS.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1. Canadian Press. — Governor Smith sat in the Assembly Chamber yesterday, and listened to a flood of oratory for and against his signing of the legislative repealer of the Mullan-Gage Prohibition Enforcement Act, that flowed on—with one five minutes interlude—for four hours and thirty four minutes.

When both sides had talked their fill and weighted him down with briefs, he walked silently from the room without having betrayed by a single gesture or word the answer to the momentous question: "Will he sign or veto?" His decision will be announced some time between tonight and midnight on Sunday, at which hour the repeal bill would automatically die if he had not acted.

The principal arguments of the repealers' enemies, who numbered in all about 30 speakers, were that to make the repeal law by signature would be to turn loose on the State a rapacious gang of bootleggers, bandits and crooks of every description to "nullify"; the Eighteenth Amendment; to "secede" from the Union and to deprive the Federal Government of the most powerful instrument now being used to enforce prohibition.

The principal arguments of the preponents of repeal, whose speaking strength about matched that of their opponents, were that the Mullan-Gage Act ought to be repealed because it subjected persons accused of violating the dry law to "double jeopardy in the courts; that it was exclusively the Government's function to enforce prohibition, and that shouldering part of the burden on the State entailed an unnecessary and useless expense.

Several of the pro-repeal speakers went even further and denounced the Volstead Act and the Eighteenth Amendment as iniquitous and subversive of State rights urging the governor to approve the repeal as the first step in a campaign to wipe the Federal Enforcement Law and the Amendment off the slate. The hearing throughout was orderly. James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, who also represented Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was the first siege gun trained on Governor Smith by the advocates of the repeal. He devoted most of his time to reading a letter sent by Mr. Gompers, who was unable to attend. Both Holland and Gompers urged him to sign the repealer as the first gun in a campaign for modification of the national prohibition Act, so as to "give the workingman his wine and beer."

Augustus Thomas, the playwright, denounced the forces that brought the Eighteenth Amendment into being as "ignorant and illiterate" persons, over-imbued with zeal to regulate their fellows, who have foisted on the country, "an iniquitous of legislative, subversive of State rights."

RUMOR IS UNCONFIRMED.

PARIS, June 1. — (Canadian Press.)—The French Foreign Office last night announced that it had received no advices tending to support published reports of a concentration of German Reichswehr troops near Muenster, north-east of the occupied Ruhr district. Rogers Came Back to Shoot the Judge.

OTTAWA, June 1. — (Canadian Press.)— Ottawa Morning Journal carried the following special from its North Bay correspondent this morning:

"A neighbor of the Rogers family here who wishes her name withheld, relates a story to the effect that Rogers had returned to town on Tuesday night for the express purpose of "getting" two local court officials in the persons of Magistrate Weegar and Chief Morbery. He was aware of the fact that his father was going to have his preliminary trial on the charge of aiding and abetting his escape.

"He was going to disguise himself, enter the court while the trial was in progress and "get" his men. He would have accomplished this, too, if it had not been discovered and after his brutal shooting of Sergeant John Urquhart had to take to the woods again."

GERMAN BANKS ARE RELIEVED OF LARGE SUMS

Millions of Marks Seized in Spite of Precautionary Measures Taken By the Banks.

USE STRATEGY.

BERLIN, June 1. Canadian Press. —That the Ruhr banks are now operating in a state of tense preparedness to guard against the French seizure of their funds is revealed in a statement issued by Vice-President Von Glasenapp, of the Reichsbank. He explained the precautionary measures which were in effect at the Essen branch of the Reichsbank, when 92,000,000,000 marks were seized recently.

Learning that a seizure might be attempted, the bank had installed a sort of burglar alarm running from the main entrance to the interior. An employee was constantly stationed at the entrance during banking hours to set the alarm in action the moment he detected anything suspicious outside. It was arranged that when the alarm was sounded all the vaults were to be locked and the keys hidden.

On the day of the recent seizure, according to Von Glasenapp, the watchman was on guard as usual but the moment the bank opened in the morning two French detectives in civilian clothes sprang through the doorway and overpowered the guard before he could give the alarm. By this time a number of persons had entered the bank among them five Frenchmen, who held up the bank employees at the point of their revolvers. They then proceeded to complete the seizure.

Herr Von Glasenapp's statement reveals that the Ruhr payrolls for a period of ten days now amounts to 102,000,000,000 marks, those for Essen alone being 50,000,000,000.

Drunkenness Due to Methylated Spirits.

LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press Cable)—In the house of commons yesterday Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgehman ,secretary for home affairs said the number of cases in England and Wales in 1922 in which the condition of the person charged with drunkenness was reported as due to the drinking of methylated spirits was 516 of which 250 were males and 266 females. These figures were higher than in the previous year, said the minister, but this might be due partly to improvement in the reporting of such cases. He was watching the matter carefully and he did not think there was sufficient evidence of growth of the practice to justify his taking any action. The difficulty was to know what the real remedy could be.

Will Thorne (Labor) "Is not the increase in drinking of methylated spirits due to the excessive price of whiskey?"

Replying to another question Mr. Bridgeman said extraordinary difficulty seemed to be experienced in making methylated spirits sufficiently unpalatable.

ROGERS' STORY ANOTHER PROOF OF EXAMINER'S SERVICE IN DISTRICT

Noon Edition With the Day's News Up to 11 a.m. Carries Late Features Twenty-Four Hours Ahead of Other Papers—Increasing Circulation Shows Appreciation of Examiner's Enterprise and Fast, Accurate Service.

The prompt and rapid news service which the Examiner's noon edition supplies to its many subscribers throughout this district was signally and emphatically demonstrated by its complete account in Wednesday's issue of the sudden re-appearance of Leo Rogers, the fugitive murderer, at his home in North Bay, and his slaying of Sergeant Urquhart of the Provincial Police on the steps of the Rogers' home in the early hours of that morning.

This sensational development in the tragedy that has shocked the province, reached the readers of the Examiner virtually a whole day in advance of the arrival of any other newspaper, and at least half a day ahead of outside evening papers, which have only a nominal circulation in the district. Along rural routes in all directions from the city and from other distributing points in adjoining counties the Examiner's startling news had a clear lead of twenty-four hours, and the same pre-eminent service applies to the larger towns into which a few outside evening papers merely trickle. In brief, the Examiner conveys the latest news to its district papers when the news is fresh.

Early Wednesday afternoon the Rogers' feature story of the day was in Hastings, Campbellford, Stirling, Havelock, Norwood, Millbrook, Bethany and other centres before the papers were delivered on the streets of Peterborough. The subscribers of the Examiner in Millbrook and Hastings, for example, were reading that comprehensive report from North Bay shortly after one o'clock, and it was in Campbellford before two o'clock, less than twelve hours after the murder of the Sergeant of Provincial Police.

The report of the shooting of Sergt. Urquhart is only one of the Examiners' many recent achievements of late. Among them might be mentioned the holocaust in South Carolina, in which seventy-six lives were snuffed out in a fire at a district school concert; also the appointment of Stanley Baldwin as successor to Bonar Law in the leadership of the British Cabinet. These outstanding events obscure by their importance the lesser happenings of which the Examiner's Noon Edition informs its district readers hours ahead of other papers.

And with these features is combined all the local news in the district gathered by a large staff of competent correspondents who get the news quickly and accurately. On this comprehensive and fast news service the Examiner is building up an extensive circulation in the district that is securely established on abundant and genuine value to its subscribers.

MARINE ESTIMATES CREATED A DEBATE

More Money Suggested for Lighthouse Keepers —Purchase of an Ice-Breaker.

OTTAWA, June 1. — (Canadian Press.)—A running fire of questions marked consideration of marine estimates in the House ypesterday. R. B. Hanson brought up the purchase of the boat Mary Stewart by the Department at the price of $80,000, a vessel that Mr. Hanson said, could have been bought at any time for $20,000. It was intended to replace an ice-breaker but it was absolutely useless for this purpose and the money was wasted.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine, replied that of three vessels available, the Mary Stewart was recommended by officers of the department as the most suitable. Although she was not intended for ice breaking she was much more suitable for that than the vessel she replaced.

A vote of $650,000 for the salaries and allowances to light keepers led to a number of protests against the inaedquate remuneration which these men received. A. T. Leger (Liberal Kent N.B.) asked if there had been any increases since last year.

Mr. Lapointe replied that there had not. The government had refused to grant increases on grounds of economy. Increases, however, were now under consideration.

Mr. Leger said that a salary of thirty to thirty-five dollars a month was too small. There was no encouragement to these men to do their work. There should be a reclassification of light keepers' salaries.

E. W. Garland (Progressive, Bow River): "I suggest that we appropriate Duncan Marshall's salary and distribute it among these men."

This suggestion was received with laughter, and the item carried.

An item of $50,000 for the construction of lights and aids to navigation including regulation of traffic in the Detroit River showed an increase of $100,000 over last year which was due, Mr. Lapointe said, to the fact that the construction of new lights required in previous years had been postponed for lack of money. They could not be postponed any longer. He explained that all the new lights, some of which cost up to $30,000 each, had been recommended by the Lighthouse Board. The item passed as well as one for $104,000 for the marine signal service. There was an increase of $15,000 here which was due to normal expansion. Another item for $250,000, a decrease of $94,000 for administration of pilotage, also was passed.

CANADIAN PORTS WILL BE CLOSED

U. S. Fishermen Will No Longer Be Granted the Privileges Extended During the War.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine, announced in the House of Commons last night that the question of withdrawing from American fishing vessels the privilege of entering Canadian ports was still under consideration.

"A decision will be reached shortly," he added. He explained that during the war the use of ports by fishermen had been extended reciprocally by both the United States and Canada. After the war the American ports had been closed but Canadian ports had been kept open to American fishermen for a small license fee. This had been of advantage to certain Canadian traders but a disadvantage to Canadian fishermen. American fishermen had been able to ship free of duty to the United States from Canadian ports, while Canadan fishermen had to pay a heavy duty.

"My own opinion," concluded the Minister, "is that if we cannot get similar privileges from the United States, it is not fair and just that we should close our ports to them."

R. B. Hanson, of York-Sunbury, N.B., agreed heartily with this opinion. "We will never get anything from the American Government by lying down," he said.

A mistake was made when Canadian ports had not been closed at the same time as the Americans had withdrawn the privileges. He would advise the Govrnment to close Canadian ports at once.

"It is about time," said G. T. McBride, (Progressive, Cariboo), "that Canada should treat American fishermen in the way they treat ours."

Change of Wind May Save White River.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 1.—(Canadian Press.)—The fire sweeping through balsam and jack pine forest was thought last night to have been averted from White River by a change of wind, but early yesterday another change brought it back on the town and it was reported to have crossed the railway tracks. Fire Chief Ranger Robinson is fighting the blaze with all his forces and is attending to the needs of refugees for food and supplies. The Canadian Pacific Railway are using all their resources to supplement the efforts of the fire rangers and is prepared to take out the residents of the town if that extreme step should become necessary. Last night the fire destroyed sixteen telegraph poles at O'Brien's siding and all the wires fell in a tangled mass. Communictaion was interrupted until yesterday morning and again at noon yesterday when wires broke down.

The influenza germ has been discovered and will be isolated. It brought it all on itself.

BIG ADVANCE IN COAL PRICES FOR GERMAN USERS

Plenty of Coal in Both Occupied and Unoccupied Territory—Imported From England.

HIGH WAGES.

BERLIN, June 1. — (Canadian Press.)—The price of coal throughout Germany will be increased 53 per cent. beginning to-day in consequence of the further depreciation of the mark and the increase in wages granted to the miners, it was announced yesterday.

This increase will bring Ruhr coal to 221,000 marks a ton, as compared with about 437,000 marks a ton for English coal delivered at Hamburg. The retail price of German coal, however, will again be advanced shortly, due to a forty per cent. increase in freight rates which also becomes effective to-day.

Speaking at the meeting at which the coal prices were fixed, Dr. Friedrich August Pinkernell, mining industry expert, declared the coal situation was satisfactory both in occupied and unoccupied Germany. Imports from England were continuing on a large scale, he said, and in some cases were being bought on a paper mark basis. The average miner in Germany now is receiving 28,700 marks for each shift.

Canadian Cattle Land at Birkenhead.

LONDON, June 1 — (Canadian Press Cable)—The first shipment of Canadian store cattle to Birkenhead arrived yesterday, the shipment comprising 500 beeves. They came on the steamer Welshman.

The cattle are being taken to Worlingham, Norfolk to the estate of the Canadian cattle corporation and will be allotted to farmers. The farmers will make a ten percent deposit on the purchase price at the outset and will pay the balance when the cattle are fattened and sold.

If the scheme proves successful a regular service of cattle steamers will be instituted on the same basis as that which was inaugurated on the Birkenhead side of the Mersey River to-day.

King's Court Was a Gorgeous Function.

LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press).—Last night court was even more brilliant as regards beautiful gowns and jewels than that given Wednesday night by King George and Queen Mary. The attendance last night also was more general in character. It was notably a flower function, the women carrying splendid bouquets instead of, as Wednesday, only fans.

The prevailing colors were blue and gold, with lavish decorations, mostly Egyptian in style. Among the more striking of the toilettes was that of the wife of the Brazilian Ambassador, Domicio Da Gama. Senhora Da Gama wore a Venetian picture gown, entirely embroidered with heraldic designs in various precious stones, suggesting the magnificence of the Fifteenth Century.

FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1923.

A LOSING GAME.

Some Peterborough people were heard to say yesterday in reference to the killing of Leo Rogers, that the North Bay bandit had not been given a chance by the posse of pursuers.

They seemed to resent the manner in which Rogers was finally brought down, forgetting that the young desperado had callously murdered two policemen.

He was shot by the law just as a dangerous animal would be killed.

And that was exactly what he was—a menace to the safety of the community.

His tragic death carries a warning that is not to be ignored.

The game of trying to fight organized society can only have one end.

The law triumphs over the individual and no man can hope to take the law in his own hands—and win.

A mistake may have been made in sending Rogers as a mere boy to associate with hardened criminals in the penitentiary.

But a much greater mistake was made when after his fibre had been revealed by his record the Department of Justice gave him his freedom without investigation.

That action cost three lives.

FOR A WORTHY CAUSE.

In order that the summer camps of the Peterborough Health Association may function as completely as is considered desirable, it has been necessary to supplement the funds already available by means of a tag day which will be held a week from tomorrow.

The number of children who will be taken care of at Jackson Park this summer is expected to be practically double last year's total.

That means a heavy additional expense and necessitates an appeal to the generosity of the public, the tag day method being chosen as the plan offering the best opportunity for a general division of th eburden, so that it will fall lightly upon everybody and at the same time the desired result will have been achieved.

It is not necessary to talk about the work of the summer camp.

Peterborough people know all about that splendid institution, know how materially it has helped many children of below normal health and know that there is need for such work in this city.

The mere mention of the fact that more funds are needed to carry out the summer's programme is sufficient, the Examiner feels confident, to ensure a worthwhile response on Tag Day.

RACING WITH DEATH.

Although we moderns pride ourselves upon being highly civilized in some of our so-called amusements there is a primitiveness that harks back to the rude sports of the earlier days.

Wednesday's 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis is an example.

The chief fascination about this yearly event does not lie in the possibility of new speed records.

The thrill for the majority of spectators is found in the chance that there may be a tragedy or a series of them.

There is a morbidity about many people that lures them to the scene, knowing that the drivers are racing with death, rather than against time.

Even the construction of the track was carried out with an appreciation of the fact that the element of danger to the contestants adds to the drawing power of the event.

Some of the turns, it is said, have been built with a view to increasing the peril and thus making the race more spectacular.

This year's contest saw no drivers killed and there was but one fatality among the spectators.

But that does not alter the fact that the race is a useless risk of human life, a gamble with death, arranged for box office purposes.

Nothing would be lost if such contests were to be banned as dangerous beyond all reason.

TOO MANY DETOURS.

One reason why it is often difficult to get the best of our citizenship to take an interest in politics, and this is responsible for the pitchforking into our legislature bodies of men wholly unfitted for the responsibility of office, is the tendency on the part of single tracked organizations to magnify the importance of more or less minor issues and thus to lose sight of the main business in hand.

In the present campaign this tendency is very effectively demonstrated.

Thus we have the suggestion from one church gathering that only candidates who are 100 per cent. admirers of the O.T.A. should be supported.

The members of a fraternal organization are being advised by their journalistic organ to support one political party because of its attitude towards bilingual schools.

From another angle, it is urged that only those aspirants for office who are in favour of the Hydro, first, last and all the time, should be elected.

Such suggestions clutter up the campaign and detract attention from the really important task—that of selecting a government strong enough and possessing brains and business ability enough to put the administration of affairs in this province on a business basis.

The road towards good government is made difficult by the frequent detours caused by slavish adherence to non-essentials. Suggesting that only red-headed candidates should be supported is every bit as logical as some of the advice that is being showered upon the electors just now.

BRITISH COMMON SENSE AND TRIUMPHS.

The British Premier has been maintained by a large majority in the first division of the Commons since the new ministers assumed office. The Indemnity Bill has passed its second reading by a much bigger sustaining vote than the party whips anticipated, which was largely due to the fact that the National Liberals, after receiving assurances that the deportees would not be dealt with in niggardly fashion, withdrew their opposition and Lloyd George and his followers walked in the Government lobby.

It is difficult to follow the arguments advanced by Ramsay Macdonald or to reconcile the bitterness of the Opposition of the Radical leaders with their oft-expressed sentiments of equity and sympahty for the under dog. The bill contained but a single provision and the common-sense of the majority of the Labor members might have been expected to approve of the measure. Instead of this, it met with their vigorous condemnation.

Stripping the question of its political veil—a process which British Labor seems to have been incapable of effecting—the vaunted fair play of the race might have been expected to recognize that it would be unjust and absurd to mulct the Home Secretary in severe pains and penalties simply for an error of judgment. Mr. Bridgeman has told the Commons that he acted on the advice of the law officers of the Crown in the action he took and if the Habeas Corpus Act was abused and set at naught, the blame for the misinterpretation should fall upon his advisers. The House of Lords had no sooner declared that they had no jurisdiction to review the judgment of the Court of Appeals than Mr. Art O'Brien began suit in the courts for heavy damages for wrongful detention and claimed a sum from Mr. Bridgeman which to the layman seems out of all proportion to the actual inconveniences which he suffered.

Labor based its opposition on the act of Charles the Second, which made the committing of a man to prison out of the realm a Praemunire and unpardonable even by the King thus establishing the principle that the Crown would exercise its prerogative or pardon in any case of Praemunire save in that of Habeas Corpus alone.

The Labor members seem to have been very jealous of this act of Charles the Second and the traditions of the Stuarts. A good deal of oratory was heard about the sacred liberties of the people, and the incongruousness of such men as Newbold and his Red followers pinning their colors to the flag of the unfortunate Charles and basing their case on the sacredness of a Stuart statute does not seem to have struck them.

Yet, after all, many gallons of water have flowed down the Thames since Charles lost his head and there is no danger today of one of His Majesty's Ministers ordering the arrest and deportation of his enemies on his own initiative and his sole authority. There is no longer the individual Ministerial authority of the Stuart days and the Cabinet has long since evolved a collective responsibility for the acts of the Government.

The British Government was wise to drop the project of a blanket bill which would not only have granted indemnity for this particular act, but would have defined the executive powers in such cases. This was too complex and too controversial a question to be lightly decided. The mistake made by the Home Secretary was a mistake in procedure rather than in principle, and British common sense has come to the rescue of British meticulous insistence on the liberty of the subject and has prevailed.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The elector who finds himself without a vote will only have himself to blame. Make sure your name appears on the list.

Objection to the Drury suggestion of the adoption of closure by the Legislature is based on the fact that it interferes with free speech. And yet the speeches in the House are not free—the people of the province pay for them.

The ease with which Leo Rogers supplied himself with guns and ammunition illustrates once more the need for more rigid regulations in regard to the manufacture and sale of firearms.

The appearance of American license numbers on cars seen on the city streets indicates that the tourist season is at hand.

The north country, just recovering from the recent inundation will be flooded again—this time by campaign eloquence.

Premier Drury and Mr. Morrison seem to have little idea of team work.

Three candidates for the Legislature took part in the opening ceremonies at the first Lindsay ball game. But none of them took a chance on acting as uhire.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Annual Meeting of the Women's Institute — News of Interest.

MILLBROOK, June 1.—The annual meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Saturday, May 26, at the home of Mrs. W. G. Rowland, with a fair number of members in attendance. By request, Mrs. Offa Williamson occupied the chair. The usual opening exercises were conducted and routine business transacted, after which the following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong; vice-pres., Mrs. C. Thorndyke; secretary, Mrs. R. J. McKnight; treasurer, Miss Ella Grandy.

Discussion regarding the disposal of funds on hand, amounting to considerably over $500, resulted in the decision to have the canvassers when seeking new members, or renewal of former ones, to ask each to bring to the next meeting a slip bearing their suggestion in writing, the majority in favor of any one project to carry. Paving the main street from the town hall to Coombe's corner, a grandfather's clock for the town hall, a rest room, and shed accomodation, are among the suggestions which have been put forward. Probably the most popular idea is to hold the money until some definite need in the community must be met when the entire amount, with what additional may be earned in the meantime, may be invested in something which will be a lasting memorial to the strenuous efforts with which the institute has gathered their funds.

The next meeting will be held on the second Wednesday in June at the home of Miss M. Fisher, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Rowland served ice-cream and cake at the close of Saturday's meeting and a most enjoyable social hour was spent before the gathering finally broke up.

Miss M. McMillan, a graduate of the Royal Hospital, Montreal, is the delegate who will address a public gathering, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, Millbrook, in the town hall on Wednesday, June 6, at 8 p.m. Miss McMillan has spent two years in medical research work at Toronto University, graduating with first class honors in the Public Health course, and has always taken a keen interest on Women's Institute work. Owing to illness in her family, Mrs. Lough, who was at first arranged for as the speaker here next Wednesday is unable to come, Miss McMillan taking her place. Some of the subjects upon which Miss McMillan speaks are: "Physical Training, and Health Education for the Child", "Milk and Its Importance as a Body Builder" and "Home and School Co-operation", the Institute making their own choice of subjects from this list for her addresses on Wednesday evening. The public are cordially invited to attend.

WAS ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK

Says Wincarnis Restored Her Health

"Ten months ago I began to lose my strength. My household duties became burdensome. I felt exhausted after the slightest exertion. Then my nerves got so bad that at the slightest noise I used to tremble, my legs would shake and my heart beat violently causing me to gasp for breath. One afternoon a friend called to see me and she was shocked at my pitiable condition. She went out and bought a bottle of 'Wincarnis' and gave me a dose right away. I continued taking 'Wincarnis' three times a day and its effect has been almost miraculous. Gradually but surely my strength came back, a color came into my cheeks, my nerves grew steady and it seemed as if I had taken a new lease on life. Today I am a very happy woman because I am well."

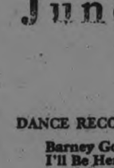
This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

Just a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin removes the congestion

THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illness and of the greatest proportion of deaths. They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors believe that colds, tonsilitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation being their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.



You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. At the first sign of a cold, at the first few warning sneezes, take a teaspoonful of Laxative Syrup Pepsin and the congestion will be gone in a few hours. Don't wait until the cold has a grip on you. Mr. R. H. Powell, of Gilbert Plains, Man., considers Laxative Syrup Pepsin the best laxative he ever used, and Mrs. Chas. Lewis, of Winnipeg, Man., uses it effectively for all the small ills of her family, such as constipation, biliousness, headaches, dizziness, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is safe to give to infants, and all children like it. Before you again resort to cold remedies containing narcotics try a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist will supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building., Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, June 1. (Special.) — Stocks opened strong to-day but in mid-morning irregularity came into the steeel stocks due to further reports of a slackening in the trade, and the list was somewhat unsettled. Considerable improvement in the ratio of both the local and Federal Reserve banks and those items, with another high record in weekly carloadings were encouraging developments which served to stimulate trading in the early dealings to-day. California Petroleum jumped to a further new high for this year at 117, a gain of a full point over the previous close, while fractional gains were scored by American Can., corn products and other industrial leaders. Rails were steady.

Some heaviness among the steels reflecting trade reports that new orders had fallen further below the Total of shipments from the mills, created irregularities in the general list near the close of the hour. Steel common dropped to 96 7-8 as against Thursday's high of 98½; Bethlehem to 52 7-8 against 55¼; Studebaker 111 7-8 against 114 3-4; and Baldwin 129¼ against 136 14. Sugar companies, according to Dow, Jones & Co., are an exceptionally strong financial position and large earnings for 1923 are assured due to the fact that something like 70 P.C. of the season's sugar crop has been sold; even if raw sugar declined, and there are no indications of a material recessation, the earnings will be large.

WESTERN QUEBEC PAPER ISSUE IS SELLING WELL

Mills at St. Andrew's, Que., Expected to be in Operation Some Time in October—Plant Will Make Fine Papers.

According to Mr. R. W. Barclay, President of the Western Quebec Paper Mills Limited, who is also President of the Western Quebec Power Company, the financing of the Western Quebec Paper Mills at St. Andrews, Que., is progressing rapidly. This company is issuing bonds which are guaranteed as to principal through insurance and which have other features which make them particularly attractive to the investor because of their elements of safety.

The preparations for the opening of the plant are progressing, but it is not expected that the mills will be producing before October.

FINAL SESSION

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Harper, Coldsprings; Mission Band secretary; Mrs. Wm. Hume, Cambellford; Messenger secretary. Mrs. A. Long. Peterboro; Literature secretary, Miss C. Harvey, Cobourg Press secretary, Miss Annie Erskine Peterboro; Supply secretary, Mrs. J. Johns, Peterboro; Stranger secretary. Miss B. Thompson, Hastings; Home Helpers secretary, Mrs. C. Plant, Hastings; Finance secretary, Mrs. Clarke, Brighton; Forward Movement secretary, Mrs. Bremner Cobourg; Social service secretary, Miss E. Roberts. Port Hope; Library secretary, Miss Elsie Cameron, Peterboro.

The Peterboro Presbyterial next year will meet at Norwood.

The resolutions committee, with Mrs. Clarke of Brighton, convenor, thanked in detail all and everyone who had helped in any manner to make their visit to Peterboro pleasant and profitable.

Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon's session, devotional exercises were led by Mrs. G. S. Gervan of Millbrook, for the Millbrook auxiliary. The Presbyterial report, given by Mrs. A. Harper, of Coldsprings, showed a total of 32 auxiliaries in affiliation, with 5 Young Women's Societies, and a total membership of 1,033, an increase over the previous year of 49 members.

Mrs. W. N. McDougall, of Lakeport, the treasurer, in her report, recorded a total giving during the year of $7,096.59, an increase over the previous year of $703.04. St. Paul's contribution to this amount was $1,412.05, with the Fraser Auxiliary giving $441.10, St. Andrew's gave $360.59, and the Young Women of St. Andrew's $210.00, and Knox church gave $141.78.

If Mission Bands, there was a decrease in giving of $177.82, owing to the reporting this year of three new auxiliaries which were formerly Mission Bands. The total of Mission Band givings was $744.31, with St. Paul's contributing $66.00, St. Andrew's 100.00, and Knox church $50.00. Knox Church Juniors gave $71.43.

Mrs. McDougall reported a balance in the bank, after remittances to the Provincial treasurer, of $29.13.

Mrs. Wm. Hume gave the report of the Mission Band secretary, showing a total of 18 Bands, with 318 girl members, and 55 boys. The most active bands were those of Hastings, Port Hope and the junior Band of Knox church, Peterborough. Warkworth, which captured the Mission Band banner this year, showed the best average in attendance. The banner, which is open for yearly competition, is won by pre-eminence in four things; in study, in attendance, in voluntary giving and in punctuality in, sending in annual reports.

A very interesting report of the Provincial meeting at Windsor was given by Mrs. J. John, of St. Andrew's. At this convention, the claim was made that Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, with its 160,000 members, was the largest women's society in the province. For 1923, individual effort was recommended, more members, more Bible study, and more praying. It was also announced at Windsor that Toronto and Peterborough Presbyterials stood highest in givings in the province.

Mrs. Plant of Hastings, the Home Helpers' Secretary, reported a total of offerings in this department last year as $402.82, a decrease from 1921's total of $24.52, with an increase, however, in auxiliaries and membership. Campbellford led the list in this section with 235 families, 32 members in the W.M.S., 90 Helpers and givings of $135.12.

Miss Belle Thompson, of Hastings, gave the report of the Stranger secretary, and Mrs. J. John reported for the Supply department, giving the value of the bale sent this year as being $713.20.

Miss G. Harvey, of Cobourg, reported for the Literature section, and Miss Annie Erskine, of Peterborough, for the Press.

Mrs. Alex. Long, of Peterborough, gave the Messenger report, showing a total of 834, a decrease from last year. St. Paul's membership total was 125, St. Andrew's 88, and Knox church 40.

Mrs. Clarke, of Brighton, finance secretary, gave the first report of the committee which has been organized to look after the finances of the Presbyterial. Last year's objective was placed at an increase of 25 per cent. over the previous year. Mrs. Clarke reported an increase of about 10 per cent. this year, with 15 auxiliaries, showing a decrease in giving. The sum of $8,142.85 was the estimate set for Peterborough Presbyterial this year. The slogan, "every woman a member" and a method of systematic giving were recommended as the most effective means for obtaining increased contributions.

The report prepared by Mrs. Bremner of Cobourg, Forward Movement secretary, was read in her absence by Mrs. Harper, showing a very lukewarm response to the appeals for use of the literature and charts sent out to the auxiliaries in connection with the Movement.

An entertaining interlude to the afternoon session was the performance of some twenty of the tiny boys and girls of the Mission Band of Knox church, who gave an enjoyable little imitation of a Mission Band meeting, supervised by their leader, Miss Hazel Huffman and led by Helen Morrison, with Muriel Benson at the piano. They sang hymns, and had a Scripture reading by Marion Armstrong. Beatrice Morrison and the Heard brothers gave vocal solos.

Dedicatory prayer during the afternoon session was offered by Mrs. Jno. McPherson, of Knox church, and Mrs. Robt. Hall of St. Paul's, closed the meeting. During the session, a very enjoyable vocal solo was given by Mrs. Wlater Byers, accompanied by J. Jeffries at the organ.

A supper provided by the ladies of the three Presbyterian churches of the city, and served by Knox church members, was provided for the visiting delegates, who were also entertained in a pleasant drive about the city at its conclusion.

The evening session was presided over by Rev. Robt. Pogue, and was marked by attendance of the robed choir, which gave several selections. The prayer service was led by Rev. G. S. Gervan,of Millbrook. An address of welcome to the ladies was read by Mayor Taylor.

Miss Gertrude Cass, a returned missionary from Korea, gave a very interesting address on the work of the church in that far-away land. A pretty tribute, new to the writer, was the standing in complete silence of every woman in the church for a minute after the missionary mounted the platform.

Miss Cass, whose pleasant voice and easy flow of language made her words very pleasing, gave some interesting sidelights on the manner and customs of Koreans and the work done among them by Presbyterian missionaries. In a land where 80 p.c. of the population are farmers, with few merchants and practically no manufacturers, there are three forms of religion with which the Christian workers have to contend; the Buddhist religion, which makes claim to being little different to the religion of Christ, and whose teachers follow Christian methods in propagating their faith; ancestral worship, the popular cult of the natives, and the spirit worship which governs all Orientals.

Miss Cass paid a tribute to the work of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald in the Korean field, the missionary and his wife who are supported by St. Paul's church in Peterborough, saying that Mr. McDonald was one of the strongest men in the Korean work.

In Korea, a place of hills, a gaunt tree is always noticed on the top of particularly steep inclines. On this tree the Korean driver will place a hair from the tail of his ox, as a thank offering to the god of the road for his safe arrival at the summit.

A great drawback to the advancement of the educational work is the condition of the school buildings, many of which are ancient places with no partitions of any sort between classes.

Referring to the erection of a $240,000 school in Peterborough to accommodate 600 pupils, Miss Cass said that the missionaries to Korea would be satisfied with $15,000 to erect a building capable to holding 400 scholars.

The work in Korea, in Seoul, in Manchuria, was described, and the attempt made by Mr. McDonald to commence missionary endeavors in Vladivostok. The three sides to missionary work, the educational, evangelistic, and medical, were noted, the greatest emphasis being laid on the educational work.

Wages in that country are very low. A cook, with wife and family to support, will get about $11 monthly, teachers formerly received $7 a month ,and now get $20. One large school with seven teachers, formerly kept up for about $50 per annum, now requires $1,620 a year, "less than the amount required to keep up a small ordinary Public school in Ontario."

To last night's meeting, which, like the afternoon session, had an audience of about two hundred people, Mrs. Chas. Robertson of Toronto, first provincial vice-president, brought the greetings of the Provincial Board, and Rev. Mr. Pogue voiced the appreciation of the Presbyterial at the presence of the ladies here. "Like carrying coals to Newcastle," was the phrase used by Mr. Pogue in bringing words of welcome from the men, for, "there is more enthusiasm about missionary work to the square inch in this organization than there is to the square yard in the men's organization."

Mr. Pogue complimented the ladies on their unceasing endeavors in the cause of missions, and on their ability in wiping out the deficit in ther usual operations. He recommended for their consideration three words which would help in the imparting of further enthusiasm in the work. "Vision" was the first; the furthering of an intelligent interest in and study of the facts about missions. The second word was "Prayer." "We have forgotten how to pray," said the reverend speaker, harking back to the days when three rule, when individual and family prayer was a part of the daily routine. "There is no other way in which a church may prosper but through prayer."

The third word was "Sacrifice," not the sacrifice which some people shrank from, the doing of a thing which one disliked to do, out of a sense of duty, but the sacrificial spirit which did something for the sake of Christ in a joyful and generous spirit, the spirit of giving up the lower thing for the sake of the higher.

The evening service was closed with benediction by Rev. G. L. Craw, of Springville.

Spirited Address.

Yesterday's afternoon's session of the Presbyterial meeting at Knox church was featured by an interesting and inspirational address delivered b Mrs. Chas. Robertson of Toronto, a former provincial president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, and now first vice-president. Mrs. Robertson, whose address was on "Our Work on the Pacific Coast," opened her speech with a brief history of the Women's Missionary movement on the Presbyterian church; from the time of its inception in 1876, in Toronto, on the "thought of one woman," to the formation and later amalgamation of the Home Mission movement by "one woman" again, recommending to the young women in her audience an appreciation and recognition of, the good work done by the pioneer women in the cause.

Mrs. Robertson gave some brief sketches from a trip undertaken by herself to the Pacific Coast, where she came in contact with the work of the Presbyterian missionaries among the Indians, the Japanese and the Chinese. For the Indian, who seems unable to learn work of a mechanical nature, and never learns to use a hammer and saw correctly, Mrs. Robertson recommended a course of education that would not seek to change his natural leanings towards outdoor life, but would merely send him back to his own people to live under better conditions, with a Christian viewpoint. In a cannery near Prince Rupert, Mrs. Robertson witnessed the holding of a Sunday afternoon meeting of some two dozen Chinese led by a young Chinese girl who was a worker in the fish cannery, and who had brought to this little shack on the coast her wonder knowledge of Christ gleaned from chance visits to the mission house in Vancouver. The singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," the well-known tune set to Chinese words, led the speaker to this meeting.

"One of the most important questions in the life of our church work is the labour amongst the Chinese at the gate, in Victoria and Vancouver. If we could catch them there for one month, I think we would have no further trouble with them throughout Canada," said Mrs. Robertson, who compared this work with the work to be done amongst the Roman Catholics in Northern Ontario. "But in Northern Ontario we have lost out, just as we have lost out in Quebec, and our children will have the trouble of drawing them back again. If we could only see the light and rise to the occasion, we would be a great power in the land. It is because we have not been true, loyal soldiers in the cause of Jesus Christ, that our church is in the condition it is in today, when we have to beg and plead that someone will come forward and help us in the time of stress.

The situation that the church is in today is proving constantly that we are shirkers."

TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF LATE SERGT. URQUHART

TORONTO, June 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Federal, Provincial and Toronto city police to-day united with a great number of citizens in paying tribute to the memory of the late Sergt. Urquhart, Provincial officer shot dead by Leo Rogers during the chase for that fugitive.

The funeral of Sergt. Urquhart was held here this afternoon. The cortege was headed by the Toronto city police band, followed by a detachment in uniform from the city police force, Royal Canadian Mounted Police Force, and Provincial Police Force. General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, and Chief of Police Dickson, marched with a number of other citizens prominent in government and business circles.

A largely attended meeting of ladies interested in the election of Mr. J. W. Meyers, was held last evening. Mrs. Charles Perry has been appointed chairman pro tem and Miss Lou Jobbitt, secretary. It was decided to open up committee rooms for the ladies on the same floor as Mr. G. N. Gordon's office, at the corner of Hunter and George streets. Local lady organizers are being appointed and a committee was named to complete the organization. The meeting was addressed by Mr. J. Wearing and Mr. J. J. Duffus. Both speakers outlined the requirements of the campaign. Another meeting will be held in a few days.

To the Electors of the West Riding of Peterborough:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—

At the recent Liberal-Conservative Convention, held to select a candidate to represent the Riding in the coming election of a member to the Provincial Legislature for the Riding, I received the unanimous nomination, and I desire, very briefly, to present my views on some of the questions which are involved in the contest, and to request your support.

I am fairly well known to many of the electors, having been a resident of the Riding all my life, and have taken considerable interest in public matters relating to the district.

I was, for some years, Alderman of the city of Peterborough, and for two years I held the office of Mayor, and since my retirement from the Council, have been honored by the election to the important office of Utilities Commission.

I believe that my services in these matters have been appreciated by those who have given the subject consideration, and I feel that my experience fairly fits me to render the Riding further services in the more important matters which are to be dealt with by the Legislature.

I unhesitatingly endorse the Hydro Electric, because the Province owns, directs and serves its people free from either departmental or private control.

Public ownership of all natural utilities, and the useful development of our natural resources, all for the benefit of the people.

Economy, (which we have not lately had in our Provincial administration) so that the burden of our growing taxation will cease to increase and presently be lessened.

That the Ontario Temperance Act must be strictly and faithfully enforced as it stands, unless the people by referendum indicate their desire for a change.

I am in favor of and will support our good roads system, but will demand that where the Province spends $1,000.00 it will get $1,000.00 worth of good roads, which is certainly not now the case.

W. H. BRADBURN

While I held the office of Mayor, proceedings were taken by which the city acquired its own light and power system. I am a strong believer in a public ownership of all natural utilities, and feel that the acquisition of the system has been of an immense advantage to the citizens of Peterborough, and those in the neighborhood who are sharing in its benefits.

The Ontario Temperance Act will no doubt be more or less discussed during the pending campaign, and I desire to clearly express my views in connection with that important matter.

The Act was adopted by vote of the whole people, after the questions involved had been carefully submitted to them, and the general provisions of the Act were adopted at the time by a very large majority. It is clear that the wishes of the people must be fully respected, and unless, and until, by a similar referendum the people show a desire for a change, the provisions of that measure must be rigidly enforced.

I recognize that upon the prosperity of the farmer depends, to a very considerable extent, the prosperity of the country as a whole, and I trust, if elected, that the farming community will submit and discuss with me all measures which can be advocated and which will tend to improve the conditions of those resident in the rural portions of the Riding.

The labor questions have always received due consideration from the Liberal-Conservative administration, and it is to such administration such valuable legislation as the Workmen's Compensation Act, and other measures for the protection of the working man, are due.

A vital question for the new Legislature will be that of economy. In regard to this and in other respects, the Drury administration has been an absolute failure. Elected on the platform of economy, the annual expenditure during the past four years has been almost doubled, iwthout any material benefit to the people as a whole.

I shall, in the little time at my disposal, endeavour to present my views more at length at meetings to be held in my interest throughout the Riding.

Trusting for your support, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

W. H. Bradburn

Want Ad Tips
by John T. Bartlett

THE APPEAL OF ODD CENTS AND ODD DOLLARS.

An authenticated case exists of an advertiser who reduced his price three cents, from $2 to $1.97, and doubled his orders. "Even" prices in hundreds of newspaper advertisments and mail order catalogs are almost as rare as purple cows. And automobile manufacturers recognize the hidden principle here, too—they don't quote even hundreds. Look up the latest Ford price.

Advertisers have found that in selling goods to people interested in price (not, that is, to a clientele thinking only of quality), an odd price seems much smaller to the public than an even-dollar price. $4.95 is only five cents less than $5, but to the public it seems much smaller than $5. $99 seems much lower than $100. This condition applies so universally that hundreds of display advertisers have a rule in advertising against even prices. They know that the odd-dollars or odd-cents price will sell more goods out of all proportion to the small difference.

There is an interesting psychological illusion involved. When the average person views a figure, the first digit makes the greatest impression on him, because it has the greatest significance. In the number, $4.98, the 4 has to do with the hundreds, whereas the 9 has to do with the tens and the 8 with one. The digit 4 makes, consequently by far the greatest impression.

In cold business, one should react to the difference between $5 and $4.98, which is only 2 cents. What happens, however, is that we react mostly to the difference in the first digits, which is a matter of $1 and of considerable moment. Odd-dollars and odd-cents prices carry also the suggestion of the price cut, which pleases many people.

Prices are not always quoted in Want Ads, but it is often desirable to quote them. And if they are not quoted in the ad, the advertiser must usually quote them to the inquirer. The foregoing "number magic" heeded by so many display advertisers, is valuable, too, for the Want Ad user.

ARCHBISHOP DEPLORES SABBATH DESECRATION

Also Anxious Regarding Spread of Sunday Labor in Province.

A pastoral letter deploring the increase of Sunday labor and desecration of the Sabbath has been addressed to Catholic clergy by Archbishop Gauthier, Apostolic Administrator of Montreal. The letter calls the clergy to take notice of the growing desecration of Sunday and take every effort to obtain the proper observance of the Lord's Day.

"It is a fact, which no one will deny, and which may discern for themselves, that for a great number of Catholics Sunday has become a day on which they participate in profane pleasures," the Archbishop writes. "If they do not miss Mass, they frequently attend an early one, and then only for the briefest possible time, leaving so that they may enter upon a journey, or take part in outings which are sometimes dangerous to morals. To neglect God in this manner is indeed a great evil."

The Archbishop observes with satisfaction that an inquiry is about to be undertaken concerning the spread of Sunday labor in the province, and expresses the hope that it will be complete and searching.

ELUDES POLICE BY KEEPING IN THE LIMELIGHY

With Price on His Head and Hunted By Nation, Murderer Sells Spark Plugs to Farmers.

CLEVELAND, June 1.—Fool or fox? Master mind or blunderer?

Which is John Leonard Whitfield, wanted here for the murder of a policeman?

Hunted criminals, in story book and real life, avoid the beaten paths. Their conduct is painted with esoteric manoeuvers to avoid detection.

They do the unusual and are caught. But Whitfield, spark plug salesman de luxe, alleged thief and killer, reversed the criminal code—

And escaped, hurling derision at the nation-wide dragnet set to apprehend him.

Eleven days after he is alleged to have left the body of his victim lying warm in its rough, shallow grave—off a lonely road near Cleveland, Whitfield was trapped in Madison, Wis. And then once more, acting on his amazing, intuitive faculty of "doing the obvious," he slipped away. A will-o'-the-wisp is Whitfield.

Throughout his entire flight, while a nation hunted with orders to "shoot to kill," Whitfield did the obvious. Whether he out-thought the police, whether it was blind luck, or whether he was a rank blunderer, must remain for the reader to fathom.

* * *

On May 11, Patrolman Dennis Griffin, with a fellow officer, arrested Whitfield on suspicion of having stolen spark plugs.

Police say he operated on a wholesale scale. They contend he obtained the spark plugs through contrivance of persons under his control, and that he was able to sell them back to the manufacturers from whom he had stolen them at a price cheaper than they could afford to make them themselves. The ramifications of his operations, they further allege, extended throughout the country.

Whitfield wanted to say goodbye to his wife. The officers allowed this. They had searched him. After going with him to the second floor, the policemen permitted him to enter a bedroom alone. While there, he slipped a pistol in his pocket.

Whitfield and Griffin started for the police station in the former's shiny, blue Jordan roadster. In the traffic the other officer, following in a second machine, was lost sight of. Whitfield, say police, reached to his pocket. He pulled the pistol, and shot himself to liberty and Griffin to death.

* * *

He drove to a lonely, abandoned road near Chagrin Falls, just outside of the city. There, police charge, he stripped the body of every stitch of clothing. He built three fires and tried to burn the telltale uniform.

In a story book, he would have buried the clothing in the grave prepared for the nude body. Brass doesn't burn so easily, and Griffin's numerals "11" indicating the police precinct, were found together with brass buttons, and the remnants of a club.

Even while the flames of the three fires were half-heartedly eating away the evidence of his crime, Whitfield prepared a grave, the indictment against him continues. But in a detective story, he would have dug deep, and smoothed the earth so that none could see. Whitfield's grave was shallow, crude, obvious.

Here enters another unnatural slant: Whitfield had been maintaining a 15-year-old girl, Marie Price, in an apartment in Cleveland.

Sherlock Holmes would tell you that, under the circumstances, Whitfield should have fled alone. But he didn't. He went back to Cleveland for the girl. Went back in his blue roadster, and got her.

Then he drove along serenely in the late afternoon traffic through the heart of the city. He stopped at a bank to cash a check. He leisurely traversed main arteries teeming with auto and wagons, and then headed for Chicago on the Toledo highway, bound ofr the very part of the country where both the girl's mother and his own relatives lived.

The astonshing feature of the "fight" was that Whitfield stopped frequently along the route to sell spark plugs to farmers. In this way he financed the fight.

But no one recognized the cuple. No one recognized the car, despite the fact the license number hadn't been changed, nor had the color of the body. He merely repainted the wire wheels from red to white.

In Chicago, Whitfield and Marie lived in a South-Side rooming house. They attended the moxies. Then they moved on, stopping leisurely to sell spark plugs, the very article he had been accused of stealing before the murder.

* * *

At Madison, Wis., Whitfield and the girl went to "Chili Al" Felly's tiny restaurant. Felly recognized them from a photo sent out and published in the State Journal. He slipped outside to phone the police. Lieutenant Ol[illegible] Softland and Detective Jesse Smith responded, and at pistol point arrested Whitfield.

And now for the third time, the hunted man did the obvious. A man with a price on his head, naturally would try to get away. But in books, and in real life, too, the criminal with a pistol prodding his back, resigns himself to his fate and the story ends.

But not Whitfield. When he reached the door, he saw a street car coming. And just as it was nearly abreast he shoved the officers aside, and ran in front of the car, which served as a shield for the fusillade of bullets that were loosed.

Then he ran, seemingly in every direction. Five hours later he was reported miles away, in a stolen car. Only the girl, Marie Price, was caught.

What is Whitfield?
Another Arsene Lupin?
Or just a lucky fool?

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

TRAVELING IN SUMMER.

The easiest baby to travel with during the summer is the young breast fed baby. His food is ready for him, and if the mother provides herself with plenty of boiled water so he may have something beside the iced water on the train, traveling should never be much of a bugaboo. In fact travelling is usually a drowsy job and the baby will sleep most of the time.

The bottle fed baby is really a great problem, especially if his journey is to last longer than twenty-four hours. His food is the most important item and the change of milk from one place to another, is more or less fraught with danger in the hot weather. If possible, and the journey is not to last too long, the mother may put his twenty four hour supply of food in a small portable refrigerator and carry it with her. The milk should be bottled, cooled rapidly and kept on ice until needed. An enamel pitcher which the porter will fill with hot water and in which the bottle may be stood to heat it—will be satisfactory, or this same pitcher fitted with a piece of wood at the bottom on which to stand the bottle and filled with water which the mother may heat over "canned" heat in the dressing room. Both processes are rather "long ones," though all that is necessary is to take the chill off the milk, it does not need to be very warm.

Powdered milk offers an excellent food for the traveler. It is not bulky to carry, clean, and easily diluted when needed. It is perhaps the most satisfactory way to feed the baby on a long journey. It should not upset him either, being fresh good milk reduced to a powder and needing only boiled water to bring it back to milk again. If the baby is using a diluted milk take this into account when adding the water.

LEO ROGERS TO BE BURIED TODAY

Body of Young Bandit Has Been Handed Over to His Parents — Father Out on Bail.

OTTAWA, June 1. Canadian Press —The special correspondent of the Journal at North Bay reports that the body of Leo Rogers, the murderer-bandit, who was shot by the police after he had killed two policemen and wounded a third, has been handed over by the Attorney-general to Rogers' parents. They have arranged to have it removed to their home, and the funeral will be held from there on Saturday.

Dr. Campbell held a non-jury inquest yesterday morning when sufficient evidence was taken to warrant the verdict that Rogers came to his death while trying to evade capture

John Rogers, father of the dead bandit, who faces a charge of aiding and abetting his son to escape, is now out on bail. His case has been remanded for a week

He was the first to see his son's remains yesterday morning and was visibly affected, weeping like a child.

REGINA, June 1. — (Canadian Press.) —Breaking window panes, driving young crops into the ground tearing roofs from six freight cars in motion and accompanied with gusts of rain, and hail, a storm which broke to the north of Balgoni near here, last night, for the time, approached the dimensions of a cyclone. Very heavy rains are reported west of Regina and Calgary, and as far East as Broadview and South to the boundary.

The heavy fall of rain in the last three days throughout the province has assured an excellent start for crops. Wheat has shown tremendous improvement since earlier in the week.

MUCH BETTING ON LONDON STREETS

Difficult to Stop But Committee Told That Imprisonment For First Offence Might Be Deterrent.

LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— At the resumption yesterday of the enquiry by a select committee of the house of commons into the proposed taxation of betting, Hon. Trevor Bigham, assistant commissioner of police, London, said that London was riddled with street betting. He did not think it possible to prevent ready-money betting, but imprisonment for the first offence, which was rarely inflicted, would be a deterrent.

There were 3,274 convictions with fines aggregating £28,711 in 1922, compared with 1,513 convictions and fines totalling £22,041 in 1920, the assistant commissioner said. The increase in the convictions last year he attributed to the increase in betting, not to the greater activity of the police.

The credit bookmakers with offices in London, according to Commissioner Bigham, numbered 800 and the street bookmakers about 950. The latter employed 4,000 agents, against whom the uniformed policemen were useless.

Lord Jersey explained to the committee the position of the jockey club in refusing officially to recognize betting. He expressed the opinion that it was impossible to prevent betting on the results of races.

The chairman of the committee thanked the jockey club, through Lord Jersey, for permitting the committee to visit Epsom racing park to see how betting was carried on there.

DISMISSALS AT THE SHIPYARDS

Hon. Arthur Meighen Wants to Know Who the Executioner Was.

THE COMMISSION

OTTAWA, June 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Dismissals from the Sorel shipyard gave rise to sharp cross-firing in the House yesterday. The question came up on a vote in the marine estimates of $123,000 for the shipyard. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition questioned how many men had been dismissed. He referred to "tales of woe" in regard to the "numerous dismissals" at Sorel.

Mr. Lapointe: "I happened to be away when these dismissals took place."

Mr. Meighen: "Who was the real executioner?"

Mr. Lapointe replied that his place had been taken by the Minister of Customs. However he assumed all responsibility for the dismissals. Only when political partisanship had been demonstrated were men dismissed.

Mr. Meighen characterized the investigations to ascertain whether or not the employees had been guilty of showing political partisanship as "farcical."

He declared he had had letters from Mr. Lapointe's own supporters protesting that the investigations were unfair.

Mr. Lapointe retorted that in the Quebec agency of the marine department there were many men discharged in 1912 who were applying for their jobs back again and were not getting them while appointees of the Conservative government were kept on.

Mr. Meighen rejoined that in the 1912 dismissals there had been thorough investigation. If "the axe of patronage" was to be yielded despite the civil service commission it was a serious matter. The government apparently was re-introducing the old method and seeking to justify that by referring to 1912. The slaughter at Sorel had taken place while Mr. Bureau had access to the Minister's seat, just long enough.

Hon. Jacques Bureau who had entered the House declared that there were reasons for every discharge which had been made. Members had made complaints of partisanship. He had gone down to Sorel himself and what he found there had made him decide that the men in question should be discharged both in the interests of the shipyard and of the country.

J. T. Shaw, (Independent) Calgary West, asked for a list of all those discharged. He was anxious to see the civil service commission operating in every part of the Dominion.

Mr. Lapointe asked if men discharged in 1912 must continue to suffer under that injustice forever. C. W. Shaw said he could not give them redress by discharging other men without reason.

Mr. Meighen asked if the minister could not produce the certificates of the members which charged offensive partisanship.

Mr. Bureau said that in some cases the complaints were verbal.

Lucien Canonn (Liberal, Dorchester), asked if the minister might also produce the records of 12,000 Liberal employees discharged after 1911 without any investigation or inquiry. There had been rank patronage from 1911 to 1921. The civil service commission had been a joke and a farce and the whole service was filled with Conservative appointees. Mr. Meighen should be the last man to stage such a debate as this.

"We want our ministers to be ministers of the crown and to run this country instead of having the Civil Service Commission to do it," declared Mr. Cannon.

Mr. Meighen held that by calling the Civil Service Commission a farce Mr. Cannon had ruined his speech. The commission was under investigation now. The last government had not appointed its members, one of whom, Dr. Larochelle, and the secretary, Mr. Foran were appointed by the last Liberal government. The other two members had been appointed by the Conservative government.

"Was Dr. Roche's appointment not patronage?" asked Mr. Cannon.

Mr. Meighen replied that it was not. There was not a more fair-minded man in the Dominion than Dr. Roche. There had been dismissals after 1911 but nothing like the number which Liberals claimed and it must be remembered also that until very recent years the outside service had not been under the commission and the situation was vastly different to that of 1921.

The vote of $125,000 for the Sorel shipyards was allowed to stand when the House reassembled at 8 o'clock. Mr. Meighen requested that it stand until information regarding the dismissal of employees after the last general election was brought down to the House.

Mr. Lapointe said that he was sure Mr. Meighen would be disappointed in the information. Only a very few permanent employees had been discharged. A number of temporary employees had been discharged at intervals in order to distribute the work among the unemployed of Sorel.

Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs, who acted as Minister of Marine while Mr. Lapointe was in England said that there were only three or four permanent employees dismissed. One of them had been dismissed because he had acted as secretary of the Tory organization in the last campaign.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Board of Education Held Meeting--Cheese Brings 17 Cents--News Notes.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 1.—At the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night the resignation of Miss Marion Smith, commercial teacher in the High School was received to take effect at the end of the present term. On motion of Trustee O'Sullivan the matter was left in the hands of the internal committee, who will advertise for a successor. the applications to be considered by the full board before a final selection is made.

Principal Greig of the High School spoke highly of Miss Smith's attainments as a teacher and expressed regret at her intended departure. He suggested that a committee be appointed to interview Miss Smith with the object of persuading her to withdraw her resignation but the members of the Board appeared to be of the opinion that Miss Smith really intends to leave town. She is at present receiving $1700 a year and under the schedule would have been paid $2000 had she remained another year.

Male Teacher For Mathematics

Principal Greig told the Board that the mathematical department of the High School is not satisfactory as there is no regular teacher of this branch, the work being divided up among the other members of the staff.

Chairman Douglas called attention to the fact that the High School Inspectors in their reports for some time past have recommended that a male teacher of mathematics be secured. It was decided on motion of Trustees Irwin and Dr. Watson to advertise for such an instructor. The salary offered is from $1700 up according to experience and qualification of the applicants. The amount mentioned is the minimum set for High School and Collegiate teacher by the Federation.

Repairs to Buildings

Chairman Birmingham of the property committee, reported in favor of making certain repairs and improvements in the public school building and these were authorized.

Contract for Fuel

P. J. Kelly was awarded the contract for supplying the fuel that it it estimated will be required before the new High School is completed and occupid. His figures were 115 of lump coal at $9.25 a ton, 10 tons of stove coal at $15 and 10 cords of edgings for kirdling at $5 a cord.

On Entrance Board.

Principal Haig of the Public school was appointed to the board of examiners for the Entrance examination. The Separate school also have the right to name a repreesntative.

School Attendance Officer.

School Attendance Wilkinson submitted his report for the past month, and this was received and filed. A father suffering from rheumatism had kept his 15 year old boy out of the public school for about three weeks to assist him in planting his garden. Mr. Wilkinson asked for a ruling on this point. In the opinion of the trustees the action was justified.

The members of the Board in attendance were: Chairman Douglas, and Trustees O'Sullivan, Force, Lynch, Stephens, Arnold, Hoover. Birmingham, Irwin and Dr. Watson.

The bidding started at 16½c, and worked up by eighths and sixteenths to 17c, the top price.

Cook took Brae, Woodland, Kimberley, Stanwood and Trent Valley; while Fitzgerald's selection was I.X.L., Meyersburg, New Model. and West Seymour. The other factories did not sell.

President Innis and Alex. Hume were appointed delegates to attend a meeting of the cheese producers to be held in the city hall, Belleville, at 1.30 Saturday afternoon. The Liberals of West Northumberland will meet in Cobourg, on Saturday, at 3 p.m., to select a candidate for the Legislature. It is a foregone conclusion that Sam Clarke ex-M.L.A. who has represented the riding for the past 25 years or more, will be unanimously renominated.

MONTREAL, June 1.—(Canadian Press).—No judge has yet been found to conduct the case of Rev. Father Delorme charged with the murder of his half-brother Raoul Delorme. LATE WHIP HICKS NOT RE-NOMINATED Turned Down at Convention of Farmers' Party in Hensall.

HENSALL, June 1. —(Canadian Press.)—Andrew Hicks, former chief whip of the Farmers' party in Ontario legislature, failed to be re-nominated by the United Farmers of South Huron at a convention held here yesterday. Mr. Hicks created much excitement towards the close of last session of the Legislature by making charges against Premier Drury which were emphatically denied.

W. F. Medd, of Exeter, was the choice of the convention.

Mr. Hicks was allotted twenty minutes in which to present his case, and he made an earnest effort to show that Premier Drury really had betrayed the Farmers' party, but it was apparent that the main body of the gathering was not with him.

The Fire Situation at White River Improved.

PORT ARTHUR, June 1.—(Canadian Press.)—The forst fire situation at White River was reported slightly better last night owing to easing of the wind. The flames are not being driven and while this condition lasts can be combatted, but there is still great danger in the possibility of even an unfavorable breeze.

After the flames had entered the town from the east yesterday, it looked as if the district was to become another Haileybury and add another disaster to the north country. Every precaution was immediately taken to save the town. It is impossible to picture the feelings of the people all through the distressing day. At times fear prompted many to leave their homes, hurriedly carrying with them valises, trunks and personal belongings. They landed on the station platform while a train was made up of empty box cars to accommodate them. Some buried their valuables in the ground.

BROKERAGE FIRM IN NEW YORK FAILED

One of the Oldest and Largest Firms on the New York Market in Financial Difficulties.

NEW YORK, June 1. Canadian Press. — One of the oldest and largest stock brokerage firms trading on the New York curb market, Jones & Baker, was plunged into financial difficulties yesterday when three creditors filed a petition in bankruptcy, and shortly afterwards the Curb suspended the firm. The curb has been secretly investigating its affairs for a week.

While the assets and liabilities were not given in the petition, unofficial estimates of the liabilities ranged from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

The company had nearly 10,000 customers' accounts here and in nine large branch offices in other cities. The officials of the company declared their belief that the firm was solvent.

Counsel for the petitioners whose claims totalled $3500, said the action was taken as a result of newspaper notoriety, to prevent disorderly liquidation of assets which would have meant ruin to the firm's customers. Immediately after the appointment of Alfred C. Coxe, Jr., as Receiver, by Federal Judge Joddard, the firm issued a statement denying that it was insolvent and declaring that none of its customers would suffer a loss.

Jones and Baker was a partnership composed of William R. Jones, and Jackson B. Sells. It was formed 11 years ago in Chicago, and had maintained headquarters in New York for about 10 years. Branch offices were operated in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, and Kansas City, Mo., the latter office having just been established. The firm had a weekly payroll of about $25,000, and was said to have had extensive bank loans.

The firm of Jones and Baker was a member of the Salt Lake City Stock Exchange as well as the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange of Toronto, Canada.

TEN KILLED IN RELIGIOUS RIOT

Limitation of Number of Ministers in Mexico Creates Trouble.

MEXICO CITY, June 1.—(Canadian Press.) — Ten persons were killed and seventeen wounded in a religious riot at Durango City last night, when a mob attacked the Provincial palace and disarmed the mounted police.

Despatches from Durango say that the trouble was indirectly caused by the recently enacted law limiting the number of ministers permitted to officiate in the state to 25 for each denomination. The Catholic priests in Durango normally number more than 250. Accompanied by a crowd of more than 3,000 persons, a committee of prominent Catholic men and women visited the Provincial palace about noon yesterday for the purpose of asking the Government and Leggislature to repeal the law. The committee waited at the palace for more than three hours and in the meantime the crowd was harangued by orators. The mob finally began stoning the palace, whereupon the mounted police and guards fired a volley over the heads of the demonstrators.

The crowd, infuriated, attacked and disarmed the guards. As a result of the promiscuous shooting, the bodies of three policemen and seven civilians had been recovered this morning.

British Reply Is Not Yet Announced.

LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press.) — A Foreign Office statement says that it agreed with Leonid Krassin, the Soviet representative, not to publish the British note until the Moscow Government has had time to reply; hence, if what appears to be an imperfect and inaccurate summary was published, it could only have been through a breach of this understanding on the part of the Russian delegation.

This would seem to imply that the summary recently published by the Daily Herald gave at least the lines of the British reply.

This is Style 117—a wonderfully, costly proportioned instrument, price $295. Many other designs, from $60 upwards.

TORONTO'S FAR-FAMED MUSICAL FOUR

STRONG CAMPAIGN IN SOUTH-WEST

Party Leaders Intensively Battling For Power in Legislature.

TORONTO, June 1.— (Canadian Press.)—Election month opens up with the battle for power in Provincial Government being carried into the populous and prosperous parts of South Western Ontario. In this section of the province every county has two or three and some times four seats in the Legislature, and undoubtedly the casualties will be heavy.

With Hon. Howard Ferguson at Sarnia and W. F. Nickle at Owen Sound the conventions last night opened up speaking tours of their leaders. To-day Mr. Ferguson is speaking at Aylmer and St. Thomas, and to-morrow the Conservative leader will campaign in Perth county, which was represented in the last legislature by Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, for the north riding, and Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer in the United Farmer Government, who held the seat for South Perth. Mr. Hay and other Liberal stalwarts have already done some preliminary campaigning in South-western Ontario, and the Liberal leader will return to that district after his present tour in the north.

It is expected that Premier Drury and the U.F.O.-Labor leaders supporting the government will make an intensive campaign in South-western Ontario during next week and the remaining period before election on June 25. Much of the support for the Government in the last Legislature was brought from this section of the province. Government supporters this morning express gratification at the turn of events yesterday in the United Farmers' nomination convention for South Huron, when W. G. Medd was nominated in place of Andrew Hicks, former member and government whip, whose defection from the Drury Government party and sensational speech in the Legislature during the closing days of the last session helped to hasten the general elections.

Blind Man Sponsors City Beautiful Plans.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 1.—The first campaign inaugurated by A. E. Van Petten, the newly elected president to the Chamber of Commerce here, who is totally blind, was one for the beautification of this city.

Despite the fact that President Van Petten is destined never to look upon the beauties of nature his campaign may bring out, he declares he appreciates his new honor as president of the local civic body mainly because it gives him the opportunity to sponsor a movement that has always been close to his heart.

A systematic organization for beautifying the city was perfected by Mr. Van Petten and includes ward and precinct committees, headed in each instance by some one vitally interested in the campaign, and also includes every school child in the city.

Each school child has been presented with a red tag bearing the pledge: "I won't pick flowers or break off branches," "I won't cut across lawns because it kills the grass."

"I want Topeka to be more beautiful."

Mr. Van Petten has been blind for 14 years, and in that time has organized and is head of a farm mortgage company here that now carries more than $15,000,000 in farm mortgage loans on its books.

BETHANY HAS A SMALL FIRE

Sparks from Locomotives Set Ablaze Roof of Grain Store.

BETHANY, June 1.—What might have developed into a serious fire, occurred on Thursday at about one o'clock, when the roof of the Hogg & Lytle grain store was found to be ablaze. The regular one o'clock G.T.R. train en route to Lindsay had taken the siding to allow a double header freight train bound from Lindsay to Port Hope to pass and after both trains had cleared the roof of the building was noticed to be on fire.

The Methodist church bell rang in an alarm and the telephone central also, and in about five minutes almost twenty-five men were on the scene with ladders and buckets. The blaze was soon under control and very little damage resulted.

Bert Cody's winter's cutting of lumber was piled near the building.

The chief value of cow pea hay lies in its high percentage of digestible protein. This has been verified by numerous feeding tests.

MILK PASTEURIZATION

Making Milk Safe for Use in the Family.

Pasteurization Is Not Sterilization—Diseases Transmitted by Milk—Points Charged Against Pasteurization — "Safety First" a Good Practice.

The process applied to milk, that we know as pasteurization, was originally used by Pasteur to prevent the souring of wines and beer, and it is now universally applied in the control of milk supplies of large cities. At first it was intended for the preservation of milk, that is, to prevent souring, but now it is used solely with the idea of destroying disease-producing micro-organisms.

Pasteurization Is Not Sterilization

Pasteurization is not sterilization. A much greater heat is required to sterilize than is applied in the former process. Pasteurization consists of heating the milk to a temperature of not less than 140 degrees and not more than 150 degs. F., for a period of not less than 20 and not more than 30 minutes, and then rapidly cooling it to 45 degs. F., or under, and keeping it at that temperature until delivered to the consumer. In addition to this, every care must be taken to have a clean product. The process does not remove dirt; therefore those responsible for the supervision of milk supplies insist on a high quality of milk for pasteurization.

No matter how carefully milk is handled and how well cows are inspected there still remains the danger of the carrier, that is, a person harboring the germs of a disease and yet not affected by them; or of the person who is developing an infectious disease, yet is not sick enough to stop working. These people may unwittingly infect the milk by coughing, sneezing, by their soiled hands when milking or washing vessels, or indirectly in many other ways. It is true that if the milk is kept cold these disease-producing bacteria will not multiply, but they may remain alive and fully virulent for a long time and the original number be sufficient to cause infection.

Disease Transmitted by Milk

Some of the diseases of man that may be transmitted by milk are: Septic sore throat, typhoid, scarlet fever, diphtheria and tuberculosis. Some animal diseases transmissible to man through milk are: Tuberculosis; cow pox, which may cause infection of the digestive tract in young children; mastitis, which may cause gastro-intestinal disturbances; foot and mouth disease; trembles; actinomycosis and others. Pasteurization destroys the organisms that are the cause of all the foregoing diseases. In regard to bovine tuberculosis it is known that though adults may be relatively immune to infection from a bovine source, children are quite susceptible, and a considerable percentage of cases of tuberculosis in young children can be shown to be of bovine origin. There are certain biological differences in the bacilli from humans and cattle which make it possible to differentiate these infections. A cow may be dangerous even though the udder is not infected, as the germs are passed out with the excreta before any clinical evidence of tuberculosis is present, and owing to the position of the udder it is almost impossible to keep them out of the pail as they fall in with the tiny particles of manure that are on the cow's body and that silt down in the form of dust. Apart from the recognized disease producing bacteria, it is known that large numbers of ordinarily harmless ones in milk may cause a serious and frequently fatal diarrhoea in children during the summer months.

Points Charged Against Pasteurization.

Some of the arguments put forward against pasteurization are: That the cream is reduced; that the milk is rendered indigestible; that the milk will not sour, thus doing away with nature's danger signal; and that the vitamines are destroyed. The last is the only argument that now carries any weight. The cream is not reduced in quantity, but by heating the fat globules are broken up smaller and do not rise to the top so easily, thus causing the cream line to appear less. As a matter of fact at 142 degs. F., there is very little reduction even in the appearance. With proper pasteurization the chemical and physical constitution of the milk is not appreciably changed, at least not to an extent that renders it less valuable as a food. The lactic acid bacteria that cause souring milk are not all destroyed by the heating, are consequently properly pasteurized milk may sour like raw milk, thus indicating its age and condition. Recent work on vitamines shows that the anti-rachitic and anti-neuritic factors are not removed by pasteurization, but that the anti-scorbutic vitamine probably is. It should be replaced by giving daily a teaspoonful of orange or lemon juice diluted with water and sweetened.

"Safety First" Good Practice

Until methods of milk produc are much more perfect than they at present the only way of mainte a safe milk supply would appear t by pasteurization, in which the cooling and keeping cool is giv much attention as the maintenan the correct temperature for the pr length of time.—Ronald Gwatkin, V.S.c., Ontario Veterinary Coll Guelph.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS ROUGHLY TREATED

Shampooed With Red Ink and Rolled in the Mud.

PARIS, June 1.—(Special) — A French Fascisti made its appearance when three Socialist leaders were seized, given a shampoo with purple ink, forced to swallow castor oil and then rolled in the mud. The new Parisian "black shirts" announced that hereafter Communists and others promoting anti-Nationalist demonstrations are liable to similar treatment.

The movement was originated following the conflict of, Premier Poincare with the Radical group in the Senate voted it would not try certain Communists whom the Premier sought to impeach. As the three Socialists—Deputy Montet, Marc Sangnir and former Minister Violette—were leaving their homes late last night, they were stopped. The attack, it was said, was aimed to prevent the three from attending an anti Fascisti meeting Sangnir also received a coat of melted tar on his head.

The most profitable use is made of beet tops when they are siloed and fed with alfalfa hay or other forage and possibly supplemented with grain or concentrate feeds.

RECIPES

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH

Fried Potatoes.

It is quite customary to find the new potatoes, when they appear, very small. The following is a good way to serve them:

Wash and scrape the potatoes, and place in a kettle of boiling water to which a tablespoon of salt has been added for every 12 potatoes. Cook for 10 minutes. Drain thoroughly, and fry in deep fat, or saute in a small amount of fat until brown. It will take two to two minutes, in deep fat, but a longer time in the frying pan. Sprinkle over them chopped parsley just before serving.

SUGAR FOR STARCH

Dissolve two lumps of sugar in a basin of water and use it instead of starch when you are laundering delicate laces. It will give you all the stiffening needed.

Memories of Magic Lantern

We were moving, and among other possessions of long standing, the magic lantern and its slides had been doomed to fall under the auctioneer's hammer It was said that we were no longer children and the slides were cumbersome to keep; but though I demurred to the first assertion it was not a point one cared to press. It might be true that "leave-taking are but wasted sadness"—nevertheless I resolved that this parting should not lack its ritual of farewell, and accordingly retired to the attic, unearthed the slides, and, holding each up to the light, passed them in view for the last time. Even seen so, in miniature, they recalled something of the magic of a white sheet in a darkened room and the glamorous odor of paraffin.

"The Tiger and Tub" dealt masterfully—in six scenes—with the story of a picnic in Bengal, If a breathless chase around a tub, of the turning of the tub upon the tiger, with the happy intervention of the bung-hole and the knot that two men tied in the tiger's tail. Our other piece de resistance was the Robinson Crusoe series, which was wont to be hailed with mixed feelings. We liked to watch him sleeping in his very green tree, and we thrilled to the sight of him feeding the beacon fire on the headland to attract the attention of the passing ship—his figure, with the conical hat, silhouetted against the sky; but there were some of us who petitioned the presiding genie of the magic lantern to give warning of the appearance of one slide, that we might hide our faces till it has passed. In this picture Crusoe is shown, torch in hand, exploring the cave from whose dark recesses the goat is springing, its horns and gleaming eyes giving it a terrifying aspect in the torchlight. For my own part this slide used to trouble me less than another which frightened me by the expression of horror on Crusoe's face as he stared down at the foot print in the sand.

Delight of Grotesque

Naturally the moving slides were a particular delight. A flying goose appears on the screen, a mysterious "click" is heard, and with a swiftness beyond the powers of any cinema star Mother Goose herself appears seated on the back of her name-bird. For the most part these moving pictures showed swift punishment following upon wrong-doing.

We cherished them mainly for their very crudity. Of these grotesque slides one of the most notable represented a woman's head in profile. It was not a charming face in the first place, and as one watched it went from bad to worse, for the nose grew slowly longer and redder—and longer and redder—till it closely resembled a red-hot poker, and after it had to all appearance stopped— lo, to one's great delight it would creep on for another lurid six inches or so! Another slide conveyed a warning against the habit of sleeping with the mouth open. A man is lying on a four poster, one hand clutching the checked couterpane in token of euneasy slumbers—later to be explained. His chin is aggressively unshorn and his appearance wholly unprepossessing. From time to time he yawns—then his mouth remains open, amid snores from an audience seeking realism. Enter from a left a mouse * * *but here I draw a veil. The dramatic manipulation of the pieces of glass that worked the mouse and the sleeper's jaw depended upon the imagination of the Genie, and we were never satisfied till he had exercised it to the full. On reviewing this slide in the attic I was forced to confess that the passing of the years has affected my loyalty.

In the good days no winter was suffered to pass without a magic-lantern show. We did not tire of these old friends, and customs could not stale the annual jokes that time had elevated into the recognized libretto of the entertainment. Did we ever forget that the chief attraction of the windmill lay in the small objects in the sky—in reality a flaw in the glass—which persistently revolved with the sails? When it came to the turn of the animals pictures we never failed to hold an argument as to which was the camel and which the dromedary; and every year the giraffe called forth the joke anent the sixfeet of sore throat.

We loved the stag, with his background of hill and lake under the moon, but there was one slide had no rival. This was the wild horse, If the whim of the Genie placed the animals earlier in the entertainment we insisted upon the wild horse being thrown on the screen again at the close, as our only "extra". He was shown in the act of leaping across a stream while the smoke of a prairie fire clouded the horizon, and I remember approaching the sheet in awe to stroke his arched neck. After all, the grotesque must needs yield to the beautiful on our affections. The woman of the whimsical nose might be hailed with delight, but the wild horse was regretted after he had vanished.

Sitting in the attic, with this slide in my hand, I knew that here was no question of a broken allegiance, and I resolved to give him sanctuary—among the heirlooms, if need were, alongside my great-great-grandfather's snuffbox. Yes, the parairie-fire of change might rate among our possessions, but the wild horse had found the stream of remembrance in my heart and leaped into security—Manchester Guardian.

PEANUTS, FIVE A BAG MAY RESULT FROM HUGE CROP

CHICAGO, June 1, (Associated Press) —The bleacherite and circus fan will get a bigger bag of peanuts for his money when this year's record crop is harvested, Guy H. Hall, director of the National Institute of Progressive Farming, said in a statement in which he predicted also a return to the five cent bag in a short time.

"The old familiar call of 'Hot peanuts, five a bag,' will return within a short time," he said.

More than 986,000 acres were planted in peanuts last year, according to the department of agriculture figures, while this year's acreage is forecast by the Institute's survey to exceed the million mark. The total-yield last year was 623,507,000 pounds, valued at about $29,222,000.

Increased peanut production recently has resulted from the greater use of machinery, Mr. Hall said, pointing out that machine methods of digging also put the crop to market more quickly.

The "goobers," as they are known, are grown extensively in sections where the soil is either sandy or of sandy loam, or where the climate or boll weevil seriously handicaps cotton production. For high quality of nuts the soil should be limy and loose to allow for free pentration of the bloom pegs, the nuts forming underground in the manner of the potato, the Institute points out.

ENGLAND'S LARGEST BOMBING PLANE READY FOR TRIAL FLIGHT

LONDON, June 1 (Associated Press) —England's largest airplane, a huge bomber built in secret for the Air Ministry, will soon be given its trial flight.

According to the Daily Express, the big plane is built entirely of steel, with the engines installed in a cabin completely armored against machine guns.

The engine room will be in charge of a mechanic, thus leaving the pilot free to operate the lifting and steering levers without regard to the engine details.

Now Sleeps the Night Through

James Scanlon got little sleep until he took Dreco that so regulated his system as to make bedtime a pleasure.

I was in a terribly run down condition" says Mr. James Scanlon, of 26 Cameron Ave., Windsor, Ont. "My appetite was very poor and I was very constipated. Strong laxatives gave me but little result and were always keeping me in a weakened condition. My liver was very sluggish and I often had pains in the back, due to very weak kidneys. Would often have pains around my heart, caused by gas forming after meals and would frequently take dizzy spells while at work. I was very restless at night and never slept more than three or four hours at night.

"But I am glad to let everyone know that since taking two bottles of Dreco I have certainly much improved. My appetite is better than ever and I am now able to eat things I was unable to touch before. My digestion is fine, pains around the heart all gone and my liver and kidneys are also in splendid condition. My bowels are also very regular. But the best of all is that for the first time in two years I am sleeping the night through without awakening. I am glad to speak of the great results I obtained from Dreco. It is the best preparation I have ever tried."

Why suffer longer from such symptoms as Mr. Scanlon describes, when Dreco offers so wonderful a measure of relief? This splendid corrective is made from roots, herbs, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. Dreco is a reliable tonic and regulator for run-down systems and gest the highest praise from everyone who tries it.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

SCENE OF DEMPSEY-GIBBONS GO NAMED FOR RAILROAD Builder

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 1, (Associated Press).—The town of Shelby, Montana, where the heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons is to be staged July4, is named after one of the pioneer transcontinental railroad builders of America, Peter Paul Shelby, father of Mrs. F. J. Schmoldt, Cleveland Heights.

Mr. Shelby was one of those actively engaged in the pioneer construction of the Union Pacific railroad. Upon the completion of that road he was made general traffic manager and remained with the Union Pacific for about 25 years. During that time he made a trip of 700 miles northward by sleigh to ascertain if it were worth while to build a branch line into Montana. As a result of his report, the branch was built.

Mr Shelby afterwards became vice-president of the Great Northern railroad under the late James J. Hill and aided in building that trunk line. It was while serving in that capacity that the town of Shelby, through which the Great Northern passes, was named for him.

An American bandit was caught in Mexico, showing it is safer to stay in your own country.

TALK RAILWAY FROM LONDON TO AUSTRALIA

Would Cut Trip From 50 Days to 13 and Open Up Vast Commerce Channel —Tunnel First Step.

By P. M. SARL

LONDON, June 1, (United Press).—From London to Australia by train in a fortnight is the ambitious project put forward by Lord Strathspey, prominent student of industrial and economic problems.

"Strathspey contends that there are no insuperable engineering or constructural difficulties about the building of a continuous land line through Europe, Asia Minor, Persia, India and the Malay Peninsular, with a short sea ferry route to northern Australia, thus making an almost straihgt line from London to Sydney.

What the Canadian Pacific Railway is to Canada and the Transiberian to Russia, could be duplicated by an "all land" route to Australia he says, and he quotes James J. Arnold, the eminent engineer, in support of his scheme.

Strathspey is a tyical representative of the British Empire, holding a Scottish peerage, a Nova Scotia baronetcy, and having been born in New Zealand. He raised and served with New Zealand contingents in the South African and European wars.

12,000 Miles Long

Pointing out that the principal difficulties about the construction of an London Australia line would be political rather than natural he says: "Of the 12,000 miles separating London from Sydney, only 720 are necessarily water, which could be crossed by train ferries thus obviating the necessity of changing carriages.

"By far the greater part of the route 10,000 miles would be perfectly level, leaving some 1,780 miles for gradings, junctions, etc., As regards the 720 miles of train ferry, the only serious ocean current to be crossed would be between the Isle of Turner and Queensland, but as the currents are tidal between the long belt of islands it might be necessary to build locks at the ports. All along the land route there is natural power in abundance, and no mechanical difficulties to daunt experienced engineers, so that the main difficulty would be obtaining concessions from the countries traversed."

Further, Lord Strathespey points out it is not a question of building 12,000 miles of railways for large sections of the route are already in existence—across Europe and India for instance. In any event such a vast artery of civilization would provide work for hundreds of thousands of unemployed for years to come. Minerals grain, meat, vegetables, chemicals and raw materials abound at every hundred miles of the route, thus aiding construction and providing a ready made traffic backwards and forwards.

Saving in Time

The saving of time from the point of view of passenger service would be immense. Instead of from 35 to 50 days as required at present, it could be done in 13 days—less than a fortnight instead of six weeks. At fifty miles an hour 11,800 miles would take ten days: say two days for the ferry to cover 720 miles at 15 miles an hour and add one day for stops and changes.

The cost though high, he contends would not be excessive, for it would be a constant revenue producing source at every stage. A channel tunnel would of course be the first section required linking England with the continent.

Terrible Headaches And Dizziness

Mrs. S. Raphael, 237 Kenilworth Ave. N., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I used to suffer from terrible headaches and dizziness. Last Summer, while I was walking up a side street, I got a dizzy spell and fell in the middle of the road. An old gentleman helped me to get to where I was going and tol dme to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way to keep well is to keep the liver active and performing its proper functions by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

American Boll Weevil Menaces Indian Cotton.

BOMBAY, June 1. (Associated Press)—The American boll weevil, introduced into India by the importation of American cotton, now threatens to become an active menace to growers of Indian cotton.

In past years the importation of American cotton has been as high as 1000,000 bales a year, although the normal amount was less than one-tenth of this. Fortunately there are practically no imports of American cotton at present, nor are any expected du ing the coming months. The tota, prohibition of the importation of American cotton is barred by the fact that in certain years Indian mills need thi cotton.

The Indian Central Cotton Committee members point out that once introduced the boll weevil will be as deadly in India as it has been in America. It has been ascertained that fumigation with hydrocyanic gas will kill the weevil, and that a simple and safe fumigation plant can be erected at no great cost. On the other hand, correspondence with commercial bodies including jthe Mill-owners Association and the Chamber of Commerce, have shown that, for the present at any rate, it is quite feasible to restrict the importation of cotton from the United States to a single Indian port, and thus simplify the fumigation arrangements.

POLICE HAVE NO MONEY FOR COAL

Property Committee Placed Order Only for City Hall Bins Last Night.

In placing its annual order for the City Hall's supply of coal, the Property Committee of the Council last night passed up the police station, whose needs will have to be provided for by the Police Commission. Information was said to have come from the Police Department that it had no money for coal.

"All right, we won't give them any," remarked Ald. Morrison, who seconded Ald. Fife's motion that sixty tons for the City Hall be bought, and that the Mayor, as a member of the Police Commission, be apprised of the committee's action.

The Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Company's bid of $15.75 a ton was accepted. Wm. Scott and Company, H. B. Taylor and Son and McCarthy and Johnston quoted $16, and the R. Hicks Company $15.60, which was rejected on the ground that the company's letter did not conform with the specifications requiring that the coal be weighed on the market scales. The committee understood that the Hicks Company's coal would be weighed on the C.N.R. scales at Lindsay.

The Sanitary Ice Company were given the order for the ice at the public drinking fountain at the City Hall.

THE LARGEST PASSENGER LOCOMOTIVE IN SERVICE

The largest passenger locomotive in Canada has just been completed for the Canadian National Railway designed specially for speed and economy of operation. This iron monster rolled out of the maker's yard in Kingston last night on its way to Montreal, where it will be on exhibition.

Engine 6000 is of the mountain type and according to its builders and the engineers of the Canadian National Railways it is the last word in engine construction, the finished product of modern thought in loco motive design. It is the first of sixteen to be built in Kingston for the national railways. Six are to be put into operation between Montreal and Toronto, and ten will be absorbed by the Atlantic division.

The size of the engine may be judged from the following figures: Length over all 90 feet, including the tender. The weight of the engine and tender is more than 290 tons. and it is capable of maintaining its schedule with the largest passenger train now in operation. The width of the engine is ten feet six inches, and its tractive power is 49,600 pounds. It is about 20 per cent. more powerful than the biggest engine at present in passenger service in Canada.

The tender will carry 17 tons of coal and 10,000 imperial gallons of water.

GEORGE MONGRAW WINS THE CANOE

Had Nearest to Correct Estimate in Crescen Clothes Shop Contest.

George W. Mongraw, 476 Bolivar Street, is the winner of the canoe in the estimating contest conducted by the Crescent Clothes Shop.

Estimates were made on the length of the cloth in a roll sealed at the factory. The seal was broken and the cloth measured on the stage of the Capitol Theatre last evening after the performance. The length of the cloth was found to be 28 yards and 2½ inches, and Mr. Mongraw's estimate was the closest to this figure, being 28 yards, one foot, 6 inches.

The cloth was measured with a measureograph, loaned by the J. C. Turnbull Company, the judges being R. M. Glover, managing director of the Examiner, and H. R. Hitchinson, manager of the Capitol Theatre. Because of the absence from the city of W. A. Richardson, manager of the Peterborough Canoe Company, who was to have been the third judge, two young men were called to the stage from the audience.

The management of the Crescent Clothes Shop wishes to thank all those who contributed to the success of the contest, especially the judges, Messrs. Glover, Richardson and Hitchinson, the J. C. Turnbull Company for the loan of a measureograph, and the A. Comstock Company for furniture.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

RE THE ATONEMENT.

To the Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—Jesus' own favorite title for Himself was "Son of Man," and, foreseeing His own sufferings unto death, He saw them as a moral means of winning the love and discipleship of others, and applied the same principle of moral success to Himself that He applied to others. For it was primarily with reference to His own death and its moral results that He said, "Verily I saw unto you, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone, but if it die it bearish much fruit."

I understand from this that He was assured of the success of His death as a means of winning or showing men, not on the ground that because He was God miraculous power would inhere in His death as a sacrifice, but rather because, as man and for men, He suffered and died, therefore His love and faithfulness manifested unto death would exercise such moral power over men that many would take up his own cross and would follow Him. That is, they would be saved in the only sense that really matters that in which salvation equals moral renewal. It seems we must choose between the two atonement theories briefly and simply stated above. Atonement is either a miracle of divine power without us in which we have no part. Or it is such an appeal to heart and will as can only come to a human being through humanity and so coming is potent enough to stir his will to victorious effort, his emotions to purity and strength. There is no more important question for each of us. Have we only to rest on a miracle? or have we to join in a moral relationship?

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

KING LAID CORNER OF BIG HOSPITAL

New Building Will Be One of Finest Equipped Hospitals in the World.

LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press.) — King George and Queen Mary, surrounded by British medical scientists in academic robes, yesterday laid the corner stones of the hospital buildings being added to the University College Hospital and London University groups, as a result of the £1,250,000 gift from the Rockefeller Foundation.

The improvements are expected to make the London hospitals among the finest equipped in the world, and allow the inauguration of an important experiment in the "unit" system of medical education, whereby the different wards are assigned to directors who are not allowed to have private practices.

Stormy Weather Has Hampered Salvage Work.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 1. — (Canadian Press.)—The stormy weather of the past few days has hampered salvage operations on the Canadian Pacif. Liner Marvale, which sank near St. Shotts, on the south coast of Newfoundland, May 21, after striking Cape Freels Rock. Reports yesterday said the wreck was breaking up and that much of the cargo had been carried out to sea. The Marvale lies in seven fathoms, about a mile from St. Shotts beach.

Divers from the salvage steamer Strathcona, of Quebec, were down in the Marvale's saloon and purser's quarters Wednesday, looking for safes containing money and jewelry, and other valuable property of passengers. They recovered a part of the treasure. Divers from the steamer Cabot, of St. John's, worked to salvage mail and baggage.

The boats of the Marvale which were left at St. Shotts because they were too heavy for the small rescue steamers to handle, were destroyed yesterday by heavy waves breaking on the beach.

Britain Keeping Up With Aerial Jones.

LONDON, June 1. Canadian Press —Air Minister Hoare announced that Britain has perfected a helicopter, which can successfully leave the ground. Experiments have been conducted in the greatest secrecy, and the announcement follows the statement that the French army has developed the Pescara helicopter.

The advantage of the machine is that it can rise vertically from the ground, hovering over one fixed spot and can thus direct artillery fire.

FIREMEN HAVE HAD A GOOD MANY RUNS

A small fire at the Maple Leaf Hotel in East City at 2 p.m. yesterday caused by a spark from the incinerator at Otonabee Mills brought the total alarms received at the Fire Hall in the first five months of this year up to 248.

This is only two less than the total calls received during all of last year. The damage in yesterday's fire was $10.

Big Dumps Munitions Are Found in Ireland.

DUBLIN, June 1.— Big Dump of rifles, machine guns and ammunition are being discovered throughout Ireland by Free State forces.

The discoveries are accepted as proof that the insurgents are following Eamonn De Valera's recent order and abandoning warfare. De Valera issued the order because "it seems apparently useless to carry on the conflict," against the government

THE SCHOOLHOUSE IS FOLLOWING FLAG

WASHINGTON, June 1 (United Press).—The little red schoolhouse is following the flag in Alaska, and Eskimos and natives of the great north country in increasing numbers are being Americanized, The Interior department has just announced that the public schools in Alaska have been increased from 67 to 75, and the number of teachers' from 133 to 144.

All the schools are the "centers" of small villages. The teachers act not only as instructors, but as guides and mentors to the villages, nurses, financial advisers and community builders generally. These schools are maintained separately from those conducted for white children in Alaska.

GOLDEN RULE IN EVERY-DAY LIFE.

Such is the Object of the Fourteenth Convention of Rotary International.

SAINT LOUIS, June 1.—Putting the golden rule to work in business and professional every-day life is the way Rotarians from every section of the world state the object of Rotary International, the fourteenth convention of which brings ten thousand of the leading business men of 1,400 cities and 26 countries to Saint Louis the week of June 18 to 23.

The sole business of Rotary is to make the principle of service to the community as well as to the individual the object of all Rotarians. For this purpose each Rotarian has subscribed to what is known as the Rotary Code of Ethics and is striving to put this code into effect in his own business and to bring about the adoption of similar codes in all business associations.

The Rotarian states that his Code of Ethics provides:

"First: To consider my vocation worthy, and as affording me distinct opportunity to serve society.

"Second: To improve myself, increase my efficiency and enlarge my service, and by so doing attest my faith in the fundamental principle of Rotary that he profits most who serves best.

"Third: To realize that I am a business man and ambitious to succeed; but that I am first an ethical man, and wish no success that is not founded on the highest justice and morality.

"Fourth: To hold that the exchange of my goods, my service and my ideas for profit is legitimate and ethical, provided that all parties in the exchange are benefited thereby.

"Fifth: To use my best endeavors to elevate the standards of the vocation in which I am engaged, and so to conduct my affairs that others in my vocation may find it wise, profitable and conducive to happiness to emulate my example.

"Sixth: To conduct my business in such a manner that I may give a perfect service equal to or even better than my competitor, and when in doubt to give added service beyond the strict measure of debt or obligation.

"Seventh: To understand that one of the greatest assets of a professional or of a business man is his friends and that any advantage gained by reason of friendship is eminently ethical and proper.

"Eighth: To hold that true friends demand nothing of one another and that any abuse of the confidence of friendship for profit is foreign to the spirit of Gtary, and in violation of its Code of Ethics.

"Ninth: To consider no personal success legitimate or ethical which is secured by taking unfair advantage of certain opportunities in the social order that are absolutely denied others, nor will I take advantage of opportunities to achieve material success that others will not take because of the questionable morality involved.

"Tenth: To be not more obligated to a Brother Rotarian than I am to every other man in human society; because the genius of Rotary is not in its competition but in its co-operation, for provincialism can never have a place in an institution like Rotary, and Rotarians assert that Human Rights are not confined to Rotary Clubs but are as deep and as broad as the race itself; and for these high purposes does Rotary exist to educate all men and all institutions.

"Eleventh: Finally, believing in the universality of the Golden Rule, 'All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them,' we contend that Society best holds together when equal opportunity is accorded all men in the natural resources of this planet."

HONEST ENJOYMENT

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.—The test of a screen comedy, you might think, is the number of laughs it produces.

The kind of laughs, says Tom McNamara, is a far better gauge because paradoxically, theatre audiences often guffaw without being really amused. And until producer and exhibitor grasp the difference between quality and quantity in laughter, the shorter film funnies generally, he says, will remain insipid filler in the movie menu, tolerated but not relished.

McNamara directs the two-reel "Our Gang" child comedies for Hal Roach. Veteran humorist in story, newspaper comics and on the vaudevills stage, he is working out in screen tabloids the theory and craftsmanship evolved from 15 years fun-making experience.

* * *

"There's more to humor than merely shaking a fellow's ribs with a spasm," he explained between shots on the lot. "A chuckle indicates honest inner enjoyment, but a loud cackle often is simply a gesture to show your fellows what a fine 'sense of humor' you have. It may mean little or nothing as an emotional index. This is the duty laugh that always hales a story or play labeled "funny."

"The laugher himself feels uncomfortable after such a chortle from the neck up, promptly forgets what it was all about and develops no appetite for more. It hasn't struck deep enough.

"The gag, that fetish of the film comedian, really explodes an audience only when the fuse is fired on the heart. Otherwise it's a dud or a fizzer. Study the best things Chaplin and Lloyd have done, for example, and the many imitations thathave fallen flat because the gags were not planted in heart interest.

"When two-reel comedies are as well grounded emotionally as the best of the multiple-reel specials, they will begin to develope their full financial an entertainment capacity.

"The first step, as I have tried to do in 'The Cobbler,' 'Boys to Board' and other pictures now in the making, is to provide a framework of real fundamental human interest, upon which gags are logically based. My formula contains pathos as well as fun. It's hard to do, but can be effectively done in two reels."

McNamara learned to "keep it short and make it snappy" in police reporting in Denver and comic-stripping in New York. He believed then and believes now that the establishment of interest and sympathy in a comic character is more important than forcing a half-hearted laugh in every inch of type or yard of film.

* * *

The gang of kids he directs includes Mickey Daniels, Ernie Morrison, "Sonny Boy" Hoskins, Jackie Condon, Jack Davis and Mary Comman, each developed according to outstanding characteristic.

"Kids," says Tom, and he fairly loves 'em all, "have no sense of humor. Everything they do is serious, even playing jokes on their fellows. Thats what makes them funny to elders—funny with a mingling of tears and chuckles. When a kid knows he's funny he becomes a smart-aleck, and from smart-alecks I hope to deliver long suffering audiences. My kids must act naturally and do the things children would naturally do.

"I'd just as soon make folks cry as make 'em laugh, just so I make them feel deeply."

A DIET SUGGESTION

By BERNARR MACFADDEN

An orange or grapefruit should be taken, preferable ten or fifteen minutes before breakfast, followed by a glass of cold or hot water, as desired. Your appetite should guide you as to breakfast. If you have no appetite be satisfied with the grape-fruit or orange.

Breakfast (for those desiring a light meal).—Choice of cereal: Whole corn meal, hominy, shredded wheat,grapenuts or cornflakes. Eggs any style, or fish. Whole wheat bread, or toast and butter. Cocoa or cereal coffee.

Dinner (The noon meal should be light if you expect to eat dinner at night.) I usually perfer a hearty meal at noon. If you eat little or no breakfast, a hearty meal can be eaten at this time without the feeling of sluggishness that often follows a heavy meal. The lunch suggested is sufficient for a meal of this character. If a light meal is desired, leave out the soup, meat, or dessert.

Soup: Creamed soup from peas, beans potatoes or tomatoes. Entrees: Broiled Hamburger steak or beef cooked in any way desired, or eggs. Choice of baked potatoes, beans, peas. Choice of spinach, lettuce or other greens or salads. Dessert: Whole wheat shortcake or sponge cake covered with whipped cream, or toasted shredded wheat with honey and whipped cream.

Supper (This meal should preferably be light if one has eaten a hearty meal at noon.) I rarely eat anything except fruit and nuts, or something very light at this time of the day, my hearty meal being taken at noon. In fact my usual habit is one hearty meal a day, though occasionally I will miss my noonday meal and est in the evening. The menu here suggested is sufficient for a hearty meal, and if you wish a light meal you can simply make selections therefrom.

Soup: Creamed carrot, onion or celery soup. Entrees: Baked eggs, served with creamed mushrooms, or meat if desired. Macaroni and cheese. Choice of yellow turnips, sweet potatoes, or lima beans. Tomatoes and lettuce, kale, or other salads or greens. Dessert: Whole corn meal pudding, cooked without sweetening, served with honey and whipped cream.

I am not a strict vegetarian as many people imagine. I eat meat at frequent intervals. My favorite meat is broiled Hamburger steak, ground from the top of "round" steak. I rarely eat pork in any form. I never eat veal, lamb or any immature meats.

I never eat without an appetite. If I'm not hungry I fast (sometimes for several days), until I can enjoy my food. This is a rule that must be adhered to if health surpreme is desired.

PRESENTS THE ANNUAL REPORT

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1. (The Asociated Press)—Dr. John A. Marquis of New York, general secretary, today presented the annual report of the Presbyterian Board of Home missions to the Presbyterian General Assembly. It covers 121 years of christian enterprize, during which time the Presbyterian home board's concern has been for the isolated, the poor, the alien, and all handicapped and underprivileged people. The keynote has been there must be no one beyond the hearing of the Gospel.

The aim of the board has been and is nothing short of the christianization of America, the report declares. Its service has been to the American Indian, to the retarded mountain areas, to the mem in the north woods, to the Eskimo above the Arctic Circle, to the Spanish-speaking people in the southwest and in the West Indies, to the aliens in cities and industrial centers. Home mission forces today are a factor in the maintenance of more than one-third of all the Presbyterians churches and in the support of one-fourth of all Presbyterian ministers, while in nearly every synod the home missi-n organization carries the main burden of every forward movement.

At the present time Presbyterian home mission work is conducted within the bounds of 45 states, two territories and two contiguous independent nations. The number of commissioned missionaries now exceeds 3,400, and the annual expenditures are in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. The board of home missions and various self-supporting synods have expended in their history an amount probably in excess of $60,000,000 and have issued over 120,000 commissions to missionaries.

In conclusion the report says: "The educational work of the home board is based on these principles: America is not a place but a set of ideals about God, life, liberty, happiness; a set of ideals which the Presbyterian Church did much to instill into the early life of this nation. These ideals are fighting hard to survive, and are in danger of being supplanted by lower and less Christian ideals. We must not only plant churches but mak them effective spiritual leaders. Tremendous challenges are presented to the church by millions of people who have not had an equal chance. The more than 1600 presbyterian home missionaries are engaged in the biggest job in America, are working in the most difficult places, and are in need of the moral and financial support of the whole church.

PETERBORO CHOIR FEMALE VOICES WAS APPRECIATED

Concert Given in Memorial Hall Warmly Extolled as Musical Event Worth While.

LAKEFIELD, June 1.—The concert given in the Memorial Hall on Thursday night under the auspices of the Female Voice Choir of Peterborough was particularly enjoyable, and it is a matter of regret that a larger number did not have the pleasure of hearing them. The numbers were all well rendered and well received. A number of old favorites, which never lose their charm, were rendered and were very much appreciated, as well as the new songs. Among the numbers specially popular were noticeably Mrs. Singleton's solo, "Mignonette" and chorus by the choir, and Mrs. Rathbone's solo, "Maggie," with its encore. The selections by Misses L. Bugg and J. Scholey were very popular and the dear little tots responded very sweetly to recalls. "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" with solo and chorus was one of the specially popular numbers.

The Programme.

Chorus, "John Brown's Baby" —Choir.
Solo, "Old Rustic Bridge"— Mrs. Scholey.
Chorus, "Swanee River"—Choir.
Solo, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms"— Miss Allen.
Selection — Baby L. Bugg and Baby J. Scholey.
Scotch selection—Mr. McKinley.
Solo—Miss F. Harrison.
Solo, "Mignonette"—Mrs. Singleton.
Piano solo—Master H. McFarlane.
Varmer Giles —Mesdames Nickel and Dime.
Solo, "Maggie"—Mrs. Rathbone.
Selection—Miss I. Black, pupil of Mr. G. H. King.
Campdown Races—Mrs. Singleton.
Solo, "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs"—Mrs. Scholey.
"Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" —Mrs. Singleton.
"In the Evening by the Moonlight"—Choir.
God Save the King.
Chairman—Mr. Percy Webb.
Conductor—Mrs. R. Bugg.
Pianist—Mr. Nicholls.

Master Harold McFarlane is a pupil of Miss Olive Johnston, and is a very gifted little boy.

The Female Voice Choir is composed of members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A., and the proceeds of their concerts is given to relief work of that society, and is under the capable direction of Mrs. R. Bugg. It is to be hoped that this entertainment can be given again in the autumn, as undoubtedly it was well worth a full house and was decidedly the best concert given by outside talent in many years.

SAFETY ON THE STREET

One of the most distressing sights that meet the human eye is to see a child run down by a street car, an automobile, or by a truck or wagon on our public streets. The injury is not always fatal, of course, but very often it results in the loss of a leg arm or in some physical disfigurement the child must bear through all its life. The grief of the parents is heart breaking, and is shared by friends and neighbors. Every one loves children and very one suffers when a child meets an injury. What is the answer? How may we prevent street accidents? As citizens, we must do all that we can to assist in the enforcement of laws governing traffic, and, as parents, we must see that our children are taught habits of safety. One careful parent will do much to encourage an entire neighborhood to observe the a, b, c's of Safty First.

What shall we say when the injured person is a man or woman? The injury may be equally serious and is always shocking and distressing but we have less patience than in the case of a child. To prevent these accidents we must rely on the enforcement of traffic rules and we must see to it that not only do we obey them ourselves, but that we encourage others to acquire the Saftety habit. Here is a standard rule: "Look to the left when you start across a street; when you reach the center, look to the right; when you are in a critical position use your common sense and do not lose control of yourself". If the danger is from an auto, stand still and do not confuse the driver by dodging. Never pass behind a street car, auto or wagon without looking to see whether another car or auto or wagon without looking to see whether another car or auto is approaching from the other direction. "Keep your head," is a mighty good rule.

There are many unnecessary street accidents. Some of them are caused by slipping and tripping; being struck by projecting ladders, poles, etc., from wagons as they turn corners; material or articles dropping from above. You can easily picture a an injury to yourself or to a member of your family or friend. Most accidents are preventable, if we will use the brains that were given to us, and think safely.

MERCANTILES TO PLAY AT THE OVAL THIS EVENING

The first Mercantile League baseball game to be played at the Oval is slated for this afternoon at 5.30, when the C.P.C. and Westclox teams will clash. The game will start sharp on time in order to allow of the full nine innings being played if possible. This hour is the time set aside in the Oval schedule for the Lock Works to practice, and it is owing to the courtesy of the management of that team that the game is to be played.

TRUCK RAN OVER MILLBROOK CHILD

Was Driven by Mr. McIntyre of Peterborough—Injuries Not Serious.

MILLBROOK, June 1. — About ten o'clock this morning a truck driven by Mr. McIntyre, of the firm of McIntyre Brothers, of Peterborough, who have the contract for the new school here, while engaged in bringing in a load of gravel, accidentally inflicted minor injuries on little "Pat" (Patricia) Richards, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards.

The child, with her small brother, was playing on the road, near a party of workmen who were digging a drain in front of her home on Main Street.

Mr. McIntyre tooted the horn of his machine when nearing the children, and the little girl ran in towards the sidewalk. She fell suddenly, and the truck passed over both feet, injuring her ankles slightly.

Mr. McIntyre, who had applied the brakes, was able to bring the truck to an immediate stop.

The little boy, who had not moved, was unhurt.

STORES OPEN LATER THAN IN OLDEN DAYS

Because George street stores do not open as early as they used to when the old by-law was passed prohibiting merchants from flushing the sidewalks after 8 a.m., Ald Maher suggested to the Board of Works last night that the by-law be amended extending the time spent spent until 9 o'clock. His motion, seconded by Ald. Crowe, carried.

RECIPROCITY IDEA IS OPPOSED IN THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (Canadian Press). — Senator Capper, of Kansas, head of the farm bloc in the United States Senate, opposes Canadian Reciprocity, in discussing the subject in his publication, Capper's Weekly.

He says: "Canada wants Free-trade on farm products and live stock. Canada advocates tariff reciprocity between the United States and the Dominion. If other argument favouring the farmers' tariff enacted by last Congress were lacking, this should afford it.

"The failure of foreign markets to absorb American surplus agricultural products now causes a sag in the price of these products. It would be folly to bear these prices still more by opening our own market for farm products to Canadian products which suffer from the same lack of foreign markets.

Oldest national bank in the U.S. burned, but being in practice they saved all the money.

THEATRES

Capitol Entertainment

"The Card," the picturization of Arnold Bennett's famous novel, is the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end. The title itself expresses the popular meaning of the word in certain sections of England, as applied to a person who is extraodinarily sharp in business practice. The career of the young hero of Mr. Bennett's novel which afforded so much pleasure to his readers, is well done on the "movie" screen. The poor lad who is undaunted by misfortune or poverty and who starts out in life firmly resolved to attain his objective, never forgets his mother, who shares in the gifts which his various successful tilts with fortune bring him.

The whole picture might be termed a triumph of the qualities of optimism, or nerve or gall, as its audiences might severally view it. By reason of his quick wit and habit of seizing opportunity by the forelock the young man gets through many a tight squeeze and sails to a final successful finish, just as he had planned to land, as the Mayor of Bursley, in the house that he had always wanted, with the haughty Councillor's daughter as his bride.

There is something novel about the situations in this picture, essentially an affair of business and sharp practice. The young fellow takes peculiar ways to procure his success, but he achieves everything he goes after and he makes an entertaining hero. He struggles with the dress suit that he gets by way of an invitation to a fashionable ball, his dancing lessons procured by the same method, the nerve which makes him to dance with the titled visitor, the pugilist friend who procures his political advancement, all make for a triump of quick wit and ingenuity.

Petes Open Home Season Tomorrow--Maple Leafs Won Game

MAPLE LEAFS WON VERY CLOSE GAME

The Juvenile Champions Defeated Sacred Heart Team at King Edward Park.

The Maple Leafs dropped Vince O'Connel's Sacred Heart crew down to a 4 to 2 defeat on the King Edward school grounds in a smooth ball game. The game was close all the way through.

"Chuck" Bradley did the pitching for the Leafs. He had seven strike-outs and allowed three hits and issued two walks. Jack McDonough was the Sacred Heart teams choice. He smoked them in but developed wild streaks and issued nine complimentaries. The Leafs collected four hits off his delivery.

Ab Delahaye of the Leafs and "Casey" Masterson for the Sacred Heart each polled out three baggers. Delahaye's long clout sent in Johnston for the Leafs first counter. Thirnbeck pulled off one of the high spots in the game when he grabbed off a hot one after a long run.

Excitement ran high in the last innings when with two out McDonough was walked. He was caught stealing second, but was called back to first because a ball rolled on the diamond. Jones the next man up, clouted out a clean single. The next man also walked filling the bases. Jimmy Roddy the next batter is a strong hitter and things looked rosy to the Sacred Heart cohorts. However, Bradley wizzed them in fast and struck him out.

The lineups were:

Maple Leafs—Bradley p Hall cf; Miller, 3b; Franks, 2b; Thirnbeck, ss; Johnston, 1b; Delahaye, c; Bannon, lf; Grant, rf.

Sacred Heart—F. Jones, rf; Milloy, 3b; Roddy, ss; Rished, c; Sirchy, 2b; Collins, 1b; J. Jones, lf; Masterson, cf; McDonough, p.

Score by innings:

Maple Leafs	0210001—4
Sacred Heart	0011000—2

Mitchell Retains Welterweight Belt.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 1 (Canadian Press). — Pinky Mitchell, Milwaukee boxer, still retains the junior welterweight championship belt despite the outcome of the contest with Benny Leonard in Chicago on Tuesday night, according to Judge A. J. Hedding, chairman of the Commission in charge of the junior welterweight emblem.

The Commission has ruled, Judge Hedding stated, that inasmuch as the legality of holding the contest in Illinois was in question and further that Leonard, having refused to weight in preceding the contest, compels the Commission to make its ruling definite.

Pinky Mitchell is anxious for a return match with the lightweight champion, either as a lightweight or in the junior welterweight class.

PACKERS FELL TO ATTACK OF SCOTS

Senior League Game Resulted in a Victory For the Thistles By Score of 2 to 1.

The Thistles defeated the Packers by a score of 2 to 1 in a senior league game played at King Edward Park last evening. The Packers went on the field short handed and when hostilities commenced had but ten men playing.

J. Shaw was soon in evidence with a nice pass to Hotson whose final effort went wide. Good work by Hoggarth gave Richmond an opening but he shot high over the bar. He nearly made amends shortly after with a great shot which Curtis saved splendidly. Anderson who was playing forward beat Curtis and scored the only goal of the first half.

On resuming play the Packers had much the best of it. They brought pressure to bear on the Thistles' defence. They forced a corner which brought nothing. Coming again Hasson brought Stott to his knees with a glassy cutter. The citadel fell at last to a high shot from the foot of H. Hotson. With the game evened up it became more exciting and fouls were very frequent. Ralston gave a corner from the foul kick which was taken by Mann. Ted Hotson placed well but Ralston came to the rescue. Richmond was well placed and fastening on the leather beat Curtis with a grounder. The Packers with but few moment left tried their best to score but time was called with the count in favor of the Thistles by 2 to 1.

The teams were:

C.P.C.—Goal, Curtis; backs, Wag Hoston and H. Mann; halves, H. Hotston, J. Shaw and Underwood; forwards, Downer, Hanson, Lazenby, Fenton and Ted Hotson.

Thistles—Goal, Stott; backs, Ralston and Rae; halves, McMillan, Hoggarth and Jackson; forwards, Burgess, Anderson, Richmond and Shawn.

Referee—J. Russell.

VALUABLE HORSES DESTROYED BY FIRE

Eight Thoroughbreds Burned to Death in Fire Which Razed Barns of Ohio State Jockey Club.

CLEVELAND, O., June 1 (Canadian Press). — Eight thoroughbred race horses and a pony were burned to death in a fire which destroyed five barns at the Ohio State Jockey Club's track at Maple Heights, near Bedford, Ohio, late yesterday.

Nearly 150 racers were trapped in the barns, and that not more were lost was due to the heroism of the scores of race-goers and attendants who cut the animals loose and let them run at large.

Several were so badly burned they may have to be destroyed.

Those killed were well known to followers of the running race horse. They were Susiana, a three-year-old, winner of two events at the present meeting; Huron II. (7), and Shortstop (8), owned by J. A. Parsons, of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Long Island (4); Portlight (10), Mambi (5), and The Uister (3) in the stables of A. S. Eastman of Toledo.

All have been winners on various tracks of America. The eighth horse was unidentified.

Portlight lost his life when, after being cut loose, he ran back into the flames.

Starting in one of the barns when an oil stove is said to have exploded, the fire, fed by hay and straw, spread quickly to the adjoining buildings, and in a few minutes the entire back stretch was a mass of flames.

The horses were just entering the home stretch in the fifth event when the fire was discovered, but a majority of the fans did not wait for the finish, and headed for the barns, a quarter of a mile from the grandstands.

The loss to the stables was placed at $12,500 by General Manager F. N. Holman.

The loss on the animals could not be learned, but it may run as high as $100,000.

The sixth and seventh races were delayed, but were run off. The sixth was won by Blazonry, one of the animals rescued.

EVERYTHING IS SET FOR LEAGUE OPENER

Kingston Ponies Will Meet the Petes at Riverside Park To-Morrow in First Home Tilt.

GROUNDS GOOD.

The stage is all set for the local opening of the Central Ontario League season at Riverside Park tomorrow. The grounds have recovered from the results of the flooding in remarkably quick time and they will be in the best of shape when the teams get under way tomorrow.

The Kingston Ponies, led by well known Toronto athlete, Harry Batstone are the attraction tomorrow and the game has an added interest not only from the fact that it represents the first appearance of a Kingston ball team here in many years but also because the Batstone aggregation succeeded in winning an eyelash decision over the Petes on Wednesday and Manager Solomon's crew are hot after revenge tomorrow.

Kingston may use Gallagher their left-handed flinger tomorrow or start the game with Moore the Queen's University boy who finished Wednesday's game in good style after the first ball he pitched had been slammed for a homer driving in three runs. Heckman who is keen to show the Kingston crew that they were lucky on Wednesday will be Manager Solomon's choice. Three of the Kingston team were seen in action here last year with Oshawa, Gallagher, Evans and Twigg, while Batstone has been at Riverside Park with the Hillcrests The rest of the crew will be new to the Peterboro fans.

The crowd is likely to reach record-breaking proportions. Not only will there be a huge turnout of local fans but enthusiasts from all over the district will be here for the battle.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp and the opening ceremonies will be brief and snappy.

Manager Solomon has not yet announced his lineup but expects his whole squad out sharp at 2 o'clock.

BIG PREMIUM ON FISTS OVER BRAINS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 1.—(United Press)—Pondering over the premium that modern times are putting on brawny fists, a New England scientist recently committed suicide. He couldn't see the justice of conditions which gave two big heavyweights more money for fighting thirty-three minutes than he had been able to earn in a lifetime.

Perhaps his protest against the workings of fate was a bit more drastic and futile. He was a master in a profession that has no appeal to the mob. That appeal to the mob means money. There is no kick in watching the skilled hands of a scientist in the labratory and there is a kick for the mob in watching two giants battle each other about the ring.

Bankers, as well as scientists and educators, can ponder over the rise of pugilism to the world's most paying profession.

Jack Dempsey, at an age when an aspiring young banker is hardly off a high stool, has a fortune. He has made so much out of nothing that he has been able to buy large gobs of valuable real estate and a coal mine.

Before the end of the year, Dempsey probably will be able to buy another coal mine.

The heavyweight champion has before him close to one and a half million dollars, and all he has to do is take the money and the few risks that the taking perhaps involves.

Dempsey will get no less than $300,000 for fighting Tommy Gibbons in Shelby, Montana, on July 4.

If the bout is a tremendous financial success, Dempsey will get more. His manager, Jack Kearns, saw to it when the contract was drawn that the promoters would not make the money that Tex Rickard made off the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

The champion will get an extra cut on every dollar that the promoters get over a certain sum—if they get it.

After the Gibbons bout, if he wins, Dempsey will fight Harry Wills some time around Labor Day in the vicinity of New York.

It will be more than a million dollar fight, and Dempsey ought to get a half million or more, as his manager is said to be interested in the promotion of the bout, if he is not actually arranging to put it on.

Dempsey then, if he wins, will go to South America to fight Luis Firpo, and for the "risks" that he will be forced to assume in defending his title among the home folks of a foreigner, the champion will get at least another $500,000.

That—"if he wins"—factor is a very important factor in the future earnings of the champion, but the odds favor him.

He ought to win from Gibbons and Wills, and if he gets them he doesn't have to care how the fight results with Firpo, because, after he has engaged in these three tremendous bouts, his title will cease to be a big revenue for him as he will then be without opponents.

Luck (in a business way) has always been with Dempsey. After he had removed Carpentier as an opponent it seemed that the champion would be forced into retirement through the lack of competition.

He had nothing in prospect but return engagements with Willard and Carpentier and a set-up attraction with Joe Beckett. His astute manager tried to steam up some business out of that assortment and failed.

Harry Wills was around, of course, but there were many things a year ago that made the prospect of a mixed bout for the title hopeless.

Then, all of a sudden, the whole situation turned upside down and the champion found himself in the way of more business in one year than any of his predecessors had enjoyed in a whole career. While luck may have been a big factor in getting his opportunities for him, it required more than luck for Dempsey to cash in on them and make good.

Ring luck is a fickle old bird. It seldom stays parked in one place. Johnny Wilson had a stroke when he won the middleweight championship and it immediately left him. Wilson is one of the most unfortunate young men that ever held the title.

PORK MOST POPULAR OF MEATS IN AMERICA

WASHINGTON, June 1, (Associated Press).—Pork and lard are two of the largest items in the food supply of the American people. The average annual per capita consumption for the last five years was 67.3 pounds of pork and 12.5 pounds of lard, as compared with 60.9 pounds of beef. In several recent years the consumption of pork alone has exceeded that of all other meats combined.

A study of the hog production industry included in the 1922 yearbook of the Department of Agriculture shows that among the farm animals, hogs are exceeded in numbers only by cattle, and in value only by cattle and horses. They are produced on three-fourths of the farms of the country and represent over ten percent of the value of the nation's agricultureal production.

Nearly two-thirds of the commercial production of pork is in the corn belt. The amount of corn marketed in the form of hogs varies annually from 30 to 40 percent of the entire crop. Pork exports represent about 20 percent of the country's agricultural exports, and have held a higher place in foreign trade ever since colonial days. In 1790, the first year for which data are available, there was exported approximately 6,000,000 pounds of pork and pork products.

Only 3.5 percent of the hogs on American farms are registered pure bred, and about three-fourths of the total are raised for the market.

Cholera is still the most important disease among hogs and takes the highest toll. In 1922 more than 2,7000,000 hogs died of the disease, causing a financial loss of approximately $28,000,000.

SAY BID FOR SHIPS A 'SUMMER DREAM'

No Prospect that Slack Would Ever Execute Billion Dollar Order.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (Canadian Press). — A thorough investigation has convinced the Shipping Board, Chairman Lasker announced to-day, that there is no prospect that the bid of more than a billion dollars made by John W. Slack, of Silver Creek, N.Y., for the Board's merchant fleet, would ever be executed if it were accepted.

An inquiry on the subject was conducted by the Shipping Board, in conjunction with the other Government Departments with which Mr. Slack has had business transactions, with the result, Mr. Lasker said, that the offer had been definitely classed as a "summer dream."

CHARGE PETES WITH CRABBING

Kingston's Comment on Wednesday's Game is Amusing.

The Kingston Whig: In a game marked by many tense moments, Kingston won from Peterborough Wednesday after an exciting finish by a score of 10-9 in the tenth inning, Harry Batstone scoring the winning run after Somerville had laid down a grounder to first which was juggled up. The game was one of the most exciting and gripping seen in Kingston in many a long day and there were arguments galore, Jake Solomon and Heckman stopping the game many times by running out to Umpire Butler at the plate. How they ever get away with the things they were doing was beyond the fans. It would not have taken very much at one stage of the game to start a little rumpus when Heckman almost challenged Johnny Evans, but the latter remained cool and composed and averted the impending battle though at the same time he stood his ground and did no backing away.

Jake Solomon failed to show any great managerial ability and appeared more in the role of an entertainer or some other such thing. He was continually grousing about something and then Heckman took a hand in it, but was waved to the bench by Umpire Butler. Umpire Butler was given plenty of "razzing" Wednesday by fans for allowing the game to be interfered with the way Manager Solomon and his Petes were doing. He showed a lack of firmness and should have ordered them to the bench.

Harry Batstone and Teddy Gallagher, Kingston, each gathered a homer and Wolfe of Peterborough, also got one. Wolfe's homer in the ninth tied up the score, he scoring Heckman and Helson ahead of him. There was great excitement at this stage of the game and the local fans were in a state of high fever for the next few minutes until things righted themselves. Batstone scored Daley ahead of him when he made his home run in the second inning and Gallagher scored Somerville ahead of him when he made his in the sixth.

Heckman made himself very unpopular here by his continual kicking and it's a safe bet that he'd never be presented with any canoe here. He pitched good ball, though, and he had eleven strikeouts to his credit. He allowed eight hits.

To the Fans of Peterboro:

Gratefully acknowledging the loyal support accorded us in past season, the Peterborough Baseball Club invite you to see the opening of the Central Ontario League season at Riverside Park tomorrow with Cobourg as the visiting attraction. CATCHER FOR PETES.

Max. Swanston.

"Swanny" needs but little introduction to the local baseball world for he has officiated on the receiving end of the Peterborough battery for several seasons. His ability to fill one of the most exacting positions on the team is known throughout the entire Central League circuit for he is considered one of the best backstops in this loop.

In addition to his good work behind the bat he has been a willow wielder of consistent strength and has a marked proclivity for "hitting them where they ain't." His three two-baggers in the exhibition game with Lindsay were good examples of how he likes to hammer the pill.

STAR MOUNDSMAN.

Al. Heckman.

"Al" joined the pitching staff of the Peterborough Central Leaguers over a year ago, and in that time has established himself firmly in the position of the best hurler the Petes have boasted some time. He had the unique experience last season of never losing a home game and when it is considered that he officiated in every Central League game played at Riverside Park last year the feat stands out as a record that will hold for some time. He has officiated in both the exhibition games played here this season and has shown his old-time form on both occasions.

Phone Service for the Big Ball Games

In order that the patrons of The Examiner may have the best possible service in hearing the results of the local baseball games a telephone has been installed in the press booth at Riverside Park. Connections have been made directly to The Examiner office so that the results will be phoned in immediately, the game being covered play by play. This is a private wire and will not be available to the general public but all information regarding the games will be furnished from The Examiner office as soon as word is received from the park. This will give the local fans a much faster service than has hitherto been possible.

As this is a private wire, with the connection made only between The Examiner office and the park, it will not be possible to call the park from an outside station or through central.

GOOD ATHLETE.

Ernie Legon.

Few of the local fans were surprised to see "Red" in the uniform of the senior team this season. He played a good game with the C. G. E., intermediate O. B. A. A. champions last season, and showed himself well able to step out in senior company. "Red's" athletic activities do not stop at baseball for he has been one of the mainstays of both rugby and hockey circles.

LAWN BOWLING

FIGHTERS NEARLY PHYSICALLY EQUAL

The Height and Weight of Dempsey and Gibbons Almost the Same—Both Reach 74 Inches.

SHELBY, Mont., June 1 (Special to The Examiner). — Comparing Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons there are advantage points for each.

When they step in the ring on 4th July here, they will look like twins in height and weight.

Dempsey has more weight in his shoulders than Gibbons.

The contender's poundage is more evenly distributed.

In height the champion has a slight margin. He is 6 feet 1 inch and Gibbons is 6 feet and ¾ inches tall.

Dempsey weighs 188 pounds, Gibbons 185 pounds, in fighting condition.

As to their necks, Gibbons wears a 17 collar, Dempsey a 16½ inch one.

Dempsey's chest is the biggest. His breathing box is 42 inches normal and 45 expanded. The Gibbons chest is 40 normal and 44 expanded.

Gibbons has a 34-inch waist, and Dempsey's is 33 inches

Dempsey's arms are bgger. His biceps are 18¾ inches, his forearm 14¼ inches, and his wrist 9.

The biceps of Gibbons are 14¾ inches, his forearm 13, and his wrist 9 inches.

Through the thigh Dempsey is an inch thicker. He tapes 23 inches. The Gibbons thigh is 22 inches.

They measure the same at the calf, 15¼ inches.

Each has a 9-inch ankle.

Their reaches are practically the same, 74 inches.

Now for their records:

Gibbons was born at St. Paul, Minn., on 22nd March, 1891. He is 32 now

Dempsey was born at Manassa, Colo., on 24th June, 1895. He will be 28 soon.

Gibbons has been boxing since 1913. Dempsey started boxing in 1915.

In the number of ring battles, Gibbons leads. He has had 88 fights Dempsey has fought 60 times.

Gibbons has never been knocked out; has never been knocked down.

Dempsey has been knocked out once, by Jim Flynn in one round, and has been off his feet perhaps a dozen times.

Gibbons has lost but one decision in his life—that to Harry Greb. His loss to Billy Miske on a foul does not count against him. Most of the newspaper men and Chairman William Muldoon of the New York Boxing Commission, gave the fight to Gibbons on a knockout to the stomach.

Their knockout records run a close race. Gibbons has put 37 opponents to sleep, Dempsey 40.

The St. Paul fighter has knocked out 33 out of his last 36 starts.

Here is another thing, and it is greatly in favour of the contender.

Gibbons has had 34 fights and has been boxing regularly from 1921 up until a month ago.

Dempsey has had but one battle—that his 4-round knockk out of Carpentier during the same time.

That that—and a big THAT.

IN MEMORIAM.

BULLOCK—In sad and loving memory of Peter Bullock, Jr., who entered into rest, June 1, 1922.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
His place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled.
The boon his love has given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in heaven.

No one heard the footsteps
Of the angel drawing near,
Who took from us to heaven
The one we loved so dear.
We miss thee from our home,
We miss thee from thy place,
We miss the sunshine of thy face,
A shadow o'er our life is cast.

We miss thy kind and willing hand
Thy fond an earnest care,
Our home is dark without thee,
We miss thee everywhere.
Oft we sit and think of him,
And our hearts are sad with pain,
Oh! This world would be a heaven
Could we hear his voice again.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

REV. W. F. BROWN ELECTED CONFERENCE PRESIDENT

BROCKVILLE June 1 (Canadian Press). — Rev. W. M. F. Brown, pastor of the Dominion Methodist Church, Ottawa, was to-day elected president of the Montreal Conference on the first ballot.

Rev. Dr. Charles Baldwin, retiring president, characterised the campaign against vice in Montreal as largely a matter of difference in fundamental ideas. Any scheme bearing the label of Methodism in the fight against Prohibition seemed to be taboo, he said.

CLOUD BURSTS IN THE WEST MENACE LIVES

Rushing Waters in Alberta Rivers Cause Much Damage--Residents Prepare For Flight.

BATTLING FLAMES

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 2 (Special to The Examiner). — Forest fires and floods to-day still are menacing various sections of Ontario and Western Canada and the Middle West of the United States.

Virtual cloudbursts are causing distressing conditions in Alberta.

One death due to the floods was reported at Blairmore, Alberta, where Harold Joyce, aged eight, was drowned.

At Calgary two bridges are endangered by rushing waters in the swollen Elbow River, and many residents are preparing to leave their homes.

The gas service in the city has been cut off.

Little change was reported in the Crow's Nest Pass district, and in the Okotocks area, where Sheep Creek flooded the town, trains are tied up, and hundreds of automobiles are stalled in the southern part of the Province.

Fire Situation.

In Ontario little improvement is noted in the forest fire sections.

Serious blazes are reported at Lux, near Horne Payne, Coughlin, 60 miles east of here, and at Atikokan, just west of Port Arthur.

At White River, rain fell for half an hour yesterday, but though it relieved the situation somewhat, it was not enough to remove the danger.

In the States.

In the United States, Northern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin, and Upper Michigan settlers, directed by forest rangers, continue their struggles against increasing fire dangers.

More than 200 men are battling to keep the flames from entering the Superior National Forest in Minnesota. The forest is surrounded on four sides by fires.

Most of the other fires in Minnesota are either under control or are being checked, except two blazes near Buyck. One near Echo Lake has burned over more than 4,0000 acres.

The other fire, several miles northeast of Buyck, is still advancing, after burning over 4,000 acres.

A score of additional fires also are reported, mostly in sparsely settled regions.

MR. T. TOOMS HAS SECURED OFFICE

Will Share the Quarters of Mayor W. H. Taylor.

His Worship Mayor Taylor smilingly informed the Examiner yesterday afternoon that Mr. Tooms had taken part of his offices for election headquarters.

His Worship had been nominated at the Liberal convention a week ago, but lost the nomination to Alderman J. W. Meyers. Previously it was rumoured that His Worship intended to throw his own hat into the ring as an Independent Liberal but on the eve of the nomination he publicly declared his party regularity in a letter published in the Examiner.

Shortly after His Worship announced the tenancy of Mr. Tooms, the latter corroborated it with a smile no less proud than the Mayor's.

And Mr. Tooms said that he had rented the office until after the election.

Later the Examiner was informed that Mayor Taylor had offered the use of the rear of his office for a month to Mr. Tooms without any charge.

ENFORCE VOLSTEAD BILL THROUGHOUT N. Y. STATE

Effect of Governor Smith's Action in Repealing Prohibition Laws Watched With Interest.

NEW YORK, June 2 (Canadian Press). — The effect of Governor Smith's signature to the Bill repealing the State's Prohibition enforcement law was accorded varying verbal interpretations to-day, but the liquor situation appeared to be the same as yesterday, with prospects of remaining with a decided change.

In addition to the Federal authorities, all the State, county, and municipal officers who were enforcing Prohibition in New York State, still are bound to enforce the Volstead Act, it was declared by Prohibition Director Canfield, who said, the "State still is in the Union," and all officers are oath-bound to enforce the Federal law.

IT IS UP TO CANADA TO MAKE THE NEXT MOVE

United States is Awaiting Action on St. Lawrence Power Development Scheme.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(Canadian Press).—The United States Government is awaiting some indication of desire on the part of Canada to re-open negotiations for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway, officials said to-day in commenting on the statement made in the Canadian House of Commons on Thursday by Premier Mackenzie King that nothing had been heard from Washington since the last Canadian note on the subject was despatched. It was suggested that there evidently was a slight misunderstanding as to the status of the negotiations.

According to the official understanding, when Premier King came to Washington last year to discuss the revision of the Rush-Bagot Treaty limiting naval armament on the Great Lakes to fit modern conditions, the suggestion was made by the Department that negotiations should begin looking to the execution of the agreement reached by the joint commissioners regarding the St. Lawrence project. The Canadian Premier is understood to have informed the State Department that owing to the state of its finances, as a result of the world war, Canada was scarcely in a position to undertake large expenditures involved in the execution of the extensive plans of the Waterway Commission. As far as is known here at present, there has been no change in that status.

GALLAGHER'S AVOID OPERATIONS

Gall Stones, Kidney Stones, Gravel.

We claim 100 per cent. good results in the treatment of the above ailments. Every week reports come to the office of some person who has been saved the pain, risk and expense of an operation by the use of our Kidney Remedy and Blood Purifier. We have cases relieved six years ago and no return of the trouble.

A resident of this city, two months ago was told he would have to be operated upon for Gall Stones, to get relief. He took "Gallagher's" and has not had an attack since and is working every day. A farmer of Smith Township, had to give up farming last year because of Kidney Stones, was told an operation was necessary. Last fall one of our representatives sold him the Kidney Remedy and Blood Purifier, and last week in calling at his home, found him back farming again with three small Kidney Stones in his possession.

This week the following unsolicited testimonial came to hand.

Deacon, Ont. May 16, 1923.

Dear Sirs,—

I have been a sufferer of Kidney trouble for thirty years, have tried quite a few doctors and used all kinds of patent medicines until last summer I took very sick. I went to the hospital and underwent an X-ray, where they told me there was no cure for me only two operations. I then tried Gallagher's Blood Purifier and Kidney Remedy when after I passed two stones the size of a large bean. I now feel fine, please recommend this remedy to all sufferers of this kind.

Yours truly,
MR. NICHOLAS V. KRONZ.

A six months' treatment costs only $12.00.

CHARGED WITH A BREACH BY-LAWS

Charged with a breach of the Motor Vehicles Act, a visitor to the Police Court this morning was fined $5.25. The accused was charged with cutting the corner, and stated in his explanation that he is accustomed to driving in a western city where traffic rules are different. Iron policemen are used at street intersections there, and the practice apparently is to commence turning before the corner is reached in order to notify the motorist behind of one's intention.

Town of Gracefield Completely Invested by Fire and Populace Alarmed.

OTTAWA, June 2 (Canadian Press). — Bush fires on the Gatineau continued to-day with unabated force.

The citizens of Gracefield are hourly becoming more anxious, and appeals for help in fighting the flames have been forwarded to Ottawa by way of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The town is completely surrounded by fire, which approached as near as 300 yards at various times during the night.

The whole population is out fighting the flames.

PETERBORO LADY EXPANDS BUSINESS

Mrs. Bertha Munro, Propietress of Munro Hotel, Acquires New Interest.

Peterborough is about to lose one of its most capable business women in the imminent departure of Mrs. Bertha Munro to Windsor. The Munro Hotel in this city has the reputation of being the best conducted and most home-like hotel in Canada, and has gained its high name through the enthusiastic references of commercial men who have enjoyed its hospitality. The Provincial Inspector, who does not consider it his business to boost, declares it to be the best $3 a day hotel in Ontario.

Mrs. Munro has been personally responsible for this high standard of excellence. She came to Peterborough twelve years ago, and since the death of her husband, three years ago, has conducted the hotel in a business-like and reputable manner.

The travellers who look forward to resting under the roof of the Munro House regard Mrs. Munro as a mother, and well indeed, if one may judge by their references to her, does she look after their wants.

Mrs. Munro has acquired the Herrenden House at Windsor, and she will make her home there while still retaining control of the Munro House here. The Herrenden Hotel is now considered the second best hotel in Windsor, and it is predicted that under Mrs. Munro's management it will climb even higher in the estimation of the travelling public.

Whatever improvement can be made by remodelling, repairing, refurnishing and decorating will be immediately undertaken by Mrs. Munro, and the home-like atmosphere which she will doubtless give the renovated hostelry will go far towards her aim of making it one of the two best hotels in Canada — the other being the Munro House, Peterborough.

KEMAL'S MOVES NOW CRITICIZED BY THE TURKS

Still Old-Fashioned at Heart, Tide Turning Against Things Which Kemal Represents.

RESENT NEW IDEAS.

By William Philip Simms

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 2.—Will Mustapha Kemal's pretty wife who wears knickers and behaves just like an American girl prove his downfall?

There has been a mighty amount of stuff published in America about the new Turkey and the new spirit of independence in the women of Turkey. And all that sort of thing.

But old Turkey is not dead yet—not by a jugful. In Constantinople I have seen beautiful young Turkish girls dancing with officers in gold braid and drab civilians from the four corners of the earth.

They wore no veils and their gowns looked very Rue de la Paix-ish. A young Turkish officer was pointed out to me as the son of the present caliph. A most excellent jazz dancer too, one of the most graceful I have seen.

But these Turks, in these particular upper circles of Constantinople are not Turkey. Nor is Constantinople Turkey. Anatolia, in Asia, is the real Trukey. And the rank and file of people in Aantalio are indescribably more different from the people of Constantinople, in manner and thought, than the people of the remotest rural regions of American are from our effetest bigcities.

Ancient Ideas.

Kemal Pasha is spoken of by Americans here as being a big man and a progressive one, truly deserving of the fame he has won. As dictator of Turkey he has been statesmanlike, clever and quite equal to calling the bluff of the allies and bluffing them successfully in turn. And he has used his power moderately. Nor has his head swelled.

But Turkey is still old-fashioned at heart and signs are not wanting even now that the tide is turning against the very things which Kemal represents. The prediction was made to me here that within two years Kemal will be out and the old Union and Progress party—the party in power when the World War came on—will be back in the saddle.

The party was blamed for getting Turkey into the war and so, with the Liberal party, which signed the Sevres treaty almost wiping Turkey off the map, was for a time apparently extinct.

Today the Union and Progress leaders are drifting back here. The famous party newspaper, the Tanin, was recently started up again with the Union and Progress editor, Hassein Djahid Bey, in the chair. And its circulation immediately leaped ahead of that of any other paper in the country. Which is significant.

Expect "Kick Back"

For the present this party is working in harmony with Kemal Pasha's Nationalists—now being transformed into the "Popular Party." But as soon as peace is signed at Lausanne, the pendlum will begin to swing back, according to lifelong observers here.

The prophecy is based on the belief that Turkey can go forward just so fast and no faster. While Kemal dazzled the country for a time by putting her back on the map, his western ideas are resented at heart by the Old Turks and the more conservative younger ones as well, and this resentment will be in it works once normality begins to return.

And that is where Madame Kemal, pretty, modern and stylish in the Paris sense, comes in. She wears riding breeches. Maybe that places her for you. You known even some of our own people don't look with entire approval on riding breeches for girls and, well—

Multiply our own conservatism by a thousand and add a lot of religious prejudices—with which customs and costumes are likewise indentified—and you'll begin to appreciate how some Turkish men and women regard the first lady of their land.

She will be the symbol of Mustapha Kemal's unorthodoxy in their eyes, always. And they will take it out on Kemal.

LOCAL MARKET A BUSY PLACE THIS MORNING

Routine Buying and Selling Varied by Juggling of Vendor and Auctioneers' Oratory.

FOWL APLENTY

The farmers' market was a busy place this morning, with plenty of produce and plenty of buyers. Every cart had its circle of enquiring customers, and the rival auctioneers had the usual crowd. A gentleman who varied the monotony of his description of the super-merits of a razor hone by tying cords around his wrists in a series of knots that disappeared immediately on the pronouncement of the magic words "alaplassa, alacazazza," was the third attraction. One of the auctioneers was working up enthusiasm over a chemical fire extinguisher, the other was surrounded by a medley of household furniture. The upholstered parlor set that had seen better days offered an excellent resting place for numerous tired gentlemen, and a kitchen cabinet was being vigorously investigated. A large oil painting, with heavily gilded frame, "a beautiful piece of scenery," went for a dime.

Pottaoes Lower.

Potatoes were lower in price, selling, in seed and table variety, at 80, 90 and $1 per bag. Green onions and rhubarb were much in evidence, and in the lower hallway, a little lad was crying "fresh watercress," at five cents a bunch. The fish man, whose temperament sometimes suffers by reason of the varying whims of undecided housewives, had a cheerful, small, dark-eyed boy making change for him this morning, with celerity and much good humour. Fresh speckled trout here were 25 cents a pound.

Little pigs were $12 a pair this morning, and apples, Gaines and Starks and Ontarios, were 40 cents a peck. Ben Davis were 25 cents.

Dogs For Sale.

Collie dogs were offered for sale this morning, little and big, a big, good-natured specimen, "trained for a sleigh dog and for cattle," at $5, another at the same price, six months old, with a fine, dark nose. A sleepy brown pup was 75 cents, and a litter of two-months old Irish collies were $1 apiece. Their owner regarded these with affectionate eyes. "What can I do. I have to sell them, I can't destroy them," he said, pointing out the little shy wriggler, "that ran away and hid under the stone boat this morning, because he didn't want to be taken away"; the "little feller" that follows the cows, and cries when he gets tired, and Samson, the big one, the first to be sold.

Pansies were selling for 20 cents a box and canterbury bells at 10 cents a plant.

Butter and Eggs.

Upstairs, eggs and butter were plentiful at lower prices than last week, and fowl was more abundant than usual. Eggs were selling for 26, 27 and 28 cents a dozen, butter from 29 to 30 cents a pound, and hens at 25 and 28 cents. Duck eggs were 80 cents a dozen and small, cheeping chicks in black and yellow were 20 cents apiece. A huge turkey of 21 pounds, which its owner claimed had cost her $5 last fall, was going for 28 cents a pound, making its selling price $5.88. The Oriental who contemplated its purchase, and whose computation of its price had been done with speed, fingered its fat chest with a speculative eye.

THE ELECTIONS OF TO-DAY LACK ZEST OF YEARS AGO

Old Belligent Spirit Which Prompted "Rough-House Tactics Has Given Way to Decorum and Mutual Courtesy During Campaign and a Polls.

Elections are not now looked forward to with the same zest by belligerently inclined people as in the "good old days" of forty or so years ago. Excitement does sometimes creep into a present day campaign, when a candidate becomes carried away by his indignation at the statements of his opponents and delights the audience with a war-like and often humorous verbal castigation of his adversaries, but it appears from a study of old-time election methods that these interludey in the propaganda of "my party firsts ideals not only crept in but were eagerl" sought after.

So enamoured were they in years gone by of election time that the polls were kept open for two or three days. There were no extra newspapers to declare the results and no free bulletins to relieve the tense atmosphere with declarations of results or partial results elsewhere. Something had to be done to pass the tedious waiting, and apparently fighting was the first choice.

On one occasion a house on Charlotte street (then called Hell street) about where Dr. McCullogh's residence now stands, was raided and wrecked in vengeance on the occupants who had apparently offended one of the parties.

That was a mere bagatelle compared with the raid on a hotel which stood on the site afterwards occupied by the National and now by the stately Empress The proprietor was a Frenchman and he had a number of his fellow countrymen boarding in his hostelry. These men had incurred the enmity of a section of the voting community, and a mass attack on the hotel resulted in many broken heads. The lucky Frenchmen, more or less battered, escaped across the river in canoes, and nothing is said about the unlucky members of the party.

There were four polling places in Peterborough, and these were frequently scenes of wild excitement. The bars were wide open, of course, and the candidates, who must have been popular for the time being, issued orders that everybody should be treated. It is supposed that the idea was if both treated everyone, neither could be accused of unethical conduct.

Two facts stand out in bold relief from these old elections—no man who had not paid his taxes up to date could vote, and second, there was only one policeman in Peterborough.

MOTHER AND HER FOUR CHILDREN LOSE LIVES

Fire Destroys Home at Exeter This Morning—Neighbors Care For the Rescued.

EXETER, June 2. — (Canadian Press.)— Mrs. Silas Stanlake, aged 35, her four children, Clarence aged 5, Wilfrid aged 2, and an unnamed baby two weeks old and her brother Alfred, aged 45, lost their lives in a fire which early this morning burned their home on Lake Road at Sodom, three miles west of her. Silas Stanlake himself was badly burned. He saved his adopted daughter, aged 20 and his oldest boy, 12, by throwing them from the second story window. Bodies of the victims have not yet been recovered.

At midnight Stanlake was awakened by smoke. He groped his way to the room where some of his children slept and grasping Beatrice, aged 20 and Harry aged 12, threw them out of the window. Then he tried to rescue others, but the swirling flames prevented it. At last, weak to the point of collapse, he reached the broken window and fell to the ground.

By this time neighbors had arrived. Although they lent every assistance, they were powerless to save the rest of the family.

The house was engulfed in flames, which prevented anyone from approaching it.

Dr. H. K. Hyman of Exeter, was called and took charge of the three members of the Stanlake family who had escaped the fire.

The father is burned and bruised, but will recover. Two children, Beatrice and Harry, are also bruised from their fall, but are not much the worse for their harrowing expe-

Motorists who had been out for an [illegible] were attracted from miles around. Soon after the fire became visible almost one hundred cars were on the scene. Drivers and their friends did all they could to battle the flames.

The fire apparently broke out in the the kitchen, as far as can be ascertained. The Stanlake homestead is an old frame building erected 40 years ago and proved an easy prey to the flames. Mrs. Stanlake, the mother, and victim, was formerly a school teacher at Sodom. She married Silas Stanlake fifteen years ago.

Neighbors are caring for the rescued. Dr. Hyman is remaining on the scene and will act as coroner. It is expected the jury will be empanelled to-day to conduct the preliminary investigation, as soon as the bodies are recovered.

PIPERS ROUTED ON COUNTRY HIGHWAY

Ran Into an Ambush on Road West of Jackson Park and Forced to Retreat.

The Caledonian Pipe band will go no more a roving by the light of the moon along the highway extending west from Jackson Park and dividing the townships of North Monaghan and Smith. On toward the Fall they might, but never again while the Spring is at the full.

Thursday night they started out at dusk for a practice with pipes and drums. Braw lads and braw tunes that echoed softly, some might say shrilly, through the stillness of eventide and over the rolling country that here and there dipped away like glens in the land where the pitch of the pipes is immortal, immemorial music.

Just why the Caledonians seek the rural quiet beyond the city for their rehearsals is not quite clear. Dull clods whose musical standard is the melancholy moaning of the saxaphone might suggest that these bagpipers were uncertain of the humor, the mood and receptiveness of a city audience who might prefer the sound of the pipes far away, and the farther the better. Such as these perhaps imagine that Pan himself is but a journeyman plumber. At any rate they know no quickening of the spirit when the pipes play, and it would be futile to tell them of the expansiveness of the pipers as they stride along to the rhythm of old tunes rich in the national sentiment of the people who preserve and cherish them.

The Caledonians may have been playing "My Heart's in the Highlands," or "The Birks of Aberfeldy," or "My Love She's But a Lassie Yet"; or it was "The Deil's Awa Wi' the Excisemen" or some of the many other folk songs of the Scots. All went well until they ran into an outpost of mosquitoes, a raiding or foraging party from the swamps of Lily Lake where the Lady Slippers shed their beauty, or used to in days gone by. These are a vicious, voracious breed that have no music in their soul, or at least draw the line at the bagpipes. The famous New Jersey strains are no bigger and not more heavily armed. It is not known what they think of pipers, but there is no doubt about the Lily Lake regions in that particular. For the Caledonians opened up the cut off on their drones, and the drummers attempted to use their sticks as flails without the slightest effect. The mosquitoes enveloped them like a cloud. First the drummer missed a beat, a piper here and another there skipped two or three bars to brush the lances of their necks. It was no use. The retreat was sounded with relief, and the homeward march robbed the night of all its mystic beauty. Even the music had lost the spell of its significance, and the only consolation was the profection of the knees which kilts would have exposed. Some of the mosquitoes followed the pipers into the city, but others were content to retire to their own "zin-zing" of satisfaction "Will Ye No Come Back Again?"

WILL IMPROVE THE BURLEIGH ROAD AT ONCE

County Engineer Will Make a Trip Over the Road—Passable For Summer Traffic.

MET LAST NIGHT.

Any doubt as to the action of the County Council in carrying out the necessary work on the Burleigh Falls-Young's Point road was dispelled last evening by Ed. Elliott, County Clerk, when he stated that work would be commenced immediately.

The occasion of this declaration was a public meeting in the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the possibility of improving the very bad condition of this road. J. J. Duffus, President of the Chamber of Commerce, presided.

The advocates of the scheme came prepared to battle for what they considered essential repairs, and they were considerably surprised by the unexpected statement by the County Clerk. He said, having learned that approval had been given by the Department of Public Highways to the bye-law passed by the county on November 25 last, the county engineer would go over the road immediately and commence the work in time to make the road passable for summer traffic.

Reeve J. A. Middleton of Smith reported that he had discontinued yesterday on learning that Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Highways, had approved of the taking over of this section as a county road. Other representatives present were Reeve H. B. Rye and Mr. McIntyre

This result is gratifying to those who advocated it, in view of the strong opposition to the scheme encountered in the government and in the County Council. Many tourists as well as residents on its borders, make use of this road, and general satisfaction is expressed in contemplation of an early improvement.

TAX ON GASOLINE IS NOT APPROVED

With Two Modifications This Would be Equitable Distribution of Road Cost.

Motorists in Peterborough are indignant at the idea of a new tax to be added to their already heavy license fee. The proposed tax on gasoline does not meet with general approval here, unless it takes the place of the registration fee. In the latter case most people will agree that it would be a most equitable division of the costs of road maintainance, laying the burden most heavily upon those who use the roads to the greatest extent.

On the other hand, the plan might not meet with the unqualified support of the municipalities, since it would take taxes out of the cities and towns to the Provincial government without any allowance to the municipalities for wear and tear on the roads within their bounds.

In the case of a truck operating entirely within the city of Peterborough the gasoline tax would go to the Provincial Government, although the truck did not use Provincial highways and the city would receive nothing towards the repairs of its streets.

If these two difficulties could be overcome—the gasoline tax imposed as a substitute for the license fee, and a division of the proceeds made between the Province and the municipality,—the tax it is thought would meet almost universal approbation as being most equitable.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL OF RANGERS IN NORTHERN ONTARIO

All Towns and Villages Out of Danger — Universal Dryness Has Caused a Dangerous Situation.

MANY BUSH FIRES.

SUDBURY, Ont., June 2. Canadian Press. — With the bush as dry as tinder and a high wind blowing dozens of forest fires are raging throughout Northern Ontario at the present time and unless rain intervenes shortly the situation will be fraught wtih serious possibilities for the railway towns in the hinterland.

While admitting that the fires are of grave proportions, forestry headquarters officials here stated that the situation has been exaggerated by reports from the west, and declared that at the present time no towns along the C.N.R. or the C.P.R. are in danger. There are few farmers in the areas in which the fires are most serious, these extending largely over big timber limits, but the property loss at the least will amount to many thousands of dollars before the week is out.

There were 25 bad fires burning in the Sudbury district yesterday. Everything possible is being done by the rangers despite the fact that a high wind has been blowing and the heat is suffocating. They are immensely better equipped than they were this time last year and the Chief Rangers are moving from point to point handling the situation. Every available ranger is on the job and the railways are cooperating in every manner, many extra gangs being out fire fighting along the lines. Ten new pumps arrived this week, and are all in use. The forestry service aeroplanes have not been used, owing to the thick pall of smoke which now covers the entire north country. Their chief use is in spotting fires in their inception or in going over areas after conflagrations to spot small fires starting up again.

With the exception of a small fire two or three miles to the northeast of Chapleau, everything is normal in the locality of that town. The fire at Localsh, 70 miles west of Chapleau, which swept over the tracks, holding up the west bound trains, is now undre control, and a similar conditions exists at Girdwood —120 miles of Chapleau.

White River is not in the Sudbury forestry district, but long distance telephone advices from that place this afternoon were to the effect that the fire in the immediate vicinity of the town has not yet entered the limits and although considerable apprehension is felt the rangers have been successful in driving the fire back so far.

Smoke hangs heavily over North Bay and Sudbury. The fires are scattered and the majority of them are of but a few acres in extent, but yesterday's high winds spread these considerably. Along the C. N. R. to Foleyet many small fires are burning but the fire rangers have these in hand. The fire at Elsas, which threatened to become serious, is under control.

Nothing but the highest praise is expressed for the work of the Forestry Department in coping with the fires and every resource is being strained to the utmost. Equipment is of the best, and the rangers are well organized and working at strategic points.

WEDDING BELLS

MAGUIRE—DODD.

HASTINGS, June 2—A pretty wedding was solemnized in Toronto on Tuesday, May 22, 1923, of Edna, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dodd of Hastings, and Harold R. Maguire, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Maguire, 760 Pape avenue, Toronto, at 7.30, by Rev. Hodgson of Jones Avenue Baptist Church.

Confidence Vote in Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, June 2.—The vote was on the question of giving priority to resolutions offered by Emmanuel Brousse and Edward Herriot. M. Brousse's resolution condemned the actions of the Royalists and expressed confidence in the Government to repress violence, while M. Herriott's resolution was to the same effect, but without the phrase expressing confidence in the Government.

The Government made the vote one of confidence, in favor of giving M. Brousse's resolution priority, and was sustained by a vote of 343 to 181.

STOCKS AND BONDS

At the present time there is a great boom in the mining industry. I have had many years experience in practical mining, both in Cobalt and Porcupine, and have a wide connection there. I am therefore in a position to get early and reliable information in both camps. I have made a profit for every one of my clients up to date, and shall be pleased to advise any one interested. There will be a strong market this summer and now is the time to get in.

Sale of Land is Aired in the House.

OTTAWA, June 2. — (Canadian Press). — Correspondence and the judgment of the exchequer court on the expropriation of the Canadian National Railway ticket office site at the corner of King and Yonge streets, Toronto, were brought down in the commons yesterday by Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways, at the request of T. L. Church (Conservative, North Toronto). The exchequer court declared that the price of $1,200,000 "was fair and just compensation for the property, without interest or costs." The Imperial Bank had claimed $1,350,000 for the property.

Correspondence regarding the sale of the Toronto Suburban Railway Company or any part of it to the Hydro Electric Commission or the city of Toronto, was also tabled.

NEW ORGANIZATION IN WAY EDUCATION

To Foster Co-operation Between Teachers and School Boards.

Miss Jennie Stead of Toronto, formerly Organizer of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, addressed the pupils of the Normal School here yesterday afternoon, and explained in detail the workings of the new Ontario Bureau of Information, organized in Toronto recently under the auspices of the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, in accordance with a resolution passed at the 1923 Easter Convention of the Secondary School Trustees' Section of the Association.

The idea of this newly organized Bureau of Information is to secure closer co-operation between teachers and school boards, and it aims to serve school boards, inspectors and teachers in solving the problem of filling vacancies or securing positions, as the need may be, the primary idea being to remedy what is rapidly becoming a great detriment to the cause of education; the continual shifting of teachers from school to school, caused often by lack of definite knowledge of conditions. The registration fee for this service is $2 to all school boards not registered with the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association. Those registered are offered the service free of charge. Blank forms for the use of Boards of Education, and School Teachers of all grades are furnished, with questionnaires to be filled in, which relates the various needs of the boards or teachers applying.

Miss Stead, who for the last two years hase been travelling throughout the province, meeting the teachers, and has acquired a fund of valuable information bearing on the subject, is collaborating in the movement. The secretary is W. M. Morris, and the office of the Bureau is situated at 1214 Lansdowne avenue, Toronto.

W.C.T.U. Elect Officers For the Ensuing Year.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the green room of the Y. W. C. A. recently. The yearly report was given, showing the closing of a very successful year. Dr. Sara Detwiter, superintendent of travellers' aid work, paid a visit to the city in January and addressed the ladies at the regular meeting, and also spoke in the Public Library in the evening. Mrs. A. J. Throop was appointed representative of travellers' aid work in Peterborough.

At a parlor meeting held at the home of Mrs. B. Manning Mrs. Adjt. Smith spoke of her work as Police Matron.

Mrs. B. Manning, the representative of Indian work, reported the sending of two bales of clothing, one to the Brantford district, valued at $90.00, and one to Port Arthur, valued at $57.00. A jam shower was also sent to Willard's Hall, Toronto, consisting of 21 quarts of fruit, one 5-lb. pail of honey, jelly and pickles. This was valued at $25.00. The Rev. A. J. Langford gave a short address at the meeting on the importance of the work of the O. T. A.

FLOOD DAMAGE IN WEST FROM RISING WATER

River at Calgary is Rising at the Rate of Three Inches an Hour — No Lives Lost.

HEAVY RAINS.

CALGARY, June 2 (Canadian Press). — With rivers and small streams running wild following the abnormally heavy rains of the past few days, great havoc has been caused in Southern Alberta districts during the past twenty-four hours, and in the suburbs of this city.

Streams continued to rise yesterday afternoon, some at the rate of three inches an hour, and rain was continuing at many points.

Serious conditions prevail at MacLeod and Okotoks, where residents have been forced to abandon homes.

Several houses have been washed away at MacLeod, and it was necessary for police officers to make a number of rescues during the day.

The Old Man River is a mile wide at MacLeod, and the lower part of the town is inundated. The situation was some degrees better at Ototoks with the water in the town receding slowly, but apprehension exists that further damage will result when the heavy flow from the mountains reaches the town.

The Elbow River, running through Calgary, was within eight inches of the 1919 high water mark early yesterday afternoon, and continued to rise. Low-lying residential property in Elbow Park is flooded, and several bridges are in danger of being swept away. The town of High River, 45 miles south of here, is flooding from the Highwood River.

Serious damage occurred during the day when the Old Man River broke away the main ditch of the Lethbridge northern irrigation projects new canal, ten miles west of MacLeod.

The costly headworks and dam are still holding, according to reports late yesterday afternoon, with nine feet of water pouring over the crest.

Trains on the Crow's Nest line of the Canadian Pacific Railway resumed running late yesterday morning, washouts having been repaired, but trouble has developed at a small bridge west of Cowley, which may delay eastbound trains further.

Small culverts and bridges in a number of places on Southern Alberta trails are reported out, and the roads are impassable in some sections.

W. H. POLLEY OF C.P.R. IS CALLED BY DEATH.

Remains Will Be Taken to Trenton, His Birthplace, For Interment.

TORONTO, June 2.—W. H. Polley, formerly city ticket agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, died early yesterday at his home at 30 Fermanagh avenue, at the age of 43, following a serious illness extending over a period of almost a year. A short Masonic service will be held today at his home, following which the body will be sent to Trenton, where the funeral will be held from the home of his parents. The ceremony will be taken charge of by St. Alaban's Lodge, 514, Toronto, of which he was a member.

Mr. Polley was born in Trenton and began his railroad career as a clerk in the old Union office in the King Edward Hotel, later succeeding Kit. Bunting as agent there, in May, 1913. He was appointed travelling passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific, and in October, 1913, assistant city passenger agent. In December, 1918, he was appointed city ticket agent, but was forced to leave his duties in October on leave of absence. He is survived by his widow and four children, William, Alice, Gordon and Robert; a sister, Mrs. A. Maguire, Toronto, and his parents in Trenton, where his father is employed in the customs.

Mr. Polley was deservedly popular among a wide circle of acquaintances, and he will be sadly missed.

He was also a member of the Western golf Club, Toronto.

BEGIN QUARRYING PRENEVEAU SOON

Provide Steady Work for 40 or 50 Men During Season.

HAVELOCK, June 2. — The Ontario Rock Company at Preneveau, will soon begin operations for the season, and then steady work during the summer will be found for 40 or 50 men. It is not for lack of business that the plant closes down every winter because just as soon as the first snow falls the work must be suspended. Rock quarrying machinery has been brought to a high state of perfection but no one has yet been able to devise a contrivance for sifting snow out of the raw material, and snow would interfere with the commercial value of the finished product.

This company not only has an unlimited supply but possesses one of the best equipped plants of the kind in Canada. The most modern and most powerful machinery is to be found here, for taking the stone out of the quarry, for crushing it, and for finally loading it upon the cars for shipment. Hand labor has been reduced to a minimum.

The Ontario Rock Company has expanded ever since it first started operations here in 1912, and the market for its product is constantly increasing. Last season the output of crushed rock amounted to over 100,000 tons, the greater part of which was sold to the Toronto Transportation Company. Just at present Supt. H. S. Scott has a gang of men at work loading cars on the siding; these are to be sent to Kendry station, where the crushed stone will be used for surfacing the Provincial highway from Peterboro to Port Hope. More and more every year this material is coming into favor for use on highways. It forms a surface that is harder than cement, its advocates claim, besides being perfectly immune from the action of water upon it. Another advantage is that when it is wet the surface does not become slippery.

The road between Havelock and Preneveau is considered one of the best in the county, and this is a common topic of remark among visiting autoists, and other travellers who pass over it. This highway is hard as steel and is dry in all kinds of weather. It is besides a road that has been constructed at less expense than that on any other improved highway. The material for the surfacing cost the township nothing except for moving and placing it. It was the waste from the output of the Ontario Rock Company, the directors of which were glad to give it away in order to get it off their premises.

May Run Year Round.

There is a possibility that in the future the employees of the company may be given work throughout the year or at least with only a short lay-off in the spring. A large force of men and teams was kept busy during the cold weather taking out silica from the mine recently discovered and which was worked for the first time last winter. The silica was drawn by teams across Belmont Lake for shipment by the C. P. R. to Buffalo, where it is used in the manufacture of a new kind of metal. When the work broke up in the spring work had to be suspended as the railway is too far away to be reached by wagon road from the mines.

The Ontario Rock Company had the contract for taking out this silica and the order from the Buffalo firm was for 1500 tons. Of this over 1300 tons had been delivered before the ice went out. During the cold weather night and day shifts were run at the silica mines. It is expected that if the Buffalo manufacturers are satisfied with the material supplied that another large order will be received, and that the Rock Company will again be given the contract to fill it.

Rich Mineral Ore.

The silica is a recent discovery, and one that may prove a bonanza. About 14 years ago a resident of Toronto, who is the owner of a summer cottage at Trent River, was fishing in the neighborhood when his attention was attracted to the rock formation on land owned by Henry Melville, and in which the former thought that he detected signs of gold and silver. He purchased the mineral rights for $200. This was considered a big price by the owner as the land was useless for agricultural purposes. Then came a short time ago the discovery of the silica and the mining of this has revealed unmistakeable traces of gold and silver.

The owner of the Ontario Rock Company of which Major W. W. Wallace, is the general manager, is A. Longwell of Toronto, a practical miner, who has cleaned up a fortune in Cobalt. In the quarry, gold and silver ore has been found, but John Seabrook, from whom the property was purchased, says that he took care to reserve the mineral rights when he disposed of the land. It may be, however, that some arrangement will be made to develope the discovery of the more precious deposits in the quarry.

About a year ago the quarry people set off a charge of 31¼ tons of dynamite in one blast, an engineering feat that attracted attention all over the continent. Thousands of tons of solid rock were loosened and splintered by the explosion, and the company is still handling this material which will likely be sufficient to last throughout the summer.

DRY ENFORCEMENT ACT REPEALED IN N. Y. STATE

ALBANY, N.Y., June 2.—(Canadian Press.)—After a full month of consideration, during which he sought advise from every responsible source at his command, Governor Smith late yesterday affixed his signature to the Cuvillier Bill, repealing the Mullan-Gage State Prohibition Enforcement Act, which thus ceases to be part of the statutory law of the State.

In a 4,500 word memorandum defining reasons for his action, the Governor embodied a solemn warning that the repeal of the Mullin-Gage law would not lessen the obligation of peace officers in this State to enforce to the letter its twin brother ,the Volstead Act.

Hammer Murderess Lost Legal Fight.

MUST SAFEGUARD ALL RESOURCES

Government Warned to Exercise Care in Granting Water Power Sites or Mining Areas.

OTTAWA, June 2. — (Canadian Press.)— On a vote in the House yesterday of $330,000 for surveys and investigations of water and power resources and for administration of water powers, E. J. Garland, (Progressive, Bow River) warned the government that it must safeguard water power sites or it would find them all gone into the hands of private interests. It was anticipated that some day it would be possible to electrify portions of the National railways, and for this reason the safeguarding for the water powers was of great importance.

Resuming discussion in the evening, Robt. Gardiner (Progressive, Medicine Hat) reminded the Minister of the damage already done by speculation in natural resources. There was over development of coal leases in the west and said there were five times as many coal mines open as were needed. As a result of this Drumheller coal now cost $7.75 a ton, while formerly it had been obtainable at $4.75 to $5.25. In the Fort Norman oil field, he said, an Edmonton citizen had staked a claim in two months time at a cost of $5,000 and sold the claim for $310,000. The same evil was also observable in grazing leases. Mr. Gardiner urged the minister to make certain that all leases including water power leases, were issued only to users.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Centre Winnipeg) ,urged the development of Canada's water powers upon a comprehensive plan. In the not distant future the railways of Canada might be electrified and electric power would be needed also for heat. It would not be in accord with the public interest to develop water powers with a view to local and private development only. As an example of the interprovincial character of water powers he cited the Lake of the Woods group, which has been the subject of a long dispute between Manitoba, Ontario and the Dominion.

YOUNG SAILOR DROWNED.

LINDSAY, June 2.—James Close, a young Irish sailor, met his death by drowning while bathing at Midland Harbor. The deceased was a member of the crew of the Kerseaque, which was discharging grain at the elevator. He came out from Ireland only a month ago, and his nephew is a watchman on the freighter. The body has not been recovered, although dynamite has been used in an attempt to raise it.

CANADA NEEDS FOREST POLICY

If Some Action is Not Taken to Safeguard the Forests They Will Soon Be Only a Memory.

OTTAWA, June 2 (Canadian Press). — Need for a definite policy for forest protection was urged in the House of Commons yesterday.

Canada ,pressed the Hon. G. P. Graham, should have a policy for herself regardless of other people. If something were not done, Canada's forests would be "only a memory."

Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative, Fort William, asked if it was the intention of the Government to bring down legislation to prohibit the export of pulpwood from privately owned lands.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, said strong representations had been made in favour of such legislation, but there was also strong opposition. The matter had been discussed by the Government.

Right Hon Arthur Meighen observed that the policy of the Government as indicated by the Finance Minister, was the appointment of a Royal Commission. He wanted to know how the Royal Commission was progressing, and whether W. T. R Preston had a chance for a place on it

There was no excuse for continuing to permit the exportation of raw wood, Mr Meighen went on; why a Royal Commission was to be appointed was a mystery The basic facts were well known, and in such circumstances a Royal Commission was a mere stand-off or worse He had heard it suggested that there were fears of reprisal The Government of the United States, it was suggested, might put a duty on our lumber or an embargo on coal or cotton So long as Canada stood on her own feet, he feared no reprisal the United States might take There was nothing that would not bring as much injury to them as to us. As long as the export of wood from private lands was permitted, it would be impossible to prevent export from public lands. He expressed a hope that the Royal Commission would be abandoned and a real policy brought down at the present session.

Mr. Meighen suggested further that there should be co-operation with the Provinces to provide some rule by which there would be tree planted wherever a tree was cut. It might be argued that this was impracticable.

"I think it is quite practicable," interposed Mr. Stewart.

"If it is practicable it ought to be done," said Mr Meighen.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, agreed that this problem was important not only to us, but to our grandchildren. The older Provinces controlled their own natural resources. The question had been discussed as long as he had been in public life.

The timber resources should be replaced as far as possible, for the forest wealth of the Dominion was rapidly being wiped out.

Mr. Graham held that that planting of timber in the rural areas was also important. There had been loss of fertility and loss of moisture as the forest receded. Airplanes would be used more and more to guard against fires and forest insect pests. There were serious pest attacks upon shade trees against which there ap-

THE PREMIER SCORES.

One of the most significant incidents of the campaign so far is the failure of Andrew Hicks, former U. F. O. Whip, who charged Premier Drury with deserting the Farmers, to secure re-nomination in his riding, South Huron.

If his own constituents refuse to accept Mr. Hicks' charges as substantiated, the effect upon U. F. O. voters throughout the Province is likely to be marked.

His rejection is a triumph for the Premier—and more or less of a black-eye for Secretary J. J. Morrison, who is known as a close friend of the ex-Whip.

Mr. Hicks repeated his assertions against the head of the Government, but he was roundly scored by other speakers, and when the balloting took place he was left in the discard.

Apparently the South Huron farmers are solidly with Drury, and the incident will be accepted by many political observers as indicative of the general feeling in U. F. O. strongholds.

Mr. Morrison may have his own views on the matter, but is likely to keep them to himself until the election is over.

In the meantime the first round goes to the Premier and the first knock-out is accredited against Andrew Hicks, ex-M.P.P., who in one way or another has managed to secure a large share of publicity during his four years in the Legislature.

THE TOURIST TRAFFIC.

With the advent of the tourist season come signs that this district is to have an unusually large share of the business caused by the influx of summer visitors.

Whether this business is to be a permanent feature of each summer or merely a passing phase depends largely upon the treatment accorded our guests, most of whom come from the United States.

Complaints are made, and apparently with justice, that European countries are looking upon the American tourists as gold mines to be exploited. They are being charged exorbitant prices and given service not of the best, and the treatment is already having its effect.

As a result, United States people who would in the natural course of events go to Europe are directing their attention towards Canada, and the probabilities are that the Kawartha Lake district will receive a liberal share of patronage.

The people of this section of Ontario who come into contact in a business way with the army of tourists should take a lesson out of Europe's experience.

It is up to them to treat their American visitors courteously and fairly, satisfying themselves with a fair profit and concerning themselves more with the service they give than in any idea of exorbitant gains.

The tourist traffic means much to Canada—and it will mean more if it is regarded as an annual source of revenue to be developed by fair dealing and service rather than as a temporary field of business to be exploited to the fullest extent in one year—and thus killed forever.

A NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENT.

In these days of high expenditure in municipal, Provincial and Federal Governments it is almost a shock to learn that one Canadian city has succeeded in the remarkable achievement of reducing her assessment, her expenditure and her tax rate all the same time.

The Citizens' Research Institute is responsible for the statement that Edmonton, Alberta, has reduced her assessment by $16,247,175 in two years, her taxation by $1,217,241 in the same period and the tax rate from 45 to 39.90 mills.

Business methods have been adopted in every department, and the city is organized for efficiency in administration as never before.

All the utilities are owned by the city, and only one utility last year showed a deficit. That was the street railway.

The utilities are taxed by the city and a civic report says: "The public utilities are now being operated on strict business principles. The legitimate revenues obtained from the utilities by way of taxation are paid in cash, and every person in the city and visitors to the city pay something towards the civic expenditure from taxation.

Yet with all its efficiency, or rather because of its efficiency, Edmonton is well to the fore in providing proper amusement for its people. An amusement park available all the year round is being established and the plans include a zoo. Open-air swimming pools, municipal golf links and other enterprises are successfully operated, and Edmonton is able to offer its citizens facilities that compare most favourably with those to be found anywhere.

It looks as if Peterborough in common with other Eastern municipalities would do well to consult the Alberta authorities as to their methods of financing and administration.

TIME TO GET STARTED.

Some progress towards the beginning of a paving programme has been accomplished by the decision of the Board of Works to recommend the acceptance of a tender for the paving of George street south and Hunter street east.

It is to be hoped that the recommendation will be passed by the Council.

In the matter of permanent streets, we are falling hopelessly behind the procession.

Council after Council has been dilly-dallying with this question, but the gesture stage has never been passed.

Under the assumption several years ago that George street south was to be paved immediately, extensive improvements were made to the street railway tracks and the Bell Telephone Co. hastened to instal conduits.

But the paving has not yet been done.

Meanwhile the people have had to endure bad streets, and there has been a heavy expenditure upon repairs and patching.

There is no economy in a road policy of that kind, and it seems high time to awaken to a realization of the fact that permanent roadways, besides furnishing a worth-while article, are the cheapest in the long run.

The City Engineer is right in his statement that at least a couple of thousand yards a year should be laid.

Unfortunately, too, he is right in declaring that we are twenty years behind nearly every city in Ontario.

A definite paving programme is sadly needed in Peterborough.

Its adoption has been too long postponed.

FLEECING THE COAL CONSUMER.

Light continues to be thrown on the coal question. It has been known for some time that coal is dear simply because there are too many mines and miners; but it has not been made entirely clear at whose door the responsibility lies for this extraordinary situation. Mr. John Moore told the Yonkers Board of Trade the other day that the blame rests entirely on the mine owners. He said there were 4,000 too many mines and 200,000 too many coal miners. As Mr. Moore represents the United Mine Workers of America he ought to know something about the matter. Defending his organization he said:

"It is sometimes charged that the union drags men from everywhere into the mines in order to swell its membership. That is not true. The constitution of the United Mine Workers of America says plainly that no man is eligible to membership in the union until after he has started to work in a mine. The coal operators must first hire the man and put him to work before he can join the union. Thus, the operators select the membership of the union. They determine how many members the union may have and who may or may not be a member.

"The fact is, the coal operators have hired 200,000 more men than they need to produce all the coal that is needed, and they insist on keeping these men on their payrolls, even though they are able to give them work only one to three days a week. They refuse to let them go because they desire to maintain a 100 per cent. working force to take care of the business when they have any business."

If Mr. Moore had been trying to explain why coal was cheap his argument would be flawless. In every other industry a surplus of producers makes for over-production, or at least for acute competition; but it seems that in the coal business all ordinary rules are reversed. The implication is irresistible that Mr. Moore's explanation does not fully explain. It does not, for example, tell us how coal miners live under such conditions as to employment, working from one to three days per week. What he should have said is, that the scale of pay for miners is made so high they can live very comfortably by working less than half the time they might work. And that is precisely why coal is dear, and why a strike is now threatened. It suits the miner to work two days a week and get twice the pay he used to get for a whole week's work, and it suits the miner owner to produce in that way, because it enables him to conceal his own part in the exploitation of the consumer while blaming the miner.

It seems inexplicable that such a thing could happen under our modern civilization, yet there it is. The miner blames the mine owner, and the mine owner blames the miner. It is clear as day, however, that both are benefitting by the anomalous conditions which prevail, and this passing of the blame back and forth is merely part of a plot to keep up the outrage. Of course, we are compelled to sit as passive spectators, although victims of what clearly appears to be a conspiracy between the two parties in this distressing drama.

In the background is the politician, who helps to keep the American people from acting in their own behalf by telling them he is going to deal with the matter promptly and effectively. He therefore appoints commission of inquiry number 69, or some other number, and proceeds to summon witnesses to Washington, just as he has been doing for forty years past. We all know that commissions, either at Washington or Ottawa, very rarely accomplish anything constructive or useful when votes are involved. It looks, however, as if the American people were going to take the regulation of the coal business into their own hands, and when that is done we might easily have $10 coal. The mine owner would merely lose part of his inordinate profit and the miner would have to work six days a week at reasonable pay.—Ottawa Journal.

A PEACEFUL PROVINCE.

Quebec Le Soleil: We must show no mercy to anything which looks like Bolshevism. The law now authorizes deportation and we must use this authority with ruthless energy. Good old Quebec has remained till now outside the social disturbances of other countries and Provinces. It has been called America's Street of Good Conduct—and rightly. We are going to preserve that reputation by keeping strict watch over our working population. They, moreover, understand that, in conformity with the teachings of common-sense and religion, true liberty consists in respecting the rights of ownership and in only demanding what is justly due. It is in preserving this spirit that we will achieve national greatness.

THE CALF DID FROLIC ON MILLBROOK STREET

MILLBROOK, June 1.—The actions of a young calf, one of a herd of pure-bred cattle that were being shipped by Wm. McCamus, of Cavan, caused some excitement on Main street yestrday. The animal suddenly "went bad" and, after various contortions, in front of the Waverley, fell on the pavement directly opposite Robinson's restaurant. It required the efforts of several men for over an hour to capture it and send it to its destination.

Each Year Sees an Increase in Canada's Concrete Paving Yardage

The revolution in road traffic, due to the automobile and the heavily laden truck has created a positive use for permanent, skid-proof, fuel saving highways of Concrete. Governments, Municipal and Provincial, have come to a realization that economy in road building lies in building for permanence.

Permanent highways of Concrete pay for themselves. They lessen the taxpayer's burden by reducing upkeep to a minimum. They lower haulage costs, attract tourists and promote the comfort and well-being of every community they serve.

Evidence of the increasing popularity of Concrete is found in the figures of total yardage year by year in Canada. The table below gives this illuminating information.

CONCRETE PAVING COMPLETED IN CANADA

Square Yards Laid Each Year and Total Yardage Year by Year

Year	Western Provinces	New Brunswick and Nova Scotia	Ontario and Quebec	Total
Prior to 1912	197,853	——	146,191	342,184
During 1912	45,794	——	168,374	214,168
" 1913	166,421	1,196	321,389	489,006
" 1914	90,530	19,670	446,136	556,336
" 1915	37,489	37,489	697,436	832,414
" 1916	9,743	9,743	446,396	465,730
" 1917	55,018	16,740	452,580	649,370
" 1918	——	——	181,118	181,118
" 1919	10,560	4,500	608,180	623,240
" 1920	96,454	8,000	699,944	763,668
" 1921	56,711	11,734	1,337,978	1,306,423
" 1922	74,495	——	1,549,468	1,623,963
Total end of 1922	895,653	80,915	6,777,749	7,663,383

There is every encouragement in the fact that Canada is using Concrete on a rapidly increasing scale in order to carry adequately the motor driven traffic which is becoming such a factor in modern transportation.

"It's the little they cost to maintain that makes Concrete Pavements Economical."

SURE WAY TO RID A HOUSE OF BUGS

Hamilton Man Used Gasoline and Sulphur, Burning Building to Ground.

Hamilton, June 2. — (Canadian Press).—Bent on ridding an unoccupied frame house of bugs last night, A. W. Dawson, employed a Method that killed the bugs all right but which also burned the house to the ground and almost cost him his life.

Shutting all windows and doors, he sprayed the interior of the house with gasoline. He then stirred a pot of sulpur. This burst into flames and ignited the fumes of the gasoline. The interior of the house was soon like a furnace. Mr. Dawson made frantic efforts to escape. He had difficulty in opening one of the doors and was badly burned about neck, back and arms. The building was destroyed.

HEART PALPITATED
And Was Short of Breath

Through one cause or another a large majority of people are troubled, more or less, with some form of heart trouble.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, over work or worry starts it to palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time and then so slow as to seem almost to stop, then it causes great anxiety and alarm.

To all such sufferers

"After Meals—Eat Chocolate"
—The Doctor's Advice

Do you know why?
The best cocoa beans, such as are used in making Moir's Chocolate coatings, contain from 40% to 50% of cocoa butter, an oil remarkable for its freedom from rancidity and its very bland character.
This oil is not only a highly nourishing food itself, but it helps your system to assimilate other foods. That is why the doctor advises "eat chocolates after meals."
They aid digestion.
Start the habit to-day of eating a few Moir's Chocolates after each meal. Moir's Chocolates contain only the purest ingredients and their coatings being thicker, you get more of the nourishing chocolate.

PREMIER DRURY PRESENTS CASE

Declares Expenditures for Public Ownership Account for Debt Increase

TORONTO, June 2.— (Canadian Press.)— Premier Drury presented his case for a further lease of power to a big Toronto audience last night in Massey Hall, aided by his Attorney-General, Hon. W. E. Raney, who made his administration of the Temperance Act his main theme. Premier Drury dealt with Provincial finances, claiming that capital expenditures on behalf of revenue producing public ownership properties accounted for the big debt increase, and Mr. Raney contended that his party was one which was not endeavoring to run with the hares and hunt with the hounds on the liquor question. Mrs. W. H. Becker, Dr. N. S. Coyne and Mrs. W. E. Groves, Progressive candidates in Toronto, dealt generally with Drury's record, gathering up loose ends which the principal speakers passed over briefly.

Mr. Raney quoted from Hon. G. Howard Ferguson's speeches on the liquor question and added: "It looks to me as though Mr. Ferguson is trying to get under cover, for at Sarnia yesterday he actually disowned wet Conservatives. At Sarnia, too, he reiterated that he wold not change the Act unless the people demanded it. Why all these assertions and protests."

The Attorney-General went on to assert that Mr. Ferguson was now driving a tandem team. The first horse was the liquor people and the second the temperance people. The question was where were the Conservatives going to arrive. It was the intention of the Government, he declared, to continue strict enforcement of the Temperance Act.

He claimed that the Backus deal had changed Kenora from a despondent, half bankrupt community into a prosperous and happy one.

ALL PARITIES CTIVE.

Three weeks of vigorous campaign ing are in prospect befor the voting on June 25th, in the elections to the Ontario Legislature. The central organizations here of the Conservatives, United Farmers and Liberals, propose to leave no constituency untouched.

It is the intention of the managers of political organizations that every elector shall be reached if possible. In addition to the speaking tours of the leaders, and personal campaigning of the candidates in their own ridings, the central bureaus are sending out reams of literature bearing on the s of the fight.

Premier Drury and H W. E. Raney received fair recep s on the opening of the Farmer Government's Toronto city campaign in Massey Hall last night.

Individually labor candidates in the various cities are making themselves heard as a factor in the elections. In an open air meeting on the market square in Hamilton last night, Geo. Halcrow, who gave the Government an independent labor support in the last Legislature, made it plain to his audience that the Temperance Act was the issue so far as he was concerned. He endorsed government control and local option in the matter of the liquor business, and demanded to know what right the farmers of the country told the workingmen of the city that they could not have a glass of beer or a bottle of whiskey."

CHICAGO, June 2 (Associated Press).—To complete the record of American women who died in service over seas in the late war, the national Women's Overseas Service League will devote this Decoration Day to a final effort to obtain the necessary data.

Names of 166 "gold star women," obtained by a careful search of A. E. F. records, were made public for the first time by the league last Armistice Day. This was followed by the discovery that a number of American service women died and were buried in foreign soil prior to America's entry into the war.

It is the names of these women we hope now to procure," said Miss Irene Givenwilson of Washington, D. C., curator of the American Red Cross museum, who is in charge of the research work. "We know that many American women volunteered with many relief organizations serving in Russia, Siberia, French and other countries, from August 1, 1914, until we entered the war. These names are difficult to trace."

The "roll of honour" will be called at the next overseas women's reunion to be held here June 14-17.

ROYALISTS PLOT UPSET REPUBLIC

Scheming to Restore Monarchy in France. Government Takes Steps to Checkmate Movement.

PARIS, June 2. United Press. — Steps were taken by the overnment to-day to checkmate the Royalists, who are scheming to restore the Monarchy and overthrow the Republic in Fascisti fashion. All the Royalist leaders are being watched, their meeting places observed and their followers shadowed.

Official.—Paris was thrown into a turmoil by the revelations of Minister of the Interior Manoury that such a plot had been discovered, and amazed at the scene in the Chamber of Deputies when the left wing staged a spectacular demonstration against the Royalist Leader Daudet.

The newspapers this morning applaud the government course. They deplore, however, what they term "the manoeuver of Heriot, Tardieu and Mandel," leaders in the House of Deputies, who attacked the government on the Royalist question to overthrow Premier Poincare.

The Matin declares the anti-government demonstrations in the chamber were designed by these three in the ambition that "they would utilize everything—Ruhr strikes or royalist activities—to seize power."

The Echo de Paris speaks calmly of the situation saying "It is ridiculous to suppose the republic is endangered by three bottles of ink and castor oil."

These Fascisti implements were used in an attack against three Socialists on Thursday night. The newspaper adds however that the spectacle in the Chamber when an attempt was made to attack Daudet, was lamentable.

The Petite Bleu, opposed to the Poincare ministry, says: "It is foolish to ask Poincare to defend the Republic. He has never done that in other respects. However, the Royalists brought themselves and their party into ridicule."

BARCELONA SYNDICATES SHOW BITTER ANIMOSITY

BARCELONA, June 2 (Associated Press).—Terrorism has broken out afresh in Barcelona after a period of comparative calm. Both the Unified and Free Syndicates are participating in frequent assassinations, the victims being generally prominent members of the opposing societies. Hitherto the assassins have succeeded in escaping scotfree.

In face of this fresh outbreak the authorities are placed in a difficult situation. For many years the system of suppressing the workers' unions was tried, but during all this period the murderings continued. Then Premi Sanchez-Guerra announced the restoration of the constitutional guarantees, thus giving the workers the right of association. For a time there was a slackening of the flood of crime, but now it has assumed its old volume and nearly every day or night a terrorist outrage, usually fatal, is recorded.

The two workers' syndicates, since civil law again has been restored, show just as much hostility to one another, and the third element—that of the employers—which also is accused of using terrorist methods, displays equally little evidence of coming to terms.

MILLIONS LOST THROUGH BUSH FIRE IN NORTH

OTTAWA, June 2.— (Canadian Press.)—Little, if any change in the fire situation in the Gatineau hills district, north of here, is reported this morning. An army of fire fighters are working north of Maniwaki, on the Gatineau river, where ten square miles of valuable timber has already been burned. Thus far no reports of loss of life have been received. Timber and property loss, however, will run into millions.

System Run Down Blood Out of Order

Many people become run down, but don't know just exactly what their trouble is, when, as a rule, it is improper circulation of the blood.

All they need is a good tonic to build up the system and put the blood into proper shape.

For this purpose there is nothing on the market to-day to equal.

Burdock Blood Bitters

It regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. H. Poole, Port Dover, Ont., writes:—"My system was run down and my blood out of order, and I suffered a great deal from pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. A friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got a bottle and before it was used I found it was doing me good. I kept on until I had taken three, and now I feel like a different woman.

My husband also took it and it has built him up."

CANADA NEEDS

peared to be no genuine protection. There was difficulty in preventing the export of pulpwood. Settlers in Ontario and Quebec protested that this was their only means of revenue while they were trying to get their land broken up. If exports were prohibited, they would be at the mercy of the local mills in regard to prices.

Something very radical must take place in this country in regard to forest protection, because the forests were being denuded so rapidly that within a short time they would only be a memory. Timber areas which had been cut over should be restocked.

If Canada did not look out for herself her friends across the line would not look after her. The Dominion should have a policy for the people of Canada regardless of other people. The nation which stood for herself was the one which got the respect of other nations and people. Mr. Graham said he was in favour of anything which would give forest protection.

Answering Robert Forke, Mr. Graham said he did not believe very much in reprisals. If Canada must dicker, she should see to her own interests first. With her resources in coal, timber, fish and agriculture, the Dominion was in a position to stand erect and take her chance with any other nation, and he believed she would do this

D. W. Warner (Progressive, Strathcona) said he had spent many years in Nebraska, where he had gone into a bush country which had been denuded of its timber. As the timber disappeared, there had been more drought and winds. A tree-planting policy had been followed under which settlers were given a quarter section of land on planting an area to timber. This timber acreage had first been placed at 40 acres, but was later reduced to 10 when it was found that much more planting was undertaken. The result had been that more moisture was retained and agricultural conditions were bettered.

A vote of $300.00 for the Empire Forestry Conference to be held in Canada this year occasioned comment. Mr. Stewart spoke of the advantage to be derived from holding the conference in Canada.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen remarked that if any country needed good foresters it was Canada, but he thought such conferences were unnecessary. Why should it be necessary to "hold a jubilee of forestry?"

The vote carried.

SOCIAL EVENTS IN CAVAN DISTRICT

Very Enjoyable At Home and Unique Hard Time Entertainment.

MILLBROOK, June 2.—A very enjoyable "At Home," which took the form of a lawn social, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, 8th Line, Cavan, on Thursday, about fifty guests taking advantage of the fine afternoon to motor over and enjoy the hospitality of the Cavan Women's Institute under whose auspices the happy gathering was held. Seats, and dainty teatables, were arranged about the grounds the warm sunshine making the out-of-doors most pleasant, though the house, too, was thrown open for the convenience of the guests.

Mrs. E. Syer and Mrs. Lloyd Sutton were in charge of a table of useful and fancy articles which found many customers, and two contests added to the interest of the occasion. Guessing the number of beans in a pint gem, at five cents a guess, was the first, the prize, a dainty cut-glass basket, going to Mrs. H. Sisson, whose venture of 1250 was not far from the actual total, 1333. Five people had to draw for the prize, a cut-glass vase, in the second contest—guessing the number of minutes a musical alarm clock would play when set going Mrs. A. Earchman, Miss A. Kelly, Mrs. John Rowland, Miss Laura Crocker and Ray Fee each made the same guess of fifteen minutes, which happened to be exactly right. Miss L. Crocker was the lucky winner in the draw.

A delicious and substantial tea was served at 6 p.m. and though those who had been expected to supply the program were unavoidably absent, the guests thoroughly enjoyed the social re-union, Misses B. McNeil and E. Elson supplying some piano duets after the tea hour. The total receipts, which are to be devoted to the excellent charitable work which the Cavan Institute has under way, amounted to $73. The president, Miss Bertha McNeil and secretary, Mrs. Lloyd Sutton, with other officers and members, are to be congratulated upon the success attending their undertaking.

Among those from Millbrook and vicinity who attended the gathering were: Mrs. B. R. Raper, Miss L. Crocker, Mrs. A. Weatherup, Mrs. W. Turner, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mrs. G. Hard-Times Event

The "Hard Times" entertainment given in the S. S. Hall of St. Thomas church on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A., proved quite successful both as to attendance and programme provided. Rev. Canon Allen was chairman, and after those wearing "hard times" costumes had been escorted to their seats on the platform, all present joined in singing, "Pack up your troubles' from the community song-sheet. The chairman made a few remarks explaining the humorous nature of the entertainment, and the following programme was then given:

Piano solo, Miss Frances Turner; Vocal solo, "It wasnt like that in the Olden Days," Mrs. F. Waterman; Vocal solo, "O Norah," Miss Jean Lough; Reading, "Casey at the bat," Rev. Canon Allen, Community son, "There's a long, long trail," March past of those in costume, judging of same, Mrs. Waterman, Miss Isabel Handley, Messrs. L. H. Winslow and H. Wood, being the judges.

Guessing by audience of identity of those in costume, (each being masked).

Prize, large box of Laura Secord chocolates, presented to Mrs. E. Whyte by Mrs. Waterman, Mrs. Attwooll, Mrs. John Allen, Miss M. Fee, Mrs. Whyte, Mrs. L. Morton, Miss Burnham and Mr. A. Thomas each having the same number guessed correctly and having to draw for the prize.

Prizes for best costumes award ed by judges to Miss Gertrude Gray, first, and Mr. R. Stone second. The former received a dust-pan, and the latter a broom—appropriate prizes for a "hard times" costume. Others on the platform were, Allen Pitt, Miss Geraldine Morton, Miss Elsie Weeks, Miss Pearl Lamb, Miss Hazel Armstrong Miss Ada Attwooll, and David Fowler.

Mrs. Allen was the efficient accompanist for the evening and the following numbers completed the programme.

(Seventeen Inch Selvage-Edge Roofing)
A Revolutionary Idea in Roll Roofing

Durable, fire-resisting, handsome, and economical—Barrett S. I. S. Roll Roofing is the ideal roofing for all farm buildings and steep-roof industrial structures.

A Double Thickness Roof. As shown in the picture, half the width of the roll is plain surfaced, half mineral-surfaced. In laying, the mineral-surfaced half of the strip entirely overlaps, and is securely cemented to the plain surfaced portion. This gives a double thickness built-up roof throughout, with mineral surface exposed to the weather.

Good Looks. The mineral surface—in permanent, fadeless red or green—never needs painting.

Fire Resisting. Sparks or flying embers cannot ignite the heavy mineral surface of S. I. S.

Durable. The base of S. I. S. is extra-heavy, extra-rugged roofing-felt, thoroughly waterproofed.

Ask for an estimate on a complete roof of S. I. S. Roll-Roofing. The cost is moderate.

$3,000,000 in Three Years for Larry Semon Film Comedian's New Contract for Slap Stick

NEW YORK, June 2.—Larry Semon, one of the screen's slap-stick comedians, lolled in an armchair in his suite in the Biltmore and, yawning when the barber gave him a little respite from the razor, admitted that he had just ended the formalities regarding the signing of a contract with the Truart Film Corporation of 1,542 Broadway under which he would receive in the next three years $3,000,000—$1,000,000 a year.

The other parties concerned said that Semon had stated the fact correctly. The contract is for six pictures of feature length—about 5,000 feet—to be produced within the next two or three years, all of the comedies to cost not less than $250,000, which amount is to be put up by the Truart concern.

"It's the last contract I'm going to sign," said Semon himself "and I made up my mind that they would have to show me the dough."

Semon told the barber to let the other half of his face wait until he had finished talking. He wore a pair of stripped trousers and his undershirt, through which could be perceived large strips of adhesive tape, holding a couple of erstwhile broken ribs in place. His collarbone has also been damaged.

Only a short time ago he sat before a draughtsman's board in a newspaper office, earning exactly $35 a week told this himself.

"On the newspaper," he said, "I met J. Stuart Blackton, who liked something I had written. He engaged me to go with the Vitagraph Company, hoping to make me a director. I was two years working in one way and another, and eventually started making two-reelers. The world loves to laugh. I made six or seven of these short comedies a year, and there's more money in comedies than there is in most features. It takes a lot of art to produce even a slap-stick comedy. Do you know that?"

He passed on to his plans.

"I will engage as many stars and near stars as I need, because it is naturally easier to direct a good actor or actress. Then we will have plenty of laughs, thrills, stunts and hokum. When I begin shooting the concern will put in two banks $250,000, which has nothing to do with my own drawing account. Concerning the contract, I am to receive a drawing account of $2,000,000 in the next three years and a percentage of the profits on the productions that will bring my personal receipts up to $3,000,000."

He extended his hand and the valet, eyes ever alert, brought a cigarette, with an instantly lighted match. Semon puffed two or three times, sighed, rubbed his soapy chin, and then added, as if he had been doing a little arithmetic: "I should think it may be a little more than $3,000,000."

Besides his valet and barber, Semon also has with him on this trip a personal representative and a special publicity man. The Truart concern is affiliated with the Tiffany Productions.

12,00 Bootleggers in New York

According to one of the smugglers who got confidential with the federal agents, his "syndicate" had a list of 6,000 saloons in New York where liquor is still being sold and the names of 12,000 bootleggers doing business in that city.

The people of the West Indies killed the goose that laid golden eggs for them, a smuggler said, when they began substituting home made "quick whiskey for the genuine imported stuff and charging exorbitant prices for it. Furthermore, he added, the islands are full of American prohibition "spies" making it difficult for the rum runners to move their cargoes unobserved.

Agents have brought in stories of the boastings of smugglers of the ease with which they eluded the prohibition patrols off shore and landed their cargoes in New York and along the coasts.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

PLAY PENS AND PLAYTHINGS

The need of most children is not for lack of playthings but for lack of suitable ones. The new mother or father haunts the toy departments in his efforts to find new toys to bring home to his child. Before he is a year old he is surfeited and nothing either amuses or pleases him.

The rubber ball and the various white rubber toys can safely be given to the tiny baby. Passing the ball back and forth in his hands, letting him watch it roll, bouncing it, will draw attention and prove of benefit to his eyes. None of these things should be done to excess. The instant the baby shows the slightest desire to turn away stop and wait until another time.

Toys must always be of the washable type. This is extremely trite, and would not need to be said so often if there were not so many frightfully attractive toys, full of loose bells and buttons and covered with dangles or hair and yarn that offer the baby a perilous diet. Babies bite first and look second. The parents may enjoy the sight of the bright, fussy toy, but the baby will be charmed only with its flavor.

The play pen is the mother's greatest comfort and the baby's protection. From the time he wakes until rising time for his parents he may be put into his crib or play pen and be amused by some few simple toys. This of course after his early nursing. No baby can be amused on an empty stomach.

Play pens need not be expensive, they may be made from almost any material, but every household where there are young children to be watched should have one. Four smooth boards, furnished with fastenings which lay low for the pen to be laid flat when not in use are all that are necessary. Make the pen at least four feet each way so that the baby as he grows older will have room to move about. Put a soft comfort on the floor and a pillow or two so that if the baby falls he will have something soft to fall on.

Play pens are a tremendous boon to the busy mothers. But they mustn't be overdone. Don't keep the baby in them until he is so tired playing that the pen becomes a torture to him. Use it only when you are so busy and the baby so active that you can't give him the attention he needs.

Protect Your Home Against Fire!

Another Vulcanite Patented Shingle

The Vulcanite Self-Spacing Shingle — the self-spacing shoulder makes laying easy and economical and seals the roof against the worst ravages of the weather by sealing the upper half of the slot between shingles and effectively prevents rain, snow or sleet from being driven through to the roof boards.

THE roof is the most susceptible part of your house to fire. Flying embers from a passing train, the wind-strewn sparks from a burning building, are apt to be blown on to your roof.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs offer you protection against this ever-present danger. Through actual test, it has been proved that where ordinary roofings burn, a Vulcanite Hexagon Slab roof does not even smoulder. Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs form a solid, double-thick, fire-resisting roof and a thorough protection against stormy weather as well. Neither rain nor snow can seep through this sturdy covering. Beautifully surfaced in red or green crushed slate.

Vulcanite Roofing of the same high quality also comes in individual shingles, four-in-one slab shingles, and in rolls, both slate surface and smooth finish—for home, farm and industrial buildings. You can identify the genuine by the Vulcanite name and the Beaver trademark. Ask your dealer for full information or write us. We will send free samples and a booklet on request.

OJIBWAY INDIANS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 2.—Sault Ste. Marie is to attempt something unusual this summer. Alongside the city is an Ojibway tribe, the original Saulteaux (pronounced soto) or inhabitants of the Sault. At the celebration of the Sault and Lake Superior, and these Ojibways are to produce an elaborate presentation on two afternoon's of Longfellow's "Hiawatha." All the actors will be Ojibways and they will speak their paarts in their own language. The play will be produced at the river front at the east end of the city.

Thireen years ago a dozen of the relatives of the poet Longfellow visited the reserve, to see in person the country referred to in the poem. The Sault is in the heart of the Hiawatha country, and the old Indian name of the city, "Pawiting," appears several times in the poem. The poet's daughter was greatly interested in her hosts, and in her two weeks visit formed a high opinion of the chief men and women of the tribe. She discovered to her surprise that the indians had a fair knowledge of the poem, which they discussed with her, eulogizing its fidelity to detail. Mr. Longfellow had never visited the Sault, but had received his information as to the ways of the Ojibways and their legends from an old chief who was temporarily a resident on Long Island where the poet met him.

It is interesting to note that the ancient home of the Ojibways according to the "Handbook of the Indians of Canada," issued by the Dominion Government, was Algoma. It is a curious fact that the Sault appears constantly in recorded history for a longer period, and more continuously than any other community in Ontario. For this reason, the Sault Indians, their customs, manner of living, their wars and migrations are pretty faithfully chronicled over a long period of time. Sagard, the Recollect historian, the old French Relations, Nicholas Perrot, P Marquette, La Hontan, Galinee and a host of other writers of the 17th, century, deal with the Sault and its inhabitants. It is recorded that there were 2,000 people there in 1641, and when St. Lusson proclaimed French sovereignty over the Great Lakes in 1671, the same number of people were assembled there.

The Ojibway band of the Garden River Reserve alongside the Sault, numbers nearly 500, there are 1,200 of the tribe in the district. These still refer to the Sault at Pawiting, which means "The Rapids." Champlain's map of 1632 shows eleven cabins there, seven on the Canadian side and four on the American side, of the river. The two modern Saults preserve the same proportion of houses and inhabitants.

Want Ad Tips

A THIRST FOR INFORMATION

Every neighborhood has its Mr. Jones or Jack Stump who is never at a loss for a moment, seemingly, for the proper price to put on anything he wishes to sell through the Want Ads. You know him. You may, perhaps, even have envied his easy confidence in setting a price on a farm, a used lawn mower, or apples from his home orchard. There is no need to envy him. You can emulate him.

He has a secret. And at least 90 per cent of that secret can be revealed in four words—a thirst for information.

The person quick and skillful at pricing always watches his local happenings in trade. He talks with people—buyers or sellers, or other possessors of reliable information, who tell him prices, terms of actual transactions. He knows whether real estate is moving fast or slow. If the Jones place down the street sells, he doesn't rest until he has learned all the circumstanrces. And he remembers.

He weighs in his mind the circumstances. Did the article sell for a high price, or a low price? Did the seller have to sell quickly, or were there other conditions favoring the buyer? What ought a similar thing to bring, sold intelligently through the Want Ads?

Anyone who buys or sells from time to time, wheer the price is a thing of adjustment, ought to have a thirst for information. His bump of curiosity concerning actual, straw transactions should be large; he should develop it. The only way one can set a price intelligently, or judge intelligently an asked price, is to use information as a basis. The more pertinent information is possessed, the more accurate will be judgment in respect to price.

A lot of goods in this world are below value because the seller possesses incomplete market information A lot of sales are delayed or lost because, in ignorance, the seller asks too high a price.

Acquire a thirst for information. Learn at what figures actual transactions are being consummated in articles you have to sell. Then when you come to set a price, you will have the first essential—adequate information.

PAIN IN THE JOINTS

Is An Indication That The Blood Is Thin and Watery.

The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling of one of the joints. If this is not treated through the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues—sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is fatal.

A remedy that has corrected many cases of rheumatism is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich and purify the blood so that the poisonous rheumatic matter is driven out of the system as nature intended. Miss Gertie Denne, Washago, Ont., was attacked with rheumatism and found relief through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "About a year ago I was attacked by rheumatism, and for two weeks was confined to my bed. The trouble was so painful affecting the joints of my limbs so that I could not stand alone. Mother had a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and thought they might help me. I began taking them, and when I had taken these pills, got a further supply, with the result that the rheumatism vanished and I was a well girl. I may add that my mother and two of my sisters have also used the pills for various ailments with equal success, and now we are never without them in the house."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood; or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Red Plague Hits Canada's Fur Trade

BRITISH COLUMBIA ROAD ENGINEERS TAMED THIS BRUIN BY REGULAR FEEDING.

(Editor's Note.—This article was compiled by five of the most experienced fur traders, all in charge of company posts.)

The finest furs are obtained in the most densely wooded districts, the most notable exception being the white fox skin of the far northern Barren Lands and Arctic Coasts. The depth of coloring and lustre of a pelt increase in direct relation to the degree of forest cover in the locality where they are taken. This is, of course, a matter of food supply which can be had only in the deep forest.

The fur trade returns from fire swept districts decline rapidly. Fur bearing animals cannot survive the loss of shelter and food. A great migration of the animals takes place and posts far distant from a forest fire will soon register a falling business.

In any great conflagration in the forests, thousands of the most valuable fur-bearing animals are burned to death. Those able to take to water, such as beaver, more frequently escape, but are soon forced to migrate to better feeding grounds.

The older men in the fur industry, the trappers, and others who understand woods life from close contact are usually extremely careful to keep in check their arch enemy, Fire. It is the newer generation, the amateur camper, fisherman, and other transients who under-estimate the treacherous power of fire in a forest.

Will the fur trade of Canada survive?

The question is mostly a fire question. And the only men to answer it is the transient traveller, the man who in seeking a day's sport, cancels the sport and the employment of his fellow-Canadians for generations to come.

Yesterday a haven for fur animals -To-day fireswept and vacant.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Guard Your Health by Sitting Properly

Reading in Bed, a Popular Habit, Should Always Be Done Sitting Up, with Eyes Protected from a Direct Light. The Reclining Position Produces Eye Strain Which May Cause Various Ailments.

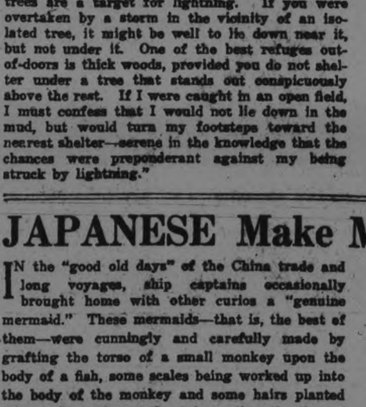
In a Scientifically Designed Chair the Support for the Spine Comes Below the Shoulder Blades. This Serves to Keep the Spine in an Upright Position and Gives the Heart and Lungs the Necessary Freedom of Action. It Also Prevents One from Becoming Round Shouldered and Shallow Chested, as Shown in the Incorrect Posture at the Right.

FEW persons know how to sit properly. An immense amount of energy is wasted every day by using chairs which are designed for looks rather than to give scientific support for the body. If you sit in a chair proportioned in just the right way for your needs, at the end of the day you would be far less fatigued than you usually are. The scientific investigations which have been carried out recently to analyze the strains of various postures on the human body have a wide interest of great importance in many fields. Workers of all kinds who sit before machines or tables in factories or workshops use up an immense amount of valuable energy by sitting in incorrectly designed chairs. It is the same with the average business man who sits all day before a desk.

To determine just how a chair should be designed experiments are made with a human skeleton. When the bony frame is propped-up in a chair it will at once be evident just where the frame needs support. Most chairs which are designed merely to be artistic or fashionable are very unscientific. They cramp the body or cause it to lean forward without proper support at the points where support is most needed. As a result the lungs may be cramped or the heart made to sustain unnecessary pressure. A bad position leads to round shoulders and a bent back. A great variety of serious ills may follow. By sitting in cramped, unscientific positions for many hours every day the lungs, heart and other vital organs may suffer serious injury, and the body be permanently deformed.

In a scientifically designed chair or bench the support for the spine comes just below the shoulder blades. This serves to keep the spine in an upright position and gives the heart and lungs the necessary freedom of action. It also keeps one from becoming round shouldered, at the same time bracing the body so that it has the greatest possible freedom of action. The height of the seat should be contrived so that the feet will rest on the ground or upon some support at just the right height, thus removing unnecessary strains. The seat itself must be so designed that it rises slightly at the front, thus giving the proper support to the bones of the leg just back of the knee. The seat must also be slightly hollowed out to give the right depression for the base of the spine.

Attitudes of body when working have a very definite effect upon the quality of work done. This is because the mass of blood which is circulating in the body may be driven to the brain or to the stomach solely by the posture. Of course not all the blood is thus driven, but either brains or stomach may be supplied with more or less than it needs. So the attitude one assumes in working depends largely upon the character of the work.



Dr. C. Ward Crampton of New York has been making tests of blood pressure on a new principle and comparing them with the work performed, the rest obtained, the recreation taken, and so on. Wilfred S. Ogden, in the Popular Science Monthly, bases on these tests an article about vacations and holidays and their effect upon the efficiency and health of individuals. In this he cites some interesting facts ascertained by Dr. Crampton.

The circulatory system of a man is a vast network of arteries and veins, the veins, thin and flaccid, being tubes through which the blood flows to the heart; and the arteries, firm and elastic, being tubes through which the blood is pumped from the heart. The heart is a very powerful pump. The most important arteries are the ascending aorta, which leads from the heart up toward the head, and the descending aorta which leads down toward the stomach and lower extremities. The force of gravitation helps to draw the blood down, and, in flowing upward the blood is going against gravitation. When a man is lying flat on his back the blood is equally distributed throughout the body without effort. When he stands up, if he is in good health, his nervous system and muscles force the great veins in the stomach to contract and drive the blood away from the abdomen. If much fatigued, the nerves and muscles relax and let the blood drain into the abdomen, while the whole body sags.

The circulation of blood in the stomach is most important. The stomach and intestines need a copious supply for performing their functions of digestion, therefore the descending aorta, the main pipe through which the heart sends blood to them, is the biggest of all the arteries. It supplies blood to the legs also and to all the other organs below the diaphragm. The blood flowing among the digestive organs absorbs from them the products of digestion and passes through the portal vein to the liver, which is a great laboratory and a filter in which the blood is rid of many substances which it has absorbed. It is always full of blood. A great vein (the vena cava) conveys the blood from the liver to the heart, being joined on its way by another big vein bearing blood from the legs. The heart immediately pumps all this impure black blood into the lungs, where it is purified by the oxygen in the air you breathe, flows back pure and red to the heart again, and is once more pumped forth to do its work in the body.

A great and complex system of nerves, called the sympathetic, regulates all this mechanism automatically.

To be able to do physical work and athletic sports well, one must keep the muscles of the abdomen strong. This will prevent the stomach from becoming overladen with blood, and thus robbing the brain and muscles of that which they require if they are going to do their work efficiently.

How the SCIENTIFIC CHAIR Puts the BODY in Its Proper POSTURE

In connection with the relation of posture to health the widespread habit of reading in bed or in a reclining position comes in for a few remarks. According to Lt.-Col. R. H. Elliott, lecturing on "The Eye in Health," at the London Institute of Hygiene, as quoted in the New York Medical Record, reading in bed is considered a vicious habit because it is so often done with a light behind the shoulder and the eyes turned up. It is the position that does the mischief. If you sit up and look down at the print, and have a good light, there is no reason why reading in bed should be any more harmful than reading at a desk.

"Long ago," Dr. Elliott says, "the ancestor of man and the higher apes developed the use of the opposing thumb, and on this hung the whole future of civilization. The thumb, which could be used in opposition to the fingers, enabled its possessor to pick up and study the objects that lay around him. The objects studied were always held below the level of the eyes, and thus, all through the ages the muscles that depress the eyes have been more called upon than those which raise them. Today the latter are weaker than the former and are much more liable to tire when the eyes are directed upward. Hence the evil of lying on the back in bed reading a book."

CURIOUS CEREMONIES Connected With the CREMATION of a BUDDHIST MONK

WHEN the head monk, or Sadaw, of a district in Burmah departs this life he does not, according to Buddhist doctrine, die; he merely leaves this world to return to the highest heaven of nats. The obsequies, which Capt. H. T. Parry describes in the London Graphic, are very interesting, attracting crowds from all the neighborhood.

The body is first washed by the monks, and part of it buried in the monastery compound. The stomach is then filled with hot ashes, sawdust and various spices, and is sewn up again. Then the monk's thumbs and big toes are tied together, and "ferry money" is placed in his mouth. After that the body is embalmed in honey and placed in a coffin, which is a single log hollowed out, with a lid on it; a bamboo pipe sometimes leads from the coffin to the ground to dry up the embalmed body.

The coffin is then varnished and gilded and placed in an outer casket, which is sometimes very gorgeous, with rich gilt and painted panels representing religious subjects, these panels being framed with mosaics of cut glass, colored glass and metals. The cremation of the body takes place at least six months after death. Before the operation a very large "thein," or monastery for the dead, is erected, the money being provided by the neighboring monasteries and villages. Made of bamboo, and covered with tinsel, it is as large as a bungalow and has the regulation seven-storied spire, or "pya-that," above it, symbolical of the seven heavens of the nats. Placed round it are smaller pya-thats supplied by the neighboring villages, the inhabitants of which flock out in large numbers to witness the interesting ceremony.

The body is placed in each of the pya-thats in turn, and is then dragged round the central edifice. It is very curious to watch this peculiar spectacle. The coffin is ultimately carried into the sacred edifice, and is there placed under a large white umbrella with long fringes on it. A number of religious paintings hang around, some grotesque, others depicting the horrors of hell with terrible vividness.

An extraordinary ceremony ultimately takes place. The inner coffin is placed on a low four-wheeled wagon, and two long ropes are attached to each end of the same. Men from the neighboring villages now catch hold of the ropes, and have an uproarious tug-of-war to decide which village shall have the honor of dragging the coffin in the wagon to the place where it has been decided the cremation shall take place. A funeral pyre has been made on this spot, consisting of bamboo matting and pasteboard in the form of the seven-roofed spire, with inflammable matter underneath.

The pyre is then fired by rockets, sometimes of an enormous size, often being nine feet long and five feet round, and shaped as a dragon. These rockets are fired at the pyre from about forty yards distance. As one may imagine, it takes a long time before the pyre is fired. Most rockets splutter and emit a fearsome odor, and there is sure to be at least one which will go off at right angles into the crowd; some will not light at any price. At last a lucky shot plunges into the funeral pyre, and in a few minutes flames rise up twenty feet. Spire after spire falls, and when the central one goes a loud shout goes up from the onlookers.

When the embers have cooled the monks search for any pieces of bone to be buried near their pagoda. Sometimes, in the case of a specially saintly monk, the bones are pounded down, made into a paste and moulded into an image of the Buddha to be placed in the monastery.

DANGERS Coming from LIGHTNING

EVERYONE marvels at lightning and most persons fear it unreasonably. Of all the lightning flashes generated by a vivid summer storm, less than 1 per cent. strike the earth, according to Charles P. Steinmetz, one of the world's greatest electrical engineers. The rest are confined to the sky that breeds them.

"There are certain sensible precautions for anyone to heed in a thunder storm," says Mr. Steinmetz in Practical Electrics. "Most of them are quite different, however, from the pet superstitions our ancestors have handed down to us."

"I can think of just three places where you will be absolutely safe in a thunderstorm: One is an underground chamber; another is a space entirely surrounded by a metal network; the last, and the only one of the three which you are liable to be able to utilize, is a steel-framed building.

"Steel-framed buildings are excellent conductors. They tend to relieve by 'silent discharges' the electric strain always existing between earth and sky during a thunderstorm. Sometimes they are struck, but the people inside them never know it.

"Small detached pieces of metal have no effect on the path of lightning, either indoors or out. Last summer a party of golfers, caught in a thunderstorm, threw away their clubs, lest the metal should attract the lightning. Their fears on this cause were groundless.

"If you glory in a thunderstorm, as I do, you will want to stand at a window or on the front porch and watch it. And there you will be just about as safe as anywhere else.

"One of the most dangerous of all places out-of-doors is the shelter of an isolated tree. Such trees are a target for lightning. If you were overtaken by a storm in the vicinity of an isolated tree, it might be well to lie down near it, but not under it. One of the best refuges out-of-doors is thick woods, provided you do not shelter under a tree that stands out conspicuously above the rest. If I were caught in an open field, I must confess that I would not lie down in the mud, but would turn my footsteps toward the nearest shelter—serene in the knowledge that the chances were preponderant against my being struck by lightning."

RIGHT and LEFT-HANDED ORATORS

THE fact that there are right and left-handed speakers has escaped record until it was brought to notice by W. Gilman Thompson in a letter to Science. Mr. Thompson says that he has frequently verified it by observation. Given an oblong audience hall where the speaker stands in the centre of one side, unless he be a practised speaker, he usually will address the majority of his remarks toward one or the other end of the hall, depending upon whether he be right or left-handed.

"In illustration," says Mr. Thompson, "I recently listened in a hall of this description to two cultivated Englishmen. One was an orator accustomed to speak in the House of Parliament, where the audience surrounds the speaker on all sides. He turned equally to the right and left of his audience, but the other, a general, more accustomed to the battlefields than the rostrum, gesticulated with his right hand so forcefully that he pulled himself around to face his audience upon his right, to the almost complete ignoring of those seated upon his left. Meanwhile, in his embarrassment, with his left hand he clung to the lapel of his coat, which further precluded his turning toward that side!

"In a medical lecture hall into which an adjoining room often is thrown open to accommodate an overflow audience, there is a narrow but tall reader's desk at the centre of one side. It is amusing to note that the right-handed speaker often leans upon this desk with his right arm, thereby turning himself to address his audience upon his left, but should he remove his right arm to gesticulate (which medical speakers from the nature of their subject rarely have occasion to do), he pulls himself around to face the opposite end of the wide but shallow hall. The left-handed speaker does the reverse.

"As the majority of speakers are right-handed, I have found it an advantage for hearing to sit in the audience upon their right side, unless there be a tall reading desk, when it is safer to sit upon their left!

"Related to this topic is the question of right- and left-eyedness. Apart from any question of possible difference in acuteness of vision is the fact that many persons cannot close the two eyelids with equal facility, which sometimes may account for poor marksmanship. In sighting a shotgun, for instance, from the right shoulder, if one instinctively closes the right eyelid much more readily than the left, in order to use the left eye one must bring the head much further over toward the stock of the gun, and failure to do this quickly and completely results in poor aim, particularly in rapid firing, as in taking birds on the wing."

Some Strange USES for AIRPLANES

AIRPLANES nowadays are being put to many strange uses. In one district where valuable trees were being stripped by caterpillars, which could not be reached by spraying machines without much time and expense, the help of an airplane was called in. The airman, flying low, sprinkled the trees thoroughly with a powder of arsenate of lead, and practically all the pests were exterminated and the trees saved.

Forest fires are being suppressed with an ease that would have astonished the fire-fighter of other days. A patrol of airplanes is able to discover a fire at its earliest stage and by wireless messages direct the forest "firemen" before the danger spreads.

One of the most interesting experiments recently made by airplane was that of an astronomer who required pictures of the sun. He found that photographs taken from the earth's surface were to some extent spoiled by particles of dust in the atmosphere. The airman was able to remedy this by climbing to an altitude of 17,000 feet and taking the photographs above the clouds—and consequently above the dust!

Fur coats, too, are becoming more plentiful through the airplane's help. In the old days the hunter's main difficulty was to locate the ice-floes carrying herds of seals. This the airman does without trouble, and keeps the ship in touch by wireless with the results of his patrol.

Ocean mails are also to be expedited by the new "pocket" plane, a machine with folding wings which can be stowed away in a small space on board the mail-carrying liners.

When the liner leaves, for instance, New York, the ship-plane will stay behind and pick up letters marked "express" which arrived too late for the boat. It will then rejoin the liner, overtaking it at the pace of 120 miles an hour.

Within a few hundred miles of land the 'plane once more makes a flight. Taking the most urgent letters, it races ahead for the port, and the special mail will have been delivered all over the country before the liner arrives in port.

Does DAYLIGHT SAVING Decrease DEATH Rate?

SINCE daylight saving began in the United States under the Act of Congress of March 16, 1918, a decreased death rate during the months of May to September, both inclusive, is indicated by life insurance statistics. The latest bulletin presents the statistics without dwelling on their coincidence with daylight saving, but reports the decrease as a novel and significant item.

The greatest decrease in the number of human deaths has been in the third quarter of the year, July, August and September. The tables show 30.3 per cent. decline in those months since 1913. The decline since 1918 has been 25 per cent. in number of deaths, or 82 per cent. of the total decrease since 1913. Smaller percentages, but a decrease in mortality during the late spring and early autumn months—in the daylight saving period—are exhibited by the statistics for the second and fourth quarters of the year.

"It is of singular interest that these three months show not only the greatest decline in mortality during the last ten years, but also register the minimum mortality rates for the year," the bulletin reads. "The mortality decrease, total, for the years 1913 to 1922—12 to 8.3—is 26.7 per cent. The decrease for July, August and September is 10.9 to 7.6, or 30.3 per cent. In 1916 it rose above that of 1915—10.1 to 10.7—but in 1918, it dropped to 9.7; in 1919 it was 8.2; 1920, 7.9, and 1922, 7.6."

JAPANESE Make MERMAIDS from MONKEYS and FISH

IN the "good old days" of the China trade and long voyages, ship captains occasionally brought home with other curios a "genuine mermaid." These mermaids—that is, the best of them—were cunningly and carefully made by grafting the torso of a small monkey upon the body of a fish, some scales being worked up into the body of the monkey and some hairs planted among the scales of the fish, so that the line of junction was invisible.

As mankind in general is fond of the marvellous and prefers an improbable to a simple explanation, these creatures were accepted by many as the "real thing."

It was one of these "fabricated mermaids" that was so profitably exploited by Barnum in the early days of his museum.

Barnum's mermaid was anticipated by one exhibited in London a few years before, which was said to have been "taken by a Dutch vessel from on board a native Malacca boat, and from the reverence shown it by the sailors, the conjecture is probably correct that it was intended to be a representation of the incarnation of one of their idol-gods.

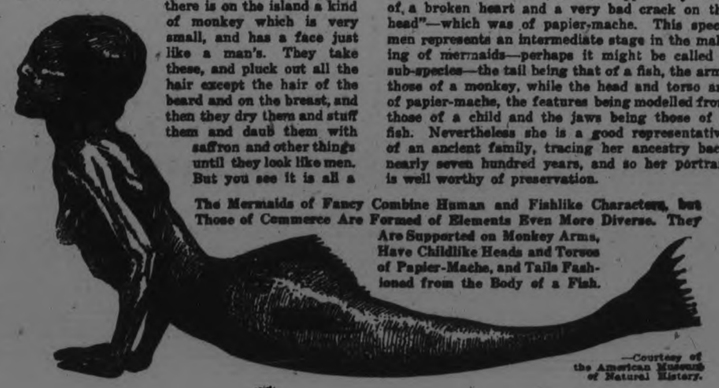
"So considerable were the profits that accrued from the exhibition, that the mermaid became the subject of a suit in chancery; but the bubble soon burst, and it is now exhibited along with a learned pig in a penny show."

In these days of machine-made products it requires too much time and labor to make a really good mermaid, so to supply the demand the canny Japanese have put on the market an inferior brand, made almost entirely of papier-mache, the fins and tail only being real, and the original species bids fair to become extinct.

And yet, so much does man long for the spectacular, so greatly does he prefer fiction to fact, that some of these papier-mache mermaids have been brought to the American Museum of Natural History in New York City for the purpose of ascertaining whether they were "genuine."

The mermaid seems to have been antedated by a species of pigmy which was described by Sir Marco Polo as follows:

"I may tell you, moreover, that when people bring home pygmies which they allege to come from India, 'tis all a lie and a cheat. For those little men, as they call them, are manufactured on this island, and I will tell you how. You see, there is on the island a kind of monkey which is very small, and has a face just like a man's. They take these, and pluck out all the hair except the hair of the beard and on the breast, and then they dry them and stuff them and daub them with saffron and other things until they look like men. But you see it is all a cheat; for nowhere in India nor anywhere else in the world were there ever men seen so small as these pretended pygmies."



The Mermaids of Fancy Combine Human and Fishlike Characters, but Those of Commerce Are Formed of Elements Even More Diverse. They Are Supported on Monkey Arms, Have Childlike Heads and Torsos of Papier-Mache, and Tails Fashioned from the Body of a Fish.

—Courtesy of the American Museum of Natural History.

It is just possible, however, that this really refers to the mermaid, or it may be that the pygmy gave way to the sea nymph when it was learned that she was the "better seller" of the two.

The mermaid here figured is one brought to the museum a short time ago by Mrs. Walter Taylor. The ravages of time (a mermaid of fifty cannot be expected to look as fair as one of fifteen) and lack of care had impaired her good looks, and like the doll, she had apparently "died of a broken heart and a very bad crack on the head"—which was of papier-mache. This specimen represents an intermediate stage in the making of mermaids—perhaps it might be called a sub-species—the tail being that of a fish, the arms those of a monkey, while the head and torso are of papier-mache, the features being modelled from those of a child and the jaws being those of a fish. Nevertheless she is a good representative of an ancient family, tracing her ancestry back nearly seven hundred years, and so her portrait is well worthy of preservation.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

A NOVEL SCHEME FOR PAYING OFF ALL CITY DEBTS.

Planned By Socialists, Enacted Into Law By Wisconsin — How It Is Expected to Work.

By HERBERT LITTLE

MADISON, Wis., June 2 (United Press).—The city of Milwaukee, once made famous by beer, is going after a more respectable claim to fame. A two part plan to retire all of the city's bonds and set aside permanent funds that will make the municipality the owner of more money than it can spend in a few decades, has just gone into effect.

Thomas Duncan, socialist member of the assembly and former secretary to Daniel Hoan, socialist mayor of Milwaukee is the author of the "amortization fund"bill for Milwaukee, which has been passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Blaine.

Both parts of the scheme go into effect January 1, 1924.

The "public money amortization fund, legalized by the new state law, provides that about $400,000 is to be set aside next January, and about $300,000 of the city's money, a year thereafter. This money will come from "one-third of the interest money on the city's bank balance," and from any private bequests specifically given by citizens to the fund. This fund is to be invested in Milwaukee municipal bonds, so the taxpayers will be paying interest on their city's bonds to the city government, instead of to capitalists who buy municipal bonds at present.

The fund continues to grow at compound interest until it is equal to three-fourths of the outstanding bonded debt of the city, which would be $15,000,000, if the city debt stayed at its present figure of $20,000,000. At that time three-fourths of the income of the fund shall be applied to retiring all city bonds, both principal and interest.

A Private Trust Fund

The other part of the plan is a perpetual private trust fund into which all moneys received by request or gift are to remain intact forever, the city getting 25 per cent of the interest thereon for the next 25 years, 50 per cent of the interest for the following 25 years, and 87 1-2 per cent of the income after the first 50 years.

Both parts of the plan are based on the socialistic principle of putting the city on the money saving business for itself with the city getting the interest.

Private savings are dispersed at the end of the saver's life-time, in most cases, but the city has a continuous existence, and through compound interest on these two funds can double its money every decade, and keep up the process indefinitely.

Opponents of the proposal call it "taxing this generation to pay the expense of the next generations," but the socialist proponents claim it will lower taxes to an extent that Milwaukee will be given a great advantage over her industrial rivals in the nation.

Present Indebtedness

Milwaukee's bonded indebtedness in now $45 per capita, giving her already a considerable advantage in this respect, as the Detroit Bureau of Research lists New York City with a bonded debt of $189 per capita; Seattle, $180 per capita; San Francisco, $139; Cleveland, $123; New Orleans, $108; Akron, O., $107; Newark, N. J., $104; Boston, $104; Baltimore, $100; Toledo, $99; Philadelphia, $91; Detroit, $87; Pittsburgh, $82; Minneapolis, $77; Buffalo, $70.

Under the present system of issuing bonds to meet big expenditures, if a city issues bonds of about $1,000,000 a year for twenty years, as Milwaukee has done, at the end of the twelth year the entire issue is taken up by the expenses of paying the interest and retiring the five per cent of principal required by state law, according to Assemblyman Duncan.

"The enormous increase in taxation over the country results from the policy of issuing bonds now on vogue in American cities," Duncan said. "This has nitherto been concealed in the United States by the unusually rapid growth in population and wealth, giving a great increase in valuation every year.

Tax Burdens Increase

"However, as the country becomes filled up and the population and the valuation do not increase with such rapidity, the tax burden will become greater and greater, particularly in view of the recent addition of the $25,000,000,000 national war debt.

"It is this situation which, I believe, makes necessary the establishment of a perpetual fund, which should in time result in an endowment.

"The revenue from the fund should pay the non-revenue producing functions of city government, such as parks, schools, streets, hospitals, highways, bridges. Revenue producing improvements, such as municipal waterworks, electric power or street railway companies, will take care of themselves and pay their own way, or at least, will bring no unusual burden on the taxpayer."

If Milwaukee's plan is successful, a huge fund will be accumulated, all debts will be paid off, and residents eventually may escape from local taxation altogether.

MANY LONDON SWINDLERS THRIVE ON TIMID VICTIMS

LONDON, June 2 (Associated Press).—Swindling has taken the place of violence as the most prevalent type of crime, says Sir Leonard Dunning, Inspector of Constabulary for England.

"Crimes of violence have steadily decreased for years" says Sir Leonard in a report. "Modern crime is civilized and educated because the criminal of today knows that it is far safer and more profitable to swindle hundreds than to rob one by knocking him in the head."

It has been stated that there are hundreds of professional criminals in England whom the police are powerless to arrest. Many of these people derive very large incomes by trading upon the credulity of a certain section of wealthy people. In the vast majority of cases the criminals are never prosecuted either because of the difficulty of proving the fraud against them or because the people victimized do not want publicity.

The London spring social season is the "open sesame" for the English "raffles," and they lose no opportunity of adding to their incomes through defrauding the wealthy. One of the most popular means during the last few years has been for the criminal to gain entrance to various social affairs and make it a point of being seen in the company of well-known people. Then they proceed to organize entertainments, beg donations for hospitals, and by other means to raise large sums supposedly for the benefit of war veterans, but which never get beyond the pocket of the organizer. The police claim to have knowledge of several hundreds of such schemes but they are unable to act as the victims refuse to appear in police court.

Rotary Convention

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—(Associated Press). — Administrative problems and the best way to introduce a standard code of ethics among business and profesional men throughout the world will focus the attention of ten thousand delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of the Rotary International. which opens June 18.

The number of Rotary clubs in the world has almost doubled within the last five years, and there now are more than fourteen hundred club units, divided into 39 districts in cities of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Denmark, Uruguay, Spain, Panama and Argentina, with one international organization in the British Isles, Australia and South Africa.

Probably the most interesting business to come before the convention will be the discussion of the proposition that Rotary clubs concentrate their energies for a year in development of programs that will have for an object the introduction of standard codes of ethical practices among business and professional men in all business or professions represented in Rotary.

An unusually large number of delegates from clubs overseas, particularly those from the British Isles and various parts of the British empire have announced their intention of coming and some have already started.

St. Louis is making great preparations for the reception of the visitors, and already reservations have been made for more than 8,000 Rotarians.

SHAREHOLDERS HELD MEETING

New Company Will Take Over Assets of Birmingham Motorsand Protect Shareholders.

At a meeting of the shareholders of Birmingham Motors, Ltd., in the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, Mr. James A. Wright, designer of the car, gave an interesting insight into the history of its development and possibilities.

The company which he represents in Montreal has arranged to take over the Canadian manufacturing and patent rights and the physical assets of Birmingham Motors, Ltd. The plan outlined at this meeting showed that the new company will permit shareholders of Birmingham Motors, Ltd., to protect their holdings in the Montreal company equal to their holdings in the original company on payment of $1.50 a share, which reinstates their investment.

The Montreal Company, Mr. Wright said, has made a survey of the entire automobile manufacturing field in North America, and has compiled plans for the manufacture and distribution of the cars throughout the provinces on a production basis taking into consideration the requirements of their particular class of car in each province.

The manufacturing programme of the new company, he continued, contemplates the building of 3,000 cars in production runs of 1,000 each, this amount being only two per cent. of the potention market in Canada. This assures the placing of the product of the factory readily and economically.

The production and distribution programme are based upon a fundamental economical process of manufacture and distribution, and to further insure the success of the company, a trust agreement has been drawn and placed in the hands of the Prudential Trust Company. All disbursements for labor, materials and other requirements will be made by the Trust Company. "This," Mr. Mr. Wright declared, "conclusively shows the faith that the Montreal Company has in its proposition, and assures shareholders as well as dealers and distributors that the company's affairs will be properly handled, and that no moneys will be spent other than as laid down in the trust agreement. It also insures those who supply materials for construction that they will receive their money for the materials supplied."

Mr. Wright believes that the Montreal Company is handling its affairs upon a safer and saner basis than any automobile project that has ever been presented to the public in Canada. He intimated that shareholders who were not present at the meeting and who had not been communictaed with by Mr. N. R. Deen of the Shareholders' Committee or himself, have the opportunity of protecting their interests in the Peterborough company by communication with either of these gentlemen at the Munro Hotel.

Cupid's a Fast Worker

Vast Virgin Areas in United States

WASHINGTON, June 2 (Associated Press).—Nearly one-hal of the land area of the United States, or 822,000,000 acres, was originally forested, but today there are less than 470,000,000 acres timber, including inferior culled and second growth and millions of acres of unproductive land. Of this amount only 138,000,000 acres are of virgin timberland.

"Mining" of timber instead of cultivation of this natural wealth as crop, is held responsible for depletion of the country's timber resources in a review published in the yearbook of the Department of Agriculture for 1922 The amount at present being taken out of forests is estimated at four times the replacement by growth. More tna 8,000,000 acres were destroyed in a recent year by 38,400 forest fires, and 75 per cent of all lumber is still being cut from virgin stands.

While clearing forested land originally was undertaken to aid agriculture, the demands for timber soon outstripped the farm land demands, until now there are millions of cleared acres idle. In Michigan, at the average rate of settlement for the last 20 years, it would take 380 years to settle the present area of cut-over lands and the remaining timber land that soon will be cut. In the southern part of the Lower Michigan Peninsula it would take 1,700 years.

"The tradition that all cut over burned over forest land, or even the greater part of it, is being taken by agriculture is not borne out by facts," the yearbook says. "The total area of forest lands already cut or burned over, exclusive of farm wood lots, that has not been taken for agricultural use, has already grown to 181,000,000 acres. Furthermore, our forest land is being cut over at the rate of about 10,000,000 acres yearly, and probably more than half this area is in virgin forest."

Idle cut-over forest lands mean a great expense to the community and to the state. Consumption of timber resources means removal of sawmills and wood working factories, with consequent loss of population, money and investment. Finding business to light, many branch railroads in worked-out timber sections have been forced to discontinue, and the abandonment of adjacent farms and other property has followed.

The Agrculture Department experts do not believe, however, that the age of wood has been left behind. Chemical research is revealing uses for wood heretofore undreamed of, such as the manufacture of artifical silk, rope, and carpets. The next few years, some say, may see the use of wood on a large scale for the production of fuel alcohol to replace gasoline and, in addition, it is believed possible that the abandonment of poor farms and the trend to permit low-producing lands to return to forest may in time reverse the present run-away reduction of forest acreage.

Looking Backward

It is interesting to look back a few years to the beginning of something to which the present generation is quite accustomed, and see how the innovation was made and received.

The first X-ray machine was exhibited in Peterborough on September 14, 1897. The exhibition was public, and a large gathering was entertained by the experiments.

Local interest was lent to the occasion because the inventor, Professor Fessenden was a nephew of the Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

In the exhibition one man placed himself between the light and the audience, and a bullet in his arm was plainly seen, "like a blot of ink on a sheet of white paper" as the Examiner describes it. The pulsations of another man's heart were seen.

Local practitioners were eager to see one of the new instruments installed here.

TO REFER THE SCHOOL ISSUE TO RATEPAYERS

Special Meeting of the Campbellford Council Held Last Evening — Tenders Received.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 2.—"Are you in favor of granting to the Board of Education of the town of Campbellford an additional $28,800 for the purpose of completing the High school in accordance with the original plans."

The above question will be submitted to the taxpayers of the town at a special election to be held on June 28th, this solution of the High school problem having been decided upon at a special meeting of the Council held last night and which looks like a final settlement of the controversy that has engaged the attention of the Board of Education and the Council for the past two years. Four of the members of the Council, Mayor Meyers, Burke, Allan and Meiklejohn voted against the amendment of Councillor Carter to refer the question to the people, while five — Reeve Anderson, Deputy-reeve Wilkinson and Councillors Carter, Cole and Dorrie supported it. Finally, however, the vote for a refernce to the taxpayers was on the suggestion of Mayor Meyers, made unanimous.

The Mayor Explains.

When Clerk McGregor read the formal request of the Board of Education for an additional grant of $28,800 to complete the building, the Mayor said he was in favour of having the school property finished as to do so would settle the question in Campbellford for the next 25 or 30 years. If the work is delayed now it is likely to cost the town thousands of dollars. With an uncompleted structure it will be impossible to lay out the grounds properly. He was unable to understand why the Department of Education had ever approved of a building in which no provision had been made for a system of ventilation.

"Do you think they ever did?" asked Councillor Dorie.

Mayor Meyers replied that he had written to the Department and had been assured that the revised plans had been approved provisionally.

"If the building is not completed now," continued the Mayor, "this matter will come up again in two or three years and anyone can see what a mess it would make of things, to put in a system of ventilation then."

"Why not refer the question to the people?" asked Councillor Carter.

The Mayor replied that the only objection to taking such a course was that it would involve delay. The contractor can do the work cheaper at this stage of construction, as it would require four or five weeks to get the verdict of the taxpayers. He was satisfied that if the Council voted the additional $28,800 asked for that 75 per cent. of the property owners would say that they had done right.

Councillor Carter said that the old High school building could be used as a gymnasium by the High school students and by the pupils of the Public and Separate schools as well, but to this the Mayor replied that it was only the older children who used such a department.

Reeve Anderson Objects.

Reeve Anderson reaffirmed his objection to any further expenditure and went over the ground charging that the Board of Education had ignored the Council from the start.

"A man should be big enough and broad enough to see the necessity for completing this work," said the Mayor.

"I am big enough and broad enough, I hope," returned Reeve Anderson, "to be guided by what the people want."

"No argument," said the Mayor, "can be used to show that what will be right two years hence is wrong now. You have often said that you would be in favor of a new High school two years from now."

"I would be in favor of it then, only if the people wanted it," was the Reeve's reply.

Deputy-reeve Speaks.

Deputy-reeve Wilkinson expressed the hope that the end of the long drawn out controversy was at hand. The new school as at present planned is not satisfactory as everybody knows, but the people believe that the time is not opportune for additional outlay on a building. There are streets to fix up and sewers to put in and the ratepayers as a rule were of the opinion that if the matter had been delayed for two years there would be less opposition to a new school. The Board of Education had refused to submit the plans to the Council. The latter may not have the right to demand the plans, but he believed that the building should have been delayed. There was too, objection to the site. The Deputy-reeve was in favour of referring the question to the people.

Resolution For Grant.

Mayor Meyers then offered a resolution, which was seconded by Councillor Meiklejohn, that the request of the Board of Education be granted.

Councillor Carter moved, and Councillor Cole seconded, an amendmgent that the matter be referred in the form of a question by-law to the ratepayers.

Mayor Meyers said that the amendment put the councillors who were in favor of his resolution in a peculiar position. He did not believe there was a member who objected to giving the people a chance to vote on the question but that they recognized the fact that the $28,800 asked for to complete the building now might not be sufficient if the work is delayed for four or five weeks. After several of the councillors had concurred in this view of the matter the Mayor had written into the records a statement containing this explanation.

The amendment then carried, Reeve Anderson, Deputy-reeve Wilkinson, Councillors Carter, Cole and Dorie voting in the affirmative, and Mayor Meyers, Councillors Allan, Burke and Meiklejohn in the negative. On motion of the Mayor and Councillor Meiklejohn, the vote was then made unanimous. The form of the question to be submitted to the taxpayers, as quoted above, was then drawn up by the Mayor and agreed to.

The special election will be held on 28th June, the earliest legal date after the three weeks required to advertise the matter.

Other Business.

Surveyor James, of Toronto, will be invited to Campbellford to meet the Council and discuss the question of a new plan of the town. The necessity for this proposed work is imperative as the Registrar at Colborne has threatened to refuse to record any more deeds of property here unless a new plan is prepared.

Engineer R. W. Scott, of the Water and Light Commission, reported that some irresponsible parties were breaking the street lights. The Council authorized Chief Police Duncalfe to offer a reward of $25 for information leading to the conviction of these hoodlums.

Two tenders were received for the construction of the sewer on Garry street. John Hall offered to do the work for $5,797 and T. A. Brown's figure was for $6,770. These bids will be taken up at another meeting of the Council.

The next regular meeting falls on Monday, but as this is a holiday, the regular session will be held on 11th June.

KING GEORGE IS 58.

LONDON, June 2. — (United Press)—King George is officially celebrating his 58th today—actually he is not 58 until tomorrow, but Sunday not being a recognized day for state functions, the anniversary was advanced a day, so that anybody who wanted to say "Happy Returns" could do it in working hours.

At all naval and military stations throughout the British Empire the "King's Birthday" was celebrated with customary official festivities.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Many New Members Added to St. Andrew's Church—Court of Revision — Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 2. — Thirty-nine new members have been enrolled at St. Andrew's Church during the past six months. At the present Communion season 14 were received on profession of faith and eight by certificate. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the morning service tomorrow.

A good-sized congregation gathered in the church for the preparatory service and the reception of new members. Rev. J. J. Black, B.D., of Burnbrae, preached a stirring sermon from Jeremiah xii., 5: "If thou hast run with the footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses?" With many practical illustrations, Mr. Black urged the necessity of preparing for future tests of endurance by present fortitude.

After the sermon the minister, Rev. C. F. McIntosh, addressed the new members, expressing gratification at the large number uniting with the church on profession of faith and speaking words of welcome and counsel.

Court of Revision.

Judge Ward, of Cobourg, has completed the session of the Court of Revisioin held here. The number of Progressives and Conservatives added to the list was about evenly divided.

Political Meetings.

After the public meeting to be held here in the Skating Rink on June 7, to be addressed by Premier Drury, Mesley Montgomery, ex-M.L.A., will begin a series of meetings throughout the district. Mayor Belford, the Conservative candidate, will have a meeting at Hastings on Monday night.

Division Court.

There was rather a light docket on Wednesday, Division Court day, when Judge Ward, of Port Hope, presided. The case of Wight versus Valentine Chaplin was disposed of, the defendant being required to vacate the house belonging to Wight, which he at present occupies, and which he had declined to vacate, the plaintiff to pay the costs.

Personal.

Mrs. McCulla, Mrs. Hume and Misses Stewart and Lillian Hay attended the W. M. S. convention held in Knox Church, Peterborough.

GIRL GRADUTES LUCKY THIS YEAR

Fashion Has Provided Beautiful White Frocks in Abundance.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The girl who selected 1923 as the year in which to receive her diploma made a wise selection. Fashion has anticipated her wants this season in an unusually gracious manner.

Not in many seasons have we had such a bewildering collection of beautiful white cotton frocks to select from.

The bouffant organdie with its close bodice and short sleeves is mounted over a satin slip and trimmed with rows of dainty tuckings, rows of lace or perhaps festoons of organdie flowers.

After graduation, when the all-white effect is no longer desired, a slip of pink, blue or even silver cloth may replace the white one, and one of the luscious sashes of supple satin ribbon added to give the dash of color that brings out the white cotton so effectively.

The voiles this season are particularly lovely. Some are solidly embroidered. Some have lacey stripes, others are very soft and fine and entirely plan and are trimmed with smocking, tucks, pleatings or any of the fashionable laces—Valenciennes, fillet, Irish of even Chantilly.

Sleeves are either a minus quantity entirely or merely apologies in the ways of caps or puffs of lace.

The Jenny neckline is still featured through it is by no means obligatory. The drop shoulder line is gaining in favor, particularly with the bouffant skirt.

The waistline is slightly below normal ordinarily though it is by no means so low as it was last season. The low line is not nearly so attractive on the youthful figure as it is on the more mature.

For commencement, with the graduation frock, pumps of white satin or kid are the proper accompaniment, but for other occasions the colored kid pumps, particularly those in delicate tones of lavender, blue or pink are very popular. They are usually worn with white or flesh-colored stockings.

Only one type of millinery suits the bouffant frock—the large, wide brimmed model trimmed with flowers, ribbon or even organdie.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS AN EXCELLENT REMEDY

When the baby is ill—when he is constipated, has indigestion; colds; colic or simple fever or any of the other many minor ills of little ones—the mother will find Baby's Own Tablets an excellent remedy. They regulate the stomach and bowls, thus banishing the cause of most of the ills of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. E. D. Duguay, Thunder River, Que., says:—"My baby was a great sufferer from colic and cried continually. I began giving him Baby's Own Tablets and the relief was wonderful. I now always keep a supply of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OBITUARY

M. McKINNON.

BETHANY, June 2. — There passed away on Friday afternoon, Mr. Mac McKinnon, Senior, at the home of his son James. For some years the late Mr. McKinnon kept an hotel here but the coming of the C. P. Railway absorbed the dwellings in that part of the village and he sold his hotel and retired to the farm. His wife predeceased him some years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss four sons and four daughters.

A SCENIC SCHOOL.

DENVER, Colo., June 2.—(United Press)—Courses in scenic instruction amounting to a class in geography for grown-ups are the latest in Colorado in anticipation of the army of tourists who will spend their summer vacation in the Rockies.

Hotel owners have taken their assistant managers and desk clerks on excursions into the mountains so they, in turn, may advise strangers more intelligently than formerly about sightseeing trips.

Tourist drivers of Colorado Springs are completing a course of instruction fostered by the city administration, not only for certificates of competence, but to meet qualifications in explaining the scenic wonders of the Pikes Peak region.

College students are the only applicants considered for bus drivers by one of the largest transportation companies in the state because they can best explain the geological historical and scenic phases of the journeys to their passengers.

The familiar "redcaps" at the Denver union station have also been schooled in railroad and scenic information so they may be able to direct the tourist on various trips throughout this section thus relieving the traveler of the worry and care of looking up journeys.

G. J. BUCHANAN RENEWS SCENE OF HIS YOUTH

Makes a Return Visit to Peterboro after an absent of thirty years.

WHAT HE SAW

Many a one has gone out from Peterborough, as youth or man, carrying away impressions of the then town and much of association, and who coming back after an interval of years, more or less extended, takes a keen interest in greeting those who remain whom he knew, and looking over the localities where he roamed or sported or even worked while in the place. All such is a manifestation of sentiment, and without sentiment this old world would be much less to all of us than it is.

On Saturday last, one came, who had left the town forty-eight years ago, as a boy of twelve years. He made himself known but found few to recognize As would be the case. But for thirty years had looked forward to the home coming. Had promised thirty years himself, and assured his wife times without number, that when he sold out or passed from the business arena where he lived, that he would make a pilgrimage to Peterborough, much as the Faithful ever turn their faces to Mecca, amongst the Mohammadens.

And here is his confession of faith, which he had carried in mind and treasured for the long years. Nothing very portentuous. Not even aspiring. But homely to the last degree. And so, he said:

"I have driven around your city, noted your advancement, fine schools and public buildings. A plentitude of churches, paved streets and other possessions, but those do not interest me one iota. But I do want to go and see the the water lot along the river where I skipped over the slippery logs, barefooted, fell in and had a happy, happy hour, often. Possibly it was at a place called the Goose Pond, but there were others, for logs lay along the shore at any old place. And caught driftwood, straddled the board or log and pushed it ashore for the benefit of old Napoleon Guerin.

I will see the Locks, (there was only one lock where we gaffed suckers in early spring and afterwards coaxed the mother to fry, and eating, thought the fish the makings of a royal feast. The school that I attended, schemed from, often; where I was whaled for being absent, being inattentive and for general pranks and mischief. If "Hell Street" is yet in existence, (Charlotte St.). I will look for the house that we lived in and which I shall never forget. And the place where the English canoes were made, and at the open door of which I stood and watched the men hammer on the boards and thought that such work was joy indeed. And loafing up in the paint shop with the pungent smell of turpentine and shellac in the room. All in the shop were English, that is of the English family. Gone now, I suppose, though I have as my most cherished possession the English canoe I bought thirty-four years ago. All of this I have longed to see, here and there and yon". And our fellow townsboy, of a time, turned around on the floor and stabbed his arm in all directions, indicating the whereabouts, in memory, of his boy-hood locations. "And, if the building is standing yet, the old town hall, where I was taken by my father, as a first and great treat, to see my first public show, in the old Hill's Music, Hall. It was Cool Burgess' Minstrels and if I live to be a hundred years old, no show will ever look to me so good as did that black-faced aggregation. I was immediately ready to run away from home and become a minstrel, for it seemed the ideal life."

He was told that his widhes could be, and would be gratified. And on Sunday morning, in his own high-powered Yankee built car he was guided all over the city including the scenes of his boyhood. Of course things had changed. He had changed himself, all but that one spot in his memory. But he was mightly pleased, and gratified, and said so in no unmeasured terms. Ready, after a late dinner, to try and hunt up an old friend in the city and then leave for Kingston, taking the highway to the Front and along Lake Ontario.

Who was he and where did he hail from. George Jas. Buchanan, now of Boston, Mass. The family lived in Peterborough and were here as late as 1875, when the members moved to Markham, Ont, and afterwards to Toronto. After a year or two he cut adrift from the family and moved out to seek his fortune. Had lived in Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, St. Louis and finally wound up his migrations by settling in Boston, where he married. It is known that in the States there are two classes of citizens that make much money. Politicans and plumbers. He was of the latter profession and doing a roofing business as well. For thirty years he had prospered and sold out last April and realized the longing of his life by coming back to the Old Home Towm.

All the spots he indicated and wished to see were visited, in the course of a four-hour drive. Mrs. Buchanan was of the party and entered pleasantly into her husband's interest. Saying that George had spoken of the coming trip to Peterborough for many years. Told of the long drive from Boston, around by Toronto, and of the return route by way of the Eastern Townships, in Lower Quebec, and through the Upper States home. Mr. Buchanan seemed grieved that the old English Canoe building premises had been put to other uses, and said he missed the coating of rough-cast plaster on the walls. He recognized the house in which the family lived, on south side of Charlotte St., and bade it an affectionate farewell. The spire of St. Peters Cathedral caught his eye, and he spoke of the tone of the bell, so familiar in boyhood. Drove to St. John's Church and slipped inside to share in the morning service for a few minutes, and glimpse the pew in which the family sat in the long ago, though it is quite possible that the seat had been changed or modernized at the time of the restoration of the church and interior.

Those of the printing craft who still survive from the "handset" days may be interested to know that a friend of his, who lived in Chicago, was Archie Brown, and at three oclock Mr. Buchanan started off to look for Mr. James Brown, of the Examiner staff, and if found, exchange greetings.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

Boy Wizard

A wonderful boy astronomer lives in Athens, Greece. He is William Nelson Abbott, 16 years old.

This lad was the first to make the discovery, some weeks ago, that the star Beta Ceti had "flamed up" to the extreme brilliancy known a "star of the first magnitude."

Astronomy has been his hobby since he was 11. And he is so far advanced in this great scientific field that he has been given honorary membership in the Societe Astronomique de France and the Association Francaise des Observations d'Etoiles Variables of Lyons.

Young Abbott is descended from an Englishman who went to the Near East as a Crusader, centuries ago, and settled in Greece. That ancestor certainly would have been dumfounded if he could have known that one of his descendants would be such a boy prodigy at astronomy. That's the great fascination of parenthood—the uncertainty as to our descendants, their mentality and careers.

Abbott made his discovery, about the star Beta Ceti, with his naked eye. Then he says:

"I went to the telescope to compare Beta with the star Aldebaran, which is taken as a unit, and found that Beta had increased in brilliance more than three magnitudes. I determined the star's position on a chart and telephoned to the Athens Observatory, where it was said that nothing had been observed.

"I telegraphed next day to M. Flammarion, the astronomer in Paris."

Flammarion checked the lad up, found he was right.

You recall the Polish boy chess wizard. On his heels comes this lad in Greece, apparently destined to be one of the world's greatest astronomers, possibly the leader. Margaret Maguire, Philadelphia educator, originator of schools for backward pupils, tells about a boy who came under her observation. He seemed to be the champion dumbbell, half asleep and disinterested in the subjects that the teachers brought to his attention.

"Then," says Miss Maguire, "some one happened to mention radio. And the boy stood up and began to lecture on radio in technical terms that amazed the teachers."

That boy had, born in him, the scientific intellect that is characteristic of the rising generation. When a grown-up hears some of these knee-trousers lads talking about radio—well, it rather makes him feel that the older generation belongs to an obsolete period.

The world is entering a scientific age. The rising generation reveals that, clear-cut, unmistakably.

STRENGTH IN WILL

The endurance dancing craze fizzles. It taught that real strength is in the will power, not in muscles. Similar contests come in every generation, so we're as rational as our ancestors.

In 1899 Miller and Walker bicycled 2,733 miles, beginning Monday and ending Saturday night.

Twenty-two years before that, William Gale, a Welsh bookbinder, walked 1,500 miles in 1,000 hours.

A man in Utica, N. Y., lifted himself on tiptoe 20,000 times without stopping.

A girl in the Sandwich Islands swam 40 miles against running surf.

Nothing is futile, as long as it entertains bored humanity.

What most of us had rather be doing instead of what we are doing during spring is anything else.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS GO TO LONDON DAILY

And Many Learn For First Time Why Britons Are a Hardy Race.

WOODBINE WILLIE

Visitors in this Metropolis are wont to remark these days that now they know why Britons are a hardy race. Maytime; the air is scented with laburman and lilac, and when clouds are not glowering or disposing of their moisture in the orthodox late spring manner, they playfully send down a little snow or hail. Aggravating when you get a shivering glimpse of the countryside's vernal perfection, but it is best, I suppose, to adopt the philosophical calm of the Englishman who goes off on his Whitsuntide holiday according to plan. He knows that if these wondrous isles are harboured only the southern breeze, they would long ago have become a lotus-eaters paridise, with never a hope of a greater destiny.

American visitors continue to arrive, thousands of them, yet almost unawares, for at a distance they look, this year, just like anybody else. Hundreds of Englishmen now wear horn-rimmed glasses; feminine London has adopted low-heeled brown shoes because Pairis has sponsored them; and American women have scrapped their tweed travelling "uniforms" of 1922, or turned in, like last years's motors, for the benefit of their stay-at-home sisters.

* * *

There were a few American girls in smart navy blue suits at an old church near the Bank of England where I had taken some Canadian friends who wanted to hear a real sermon. The rector, the Reverend G. Studdert-Kennedy, otherwisw "Woodbine Willie," as the Tommies called him in his padre days, is one of the strongest forces in the first-war church in England. He fans the guttering flame of faith in a country tired of empty rites and stilted language, with a fiery breath. He talks to plain men and women in a language they know. One day he held a theatre full of people spell-bound for three hours. This old church of St. Edmund, King and Matyr, is packed at the lunch hour with city workers, and people of every grade in society come from all pparts of London to the Sunday services. His mission, he has announced more than once, is to the nation and the whole country is his parish. His "tracts" are books of virile prose and Kiplingish rhymes.

"Woodbine Willie" is an Irishman, in the middle thirties, I should say, with a brogue, a sense of humor that never fails him, and a curious downcast look, which someone has called "that hang-dog expression which is part of the stock-in-trade of so many Irishmen. I thought too, that he had a strong, if unconscious, sense of the dramatic, as he stood in front of lighted tapers with bowed head and folded arms, saying almost under his breath "I shall fight and fight until I die."

His service is very high church and he wears an embroidered cassock of bright red, yet as he stands with arms outstretched before the alter, his rich baritone voice takes a solo in the ant hem

There is another London preacher who is a vital power in his church St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, and out of it. The Reverend Richard Sheppard keeps his church open all during the night for homeless outcasts. It was he who led his people through the Trafalgar Square melee on the first armistic night, holding the cross on high.

St. Jame's in Buckingham Gate usually has a sprinkling of Canadians in its pews. It is a congregational church and for many years resounded to the golden voice of the great Dr. Jowett, who is now very frail and only able to preach occasionally. Visitors who are members of protestant sects other than the church of England find its simple service refreshing and satisfying.

The other evening when the curtain was rung up "At Mrs. Beam's," a comedy of a respectable London boarding house full of "types," I felt there was something vaguely familiar about the accent and appearance of a tall unkempt-looking youth who was tinkering with a gramophone, to the annoyance of the rest of the "frawing-room." The programme solved the mystery. Raymond Massey was the young actor's name, and I remembered having heard that the younger brother of Mr. Vincent Massey, president of the Massey-Harris company, of Toronto, has been seen before on the West End stage, and was ambitious.

His part was quite a good one-the long-legged, gawky youth mad on mechanics—and he got several laughs for that insolent wrinkling of the nose with which the average young Canadian ruffian expresses disgust so satisfactorily. His sudden appearance and silent comment when the "vamp" of the piece succeeded in teaching an amorous but callous young man how to embrace her, was really very funny.

I have just been to Augustus John's exhibition. If you don't know who Augustus John's is, you should. He is the king of London's Bohemia, and any English art student will tell you, the greatest painter of the day and the only living master. Just now John is in America whither he went to judge a Pittsburgh exhibition, and doubtless is captivating thousands with his vivid, unconventional personality.

All sorts of weird legends have grown up around the "Monarch of Chelsea," probably because for years he used to hold his court at the Cafe Royal in Regent Street—where even now should you wander in at the hour of the aperitif, you would see as queer a collection of freaks and poseurs, with here and there a crack-brained genius, as anywhere else in the world—and wore gold ear-rings and a bandana handkerchief around his neck.

John is Welsh and not a gipsey, but those were the days when he used to spend months on end with the Romany wanderers in their caravans. Now his dress is less eccentric, but his striking figures—he wears a beard and his eyes are eternally charged—still dominates Chelsea, and, more or less, the Cafe Royal.

But to return to the exhibition. It includes at least one masterpiece. I it is a masterpiece, for the figure of the famous Italian cellist, Madame Suggia, is music itself. The face, strong, defiant, ugly almost; the fingers moving on the strings; the bow drawing forth a deep-toned note—it is inspired.

An American has bought the painting and insured it for ten thousand pounds, and because he wanted his indentity kept anonymous, some resourceful journalist has told a story of a cruel father who might disinherit the (young) man should he admit paying such a sum for a mere picture.

All John's paintings are alive. For no amount of money would he paint anyone who bored him. And here is where his unconventionality comes in—he only paints the definate things which interest him. If it is a face alone the hands are a mere daub; if their movement is part of the expression he wants to get he will perfect then as in "Madame Suggia;" and he is more audacious in the matter of colouur. That is why it has taken years for the orthodox in art to get accustomed to him.

Apparently the head of a Canadian soldier had interested the artist intensely. It is a face of crude strength with dour courage and wind-swept spaces in the eyes.

THE ABBOTT-ROBERTSON NUPITALS

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was the scene to-day of a particularly lovely "rainbow" wedding, when Phyllis Hope, youngest daughter of Mrs. Robertson of Peterboro, and the late Dr. Alex. J. Robertson, was united in matrimony to Robert Abbott, of Peterboro, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Abbott, of Plainfield, N. J. The ceremony, which took place at one o'clock, was performed by the pastor of the Church, Rev. Robert Pogue.

The bride who entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Edmund Taylor, of Toronto, wore a beautiful gown of ivory satin, with garniture of Honiton lace, the draperies held in place by a large ornament of crystal and pearl beads. The cap veil was of Honiton lace, its coronet caught with orange blossoms, and the long train was lined with shell-pink crepe de chine.

The bride wore the gift of the bridegroom, a bar pin of platinum and diamonds, and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, showered with sweet peas and sweetheart roses.

Two charming little flower-girls, small nieces of the bride and bridegroom, Miss Barbara Birks and Miss Alice Abbott of Paterson, N.J., scattered rose petals and silver confetti in the path of the bridal procession. They wore dainty frocks of pink taffeta, with over-drapes of silver cloth and shoulder knots of ribbon in four rainbow tints; the mauve, pink, yellow and green of the bridal party. Silver wreaths, silver shoes, with pink stockings, and silver baskets, filled with soft-hued blossoms, completed the lovely costumes of the small flower-bearers.

The bride's attendants were gowned in colorful costumes of taffeta, veiled in Georgette of the same tone. Side drapes were of the combined shades used in the four gowns, and hats of crepe de chine, matching their costumes in color, were caught beneath the chine with narrow ribbon streamers of the four rainbow tints. Mrs. Northedge Birks wore pink Ms. Reginald A. Lockhart of Toronto, was in mauve, Miss Dorothy Hill in yellow and Miss Rosamund Huycke in green. Their shower bouquets were of pink Columbia roses.

The best man was Gordon W. Abbott of New York City the ushers Mark L. Mitchell of Cincinnati; Ohio; Reginald Lockhart, of Toronto; William H. Tyson, of Chicago, Illinois; E. Welles Eddy of Hartford, Connecticut; G. Gilbert Browne, and Judson A. Blake, of New York.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mr. Charles Ackerman. Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, in pink, with bouquet of mauve sweet peas and pink roses, sang during the signing of the register, "O Promise Me." The church was artistically decorated for the occasion with ferns and palms and quantities of lilacs, sprigs of the fragrant flower and white ribbons tying off the pews.

The ceremony took place under a huge overhead basket filled with the trailing blooms of purple and white lilac.

The People's Chimes rang out as the radiant bride led the way from the church to the waiting cars.

After the ceremony, a reception to nearly two hundred guests was held at the Peterboro Club, where the handsome rooms were fresh with lilac blooms. The wedding breakfast was served in buffet style, from tables arranged with pink roses, valley lilies nad gypsophili, and covered with dropped rose leaves. Ken Blood's orchestra from Port Hope, supplied the music.

The guests were received by the mother of the bride, Mrs. A. J. Robertson in black crepe trimmed with jet, black hat and corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, and the sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. James R. Blake of New York, wearing grey brocaded crepe and large black hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott left later on the 3.50 C.P.R. train en route for a honeymoon at Hot Springs, Virginia. They will reside in Peterboro at 176 McDonnel street. The bride wore a French costume, of grey and black figured crepe, the accordion-pleated skirt topped by a blouse of pin-pleated georgette and tie jacquette. Shoes and stockings and small hat were in the same color scheme, and a cloak of grey was carried, lined with grey crepe de chine and trimmed with black monkey fur.

Gifts to the bridesmaids from the bridegroom were dainty monogrammed gold vanity cases, with covers of enamels in the four rainbow tints of their gowns. The flower girls received platinum pins, the ushers gold cuff links.

The bridegroom, who is general manager of the Canadian Raybestos Company, was a Yale graduate of the class of 1908, and a member of the famous Scroll and Keys Society of that University. He is an enthusiastic golf player, a winner of the Intercollegiate Golf Championship in 1906, and also of the Connecticut State Championship.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

Shows How to Adjust and Tune up Motor for the Season's Running.

By E. H. SCOTT

This article gives practical, step-by-step instructions to the motorist who wants to reduce his repair bills, get more power from his motor, and eliminate trouble during the coming touring season.

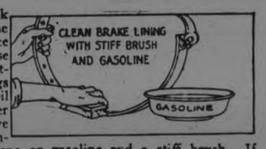
The Brakes—Their Care and Adjustment

There are at least two good reasons why you should test your brakes regularly and give them proper care. The first reason is that people WILL step off the sidewalk and never look where they are going, and if your brakes are not adjusted properly, there is going to be an accident. Then there is the careless, reckless motorist who takes corners at an excessive speed, and rarely slows down or stops at crossroads unless there is an officer there to force him to obey the rules of the road. You are liable at any time to meet one of this class of driver, and to save your car and perhaps your life, it will be necessary for you to be able to stop in a few feet. If your brakes are not adjusted properly, you may find at the critical moment that they will not hold, and another preventable accident has occurred.

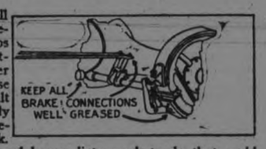
The second reason is that improperly adjusted brakes will cause the rear tires to wear very rapidly. Sometimes one brake band or shoe wears a trifle faster than the other, with the result that most of the braking is being done by one wheel, causing the tire on it to wear rapidly. When the brakes act unequally, it makes the car liable to skid very easily, because the wheel that brakes first forms a pivot for the car to swing on. Play safe and make it a practice to test your brakes as soon as you leave the garage each day to see that they act promptly. Once a month check them up as shown below, to see that both wheels brake together.

Brake adjustments vary slightly, so if possible consult the instruction book you received with your car. If it is not available then the following instructions will show you what to do. First securely chock up the front wheels so that they will not move, then jack up both rear wheels, using a box at one side and the jack at the other. Now see that when the brakes are in the "off" position, both wheels revolve FREELY. If they appear to bind at all, slack off the adjustment. Now start the engine, throw out the clutch and engage high gear, and with the clutch engaged, speed up the engine to a moderate speed, then throw out the clutch and apply the brakes. Have someone watch the rear wheels to see that both wheels stop TOGETHER, and that they stop as soon as the brake is applied. If one wheel continues to revolve longer than the other, tighten the adjustment on the wheel that does not stop, until both wheels stop together, yet revolve quite FREELY when the brakes are off. Test both foot and hand brakes separately in this way.

When you believe you have the brakes adjusted correctly, take the car out on the road and test to make sure that they act promptly, yet are not dragging. First test to see that the brakes act promptly. When you are sure of this, drive the car for about two miles at a fair rate of speed, but do not use the brakes. Get down and feel the brake drums. If they are hot, the adjustment is too tight, slack off a trifle. According to tests made by the manufacturers of brake linings, a car with brakes properly adjusted should be able to stop in 10 ft. going at a speed of 10 miles an hour, in 21 ft. going at 15 miles an hour, or in 37 ft. going at 20 miles an hour.



If the brakes chatter or squeak when applied, it is a sign that the linings are glazed or the surface gritty. If the brakes slip and refuse to hold properly even after adjusting as far as possible, the linings may be worn out or covered with oil or grease. In any case, whether they squeak, chatter or slip, remove the brake bands and clean the linings thoroughly with some kerosene or gasoline and a stiff brush. If the linings are worn badly, the bands or brake shoes will have to be relined.



Keep all brake connections well lubricated. Be particularly careful to screw down the grease cups on the tubes of brake shafts attached to the rear axle, or water and grit will work in and cause the shaft to rust, with the result that the brakes will work stiffly and will eventually refuse to release and cause the wheels to lock. When this happens, you have several hours dirty work to do that could have been avoided if you had given the grease cups on brake shaft tubes a turn down at regular intervals, and in addition you will scrape off about 500 miles from the life of the tire when it skidded.

Learn to use the brakes properly. A good driver reduces the speed of the car by closing the throttle as he approaches the point at which he wishes to stop, causing the car to practically glide to a stop and requiring just a touch of the brakes to bring it to a standstill.

HURRYING YOUR COOKING.

Sometimes a dinner is not correctly timed, so that the vegetables are not tender when the rest of the meal is ready. A pinch of bicarbonate of soda added to the water in which vegetables are cooking will not injure the appearance or taste, but will hasten the process of cooking.

SHEER STOCKINGS

One wonders how sheer stockings can grow sheerer, but they do. And some of them wear surprisingly well, even when they are more transparent than chiffon. Stockings in beige and gray continue to be popular with pumps of satin or patent leather.

MODERN COMFORT KEYNOTE IN NEW COTTON EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, June 2 (Associated Press).—The latest thing in arenas will be thrown open about July 5 when the New York Cotton Exchange dedicates its new $5,000,000 skyscrapper home down on Hanover Square, amid the financial warrens of lower Manhattan.

Away up on top of the exchange, beneath vaulted domes and delicately tinted mosaics, will be a place for the bulls and bears to romp and roar in private pandemonuim—the cotton trading pit. Just under the sky it will be, with broad, high windows overlooking the four quarters of the globe whence come the cotton and the gold in which they deal.

The new exchange adjoins the old one, on the little triangular park fronted by one and two-story buildings behind antique lamp posts, where traders still conduct the commercial enterprises on which their forebears embarked when New York began to be talked of as a coming mart of commerce.

The first 18 floors of the structure will be sprinkled with the offices of 400 resident members, telegraph, cable and telephone agencies and ticket service bureaus. A battery of speedy elevators, with red and green light signal systems like those of a train despatcher's board, will shuttle between floors, stopping only at top and bottom during the rush hours when the pit is opening and closing.

The pit is where the trader spends his time and makes his money, where the rise and fall of his fortunes are accompanied by the frenzied hullabaloo of jostling, perspiring humanity, shouts signal echoed by clattering telegraph instruments. So the exchange has lavished much money on this pit, embodying in it all the arts and conveniences that might help make it endurable.

High overhead is an immense arch of plate glass, reinforced with wire mesh and embedded in soft metals to absorb severe shocks, such as explosions or violent thunders. Marble and plaster arabesques decorate the walls. In each of the four corners, on board panels, a famous artist and crew of helpers is painting birds-eye scenes of the four distant cotton markets—New Orleans, Liverpool, Alexandria and Bombay.

When completed these interiors are intended to give an impression of solid panorama of a piece with the view of New York Harbor from the exchange floor.

Surrounding the pit will be batteries of telephones and tickers, huge score boards over which nimble clerks will scramble chalking figures, and terminals of the 30,000 miles of cables with which the building is connected.

The pit itself will be a specially mined porus rock, durable yet sound absorbing. From it will rise circular stairs, the risers only only five inches high, so the trader won't have to lift his eyes too far to catch the signal of the man on the other side who has sin him out for a deal. Beneath the steps around the circumference of the arena will be vacum ventilators, to keep the air as cool and fresh as it possible in a cotton pit.

Every thing about the building is calculated to give the impression of permanence and solidarity. And there are accommodations for enough messengers and barbers, waiters and hat boys, so the broker will need devote the minimum of attention to his person while the pit is open.

FOSSIL FORESTS THAT COVER WIDE AREAS

Isolated pieces of fossil wood are of comparatively common and widespread occurrence, but only exceptionally are they so massed and aggregated as to be worthy of the designation of "fossil forest." In fact there are only four of these fossil forest areas, three of which are in the United States, the other being near Cairo, Egypt. Of the fossil forests in the United States, one is near Calistoga, Cal. Several extensive forests are in the Petrified Forest National Monument, Arizona, and the others are those on Yellowstone National park U. S., and in many respects the most remarkable fossil forests known.

As one views the forests of the Petrified Forest National Monument from a little distance, with their hundreds, even thousands, of prostrate segments of logs, it is difficult to realize that they are really turned to stone and are now exhumed from the earth. The appearance they present is not unlike a log drive that has been stranded by the receding waters, and in truth this is what occurred long ago.

In the Yellowstone National Park most of the trees were entombed by the outpouring of various volcanic materials in the upright position in which they grew. In the Specimen Ridge neighborhood there are many levels of upright petrified trunks found alternating, like the layers in a cake, with levels of lava. This show that after the first forest grew and was engulfed by lava enough time elasped for a second forest to grow upon that level, and this in turn was engulfed with a new lava, to make the level for a new forest, and so on.

"How was the wood fossilized?" is perhaps the first question the visitor asks. Though the whole history of the process is not understood it is probably dependent upon entombment of the trees in materials of the earth which are constantly saturated with water containing a considerable amount of silica in solution. This silica charged water was drawn up into the wood by capillarity, the silica being deposited in the cells and vessels of the wood after the water evaporated, making an accurate cast of all open spaces. Then, while the slow process of decay went on, as each particle of organic matter was removed its place was taken by the silica until finally all the wood substance had disappeared and its place atom by atom had been taken by silica. Thus the wood fossilized with remarkable fidelity; each cell and vessel with its characteristic pits and markings were preserved exactly as it grew.

The next question usually asked is "How old are the fossil forests?" As already mentioned, in the Yellowstone there is a succession of forests, one above another, through a thickness of 2,000 feet of strata. Pine trees of the types represented in the fossil trunks require 200 to 300 years to reach maturity and the redwoods may require from 500 to 1,000 years. Twelve or more of those various levels have been found. By multiplying this number by the minimum age of the trees we have 2,400 years, and by multiplying it by the maximum age of the redwood trees we have 12,000 years.

The possibel time during which these forests flourished lies somewhere between these two extremes. These forests were buried in the Miocene epoch of the Tertiary period, which, if various estimates of the age of the earth that have been made by geologists are anywhere near correct, may have been between 1,000,000 and 5,000,000 years ago. The forests of the Petrified Forest Monument are geologically much older than the others; those near C Egypt, are believed to be the youngest.

CARBON MONOXID IN TOBACCO SMOKE

Science is digging deeper into the mysteries of material things day by day and occasionally turns up some unpleasant and annoying facts. Recently it has taken another whack at smoking tobacco—a perennial subject of controversy—and has revealed some truths which, while they are calculated to give the smoker pause, are no likely to act as permanent deterrents. Real dyed-in-the-wool smokers ar unlikely to be deterred by anything save lack of breath with which to puff.

An analysis of tobacco smoke, for instance, has shown that it contains deadly carbon monoxid, which when inhaled in quantity from the exhaust of an automobile kills with great swiftness; its concealed uprise is that it is odorless and hence conveys no warning.

Another revelation of science is the reason why excessive smoking causes headache, and also why cigarette tobacco, while containing nearly twice as much nicotine as cigar tobacco, yields smoke only half as poisonous as cigar smoke. The reason why smoking a thin cigar is much less harmful than smoking a thick one is also scientifically explained.

The facts mentioned, with their explanations, are contained in the following editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The abbreviations grm. and mg. used in the article stand for gram and milligram, weight measures of the metric system. A gram is equal to 15,432 grains of the more familiar system, and a milligram is one thousandth of a gram, which equals 1-65 of a grain.

Writing under the heading, "What We Get When We Smoke," the editor says:

Displaces Oxygen in the Blood

"One of the substances abundantly present in tobacco smoke is carbon monoxid well known as the lethal agent of illuminating gas and of the exhaust gas of motors, which has had so many victims in recent years. Carbon monoxid is not directly poisonous, but displaces oxygen from hemoglobin, for the red cells have 225 times as great an affinity for this gas as for oxygen.

"Baumberger has found that tobacco smoke may have from 7.2 to 25 parts of carbon monoxid in 10,000 parts of air, a concentration which Henderson found capable of causing serious symptoms if inhaled for more than an hour. But persons never take in undiluted smoke—the heartiest cigarette finds and the most resolute pipe smokers always take many breaths of fresh air between puffs.

"It is estimated that if a person should smoke continuously for one hour, inhaling the smoke five times a minute, there might occur as high as 22 per cent. saturation of ehe hemoglobin by carbon monoxid, a concentration sufficient to produce headache and perhaps an oxygen shortage during activity; but this figure is undoubtedly far above what smokers do actually accomplish. Perhaps 10 per cent. is more nearly the maximum reached in smoking, a figure that has not been found ordinarily to produce symptoms.

Nicotine Chief Active Agent

"Formerly the statement was current that the chief toxic material in tobacco smoke is pyridin, derived by becomposition of nicotine, but later studies agree in indicating that the nicotine is the chief active agent, tobacco smoke exerting much the same physiologic effects as nicotine in corresponding concentrations. By direct analysis, Baumberger found that cigarette smoke contains between 14 and 33 per cent. of the nicotine present in the tobaeco smoked.

Some Unknown Solids

"However, th smoker gets much besides carbon monoxid and nicotine, for the solids of cigarette smoke weigh about 10 per cent. of the tobacco burned, or about 80 mgs. for each cigarette, and all the things it may contain besides the aforementioned are not known; but the experimental evidence indicates that nictotine and carbon monoxid account for most if not all the observed effects.

"It is to be considered that these experiments were carried out with cigarettes, for the observations of Lee indicate that tobacco burned in cigarettes yields much less nicotine, and presumably less carbon monoxid, in the smoke than when burned in cigars or pipes. For example, a Manilla cigar and a cigarette of Virginia tobacco were so burned that the same amount of tobacco was consumed in equal time, and the effect of the products of the combustion determined; it was found t at although the cigarette tobacco used contained nearly twice as much nicotine as the cigar tobacco, the smoke of the latter was twice as toxic as the cigarette smoke.

"The explanation for this is that during ths slow combustion of a cigar, as in ordinary smoking, immediately behind the point of the combustion is an area in which the water and other volatile substances condense; during the act of smoking, the hot gases pass through this moist area and volatilize the more volatile principles of the tobacco of which nicotine is one. Therefore the smaller the moist, hot area behind the point of combustion, and the more rapid and complete the combustion, the less likely is the smoke to contain volatile toxic bodies; hence a cigarette or a slender cigar will yield fewer of these products than a thick cigar, and many smokers can testity that a thick, 'fat' cigar has much more effect than a long, slender cigar.

"The unpleasant effects that the unaccustomed smoker experiences on relighting a half-finished cigar or pipe ar explained on the same basis."

DUCKLING PUTS DOWN TWO AND CARRIES ONE

DUNDALK, June 2 — (Canadian Press). — William Patton, a farmer living near Dundalk, has a barnyard freak in his flock of ducklings which is attracting much attention and amusement. It is a duckling with four legs. The bird is otherwise quite normal and very much alive. The extra set of legs does not prevent the duckling from getting around the yard with the rest of the flock. When walking it puts down two and carries two.

Ample Power-for-Weight Gives Amazing Performance

EASILY the strong man handles the hundred-pound weight which the weaker man can scarcely lift. Just so the underpowered car falters where the full-powered Jewett performs with ease. For it is not power alone that determines performance. It is power for weight that counts.

The Paige-built Jewett has only 11½ pounds of weight for each cubic inch piston displacement. So Jewett will beat any car up any hill you choose; and accelerate 5 to 25 miles per hour in 7 seconds. These are Jewett's proofs of Jewett's abundant power for its weight. And it is a sturdy, 2805-pound car—not a "light six." Would you like to try a Jewett? Say so.

One of The Big Reasons For Closed Car Popularity

ONE of the biggest reasons for the recent great popularity of the closed automobile among all classes of motorists is this Chevrolet Superior Sedan. Its low price and economy of operation have put it within the reach of all and have made it an ideal second car for the man with a large, high-priced car of expensive upkeep.

The tremendous sale of the New Superior Models has made them the fastest-selling, completely-equipped, quality cars in the world. This has meant that production costs have been lowered to such an extent that they are now the lowest-priced quality car in the world.

When it is also remembered that Chevrolet costs less to operate than any other car in the world, its phenomenal popularity is easily understood.

To The Electors Of The Riding of West Peterboro.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The Liberal Convention having honoured me with the nomination, I take this early opportunity of expressing my thanks for the confidence shown in me, and in asking the Electors generally for their support in the coming Election.

The supreme need of this great Province at the present time is a Govrnment which will conduct public affairs in a sound, prudent, business-like manner, and put a curb on all extravagant expenditures. With a public debt of $240,000,000 and an annual expenditure which has reached $38,000,000, the future credit of the Province absolutely depends on economic, business-like administration. This is the kind of administration the country may expect with Mr. Wellington Hay as Premier, and to such a Government I will give my unqualified support.

Having been in the closest touch with agricultural interests all my life, it is my ambition to make myself particularly useful to those engaged in the basic industry of this Dominion. If elected, I can be safely depended upon to give the closest attention to agricultural problems generally, and to watch carefully the rural needs of this constituency. Believing that there must be closer co-operation between the man who produces in the country and the man who consumes in the city, I will do my utmost to solve this problem so far as it may be considered a local or Provincial problem.

Labour will also find me sympathetic to its needs. I consider that I am particularly well adapted to represent labour, because both as an employee and employer I have had a long experience with both sides of the many problems that have come up in this field from time to time. The Liberal Party has invariably stood for the rights of the toiler, as against the privilege of the idle rich, and under all circumstances I may be absolutely depended upon to see to it that the men in our industrial life and all those dependent upon them will receive a square deal in the Legislature.

My views on temperance are well known. The Ontario Temperance Act was passed following a direct demand for prohibitory legislation on the part of an overwhelming majority of the people of this Province, and if elected I purpose to give it my hearty support.

It is my intention to meet as many as possible of the Electors of this Riding before Election Day, and I will avail myself of every opportunity to discuss public questions with members of the Electorate. In seeking your support and influence, I promise, if elected as your Member, to devote myself faithfully and earnestly to the duties of the position, and to uphold and advance the best interest of the people of West Peterborough.

Faithfully yours,

J. W. MEYERS.

EUROPE IS LIKE AN ARMED CAMP

Lord Robert Cecil Sounds a Note of Warning in London.

LONDON, June 2. — (Canadian Press).—In his first speech since he joined the Baldwin Cabinet, Lord Robert Cecil last night made an eloquent plea to the United States before the English-speaking Union to join the League of Nations. He declared that he had found whispered sentiment throughout the United States during his recent visit in favor of the League.

Lord Robert sounded a warning that in many parts of the world war-like symptoms were developing which were profoundly disquieting. He surprised his audience by remarking that there were now more armed men in Europe than before the world war. Now was the time, he said, for all nations to erect a barrier against the scourge of war.

TO RELEASE EIGHT OF CAPTIVES TODAY

SHANGHAI, June 1.—(Canadian Press).—A representative of the Chamber of Commerce at Tsaoching has telegraphed the organization that the Shantung train bandits have agreed to release eight of their foreign captives to-day, and others will be released when all of the brigands have been enrolled in the army.

Four more of the foreign captives held by the Suchow train bandits have been released unconditionally and arrived to-day at the relief camp at Tsaoching, according to a telegram from there. Those released to-day were Edward Elias and Theodore Saphire, both British subjects and brokers of Shanghai, Jerome A. Henley, of New York, and Manuel A. Verea, of Guadalajara, Mexico.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

THE NEW WOMAN MEMBER ENGLISH HOUSE PRAISED

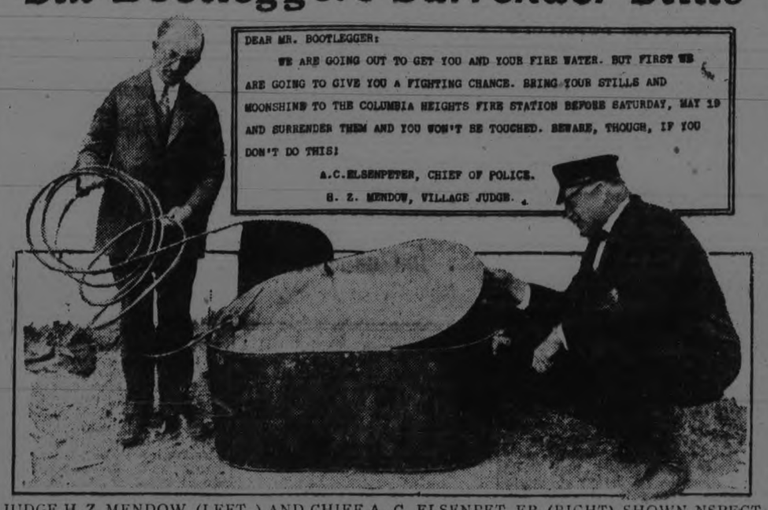
LONDON, June 2 — (Canadian Press).—The election to the House of Miss Mabel Russell, former musical comedy actress, is the leading story in morning newspapers to-day. Editorials say pleasant things about the new Conservative member from the Berwick-upon-Tweed division of Northumberland, praising her speeches and her conduct of the election campaign. Newspapers that most strongly champion the presence of women in Parliament regret that Miss Russell, like the other two women M.P.'s, was chosen merely as successor to her husband, "Capt. Hilton Philipson," instead of on her own personal and political merits. These newspapers recall that all women who appealed to their constituencies on these grounds in the last general election were turned down.

HUGE GOLIATH AIRSHIP SMASHED, NO CASUALTIES

BOULOGNE, June 2. — (United Press).—A huge goliath airship of the London-Paris French Air Line was smashed Friday when, in mid-Channel, engine trouble developed and the aircraft turned and volplaned down and landed badly battered on the edge of the cliffs. The seven passengers, including three women, were uninjured.

The goliath machines have been used by thousands of Americans in trans-Channel flights of the past few years.

Six Bootleggers Surrender Stills



JUDGE H. Z. MENDOW, (LEFT) AND CHIEF A. C. ELSENPET ER (RIGHT) SHOWN NSPECTING THE FIRST STILL VOLUN TARILY SURRENDERED BECA USE OF THE ULTIMATUM TO BOOTLEGGERS. THE ULTIMA TUM IS REPRODUCED ABOVE THE STILL.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS, Minn., June 2.—Judge H. Z. Mendow, and Chief of Police A. C. Elsenpeter must be the combined reincarnation of old King Solomon.

Otherwise how could they have teased five honest-to-goodness bootleggers into giving up their stills?

Well, here's the story from the very beginning:

Columbia Heights is just outside of Minneapolis, and in time may be a suburb of that thriving city. Judge Mendow dispenses justice to those Chief Elsenpeter thinks need it. Together they sort of regulate the morals of the village.

"Now, chief," said Mendow one day, "there's getting to be too much of this here bootlegging business around."

The chief squinter, so witnesses say, and said that well, mebbe — mebbe—

Chief Suggests

"Let's clean 'em out," the judge suggested.

"Now, judge, came back the chief, "there's a lot of these fellows who might be working in a legitimate trade too. Take So-and-So and What's-His-Name. I suspect them of totin' liquor on the side, but if we pinch 'em, what'll the kids and the wives do?"

But the judge didn't waver.

"Why," exclaimed the chief, as a happy though struck him, "couldn't we ask 'em to bring in their outfits and allow 'em to go scot free if they did, but if they didn't, soak 'em good and hard? Get me?"

The judge got him, thus showing his wisdom in accepting a good suggestion. The two then plastered big signs reading like this:

"Dear Mr. Bootlegger.

'We are going out to get you and your firewater. But first we are going to give you a fighting chance. Bring your stills and moonshine to the Columbia Heights fire station before Saturday, May 19, and surrender them and you wont be touched. Beware, though, if you don't do this! (Signed)

"A. C. ELSENPETER,
"Chief of Police
"H. Z. MENDOW,
"Village Judge."

It Worked Fine

And the day after the proclamation, or rather ultimatum, went up, two moonshiners called the chief to come to their places and tote away their beverage-producing outfits. With the campaign five days under way, six still had gone into the limbo of history.

Nobody went to jail. No tears were shed. And the village was saved the expense of many trials.

"Great idea," says the judge, slapping the chief on the back.

"Better'n that," agrees the chief slapping the judge on the back.

JUNGLE TOWN FOUND IN OHIO.

Frowsy, Ignorant and Hungry, Crowded in Shack, They Live Content.

ADELPHI, O., June 2.—A cross-section of life such as usually has been pictured as that of the illiterate mountaineer—frowsy women, unkempt men and ragged children running wild, all living rude in shacks, far from civilization—such is Tar Hollow, a community in the northeastern corner of Ross County, which has given health and school officials a difficult problem.

A section of school lands, timber-covered and overgrown with underbrush, owned by Franklin and Pickaway Counties, presents a settling for such a settlement almost in the midst of a comparative prosperous farming community.

Nine large families, in all, live in primitive fashion, on the lands and they resisted all efforts on the part of authorities to better their condition.

Some are Squatters

Some of the families hold leases for their land, but others merely live as squatters, having come into the bit of wild country years ago, built rough shelters and remained almost unmolested since.

Most of the shacks are of the rudest lean-to-type, constructed of logs or clapboards hewn from the virgin timber which surrounds them. They are scattered through the pine woods in a disorderly fashion and most of them appear to be ready to fall to pieces at the first blast of wind.

Scarcely any of the houses has more than one room where families numbering 12 or 15 members live and die, many without having been more than a few miles from home. In some cases three generations grand parents, parents and children, are living together in a single room.

Few Strangers

The only road into the vicinity passes a mile and a half east of the straggling group of huts which form the settlement and it is not once in months that a stranger traverses the poor roads and rough country and appears in the community.

The people live to themselves as they have done for years past and their marriage and intermarriage has brought about a condition which has worried the health authorities.

County and state school authorities who have attempted to compel the more than 30 children of the settlement to attend school have met with little success. W. A. Yaple, county attendance officer who has visited the people several times to request that the children be sent to school, is met by the paren statements that they has no schooling and that there was no reason why their children should be educated.

Their Own Teachers

"We'll teach them ourselves," they declared, in spite of the fact that most of them are unable to write their own names.

Officials of the state department of education declared that there is no tax money available to provide schools in the district. The nearest school house is several miles away and lack of transportation prevents use of compulsion in requiring attendance at this.

So far as may be seen no grain or garden produce is raised in Tar Hollow. The rocky ground remains as it was before the first settler came and there appears to be no method by which the people can eke out their meagre living.

One of the members of the Colony was hailed before the courts at Chillicothe, the county seat, and charged with unlawfully cutting timber from the school land. He spent some time in the county jail but now is back at his shack.

No Milk to be Had

Appraised of conditions in the community, Dr. G. E. Robbins, county health commissioner, conducted a survey of the neighborhood. Many of the children were undernourished, he declared, and some of them anemic and possibly tubercular. He recommended that they be placed on a milk diet, but was told that the settlement had no cattle and that milk could not be obtained in the district.

Charitable inclined citizens of the county have been met with sullen refusal on the part of the people to co-operate in bettering conditions. They have lived as they are living now all their lives, they declare, and see no reason for a change.

Balked in their attempt to have the children educated annd to force the families to give up their present mode of life, authorities now are looking towards the possibility of having Tar Hollow vacated. One of the families has left the place and efforts are made to have the others leave.

MENACE IN CRUSHING WORKERS' INDIVIDUALITY

MONTREAL, JUNE 2 (Associated Press).—The individual is the world's biggest problem Robert B. Wolf, New York engineer and industrialist, declared today in an address on "Management Engineering in the Paper Industry" at the spring meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"In no other period of the world's history has the group spirit found such material expression as in this twentieth-century development of corporate industry," said Mr. Wolf, who was a member of the Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry of the Federal American Engineering Societies.

"In the past men have combined into groups for productive purposes, but never before have we seen such grouping of groups and these largera groups into still larger corporate units, and the startling fact is that most of his has taken place within the lifetime of the men who are still in active charge of industry.

"What is the meaning of it all, and what is to become of the individual men in the process? This, I believe to be the most monentous problem confronting modern civilization, for if it is not solved, civilization as now constituted cannot last. To crush out the individuality of the workman is fatal to human progress and it is also fatal to destroy the individuality of our manufacturing or producing units.

"The individual must be understood, and the whole problem of industry resolves itself into finding out how to enable the unit individual, the man to become conscious of his relationship to the all-including group individual, the plant.

"The secret seems to lie in stimulating group consciousness within the organic whole of the plant by continuously recording the group's relationship to the plant on the one hand and the man on the other, and the immediate need seems to be for the education of foreman to intelligently direct the groups.

"The recorded results of this new effort will act again as a fresh stimulus, so that continuous progress in both knowledge of process and skill in the use of his knowledge is bound to follow."

Electricity achieves its greatest triumph in the McClary's Oven

IT gives the family better meals—more delicious food—and demands less culinary skill and less labor on the part of the "cook."

McClary's oven brings more than the convenience of cooking "at a turn of the switch"—wonderful as that boon to womankind may seem.

It makes good cooking the rule rather than the exception, insures the "best results" with the least care.

It also effects an economy of food—particularly roasts. McClary's oven closes tight as a fireless cooker. Meats lose but little weight—a real saving! Inside the oven, walls are porcelain-enameled and corners rounded. The heating elements draw out leaving the oven quite clear. It can easily be kept as clean as a china dish.

See McClary's Electric Range. Ask the dealer to explain its economies and convenience.

Protected Elements

McClary's have achieved the aim of all Electric Range makers—to perfect a "Protected Element."

No wire coils are left bare in McClary's heating elements. Solid as the lids of a coal range these "Protected Elements" are an exclusive McClary's insurance against damage.

GROWING DEMAND FOR DAIRY FOODS FOUND BY EXPERT

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(Associated Press).—Only the healthy and growing condition of the American dairy industry has enabled it to withstand the drop in exports which came with the world readjustment. This also has been aided by a growing taste of the American people for dairy products says Dr. H E. Van Norman, president of the World's Dairy Congress Association which is preparing for its international meeting here in October.

"The United States has reached a point where the production and consumption of dairy products are almost equal," Dr. Van Norman said, "as is indicated by the fact that its exports and imports of dairy products nearly balance.

"The fact is that our dairy industry is in a healthy condition and it is kept so by our people's growing appreciation of dairy products. The fact that our consumption of dairy products today almost equals our production indicates a tremendously rapid growth in appreciation.

"While our foreign business in butter and cheese does not reach a great volume our domestic markets are constantly influenced by the conditions that obtain in the world markets. The foreign business which we do carry on in dairy products also frequently has an importance out of all proportion to its size in the stabilizing of our domestic conditions. A few weeks ago, when our cheese market was particularly slow, an opening for cheese occurred in England. Our owners of stored cheese immediately 'unloaded' as much as they could on the English market. The deficit was caused by the failure of New Zealand, where the creameries are equipped to manufacture either butter or cheese, to pay the usual attention to cheese

"That the American merchants grasped the opportunity just in the nick of time is evidenced by a cablegram from the American Agricultural Trade Commissioner, stationed at London, recently received by our Department of Agriculture, stating that the American cheese now on storage in England amounts to 14,000 boxes, against about 31,000 boxes a year ago, and that the Australian cheese on storage amounted to 31,000 crates, against a trifle more than 73,000 crates a year ago; but that Australia had 122,000 crates of cheese afloat and bound for England, about 11,000 crates more than she had on the water at this time last year. If we had needed to unload butter on the English market, we would not have had the same fortune; for the cablegram states that England has in storage 423,000 boxes of Australian butter, an increase of 33,000 for the year.

"It is noteworthy that, in spite of increased production, the United States is shipping less butter today proportionally than it did in the five-year period before the war.

"While the American dairyman is finding a tremendously important market at home, a new group of dairy nations is rising to grasp the international markets. Equipped with a large proportion of American machinery and to a very great extent directed by graduates of American agricultural colleges, New Zealand, Australia, Argentine republic and Canada—all countries with small populations of milk consumers and large populations of dairy cattle, are proving themselves mighty competitors of the historic dairy countries of Europe. While these countries are in their youth, with unestimated possibilities ahead, the older dairy countries have reached very nearly the limit of their productability."

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange And Curb Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, June 2. (Special.)—Stocks again were heavy in the first hour of to-day's short session; steel common was depressed through the level resistance established on the break which was checked on May 21 but the success of the bear party in forcing a new low in this leading industrial was lessened by the fact that the stock held ex-dividend since the last low point was reached; other speculative favorites held well above the prices reached on the last decline and before the close a decided disposition to rally was evidenced in many sections of the list.

Speculative sentiment was discouraged by the further break in Friday's session and stocks continued under pressure in the early dealings.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported a continued high rate of production in the basic industries to fill old orders, but it is said the demand showed some falling off. This development, however, was described as wholesome in view of the excessively rapid pace of the incoming orders a month or so ago. Steel common got down to 95⅛ in the early dealings, with ½ point of the low on the recent break; steel common broke to 94 7-8 in the first hour compared with a low of 95 touched on the break arrested on May 21. Since that time however Steel sold ex-dividend $125 a share; other sections of the list were likewise heavy. But the public was not interested in the market so the pressure was evidently of professional origin. The borrowing demand after the previous close indicated a large increase in the short account. Stocks had scored a big advance from the low and professionals figured that a reaction was due. A banker in close touch with the foreign situation said that foreign developments would govern the future of the market. "If there is a satisfactory solution of the problem of the Ruhr," he said, "you can look for a resumption of the bull movement. I believe that a settlement of that question is near at hand.

DENTISTS DECIDE AGAINST HOLIDAY

Agreement Rescinded ove Division on Proposal for Saturday Afternoons.

Peterboro's dentists have abandoned the weekly half holiday. It any of them wish to lock up the office on their accord and get away to the country for an afternoon there is nothing to prevent them, nor is their any agreement or understanding which closes all the other offices at the same time. The whistle blows twice a day every day in the week now, and if any of the dentists decide to let pleasure interfere with business that is their own affair and no doubt their own loss. While there are teeth to be filled or pulled or canalled of ex-rayed there are dentists always on the job except Sundays.

At a recent session of the Dental Association, so one of the members tells it, the suggestion was made that the offices be closed on Saturday to enable the dentists to join the baseball throngs at Riverside.

Some of the practicioners were strong for the idea. Others were reluctant especially one of the members who estimated that he would lose fifty dollars by turning the key in the door to suit the sporting proclivities of the younger artists of the drill whose calendars might not have been so fully inscribed with the names of customers, and whose time was therefore not so valuable. And fifty dollars was not to be tossed away by such follies as rooting at a ball game.

So it was then proposed that the agreement for the Thursday holiday be rescinded and strange to say the Association snapped at it and put it through. Henceforth the dentists will have their noses flat against the grindstone the whole week unless some of them decide to take a holiday when they feel like it. But the bonne entente is split asunder, and everybody's happy.

EVERY CITIZEN HAS FRANCHISE

If Over 21 Years of Age and a British Subject.

If you reside in the South, Centre or North Wards of Peterborough and your name is not on the voter's lists you have only about eight working hours to see that it is inscribed on the roll. On the other hand, if your residence is in the West of East Wards you have double that time.

There is nothing to excuse any person who is qualified from exercising his or her vote at the approaching Provincial election. Every British subject, man or woman, who is 21 years of age or over, a resident of Canada for twelve months and a resident of the electoral district for three months is entitled to vote. For South, Centre and North Ward residents, applications on the proper forms must be lodged with the City Clerk, S. R. Armstrong, at the City buildings, not later than Monday. Residents in the East and West Wards must lodge their applications before Tuesday night. The applicants will then be called upon to appear before the courts of revision which sit on Friday and Saturday next, either personally or by proxy, to substantiate their claims to be entered on the voters' list. The courts will be held in various rooms in the Court House commencing at 10.30.

The various political parties' Committee rooms are prepared to tell enquirers whether their names appear on the lists, and to give any other information required.

Special provision is made for those who have recently moved from other municipalities, and occasional or temporary absence as a student at an institute in Canada, or absence while serving with a militia corps or in naval or military forces, or as a nurse or nursing sister, do not disqualify a voter.

VAUDEVILLE AND "THE FLIRT" AT CAPITAL

Coming to the Capitol Theatre on Monday of this week for the engagement of three days, "The Flirt" a filmination of Booth Tarrington's famous story of the same name. An all-star cast interprets the various roles.

The title role is played by Eileen Percy, with Helen Jerome Eddy as the other sister. George Nichols as the father and Buddy Messenger as the little imp of a brother, are two others whose work in this picture stands out prominently.

The story deals with life in an average American family where a beautiful daughter, who knows she is beautiful, tries to rule the family and nearly wrecks it and sends father to prison in her longing for finery like others girls have. Advance reports from all sections of the country term this production a real masterpiece of the screen.

There is also Vaudeville at the Capitol which is known and acknowledged as an extraordinary attraction—"The Maple Leaf Trio" who were formerly with Capt. Plunkett's Overseas Review, they has just completed a Trans-Canadian tour from Vancouver to Halifax and for songs and fun they are considered best in their line of amusement.

ADVANCE FORCES OF BIG CIRCUS ARE BUSY AND READY FOR ANY

Though advance representatives of the John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals have been passing through Peterboro or several weeks, arranging for the coming of the big circus on Wednesday, June 13, very few residents would if they met believe them to be circus men. Time changes everything, including the circus, and no longer are the representatives bedecked with checkered or loud suits, high or derby hats and flashy shirts and neckwear. Instead the circus advance men are now conservative dressers and look no different than other successful business men. Practically all the college men as the big shows demand men with keen and active minds and is willing to pay well for brains.

Contracts have aleady been signed for the circus grounds at the Exhibition Park and feed for the performers as well as the hundreds of animals and horses has been ordered from local merchants. City licenses have been secured and arrangements made for billing and transportation. There is no institution that depends more upon system, than a big circus such as John Robinson, and that system has been repsonsible for its success for one hundred years.

Advertising Car No 1, with a full quota of billers, lithographers and bannermen arrived in the city yesterday morning and immediately started the task of heralding the coming of the big circus. Another advertising car will arrive several days previous to the exhibition date, and the show trains, themselves will roll into town about the same hour that the iceman is starting his daily trip.

The grand free street parade this year in honor of the 100th anniversary tour, is said to be the last word in beauty and magnificance and it leaves the show grounds at 11 o'clock sharp.

New York Scored in Every Inning - Bankers Won Mercantile Game

WESTCLOX WENT DOWN TO BANKERS

Mercantile League Game at the Oval Ended With Score 8 to 3.

The Bankers added a victory to their list when they defeated the Westclox in a Mercantile League game at the Oval last evening by a score of 8 to 3. The Bankers now enjoy the distinction of two victories and no defeats.

This game was played in place of the C.P.C.-Westclox game which was scheduled for yesterday. The C.P.C. team was unable to play and their game was postponed till June 13.

The Bankers had the edge all the way in yesterday's game. The Westclox went to bat first and sent one run across in their session but the Bankers came back with two in the second half of the inning and were in the lead from them on. Their big inning was in the third when they chased four runs across the pan.

Austin started on the mound for the Clock Makers and went three innings when he was relieved by DeGraw who finished the game. The Bankers collected nine hits off their combined deliveries. The Westclox were let down with three hits.

The players were:

Westclox—Ainsley, cf; Lundy, ss; Prosser, c; Austin, p, 3b; DeGraw, 1b, p; Logan, 3b, 1b; Baptie, ss; Yelland, rf; Cunningham, lf.

BABE RUTH IN BONEHEAD CLASS

Stole Third Base When Joe Dugan Was Already Occupying That Sack.

Babe Ruth is nothing if not original.

Babe's specialty is hitting home runs.

When the home-run business isn't very good he seeks other methods of publicity.

Sometimes, yea rather often, Babe breaks into print for exceeding the speed limit in his high-powered motor car.

Recently, however, the Babe pulled something entirely new for him as a publicity stunt. While it isn't something can be recommended, it got Babe plenty of space in the Gotham dailies.

What did Ruth do? Listen while we whisper it to you.

Babe is now in the John Anderson class. In a recent game with Philadelphia he stole third base with Joe Dugan of the Yanks occupying that bag.

Babe pulled the stunt at a time when the Yanks had a chance to go over. Dugan, much surprised, was almost run down as the Babe slid into the base. By doing some fancy footwork Dugan managed to escape being spiked and dashed for the plate where he was an easy out. That broke up the rally.

Stealing third base, or any other base for that matter, with someone occupying said base, requires courage as well as other things. Now that Babe has broken into that select class it is hard to figure what he can still do that is a bit different.

However, we will leave that to Ruth. The Babe is nothing if not original, sometimes.

De Lavals Defeated the Colonial Girls.

The De Laval Girls nosed out the Colonials by a score of 26 to 24 in a fast soft ball game played last evening at Central park. The game was one of the best and most closely contested of the schedule with the final issue in doubt at all times. The Colonials started off strong and sent in nine runs in the second inning. The De Lavals went into the lead in the sixth inning after scoring twelve runs in two frames and held their lead to the end of the game. The players were:

Colonials: H. Plunkett, c.; J. Bradshaw, 1b.; C. Robinson, p.; M. Todd, c.f.; D. Saunders, ss.; E. Greenhaulgh, 3b.; D. Wade, s.s., c.; V. Wade, 2b.; D. Goodwin, l.f.; M. Grosse, ss..

CRIQUI, FRENCH FIGHTER, HAS GOOD WAR RECORD

NEW YORK, June 2.—(Associated Press)—Eugene Criqui of France, featherweight boxing champion of Europe, who meets Johnny Kilbane, world champion, in a 15-round title contest at the Polo Grounds today, has had his greates pugilistic success since the war, although handicapped by a reconstructed jaw.

The little Frenchman, now 30 years old, has been fighting since he was 15. Before the war he engaged in more than 100 contests in which he had varied success. He was a clever boxer, having been trained in the English mould, but failed to rise higher than the near-champions because of the lack of punching power.

Then the war broke out and Criqui went to the front. At Verdun the left side of his jaw was shot away. Many months he lay in hospitals, during which time the rib of a sheep was grafted in his face. He was discharged from the hospital as unfit for military duty. After the close of hostilities he went back to pugilism. He turned from boxing to fighting and had marked success.

While he never actually has been knocked out, Criqui has failed to go the route on three occasions. In 1914 he retired in the twelfth round of a bout with Charley Ledoux, French bantam, but last year evened the score by knocking out his countryman in one round. In 1919, against Tommy Noble, English featherweight champion, Criqui went nineteen rounds, refusing to go on for the twentieth after claiming that a low blow had discolated a leg tendon. Later the same year Noble held Criqui to a draw, while at London the Frenchman refused to continue in a fight with Pal Moore, the American, when his claim of foul was disallowed in the fourteenth round of a twenty round match.

Last year Criqui won the European feather title, knocking out Arthur Wyns, of Belgium, and Billy Matthews, of England, both claimants of the championship. Wyns took the count in the twelfth and Matthews in the seventeenth round.

Criqui, a clever boxer and fairly hard hitter, also holds the French featherweight crown. He was born August 15, 1893, in Paris.

CHANCE THINKS PITCHING IS WORSE

After An Absence From the Big Show For Eight Years Frank Chance Thinks Hurlers Are Failing.

Pitching is one feature of the game that has gone back lamentably in the opinion of Frank Chance, manager of the Boston Red Sox. Chance, who has been out of baseball for abut eight years, sees a decided change for the worse in the pitching end of the game.

"When I was managing the Cubs," says Chance, "I had a half dozen pitchers all so nearly equal in ability that it was hard to choose between them. The Cubs were always reasonably sure of good pitching in every ball game.

"Such a condition no longer exists. In the old days a club looked over good pitching almost every day. In these days a club sees high-class pitching about every third or fourth day.

"Few staffs have more than two star pitchers and a number can boast of only one really great twirler. Many clubs are using mediocre pitchers in the role of regulars who 10 or 15 years ago would have been lucky to hang on as relief pitchers or mere substitutes.

"Lack of control seems to be the worst fault of a majority of big league pitchers. Many who seem to have enough stuff to get along can't get anywhere because of lack of control. In the old days a majority of the pitchers could get the fast one over almost at will, but it seems those times ase past.

"A manager with a staff like that of the New York Americans is indeed fortunate. I wish I had one."

Altitude Will Not Affect the Fighters.

By BILL BREITENSTEIN.

SHELBY, Mont., June 2.—Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons can stand the altitude.

The arena's elevation—3,283 feet above sea level—will not affect their wind in the slightest.

Both will be acclimated thoroughly to Shelby's rare air when they step into the ring on the afternoon of July 4, leading northern Montana physicians agree.

Great Falls, where Dempsey is training, has an altitude of 3,300 feet, while Havre, where Gibbons is working out, has one of 2,485 feet.

Then Jack, coming from Utah, naturally is accustomed to a high elevation, the doctors point out. And Tommy, they explain, began to fortify himself against it on his recent theatrical tour.

"True, the fighters will have to breathe deeper to get the same amount of oxygen they get at lower altitudes," says Dr. J. B. Reynolds of Great Falls, who's on the ground as official physician. "But I don't believe they will notice it.

"Now at Butte, it's different. The 5,000-foot level there often perceptibly slows up eastern boxers. A 3,000-foot altitude, though, never has proven detrimental to trained athletes, as far as I know."

Dr. D. S. MacKenzie, Havre, Dr. C. D. Howell, Valier, and Dr. C. J. Breese and Dr. D. K. Woods, both of Great Falls, share Dr. Reynolds' views. All have looked after participants in various bouts throughout the State.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions.

ONE—When must the catcher hold the ball on a third strike to retire the batsman?

TWO—Is there a penalty if a fielder throws his glove at a batted or thrown ball, but fails to hit it?

THREE—Batsman strikes at ball, hits same, ball rebounds from bat and strikes batter, rolling into fair territory. Batsman had not left his position. What is proper ruling?

FOUR—With runner on first and two down, batter gives hit and run sign and singles through short. Runner on first goes to third on play, while batsmen reaches second on play to get runner going to third. Runner who reached third, failed to touch second, ball is thrown there and he is called out, retiring side. What about this play?

FIVE—Ground ball is a few inches foul as it passes ithird, then englishes into fair territory. Is it fair or foul?

Answers.

ONE—When bases are empty catcher must always hold third strike to retire batter. If any base other than first is occupied he must hold the ball. If with two out and first is occupied he must hold the ball. The rule is that with first base occupied and less than two out, the batsman is automatically out on a third strike. This is done to prevent purposely dropping the ball and trying for a double play.

TWO—The glove must come into contact with t he ball for a penalty to be inflicted.

THREE—It is a foul ball as the batsman who has not left his box is in foul territory.

FOUR—Batsman is not credited with a hit, since the failure of the runner to touch second on his way to third, made a force play for the third out.

FIVE—The ball is foul, if so when it passed third base. It matters not what later happened

DEMPSEY RESTING UP.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 2. — Canadian Press. — Jack Dempsey, who will battle Tommy Gibbons in Shelby, July 4th, is taking a real layoff from training this week. He will, however, begin training again Monday and not leave camp until he goes to Shelby, July 4th, according to the present plans.

A Sheep's Bone in Criqui's Lower Jaw.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Eugene Criqui hasn't a silver jaw.

But a bone from a sheep has replaced the part of his lower jaw the Germans shot away in the fighting at Verdun.

The story that he had a silver jaw started from the fact that silver wire was used to hold the grafted sheep's bone in place while it was growing in as part of Criqui's shattered jaw.

The sheep's bone has been there so long now, Criqui, says that it feels just like his own, except the jaw seems stronger than ever.

The grafted bone is right at the point where a couple of rivals landed their kayo punches earlier in his career.

SCHANG INJURED.

NEW YORK, June 2. Canadian Press. — Walter Schang, veteran first string catcher of the New York Yankees, yesterday was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment and observation as a result of an infection of the glands in the groin and a ruptured muscle. The injuries were caused several days ago when he fell over his bat, the handle striking him in the groin.

Schang may be lost to the American League champions for a month or six weeks.

Everett Scott Still Good For Two Years.

NEW YORK, June 2.—How much longer will Everett Scott, who still is going after playing more than 1,000 consecutive games, continue to play major league ball?

Last year Scott appeared to be slowing up badly. His play on the Polo Grounds was ordinary all season and in the world series he dropped way below the high standard that usually characterizes his work.

This year Scott appears in much better condition than last season and is playing a much improved game. Incidentally the new Yankee field, which will be a trifle slow for a time, will help his play.

"I never intend to play minor league ball," says Scott. "If able to stick two more years in the majors I will be content to retire."

DETROIT, Mich., June 2.—(Canadian Press.)— A triple play in the third inning, Bigney and Blue participtaing, the first made in the American League this season, failed to save Detroit from the effects of poor pitching which lost yesterday's game to Cleveland, 17 to 4. SIX DWELLING PERMITS DURING MONTH OF MAY

Building permits showed a serious falling-off in the latter half of May, totalling only $5,670, as compared with $16,655 in the first fifteen days.

Only one dwelling was listed during the last two weeks, a five-roomed house on Gladstone Avenue, valued at $1,900.00.

Duringthe month, six permits were issued for dwellings; 17 permits for garages and sheds; 15 for reshingling, and the remainder for repairs and alterations.

The above will be slightly increased by the value of a dwelling and garage, figures for which are not available.

WESTERN MAJOR TEAMS SHOW WEAKNESS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 2.—(United Press).—Failure of the western clubs in both major leagues to get away to the expected start was one of the outstanding features of the first quarter of the race.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, of the whole flock, was the only team to show anything of the form expected of them, and the Chicago White Sox and the St. Louis Browns were the most prominent busts.

Players on the New York Yanks always maintained that the St. Louis Browns were not a game ball club, and they set out to prove their contention in the "crucial series" they had last season when the pennant was at stake.

The loss of Sisler, of course, was a terrible blow to the Browns, but the loss of Ruth and Meusel for five weeks of the early season last year was also a handicap to the Yanks. The difference, however, is that the Yanks doubled their efforts and played as if under inspiration when their two stars were out of the game and the Browns seem to have curled up under their affliction.

It is interesting to follow the two radically different theories on which the two champion New York clubs are operated.

Miller Huggins believes that everything depends on pitching and he has assembled on the Yankees the greatest pitching staff in baseball. He discounts tremendous hitting power as is represented in, the Detroit Tigers and he has maintained that it was the lack of pitching that would keep the Cobb team from winning the pennant. So far, his theory looks sound.

John McGraw, on the other hand, favors a fast, hard-hitting club, and he has it in the Giants. The leader of the world's champions does not put so much stress on pitching and he seems to get along without it. He is on his way to a third pennant with a team that has had anything but capable pitching.

Perhaps it is too much to expect a great pitching staff on the Giants, as they might never lose a game.

* * *

Considerable debate was brought about recently when the sages were asked to explain how it came that the third basemen in the American League had almost double the chances that were accepted by the National League guardians of the hot corner.

The most logical explanation seems to have been advanced by a very learned follower of the game, who expressed the opinion that it was the result of the difference in the theory of attack followed in the two big leagues.

The American League clubs play the sacrifice more and the perfect bunt is usually placed down the third base line. Through the influence of John McGraw, perhaps, the National League clubs all favor the chances of the "hit-and-run" method of advancing base runners over the more conservative sacrifice.

* * *

Introduction of the lively ball had done much to remove one of the biggest thrills of the old game that was provided by a daring team of fast base runners. The Detroit Tigers and the New York Giants were always demon clubs on the bases and the Giants are yet when the occasion demands.

McGraw still pays a lot of attention to instruction in base running and sliding when he is working with his youngsters, while some other managers, like Miller Huggins, do not even have a sliding pit in their training camps.

Desperate chance taking on the bases is not so necessary now, when there is always the chance that the weakest batter will knock the rabbit-ball out of the lot, but good base running, still has its advantages.

Alertness in sensing the opportunity and speed in taking advantage of it, gave the Giants several games this season when an opposing outfielder loafed on a hit or threw to the wrong base.

The Giants, as they are constituted at present, are one club against which it is surely fatal to make a mistake.

McGraw builds teams that way, and there is no builder in baseball the equal of McGraw.

YOUNG CHILD KICKED IN THE FACE BY CALF

MILLBROOK, June 1. — While his father was lying ill in bed in the house, and while a Women's Institute garden party was in progress on the front lawn, little Ross Armstrong, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, who live on the 8th Line of Cavan, in company with some other little boys of the neighbourhood, undertook last evening, abut seven o'clock, to put a bridle on a young calf in his father's barn.

The animal kicked the child in the face, knocking him several feet away, and cutting him up pretty badly.

An older brother of about nine years of age, went to his assistance, and a trained nurse attending the garden party, Miss M. Sutton, bound up his cuts.

MODERN GOLF

NOTED CANADIAN GOLFERS

THE AID OF PICTURES.

"O wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oorsel's as ithers see us!"

So far as golf is concerned this hitherto insuperable difficulty has been overcome by the camera. It is possible now to have a moving picture taken of one's swing so that any section of it may be seen and studied. The whole film can be thrown on the screen and, if need be, slowed up so that the movements can be seen in detail; or prints can be made and the swing studied at one's leisure. In this way each movement may be checked up in relation to the other movements that go to make up the composite swing, and defects discerned which are impossible to the unassisted eye. The cost of moving pictures is not prohibitive. I know of one player who apparently had excellent form, but who could not drive two hunderd yards. This lack of strength he overcame by having his swing filmed, which showed that at the moment of impact the weight was not on the left foot as it should be in the case of long drivers. This was difficult to detect by the naked eye, but the cinema showed it up clearly. A score of prints of the swing at the vital sections can be made, and these can be compared with pictures of recognized stars of the game, so that the beginner can tell exactly at which point, if any, the swing goes wrong. The camera does not lie, no matter what artists may do. It simply records what it sees. It has no pet theory to support. Golf books, as a whole, have had to be largely rewritten because of data supplied by the camera.

Some interesting points have been brought out by the pictures. Heretofore the hands were supposed to start the back swing. The body was supposed to be inactive until the club got considerable distance in the back swing. If the hands started the back swing, the head of the club would immediately get ahead of the hand. But the converse is true; the head of the club, so to speak; remains on the tee and for a few inches is dragged by the arms. The swing is started by the body pivoting and the hands do not become active until somewhere about the middle of the back swing.

The pictures show a fuller body movement or pivot somewhere before the club has reached its furthest point in the back swing. The explanation of this is that after the body has completed its twist the momentum of the club carries the hands farther back. The body actually starts reversing in the down swing before the club has reached its farthest point in the back swing. This is the reason why the back swing and forward swing blend so that no break appears. According to the old teaching the hands were supposed to start the down swing; this is contrary to the evidence of the pictures. The hands have nothing to do with the start of the down swing. The body reversing pulls the hips and shoulders around, and consequently the arms. The wrists and hands remain in the same bent position they occupied at the top of the swing until a few feet from the back swing, when they start reversing.

With all the long hitters in the down swing there appears to be a distinct sway towards the hole. The left hip seems to shoot in the direction of the flag, and if the left goes the right, of course, must follow. The body is not in the same position at impact as it occupied in the address, nor is the down swing the same as the up swing. The sway of the body is provided for by the fact that most of the long hitters address the ball slightly off the left heel.

The pictures show the waggles of most of the stars to be almost indentical. The club is raised straight up from behind the ball and is pointed slightly in the general direction of the hole. It is then brought back several feet past the ball and is then placed behind the ball when the swing proper is commenced. The movements are, of course, made by the extension of the right wrist and the roll of the left forearm with the reverse movements. During these movements the head is not kept fixed on the ball. During the forward movement the head looks at the hole and then is allowed to rest on the ball. If the head is kept fixed on the ball throughout the waggle apparently aim is destroyed. This can be proven from practice.

On the down swing both knees seem to bend forward, which causes the body to dip. They straighten up, however, before the ball is struck. The body is certainly in a more upright position at the top of the swing than half-way in the down swing.

There are other interesting points which the pictures show. For the player who is badly off his game and can get no cure from his professional, I would strongly recommend that his swing be filmed. By comparing it with other pictures faults may be detected and a cure for them suggested.

The difficulty most golfers meet is not being able to see their own swings. If this were possible many players could easily correct their own faults. A good example of the aid of pictures is the reported case of Miss Sterling, who detected a glaring fault while watching a picture of her swing, which drew from her to remark that she would "soon correct that" and which, doubtless, she was able to do.

It should be remembered that the eyes, although the most important factors in acquiring knowledge, are by no means infallible. The whole basis of legerdemain is founded on their limitations. But the camera, with its fast shutter speed, is extremely accurate, and, as someone says, never lies.

TRIS SPEAKER IS VERY STRICT

CLEVELAND, June 2 (Associated Press).—A rigid training rule laid down by Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, prohibits players from smoking cigarettes or drinking anything stronger than one-half of one percent. The veteran manager-star believes physical fitness offsets minor playing defects. He expects his men to be the stumbling block of all 1923 pennant aspirants.

The Cleveland outfield, with Speaker in center, Summa in right and Jamieson in left, is at least on a parity with any in the league, in the opinion of Speaker. He regrds Summa as the greatest outfielder found by a major league club since Ty Cobb marched out of Georgia to fame in the baseball penant wars. In Jamieson he has the "triple-threat" excellent fielder heaver hitter and idea lead-off man.

In the infield Speaker admits the attacking force is not so great as when Stuffy McInnis was at first and Gardner at third, but the present initial and far corner sackmen Guisto and Lutzke are expected to offset in great defense, what they may lack in offense. Another valuable addition to the Indian camp is Glenn Myatt, former Milwaukee American Association catcher, who now alternates with Steve O'Neill in catching and waiting for a pinch nitting opportunity.

While not claiming a great pitching staff, Speaker says he has a good lot of pitchers and an exceptionally strong force of substitute players and pinch hitters. In the outfield as substitutes he has Brower, formerly of Washington, who is also a first baseman, and Joe Connolly, both classy fielders and heavy hitters. Infield substitutes include Gardner at third, and Stephenson at short or third. Five heavy batsmen are thus available as pinch hitters.

Speaker, who says he will never be a bench manager, still has his habit of drawing two lines on the dirt before the plate and knocking the dirt from the cleats of his shoes before taking his position at the plate.

PLANS MADE FOR FREE-FOR-ALL

ST. LOUIS, June 2 (Associated Press).—A "free-for-all" air race, from all parts of the country with St. Louis as its objective, is on the tentative program of the international air race to to be held here October 1-3. The contest would be open to flying craft of all kinds, and the participants will be handicapped as to type and weight of machine, fuel consumed, and distance covered.

The contest is to called the "On-to-St. Louis" race, and it is hoped to have a number of entries from Canada, should the National Aeronautic Association approve.

The tentative program also includes a dirigible race, in which the army, and possibly the navy, would be represented; exhibitions of the helicopter and glider, the radio-controlled plane, the reversible propeller glider launched from a dirigible; aerial combats and bombing of a dummy fort; and a race between a fast dirigible and an airplane.

There also would be a contest of airplane models built by Boy Scouts, the winner of which would receive a $6,000 silver trophy. The miniature planes would be driven by motors, operated by compressed air.

Other proposed features include races for army training planes owned by civilians, for army and navy entries, for light commercial planes, and for larger planes.

The Pulitzer Trophy race, which will be held in conjunction with them, is expected to take on an international character for the first time, as negotiations are under way to induce some of the noted European flyers to enter.

FEATHERWEIGHTS TO CONTEST TITLE

Kilbane and Crique Will Battle for Championship Today.

NEW YORK, June 2 (Special to The Examiner). — In prospect, the combat for the featherweight boxing championship of the world that is to take place late to-day at the Polo Grounds between Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, and Eugene Crique, of Paris, sands as one of the most interesting and absorbing records of pugilism

A crowd of 80,000 is expected to see the battle

Kilbane, grey-headed man out of the West, witty, brainy, fast, and clever; Crique, genuine Parisian, smart, quick, and hard-hitting. Both are old as ring gladiators go — or have generally gone until this year. Kilbane confesses to 34 years of age, and Crique to being just under 30.

Both men were confident to-day Kilbane has not trained as hard as his opponent, but he said he never was in better shape.

"I have recovered judgment of distance, and can hit as hard as ever," he said. "I will go into the ring with the fullest confidence."

Criqui, who is credied with a harder punch but with less boxing ability than Kilbane, said his condition was perfect. I am stronger than ever before," he said. "I am too strong for Kilbane, and will make him go too fast. I expect to win by the knock-out. There is no doubt about it—I will win."

A WAIL OF WOE FROM KINGSTON

Manager Solomon Will Have to Keep Quiet or Ponies Will Quit.

Judging by the comment in the Kingston newspapers, Kingston has been so long out of organized ball that they have forgotten what a real ball game looks like. The wail published below is amusing of course the Petes did some vigorous kicking but did you ever see a fighting ball club that didnt "crab" when they ran into bad umpiring And by the same taken the most strenuous kicker around the diamond on Wednesday was Manager Daley of the Kingston team who was only allowed to sit on the bench out of courtesy for he was not in uniform and had no amateur card Daley's talk to Umpire Butler in the second innings should have resulted in his being ejected from the park but there was not even one policeman in sight to be called into service.

Here is what the Standard says:—

Yesterday afternoon the secretary of the "Big Four" was in telephonic communication with President M. J. Dedman of the C.O.B.L. at Lindsay and discussed with him the incidents in Wednesday's evening's game against the Peterboro team, and requested a change in the umpire-in-charge at the game at Peterboro tomorrow afternoon. It so happens that that official is Mr. Butler, whose failure to keep Manager Solomon and Pitcher Heckman of the Petes in their places has caused so much unfavorable comment in every section of the city and among all classes of fans here and in the district.

The local's secretary put the matter plainly to President Dedman and in reply the latter said that while he was short of umpires, he would do the best he could towards meeting the wishes of the Kingston executive. He was given to understand that neither the local executive, the team manager nor the players would tolerate for a moment any semblance of the conduct of which Solomon and Heckman were guilty here. and that if it was necessary to accept Butler as umpire at the plate, the first indication of untoward conduct on the part of any Peterboro player would be the signal for the Kingston team to withdraw from the field. He was told that the Kingston executive wanted clean sport, wanted the rules of the game lived up to, wanted decent coaching and playing and would not tolerate any ...ven to the extent of withdrawing from the game.

"I am very glad you have brought this matter to my attention," said President Dedman "You may not know it but Solomon is a hard man to handle, and it is not every umpire who can do it, but I will do my best to meet your wishes. We are short of umpires. in fact for another game on Saturday I have not yet been able to get men to work. However, I will note what you have said, will take the matter up with Umpire Butler and I can assure you quite confidently that there will not be a repetition of this affair. You may rely on that."

This is the assurance under which the Kingston team will travel to Peterboro to-morrow, and under which they will start the game there if weather and grounds permit. Every member of the executive has confidence in President Dedman, and believes that he will do his best, and the executive to a man is behind the team in the demand for good clean sport here and elsewhere around the C.O. circuit and will not tolerate anything else. Horse-play methods, and bullyragging will get short shift from the Kingston supporters of the game.

Poland to Have Direct Communication

WARSAW, June 2 (Associated Press).—The building of a radio station in Warsaw, which will be one of the most powerful in the world, has been undertaken with a view to giving Poland the opportunity of direct communication with western countries with out having to rely upon communication through other states.

The work of construction was commenced in February, 1922, and will be finished next July.

The total cost of the station amounts to almost $2,000,000.

Sees America As Winner of 1924 Paris Olympiad

ROME, June 2 (Associated Press).—With an army of 300,000 athletes from which to choose the 1924 American Olympic team, the United States is in the most formidable position of all the competing countries and looks like the sure winner of the Paris Olympid next year, according to General Sherrill, the old Yale star and originator of the "crouch start," who is spending a few days in Rome after the meeting of the International Olympic Committee.

"We hate to boast," said General Sherrill "but we seem to have the best collection of athletes in the whole world, and there is no reason why we should not walk away with the honors. Just taking colleges and universities alone, they present a formidable array of athletic possibilities.

"For the sprints, I think Paddock can be depended upon to take the prize from all comers," the General continued. "Then there is that wonder, Gourdin, for the broad jump. Nothing will be able to touch him. Young Weismuller in swimming will carry off all that he will be required to do.

"Both the army and navy are sending strong teams. In rifle work, they will make all the rest hump. Then in fencing and rowing, they are going to show up well. We also will have our team of winter sports, which will enter the events at Chamoinix, France next January. In the equestrian games, the American Remount association is interesting itself and will send a strong representation.

"My Hands Trembled and I Could Not Sleep"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:—

"When I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was so nervous that when I picked up a cup of tea my hand would tremble like a leaf. I could not sleep well, could not remember things, and there were neuralgic pains through my body. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am in perfect health."

BEE COLONIES

It is essential that every beekeeper should have all his colonies in the best of condition, i.e., strong in bees of the right flying age at the commencement of the main flow in order that the largest possible crop may be harvested.

The first step then, in building up should be taken toward the end of the honey flow, about the last week in July or first in August, when the beekeeper should see that each colony is headed by a vigorous young queen so that plenty of young bees may be reared for the winter. Should no nectar be coming in, it might be necessary to stimulate brood rearing by feeding; especially is this necessary for nuclei.

Later, he should see that all colonies contain an abundance of wholesome stores, and that the bees have adequate protection from the cold, in order that they may winter with as little loss as possible.

Despite the best of preparations for winter, it will sometimes be found that when colonies are removed from their winters quarters that they are low in vitality and vary greatly in strength.

To conserve their vitality cellar wintered colonies should when brought out be protected where possible, also they should be shielded by some sort of windbreak.

Unless lots of stores are present in the spring colonies will build up slowly. It will, therefore, be necessary early in the season to see that all have sufficient stores of honey. In most localities there is ample pollen. Combs of honey should be placed, after breaking the cappings, one on each side of the brood nest. Should spring flowers fail it might be necessary to feed to prevent brood-rearing being curtailed. In localities where pollen is not abundant, combs containing it should be saved and given in the spring.

The problem of the beekeeper, then, is to bring the medium colonies up to the strength of the strong ones. This may be done by uniting weak colonies to them or by giving a comb of sealed brood with adhering bees.

If desired, a weak colony may be built up by placing it above a strong colony with an excluder between them. No entrance is provided above. This is best done in the evening. First remove the cover and allow the cool air to cause the bees of the strong colony to recede. The weak colony is then gently placed above without the use of smoke. Three weeks later the upper colony, now quite strong, is removed to a new stand.

Water is required early in the spring for brood rearing until new honey is coming in, and unless a natural supply is near the apiary it should be furnished.

That the queen be not crowded for room in which to lay an extra super should be given when the bees are filling all the spaces between the frames, in the brood chamber. The bees also should be made as comfortable as possible by giving them ample space in which to store.

Should increase be desired, the colonies may be divided as soon as the hives are full of bees.

English Indulgs in Fun at Americans Expense

LONDON, June 2 (Associated Press).—Certain English newspapers seem to delight in poking fun at American customs and manners, and some of the London publications make more or less of a practice of parading the idiosyncrasies and habits of American tourists. This is especially true where American customs differ from the orthodox traits of the Englishman

A London newspaper with a circulation of a million has feature the following paragraph regarding a "cultural revolution" which was taking place in the United States:

"Cuspidors are being removed from countless American drawing rooms. Chewing gum is being scraped off parlor chairs. Several million American spend hours daily in practising the correct pronunciation of the words 'aunt,' 'clerk,' 'Derby', and 'advertisement.'"

Then came the ironical information that "bootlegging is no longer the principal occupation of the cultured minds of America," and that much more time is being spent "in reading the social culture advertisements and learning how easy it is to misbehave unless one buys 'The Book of Good Manners'."

The British public is told that a great wave of etiquette is sweeping America. "Half America's 110,000,000 people are now spending a large part of their time in watching the other half and seeing that they conform to the rules of social culture," says this satirical journal.

Patrons of restaurants are pictured as spending so much time watching one another that they eat only about a hlf what they consumed before the wave of etiquette struck America. The paper quotes a Broadway manager as saying that "when a diner uses his knife on a salad or takes two bites at a strawberry, such a hush falls upon the assembly that one can even hear the orchestra."

EMBROIDERED COATS

Allover embroidered coats, fastened at the side with ribbon bows are the popular mode of the moment.

Inspected by the premiers of the three prairie provinces, a shipment of thirty cars of livestock left the Union Stockyards, Winnipeg, over Canadian Pacific lines recently, on their way to the Atlantic coast, where they will be exported to the United Kingdom. This shipment was part of a consignment of 1,000 cattle assembled from 125 farmers of the western provinces, and will be marketed under the co-operative pool plan. The upper picture shows the cattle lined up for inspection. Inset, left to right: Hon. John Bracken of Manitoba, Hon. Chas. A. Dunning of Saskatchewan, and Hon. Herbert Greenfield of Alberta. Lower left: A fine specimen which weighed 1,400 pounds. Lower right: Some of the new C. P. R. cattle cars in which the consignment was shipped.

LAW SUIT TO SETTLE DISPUTE

BELGRADE, June 2 (Associated Press). — Lacroma Island, where Richard Couer de Lion was shipwrecked when he was sailing up the Dalmatian coast from the Holy Land, figures in a lawsuit recently heard in the Jugo-Slav courts.

The little island, which lies about half a mile from the shore of Ragusa, has had a romantic history. Richard Couer de Lion built a monastry on it in gratitude for being saved from the sea. More recently it has had two unhappy royal owners. Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, and the ill-fated Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria.

Prince Rudolf's daughter, Elizabeth, received the island as a part of her dowry when she married Otto Windischgratz who is concerned in the recent legal proceedings. The town of Ragusa attempted to have the island transferred to the state according to the Treaty of St. Germain. But Princess Elizabeth, the owner, who is living divorced from her husband at Baden, asserts that she is no longer a member of the Hapsburg family, as she renounced all her rights on the occasion of her marriage.

The claim of Ragusa was based upon a precedence case, heard in n Czecho-Slovaka, in which members of the Hapsburg family lost their property. The claim was upheld and rejected successively by two courts, but before it had time to wo through the highest courts Princess Elizabeth relinquished all her rights in the island for the sum of £125,000, which was paid by the state.

BALDWIN GOVT. SHOWS VIGOR

Put Indemnity Bill Through in Spite of the Combined Opposition,

LONDON, June 2.—(Special)—The Baldwin Government made a good passage with the indemnity bill which proves that the cabinet is stronger than the combined Liberal and Labor forces. Labor was determined before the crisis which was caused by Bonar Law's sudden resignation to oppose the measure with its fullest force but the broadness of the bill took the wind out of their sails and the Government graciously accepted amendments in the measure correcting obvious errors. The Labor opposition collapsed and they were wildly between the air. The country is not just now in a mood for any sort of radicalism. The Conservative triumphs at Berwick on Tweed yesterday where, a musical comedy artist captured a seat long held by a member of the powerful Grey family is indicative of the spirit of England to-day and Labor is discovering that it is a bad time to attempt to force its policies on the electorate.

The several crisis in the Labor world last week marked a new realization on the part of Labor of a change of heart.

The "Canny Policy" is no longer applied in the mines but in other industries it remains Labor's policy. Even, Newbold, the Communist, seems since the time of his suspension to have adopted the attitude of a back bencher.

England is not showing any particular interest in Communism just naw and even in questions of the expenditure of Soviet funds in England there is little or no debate. Possibly Britain's firm stand on the question of breaking off trade relations with the Soviet has had its effect in showing the Reds that Britain will not stand too much insolence from Moscow and the suspension of Newbold from the House of Commons lowered Communist stock and the government to-day is stronger than it has been since the election In addition to the entry of McKenna it is possible that other men of outstanding ability will be called into the councils. The illness of Lord Cave makes the possibility of Lord Birkenhead re-entering politics under Stanley Baldwin's banner a reality Churchill's name is still talked about as a possible Minister of War. Geddes' illness has caused much discussion as to his successor especially in Canadian circles. Many persons maintain that the retirement of Geddes will mean the appointment of a Canadian at last temporarily as a sort or try-out on the new system.

$500 GRANT FOR THE ARMY HOME

Finance Committee Recommends Aid for Care of Local Maternity Cases—Seven of Late.

A grant of $500 to the Salvation Army for their Maternity Home and social service work was recommended to the Council by the Finance Committee last night on Ald. Holloway's motion seconded by Ald. Stocker.

When the budget was in the making and the appropriaetions for the year were allotted the Salvation Army was overlooked. Last night Adjutant Smith and Sergeant-Major Braund urged the Army's need of financial assistance from both the city and county.

Ajt. Smith said that seven maternity cases from Peterboro had been admitted to the Army's Maternity Home within the last few weeks. These were all girls who were unable to pay anything for their care and maintenance while in the hospital.

"What would become of these girls if we didn't look after them?" asked Mr. Braund who told of one case in which a girl was being turned away by relatives threatened to throw herself into the river.

"And they're not our cases," said Adjutant Smith.

WHAT THE LEADERS SAY ABOUT O.T.A.

All Three Agree That the Act Should Not Be Tampered With.

SARNIA, June 2. — Canadian Press. — Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore, secretary of the Department of Social Service and Evangelism of the Methodist Church, has been summoned to meet Premier King in Ottawa on Tuesday next to confer with the government respecting the delegalization of race track gambling, Mr. Moore told the London Methodist conference here to-day. He added that his department was now fighting the pool room and raffle system tooth and nail.

He urged conference and individual members of the church to vote for candidates who say that they will not weaken the Ontario Temperance Act but strengthen and enforce it up to the hilt. He cited pronouncements of the three party leaders on the question as follows:

Premier Drury — No tampering with the act.

Liberal Leader Wellington Hay—No not touch the act.

Conservative Leader Howard Ferguson—So tampering with the Act.

ANGLO-FRENCH UNDERSTANDING NOW PREDICTED

Premier Baldwin Confident Agreement Will be Reached Soon on the Reparations Question.

SUCCESS ASSURED

PARIS, June 4. Canadian Press. (Special.) — An agreement between Great Britain and France on the matter of reparations, disagreement over which nearly wrecked the entente, will soon be found, Premier Baldwin of Britain, predicted to-day in an interview.

"England and France will find a means to arrange the mutually difficult question of reparations," Baldwin said in a despatch published in the Petit Parisien.

"England realizes ful' the need of France and Belgium for national ecurity. I have the keenest desire to reach a settlement which will guarantee the peace of Europe."

"I hope to find an occasion soon to discuss these problems with my French colleagues. Personally I am disposed to believe that few things are impossible if one has a clear understanding of the difficulties and the will to overcome them."

"In that same spirit the delicate question of the Anglo-American debt was regulated. I do not see why we cannot regulate European questions which are in suspense also."

Baldwin said there might be temporary checks before a final agreement is reached but that eventually success is assured.

LIGHTNING STRUCK BARN IN OTONABEE

Ripped Off Shingles and Splintered Beams But Carried no Flame in its Current.

Lightning struck the ventilator on Mr. Jay Hutchison's barn on the River Road, Otonabee, at 7.30 this morning, broke the ridge pole, tore shingles off the roof, and generally damaged nearly all one end of the building. From the crashing noise that was distinctly heard inside the house, Mr. Hutchison instantly thought that the lightning had hit close to the house, and as he stepped on to the verandah he saw the flying shingles and the dust from the torn beams. A hole in the ventilator showed where the free current had penetrated the building. There was no sign of fire, and the damage to the building was not serious.

ROUNDING UP COMMUNISTS IN RUHR VALLEY

But Strikes Continue to Spread Rapidly, and Reds' Plans Are Being Carried Out.

POLICE ACTIVE

BERLIN, June 4. — (Special). — While hundreds of Communists were being rounded up by German police in the Ruhr Valley to-day, strikes continued to spread.

It is apparent that the strike programme has been very carefully planned in advance, and that it is being carried out, regardless of interference.

While the police were arresting Communists in Bochum and Dortmound, fresh strikes were causing many industries in the southern part of the valley to close down. Communists prevented workers from reaching an agreement with their employees in the Remscheid district.

The laborers, by an overwhelming majority, voted to return to work in the Bologne area.

Many Walk Out.

Many workers walked out in the Wupperdal neighborhood, while the men employed in three big metal points at Barem, on the edge of the occupied area, also quit. The German police, partly re-organized in the Ruhr for the purpose of stamping out the Communist flame, are working in military style. Flying squadrons of these armed men surround whole blocks of dwellings in which Communists were believed hiding, and then a door-to-door search is conducted.

Reds Arrested.

In Dortmound 500 "Reds" were arretsed. Practically every one of them was armed, and many of the houses raided turned out to be veritable arsenals with cellars packed with munitions.

Many business houses and restaurants which have the reputation of being haunts of "Reds" were closed by the police, their windows shuttered up and their doors locked with chains and padlocks. At Hoerde 500 Communists were taken in a series of raids. Several women were seized among them. Although women have not been conspicuous in the rioting to date, a few have been observed in the crowds joining enthusiastically in the fighting.

TOURIST SEASON HERE IS OPENED

But Some Roads North of Peterborough Are Almost Impassable.

LAKEFIELD, June 4. — The tourist season has begun, and one notices motor cars with foreign license plates, which means the beginning of the summer traffic. Each year, hundreds of cars of pleasure-seekers pass through the village, most of them en route to the Lakes, and a word regarding the roads is not unseasonable.

The Smith road to Young's Point is in a terrible condition, and in many places utterly unfit for motor traffic. Unless means are being taken to improve present conditions speedily a notice should be posted at Phelan's Corner, warning tourists —as nothing gives a region a black eye quicker than the bad roads.

While tourists do not expect a highway, still a reasonably good road is not at all beyond question, or, more important still, beyond the means of the township.

The worst part of the Apsley road is between Young's Point and Burleigh, and it could be made at least passable by a few loads of gravel or crushed stone in the worst spots.

The question of good roads, reasonably good, is a very important one in connection with the summer tourist traffic, and if such are worth having, they are surely worth a little outlay.

CANADIANS ARE RETURNING TO LAND OF THEIR BIRTH

Hundreds of Farmers and Farmer's Sons Who Crossed Into U.S. Last Winter Now Appreciate Better Conditions in Canada.

WINDSOR, June 4 (Canadian Press). — Heavy emigration from Canada to the United States has practically ceased, and many Canadians who crossed the border in search of employment are returning home, according to Orvan Adams, chief immigration officer at Windsor.

He said that people who crossed the border during the winter were farmers' sons and farm labourers, and that hundreds of them are returning, encouraged by better conditions throughout Canada.

This condition has been brought to the notice of the authorities by the many persons who are presenting head tax certificates at the local office.

During the month of May, 399 were admitted at the port of Windsor and 421 refused admsision, as compared with 366 admitted and 458 refused during May of 1922. At Walkerville 28 were admittedand 46 kept out, as compared with 33 allowed 88 refused in May of last year.

A GIANT CRAFT.

LONDON, June 4. — (Canadian Press).—Great Britain will have largest and most powerful submarine in world when mystery ship submarine XI is completed. This giant underwater craft, which will soon be launched at Chatham, will displace 2,780 tons, and 3,600 tons when submerged.

This displacement is greater by more than thousand tons that of any foreign submarine now afloat.

The X1 will mount a 12-inch gun. She will be able to bombard any object at long or short range and then slip quickly beneath water. With her great speed and gunpowder which will surpass anything in her class she will be more than match for most surface vessels.

Submarine was laid down only eighteen months ago, and British Admiralty has congratulated her builders on speed with which they have done their work.

TORONTO, June 4.—(Canadian Press).—A Royal salute of 21 guns was fired at Queen's Park to-day by the 53rd Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, in honor of the 56th birth day of King George V. Although not a statutory holiday, Government offices, banks, schools and law courts are closed to-day.

Body of a Woman Found in the Lake North of Apsley.

APSLEY, June 4. — A sad tragedy occurred at Rose Island about 12 miles north of Apsley when Mrs. Albert Cadwell, well known resident lost her life by drowning.

It appears that Mrs. Cadwell who was not in the best of health, got up about four o'clock on Tuesday morning and left the house. Her husband went out a few minutes afterwards, but could find no trace of her, and after a vain search called neighbors to his assistance. A force numbering over twenty searched the woods all day Tuesday and Wednesday, and on Thursday morning found her dead body floating in a small lake about a mile from the house. She was fully dressed and also wore a thick winter overcoat of her husband's buttoned to the chin.

No inquest was held and the funeral took place on Friday afternoon.

WAS OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

Four Persons Had a Narrow Escape in Toronto This Morning.

TORONTO, June 4.— (Canadian Press.)— When Mrs. Walter Melburne who was washing clothes in the basement of her home on Newsham street here this morning, was overcome by gas fumes, three other persons who ran to her aid were stricken and had to be rescued by neighbors. Mrs. Melburne's sister, who was helping her to wash, saw her fall, and immediately ran to her, but was soon overcome. Next came Walter Melburne, who fell a victim while endeavoring to carry his wife and sister-in-law upstairs. Hearing the commotion, Mrs. Smith, a neighbor, rushed in and soon she joined others lying unconscious at the bottom of the stairs. Other neighbors ran in and succeeded in carrying the stricken four on to the back verandah, where medical aid was given After working on them for some time with the aid of police breathing machine, the four persons recovered and were able to stay in their homes.

TRAPPER CARRIED WOLF TO TORONTO

Carried Animal Under His Arm and Took a Taxicab For Zoo.

TORONTO, June 4.—(Canadian Press).——Carrying a live sixty-five pound female timber wolf under his arm "Big Joe" Laflame, of Gogama, Ont., walked into local Zoo yesterday and presented animal to keepers He said that last winter he found carcass of deer partially eaten. He placed trap in carcass and when he returned he found it and deer missing. Following trail in snow for more than mile, he found timber wolf and trap entangled in bushes. Wolf had dragged carcass for almost a mile before it released from trap.

"I threw some harness on her, took off trap and soon ad her pulling in my dog team," said Laflame. To him it did not seem an extraordinary feat to harness wild timber wolf.

When Laflamme arrived at the Union Station he put his 'Little Pet' under his arm and took a taxicab to the Zoo.

Rotarians ai-mdiur

ROTARIANS ARE WARNED NOT TO OVERWORK EYES

Rotarian A. A. Fowler Gives Some Useful Information on Subject of Unusual Interest.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

At the regular luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day the programme was featured by the presence of Miss Agnes Logan and Miss Mathilda Masson, who contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion and who were given an ovation by the Rotarians.

Miss Logan's first number was "Cortege" by Debussey, the young artist's favourite composer, the offering being executed with an full appreciation of its charm and in response to the applause Miss Logan rendered with equally successful effect a pianoforte arrangement by Percy Grainger, of the Londonderry air "Danny Boy."

Miss Masson's rich voice was displayed to greatest advantage in the song "Homing" and her encore number "Chanson Provencale" in French, was a most enjoyable contribution.

Miss Logan and Miss Masson were each presented with a bouquet of flowers as a mark of the Rotarians' appreciation.

Rotarian Dr. A. W. McPherson gave an interesting report of the recent meeting at Lindsay in regard to crippled children's work, outlining the ground covered by the different speakers and pointing out the suggestions that applied most particularly to the work of the local committee.

The speaker to-day was Rotarian A. A. Fowler, who gave a most informative address on "The Care of the Eyes" in which he covered many points that were new to his audience. He emphasized the need of protecting the eyes from injury or infection and of using them normally and in a manner least calculated to hurt the vision. Many forms of infection were outlined by the speaker, and the speaker referred to tobacco and alcohol as two common causes. Rotarian Fowler warned his audience against the use of many kind of eye-wash, some of which contained only cheap ingredients and other drugs that were dangerous. He emphasized the need of not straining the eyes by over-working them or using them to read in bad light or while lying down.

His address was full of useful advice on a subject about which too little is known.

It was announced that the Rotary Club for the first time in its history had a 100 per cent. attendance on May 21st and that the average for many was 90.7.

President McElderry was in the chair to-day.

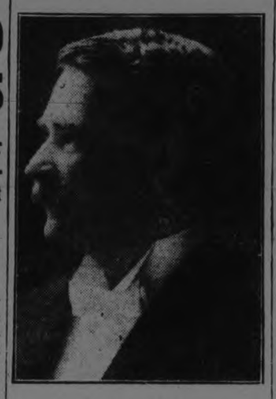
SPLENDID CONCERT BY RANGERS' BAND

A very enjoyable concert was given by the band of the Peterboro Rangers, under the direction of Lieut. Peryer, last night. The band, 32 strong, and very neat in their new uniforms, played a splendid programme in fine style. Among the numbers most successfully given were the overture, "Light Cavalry," a selection from Novello's popular revue, "Bric a Brac," the always enjoyable "Chu Chin Chow," and a waltz, "Luna." Mr. Albert Lee sang "Abide With Me" in excellent voice, and had to respond to an encore.

Has Resigned



R. J. DEVEY,
Organist and Choirmaster of St. John's Church.

HAS RESIGNED FROM ST. JOHN'S

R. J. Devey, Organist and Choirmaster, About to Sever Connection Held 17 years.

R. J. Devey, organist and choirmaster of St. John's Church, has resigned his position.

Mr. Devey came to Peterboro' seventeen years ago last January, at the invitation of Wardens Eardley-Wilmot and H. Cluxton, from St. Paul's, Winchester. He has always maintained a strong choir, mostly too many for the ordinary chancel seats. The choral evensong is now a regular feature, the finest sung service being that at 11.00, the first Sunday in the month, and on Festivals, viz., the Holy Communion.

The choir is purely voluntary, and all adult members must be communicants.

From the first year outside the regular liturgical services, choral works were given in St. John's. "Crucifixion," (Stainer), "Come let us Sing," (Mendelssohn); "Daughters of Jarius,' (Stainer); "Creation,' (Haydn); "Olivet to Calvary ,"(Maunder); "The Darkest Hour,' (Moore), all of which were given without professional assistance, a wonderful tribute both to singers and conductor.

No less remarkable was Mr. Devey's work along secular lines. Many local amateurs have had splendid opportunities in light opera, for as in Church singing, the professional singer was never employed. "The Mikado," "Geisha," "Greek Slave," "San Toy," were presented at intervals, the brilliant presentation of Act 1 of the Geisha at the Royal Alexander in Toronto, in the Earl Grey musical competition calling forth from His Excellency the Governor-General Grey a request that the whole opera be given in the Grand Opera House, Peterborough, His Excellency and staff attended, what was indeed a gala performance, which the late Mr. J. J. Turner memorized by placing a block of the Royal Arms in front of the box occupied by the ViceRegal party.

Last February, after a few weeks' rehearsal, two splendid performances of the Gilbert & Sullivan opera "Utopia, Limited," were given by the St. John's A.Y.P.A. a body of young performers, many of whom had never been on a stage before, either to sing or to act. To [illegible] memorize a whole light opera.

As a [illegible] nature of Mr. [illegible] the performances [illegible] "The Messiah" [illegible] of which Mr. Devey was the musical director.

The "Peoples Chimes" have rung out on all public holidays since their installation in June, 1911. From the dark days of March to the joyous day of the Armistice, the bells were rung every day (except Sunday) at noon, during the year 1918. Mr. Devey being responsible both for the idea and its regular carrying out.

Mrs. R. J. Devey has wholeheartedly supported her husband in his musical activities in addition to membership in many other church and city organizations. This year president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A., as well as an officer in the Provincial Command of the same order, Mrs. Devey has given splendid service to the cause of the families of returned men.

Mr. and Mrs. Devey will carry away with them many pleasant memories, and the sincere affection of many of their fellow citizens.

HICKS' COMPANY IMPORT HEAVY COAL CARGOES

Equipped With Efficient Carrying and Unloading Plant—Robt. Hicks in Charge.

FROM OSWEGO

COBOURG, June 4—Coal for distribution in Central Ontario has been pouring through this lake port as a result of the activities of the R. Hicks Coal and Towing Company, whose establishment this Spring is now bearing heavy fruit. Four cargoes unloaded in seven and a half days was a recent record of activity indicating the briskness of the business this company is finding through out the district.

The Hicks Coal and Towing Company are well equipped with a complete and efficient plant, and Mr Robert Hicks of Peterboro has intimated that the company is consider ing the erection of a big storage bin on the dock before winter. The company purchased the freighter "W. J. Carter," which has a capacity of 800 tons of coal and makes the trip from Oswego to Cobourg in eleven hours. A steel tow barge fitted with a Brown hoist especially for unloading coal has also been secured, and will increase the tonnage by four hundred tons to a total of 1200 every trip.

The unloading plant on the dock consisting of a big derrick with clam bucket that scoops a full ton of coal with every hoist demonstrates its utility and efficiency by unloading eight hundred tons in seven hours. This coal is transhipped directly from the bunkers to cars waiting on the siding on the dock, and the normal output of the plant henceforth will be approximately 2,000 tons a week. The coal is the well-known D. L. and W. product which dealers through Central Ontario, including Peterboro are snapping up.

Mr. Angus McIntosh of Peterboro, is building an office for the company on the dock, and will have it ready for occupancy in a short time. The work of organization has kept Mr. Hicks in Cobourg almost continuously of late, but the details of the business are now going smoothly, and it is expected that the company will handle huge quantities of coal this season.

THE WEATHER.

The rain yesterday and to-day will do much good. Yesterday's total was .28 of an inch. To-day seems very close and warm. There is a feeling as if one stood inside of an immense greenhouse; it is great growing weather for vegetation, but uncomfortable for humans. The atmosphere this morning, before the rain began to fall, was so saturated with moisture that it condensed on the leaves of the trees and fell on the sidewalk like rain. It is this humidity that causes it to feel so warm to-day, and not the height of the thermometer. It is ideal growing weather.—W. P.

Cute Little Red Shoes

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 4 (United Press).—

Dear Miss Hoyt,

I should like to know whether colored shoes in vivid shades such as red, blue, green and yellow are really considered in good taste by fashionable women My two daughters insist upon having some for summer and I am inclined to think that young girls should be more discreet as to footgear.

Very sincerely,
Mrs. J. S. L.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

I am very glad to answer Mrs. J. S. L.'s letter as I think that the question of "whether or not colored shoes are in good taste" is one that is troubling many of us.

Secretly we all have longings for the little red shoe. It's just as natural for us to like the cunning cut-out slipper of coloured leather as it was for us to hanker for red-topped boots when we were kids. That reminds me of the late Frank Bacon in "Lightnin', Lightnin'" is a poor old man who inherits a fortune after years of poverty. The first thing that he buys after receiving the fortune is a pair of red-topped gumboots. Ridiculous as he appeared in them he wore them with as much joy as if he were a boy.

Now a very conservative person would tell us that colored shoes are decidely not in good taste. They might even go so far as to call them "vulgar." But —thank Heavens! it isn't the conservative persons who make or set the styles. If it were, we would be a sorry looking lot in conventional, drab cloth which changed little from year to year.

Colored shoes are undoubtedly pretty on some feet. And this is a peculiar fact—they tend to make the foot appear smaller than dark shoes. But one can't wear them indiscriminately. That is where the danger of the colored shoe lies.

A woman who can't afford the colored shoe as a luxury to be worn only at appropriate times, should beware of them. They certainly do not look well with a tailored suit or gown nor should they be worn for morning wear about town. They are not a business shoe and the girl who utilizes them for this purpose is showing little judgment.

With certain afternoon costumes they are not only permissible, but lovely. The costume however, must be one whose beauty is augmented by the touch of color in the shoe. It must also be a dressy costome, as the colored shoe is not for the severely-cut gown.

At ball games, the race track and for all open air sports events, the colored shoe of the sport variety worn with sports clothes is certainly permissible.

The young society girls and matrons have offered us proof of this fact. Green shoes are particularly popular with the sport frock this season.

Many women are not only tiring of the white shoe for summer wear, but find them so costly to keep clean that they are growing away from them. White kid is unsightly after a cleanings, as it turns yellowish. Canvas shoes, on the other hand, are not considered dressy.

So many people are wearing colored shoes this season that they are no longer considered conspicuous.

Happy Faces

KALAUPAPA, Island of Molokai, T. H., June 4.—A spirit of happiness, almost inconceivable, and a peace that passes the bounds of human understanding, walk with tragedy through the isolated, cliff-guarded, surf-fringed strip of shore that has given this portion of the Hawaiian archipelago the name of "the lonely leper isle of Molokai," The Associated Press correspondent found when he accompanied the territorial legislature on a trip to the settlement recently.

A visitor to the colony, forewarned of the horror it holds, finds all of that horror and more that cannot be discussed. But he finds also that the heavy fog of gloom which once enveloped the tragic, narrow stretch between the sea and the towering cliffs, has been dissipated by a ray of light arising from the favorable results that have attended the use of the Dean chaulmogra oil specific during the past two years in checking the ravages of the oldest disease in the world. The hope that springs eternal in the human breast is ever present now at Molokai, even in the most advanced cases.

The visitor finds faces smiling with a cheerfulness that has conquered affliction. He is greeted everywhere by a hearty, joyful "Aloha," the all-embracing Hawaiian term of salutation, welcome and well-wishing. The eagerness with which the inmates talk to a visitor, and look for long hours upon an unmarred, strange face "from the outside," is pathetic, as is their naive, almost child-like questioning as to whether the visitor may know friends of theirs on "the outside"—in Hilo, Honolulu, Wailuku, Lahaina.

Many of the patients have taken refuge in music—the great solace of the Hawaiian race. They have organized a band and several singing clubs, which vie with each other at song-fests. The performance of one of these clubs—a patients' male octette—supplied a bit of pathos that crops up frequently through the aura of peace. The patients were singing gaily a cheerful Hawaiian song of welcome to the legislators. They were succeeding admirably. Suddenly a mandolin player—young and apparently a newcomer to the colony—who had been gazing with longing into the unscarred faces of the visitors—began weeping. Despite the tears that streamed down his cheeks, he continued, with bravery as fine as ever seen on any battlefield, to sing the cheerful words of the song, did his best to simulate joy and keep the tears out of his voice.

A man of wealth, of power and of influence throughout the territory accompanied the legislators to the island. He made directly for the hospital as soon as he landed from the vessel's small boat. When the main body of the visitor reached the hospital he was sitting beside one of the beds, weeping. The bandaged form upon the bed was his son.

But all is not sorrow at the saddest spot on earth. Some distance from the hospital is a nursery. On the day of the legislators' visit in contained ten unusually healthy looking babies ranging from two weeks to five months in age. They gurgled, smiled and laughed, and shook tiny, chubby fists at the visitors. Although one or both of their parents are afflicted with leprosy, the most searching examination possible has failed to show a trace of the disease in any one of the children, or to scores of others who have been born to patients at the settlement. The children are cared for by the territory. They are kept at the settlement until they reach the age of six months, when they are taken to Honolulu and placed in a home maintained by the government.

The apparent contentment of the inmates of the colony and their fear of leaving the pot that has been "home" to many of them for years unless they are paroled owing to beneficial results of injections of the chaulmoogra oil specific, shattered to a bits a tentative proposal that the settlement be closed and the inmates moved to some location more easy of access. The visit of the legislature made certain that the gray of the lives of the lepers would continue to be enacted upon a stage of marvelous natural scenic beauty and would not be transferred.

No man who has seen what was once called "the home of the living death" is quite the same man therafter.

To cheer the patients the legislators brought many gifts and toys, and many packages from friends and relatives'

TRUCKS AND TRACTORS REDUCE USE OF OATS

WASHINGTON, June 4 (Associated Press).—Production of oats in the United States probably has reached its highest point, in the opinion of experts of the Department of Agriculture.

The yearbook of the department for 1922 declares the advent of motorized trucking, both in city and country, and of the tractor on the farm, are reducing markedly the commercial demand for feeding oats. The result, it is predicted, will be to reduce acreage and production, which have increased rapidly and consistently since annual estimates first became available in 1866. The oat crop now ranks third in importance the cereals being next to corn and wheat.

The importance of barley, which ranks fourth among cereals in this country, is increasing even though production is not. The average annual production of barley for the ten years ended in 1922 was about 193,000,000 bushels. The future outlook for this crop is said to be encouraging.

Rye is listed as an unimportant crop in this country, but there has been an increase in production since 1912, due to an increased European demand which is expected to disappear later in large measure.

GERMANS STILL DELIBERATING A NOTE TO BRITISH

Expected to Have Note Ready By Middle of the Week — Hold Semi-Official Meetings.

FIXED PROGRAMME.

BERLIN, June 4. — (Canadian Press.)—No date has yet been fixed for the official despatch of Germany's amandatory reparations note to the Entente Powers. At Government headquarters it is announced that the Cabinet has not reached its final deliberations on this subject.

It is generally assumed that the note will be ready about the middle of the week, and that its cardinal features will consists of a definite offer of a fixed number of annuities, for which tangible guarantees secured by stringent legislation will be pledged.

Informal conferences between the Government and the industrialists, agrarians, banking and commercial interests, labor federations and Reichstag leaders have been taking place daily for the past week; up to the present they have largely resolved themselves into a protracted exchange of views on the guarantees to be offered. Paralelling these semi-official parleys are negotiations between the industrial leaders and labor officials who are mutually striving to neutralize some of the more marked differences which have arisen from the publication of the industrialists' memorandum to Chancellor Cuno and Labor's reply to this.

While the Socialists and Labor leaders are obviously seeking to conserve their political prestige in connection with current reparations discussions, the industrialists are candidly striving to win over the radicals to recognition of the principle that a measurable enhancement of economic production in all lines is as necessary to the fulfillment of these reparations agreements as it is to the internal problem of keeping the workmen employed on national schedules.

The industrialists' argument centres around the assertion that loyal fulfillment by Germany of the reparations programme, which is expected to yield a fixed system of annuities obviously calls for the most drastic realignment of every phase of Germany's economic organization, including "brawn." This, it is declared, is imperative to the accumulation of the surplus of production required to insure regulation of a fixed programme of gold annuities over many years.

The financial writers are led far afield in their contemplation of the mark's catastrophic slump and its possible bflearing on any reparations programme. The nation's floating debt, budgetary chaos, unending currency inflation and the devastating effect of the Ruhr occupation are freely cited as some of the most obvious storm signals. Augmenting these are a precipitate upsetting of wage schedules and a growing practice of finding prices of all commodities on a gold level—both designated as menacing contributary factors in a situation which is anything but auspicious for the projection of a tangible reparations offer.

The experts seem to concur in declaring that a moratorium is inevitable, as Germany must be given time to adjust her affairs so that she will be enabled to construct a logical foundation for her pyramid of reparations annuities.

PROGRESSIVES REFUSE TO ENDORSE TOOMS AS ELECTION CANDIDATE

Meeting of the Executives of Labor and Progressive Parties Will Be Held This Evening.

J. W. MEYERS SPOKE.

The Progressive Party meeting in the W.O.W. Hall on Saturday afternoon, addressed by the Liberal candidate, the Independent Labor Candidate and graced by the presence of the Conservative Candidate, decided not to enter a Progressive in the coming battle, and not to support Mr. Tooms unless certain radical changes are made in his policy and binding guarantees given by his party.

The feeling of the Progressives present ran high on the subject of Mr. Tooms' candidature, and many fiery clashes occurred between the ex-M.P.P. and the advocates of an open convention at which Labor men and U.F.O. supporters might chose a man mutually satisfactory to run as a coalition candidate. The net result of the discussion was the appointment of the Progressive executive to meet the Labor executive tonight to decide on a policy and draw up an agreement binding the labor party to support a Farmer candidate in the Dominion election in consideration of the farmers supporting a Labor candidate in the Provincial election.

Mr. Tooms urged his cause in his usual eloquent manner, but the final verdict of the meeting was that he must consent to appear before an open nomination meeting of United Farmers and Labor delegates, and abide by the result. Otherwise the Farmer vote will not be given him.

The meeting was presided overy by E. H. Brown, and the principal speaker was F. G. Sandy, Drury candidate for South Victoria.

Tooms Made a Mistake.

One of the speakers said Mr. Tooms made a great mistake in not consulting the farmers regarding his candidature. The farmers wished to support Drury, but they did not wish to vote for Tooms, who had no right to label himself a Drury candidate when he had not the endorsation of the United Farmer Party.

Mr. Scott said if Mr. Tooms is sincere in his statement that he wishes to see the Drury administration prosper he will be willing to step down if the party wishes it. If he shows his willingness to do so, and secures nomination at an open convention, the Progressive party will back him up to the limit.

Several speakers followed in strong condemnation of Mr. Tooms' method of securing nomination and his ignoring the farmers.

It was recognized that Drury and Raney have practically endorsed Tooms as the Government candidate for the West Riding. Arrangements have been made to bring Mr. Drury to Peterborough on June 5, and the opinion of the meeting was that a decision should be reached before then.

The feeling of those present was given definite form by a proposal by Mr. Stubbs that a combined convention of Labor and U.F.O. delegates be held to select a candidate acceptable to both. The U.F.O. is in danger of losing its identity, and a stand must be made at this time. "The big thing," Mr. Stubbs declared amid applause, "is to endorse the present administration."

Mr. Tooms' Views.

"Since I have been connected with the Drury Government I have been a consistent supporter of the Labor-U.F.O. coalition," Mr. Tooms stated. "The fundamental reason for their union is they are both producers and are both kept down by the big corporations."

Illustrating this, the speaker said the farmer brings his grain or hogs to the mill or the packing plant and is told what the price is—"take it or leave it." The laborer goes seeking a job, and he is told the rate is so much per hour—"take it or leave it."

The only way this condition can be remedied and the producers given a say in the price they receive for their commodities, is by 'getting together and understanding each other, and cutting out the large corporations which are making the rich richer and the poor poorer" Mr. Tooms said.

"If the late government was guilty of extravagance then the Liberals and Conservatives were equally guilty, for the Drury Government never had a majority." (Applause).

Regarding the suggestion that he step down and seek nomination before a united convention, Mr. Tooms warned the assembly several times, "You want to be careful about what you are doing."

Question: "Is that in the nature of a threat?"

Mr. Tooms: "Never mind what it is, I'm telling you to go carefully."

Question: "If that is a threat, let's fight it out now."

Mr. Tooms: "If you want to appoint a select confidential committee I will discuss the position with them."

Action Taken.

Mr. Tooms declared that he was endorsed by the Trades and Labor Council and nominated by the Independent Labor Party.

"Which is practically extinct" interjected a voice from the audience.

A speaker who is prominent in Farmers affairs declared himself a warm personal friend and a stauch supporter of Mr. Drury.

He thought that in view of the strong feeling in the meeting it would be to Mr. Tooms interest to submit to the desires of the Progressive Party for an open nomination.

"Will Mr. Tooms undertake to abide by the decision of a united meeting of Farmers and Laborers?" asked the speaker. "If he will do that are we willing to get behind him if he secures the nomination?"

A legally binding agreement should be arranged between the parties, this man thinks, giving the Provincial field to the Labor Party and the Dominion field to the U.F.O. Party.

"It will be a good thing for Mr. Tooms to fall in with the desires of the meeting as many people think he forced himself in without consulting the farmers."

It was decided by a standing vote that the executive of the U.F.O. Association should meet the executive of the Labor Party on Monday to draw up an agreement along the lines indicated by the speakers.

Mr. Meyers a Farmer.

Alderman J. W. Meyers jocularly remarked that if the Progressive meeting had been held before the Liberal convention he would not now be Liberal candidate. "I know just what you farmers are up against" the speaker said. "I was brought up on a farm and lived there until I was 35. It is hard for me to get away from that—'bring up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it.'"

Having accepted the Liberal nomination, Mr. Meyers asked for the support of the Progressives on these grounds. He praised the Liberal leader and said the farmers would make no mistake in followin him.

Question: "Are you prepared to support Mr. Drury on any good legislation he bring on for the farmers?"

Mr. Meyers: "I would not like to promise that," (laughter and cries of "no, you wouldn't") "I have to consider other interests. I would do what my conscience tells me.

WAR AREA HAS MADE A GREAT LEAP FORWARD

More Than Seventy Per Cent. of Destroyed Houses Have Been Rebuilt and Land Reclaimed.

POOR ROADS.

PARIS, June 4.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Remarkable progress is being made in the reconstruction of the devastated areas as shown by the official figures.

Of 741,993 buildings, wholly or partially destroyed during the war in the ten devastated departments, 278,834 had been rebuilt by January 1921. This number had risen to 355,389 in 1922 and by January first last 553,977 buildings had been rebuilt or more than seventy per cent. of the total destroyed.

Of 1,923,479 hectares (about 4,800,000 acres of devastated fields, 1,698,200 hectares (about 4,240,000 acres) were again under cultivation by January last. This remarkable result was only obtained through the energy and devotion of the peasants.

Recovery of industry has also been striking. Of 22,900 factories destroyed 18,091 have been rebuilt and 1,351 new factories make a total of 19,442. Reconstruction work has been limited to strictly necessary and well-built factories with high chimneys and these may now be seen in the midst of temporary wooden huts which are still accommodating workers.

The roadways in many parts of the late war zone are still mere tracks rendered uneven by shell holes which have been imperfectly filled in with brick from the ruins. Of 58,697 kilometres (36,700 miles) of roadway that needed remaking, just over half has been made good.

Trains are now running normally throughout the devastated regions. Of the estimated 102,000,000,000 francs requiresd for reconstruction. France has already advanced 49,000,000,000 and Germany has paid 4,000,000,000.

MRS B. YOUNG GAINS 34 LBS.

Declares Tanlac Restored Her When Stomach Trouble Had Almost Wrecked Health.

"I weighed only a hundred and fourteen pounds, my face was sallow and sunken, and was as thin as a rail. But since taking Tanlac I weigh one hundred and forty-eight, have the rosy cheeks of a school girl, and enjoy good health for the first time in fifteen years."

This remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. Bella Young, 98 Cathcart Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

"The last year of my sickness I was near a nervous breakdown, and my appetite was so poor even the odour of food sometimes nauseated me. Headaches, pains in my stomach and back nearly set me wild, and I would walk the floor for hours. I got so weak I could hardly stoop over to lace my shoes, and my housework was a burden.

"The Tanlac treatment gave me a wonderful appetite, built me up till friends wondered at my great change, and I always feel strong and well. I will never cease to praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for Constipation. For sale everywhere.

Russian Ministers Will Be Rebuked.

STOCKHOLM, June 3.—(Canadian Press.)—A Moscow despatch to the Tidnamen says George Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, has telegraphed Leonid Krassin, who is representing the Russian Government in London, that Russia, in order to bring about a solution of the Russo-British dispute, is ready to reduce the personnel of its legations in Afghanistan, Persia and Khiva, (Russian Turkestan), and consult the British Government in the selection of their successors.

National Defence Must Not Weaken.

MONTREAL, June 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence, addressing the officers of the Maisonneuve Regiment (formerly the 85th) at the dinner given at the regiment's new quarters here Saturday said that following on the Great War, there had arisen an aversion to things military, but this must not be allowed to go too far. Care must be taken in national development to see to national defence also, for while he was one of those who hoped for the day when nations would beat their swords into ploughshares, he did not believe that time was yet at hand, but feared that as long as there were nations there would be wars, and it was necssary to be prepared. The minister believed there had been a larger proportion of French-Canadins interested in militia matters and gave the assurance that efforts in that direction would meet with his best aid.

Codrington Man Had Narrow Escape.

ORLAND, June 4.—An auto accident which miraculously did not result fatally to D. C. Stuart of Codrington, occurred Thursday night at about 10 o'clock, where the Brighton and Campbellford County Highway crosses Little Cole Creek in the southern outskirts of the village of Orland.

At this point where there is a very narrow enbankment of about ten feet with a post and wire entanglement on both sides, Mr. Stuart who was on his way home from Brighton attempted to pass a car driven by Geo. Reddom with the result that his car landed at the bottom of the enbankment upside down on top of him. The two miracles of the accident were how Mr. Stuart was able to extricate himself without a scratch from a space of about eighteen inches from the footboard to the ground, he being a man weighing about two hundred pounds.

And while the wind-shield frame was crushed out of all shape the glass was not broken.

For the last thirty years Mr. Stuart has represented the township of Brighton in every capacity from Councillor to County Commissioner and consequently is very widely known.

BULGARIA PROTESTS.

LAUSANNE, June 4.—(Canadian Press.)—Bulgaria has delivered another protest against the recent decision that Turkey grant her transport rights through Karaghatch; she insists on the right to have an outlet to the Aegean through territory which is either Bulgaria or autonomus, and maintains that it is absurd to grant her facilities through Karaghatch without the right of way southward to the sea.

Bulgaria declares that failure to settle this question will only serve as a foundation for future Balkan difficulties.

RUM SHIP SUNK.

NORFOLK, Va., June 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The 50-ton sloop Glen Beulah, of British registry, with a cargo of liquor, was sunk late Saturday night when she was rammed by an unidentified steamer ten miles south-east of the Cape Charles lightship. The nine men of the Glen Beulah's crew were rescued by the Coast Guard cutter Yamacraw, which was anchored about 200 yards from the rum runner when the collision occurred. The sloop sank 15 minutes after the crash.

SERIOUS FOREST FIRE.

DENNYSVILLE, Me., June 4. — (Canadian Press.)—A forest fire is raging two miles from this village, on the property of the Dead River Lumber Company and men are being rushed to the scene to fight it as this village lies in the path of the flames. The management of two paper companies yesterday detailed their workers to aid the fire fighters.

Another fire is raging on Campobello Island, in New Brunswick. The flames are plainly visible from here.

There has been an earthquake in Alaska, which undoubtedly was caused by some seal hunter's lies.

FIRE WIPED OUT ENTIRE TOWN IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Two Men Killed and One Injured in Fire Which Swept Over Canaan on Saturday.

300 HOMELESS.

CANAAN, N.H., June 4.—(Canadian Press)—Two-third of this town was wiped out Saturday by fire which caused the death of two men, probably fatal injuries to another and rendered 300 persons homeless. Forty two buildings were burned to the ground and the loss is believed to have been more than $50,000.

Wide open spaces strewn with charred and blackened debris skirted by a few houses and buildings which escaped the fire today remained of what was yesterday morning a thriving and prosperous community.

The more than 200 persons who were made homeless by the conflagration were quartered temporarily in houses still standing and in neighboring towns while relief organizations were rushing supplies of food and clothing to those in want.

Meanwhile an investigation was in progress concerning the cause of the fire. The report that three children were seen playing in a loft where the fire sarted a short time before the flames were noticed was being checked up.

The dead men were Sidney B. Gilman, Storekeeper, and his father, Horatio A. Gilman, 80 years old. The body of the former was found in a field near his home while the flames were still in progress yesterday. It was believed that his clothing caught fire and that before he could reach aid he was overcome. The second victim died in a hospital late last night as a result of burns he received in attempting to escape from his burning home. William Foxhall, principal of the high school here was dangerously burned in attempting to save the latter.

On the business section of the town nothing remained. The Boston and Maine Railroad line from Montreal to Boston cuts the devasted section in two with the greater part of the burned section of the west.

Woman to Stand Trial For Death of Husband.

SASKATOON, Sask., June 4. — (Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Jennie Ordinal, of Pelly, Sask., district, was Saturday committed to stand trial on a charge of causing the death of her husband, Peter Ordinal on May 24. Their son, Peter Ordinal, 14 years old, was committed to the Provincial Detention Home for three years.

Mrs. Ordinal declared that she had frequently been cruelly beaten by her husband and she had instructed her son to protect her against him. When the man is alleged to have attacked his wife again, the boy seized a gun and shot him in the leg. Gangrene set in and Ordinal died in Canora Hospital.

Premier Scored By Liberal Nominee.

ST. CATHARINES June 4. — Canadian Press. — Mayor Joseph M. Mussen of Niagara on he Lake, was unanimously placed in nomination by the Liberals for St. Catharines at a convention held here on Saturday afternoon.

In acepting the nomination, Mayor Mussen scored Premier Drury for the extravagance of the administration, exceeding that of the preceding Conservative regime, although going into power on a platform of economy.

He also maintained that Hon. G. H. Ferguson's record on timber matters was a very poor recommendation for that gentleman as premier.

The candidate strongly supported the Beck Hydro-Radial programme as a vital one for the Niagara district. He thought that this district was entitled to lower power rates with the power source located here.

H. K. Woodruff was selected as treasurer for the local Liberal Association to succeed George M. Elson.

Workmen rebuilt the track late yesterday and traffic was resumed after a five-hour tieup. In place of a station a temporary platform has been erected.

A relief committee was hastily organized today to cooperate with the Red Cross and organizations in other towns and tonight relief was beginning to arrive in the form of food, bedclothes and cots.

In sections of the fire-swept districts, the fire was still smouldering and firemen were kept on guard continually to prevent another outbreak.

BRITISH VESSEL COLLIDED WITH U. S. STEAMER

Steamer Graphic Beached Off Belfast Lough After Collision With Steamer Balsam.

NO LIVES LOST.

LONDON, June 4. Canadian Press —The British steamer Graphic was beached on Saturday off Belfast Lough, after a collision with the United States Steamer Balsam.

The passengers and crew of the Graphic were transferred to another vessel after the collision, and there was no loss of life.

The Graphic had on board 300 passengers from Liverpool. The collision occurred early this morning and the Graphic was so badly damaged that she had to be grounded off Carrick-Fergus, on Belfast Lough, nine miles to the northeast of Belfast.

Her passengers and crew took to the small boats from which they boarded a steamer and a tug bound for Belfast. The Graphic is now blocking the channel.

The Balsam with her forepeak filled with water anchored in the Lough Tugs were sent out to tow her to Belfast, but this was deemd inadvisable owing to the damage she had sustained.

Province Burdened With New Taxation.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 4.— (Canadian Press.)— If the Drury government were returned to power, it would mean the necessity for finding some new source of revenue, declared F. Wellington Hay, Liberal leader of Ontario in addressing a meeting here Saturday night in support of Mrs. B. O. Allen, the Liberal nominee.

Mr. Hay believed it would be possible for a Liberal government to lighten the burden "thrust upon the province" by their predecessors.

The Liberal leader said he was a warm support of women in politics. While he did not claim to be a hide-bound party politician, he saw that the Liberal cause was the best.

Five New Ways

To whiter, cleaner, safer teeth —all late discoveries

Dental science has been seeking ways to better tooth protection.

All old methods proved inadequate. Tooth troubles were constantly increasing. Very few escaped them. Beautiful teeth were seen less often than now.

Dental research found the causes, then evolved five new ways to correct them.

The chief enemy

The chief tooth enemy was found to be film — that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. Most teeth are thus clouded more or less.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it with safe harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Much left intact

Old ways of brushing left much of that film intact, to cloud the teeth and night and day threaten serious damage.

Two ways were found to fight that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring. Able authorities proved those methods effective. They were embodied in a tooth paste called Pepsodent, and dentists the world over began to urge its use.

Other essentials

Other effects were found necessary, and ways were discovered to bring them. All are now embodied in Pepsodent.

Pepsodent stimulates the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protector.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It polishes the teeth so film less easily adheres.

Prettier teeth came to millions

One result is prettier teeth. You see them everywhere — teeth you envy, maybe. But that is only a sign of cleaner, safer teeth. Film-coats, acids and deposits are effectively combated.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Cut out the coupon now.

SUNDAY CONCERTS.

The several thousand people who listened with enjoyment to the splendid programme given by the band of the Peterborough Rangers last evening in Victoria Park will learn with regret that will be shared by many other citizens that last night's is likely to be the only Sunday concert of the summer.

There does not seem to be any real reason why the people of Peterborough should not have the opportunity of enjoying a series of Sunday evening concerts during the next few months.

That they are appreciated by the public is evidenced by the attendance last evening, and they are desirable from the standpoint of the band itself, as it is possible to have the organization at full strength.

During the last few years a number of such concerts has been given to the enjoyment of thousands of citizens, and the announcement that the Sunday programmes are to be discontinued will be a disappointment to the public generally.

The majority of citizens have no week-end trips to look forward to, and Sunday band concerts have in some measure served as a harmless substitute.

Perhaps it is not too late to have the schedule for the summer changed in order to include several Sunday programmes.

A SHREWD GESTURE.

Several Progressive candidates are already in the field in some of the Toronto ridings, and while their chances of election in such a Conservative stronghold are not looked upon as the brightest, the launching out of a forlorn hope is regarded as a logical development of the U.F.O. claim that their political activities are not along class lines.

This gesture on the part of the U. F. O. forces is rather shrewd politics.

To confine their fighting to purely rural ridings would be to admit that class consciousness is the life of their organization.

They could not consistently claim to be animated with the desire to govern impartially for farmer and city dweller alike and, at the same time, remain aloof from the campaign in urban centres.

That explains their entrance into the Toronto arena, while the presence of Progressive candidates is expected to be looked upon as an example of the broadening out of the U. F. O. movement rather than as a real attempt to win city ridings for the Government.

There is a pretty strong suspicion that none of the urban Progressive candidates have received the blessing of J. J. Morrison, who is not likely to approve of non-farmers flying the U. F. O. flag.

A NEW DEVELOPMENT.

The action of the Progressive farmers of West Peterborough in deciding not to support the candidature of Mr. Tooms unless a joint U. F. O.-Labour convention is called and Mr. Tooms receives the nomination at such a convention, is a new development of the local campaign.

The Examiner pointed out some weeks ago that Mr. Tooms could not logically call himself the U. F. O.-Labour candidate unless he received a mandate from a convention of the two organizations.

That seems to be the opinion of the U. F. O. members as well, and they have added the additional condition that Labour must guarantee to support a U. F. O. candidate in the next Dominion election.

Premier Drury is coming to Peterborough tomorrow night, and the expectation was that he would endorse Mr. Tooms as the Government candidate.

In the face of the stand taken by the Progressives of the riding, the Premier will be facing a delicate situation.

He can scarcely throw a friendly wing over a candidate not acceptable to the farmers of the riding, nor can he quarrel with the argument that in naming a candidate without consulting the farmers the Independent Labour party has practically slighted the agrarians.

The situation is full of interest, and the developments of the next day or two will constitute the most intriguing feature of the Ontario campaign.

NEW CONDITIONS.

In many ways political campaigns are widely different from the contests in the good old days, and the arrival of the motor car is responsible for some of the most striking changes.

Not so very long ago the northern end of Peterborough County was about as accessible as Siberia so far as being reached by the candidate was concerned, and a trip there was regarded as about as enjoyable as a journey to the country mentioned.

As for places mid-way in the riding they cost a day's journey in the days when the horse was king of the highways.

The motor car has changed all that.

In present-day campaigns the candidate and his retinue of speakers can have their evening meal comfortably at home, motor to the scene of their meeting, deliver their message to the electors and be home again in reasonable time to go to bed.

The change is a welcome one, and campaigning has lost much of its terror, for the covering of the riding is a much simpler matter and does not involve such a heavy strain upon energy and endurance.

On the other hand, the old-time partizanship no longer exists, party lines are not so tightly drawn and it is not as easy as it used to be to size up the feeling in any particular section.

Old-time campaigners with their ear to the ground could tell with uncanny accuracy how many voters could be counted upon in such and such a polling subdivision.

There is not much of that kind of thing nowadays, with so many ears deaf to the beating of the party drums the political sharps hesitate to make a prediction.

AVIATION ADVANCES.

The year promises to provide notable advancement in aviation. Three important demonstrations in practical flying have already been made, says the Ottawa Journal. A French birdman has made a double crossing of the Channel in one of the new "motor-cycles" of the air—a machine equipped with only a 13 horse-power motor and using a part of a gallon of gasoline. Two American aviators have crossed the continent in one leap. And now another American officer has flown from Houston, Texas, on the Gulf of Mexico, to Mount Clemens, Michigan, without a stop in under 12 hours. These feats bring civil aviation on a useful scale considerably nearer.

The Gulf to Michigan flight indicates that experiments during the last two or three years have overcome some of the difficulties of the air. The aviator was unaccompanied, and weather conditions were unfavorable. He had to fly as low as 100 feet from the earth during long stretches of the trip. Notwithstanding this, he succeeded admirably in his exploit. Motor trouble threatened him only once and the dozens of electrical storms encountered he was able to conquer.

Aerial passenger traffic is being conducted this year in Europe on a larger scale than ever. Several regular services are being operated between England and the continent. One of them is between London and Berlin, the passengers making the trip in daylight and arriving in Berlin for connection with the night train for Moscow.

The aeroplane is likely to have an important place in the movements of men within a few years.

THE WOMEN SHOULD BE INTERESTED.

The women all over the country are taking less interest in politics and politicians than at any time since they acquired the franchise. The local issues have little appeal to them.—Guelph Mercury.

If that is so, then it should not be so. Provincial matters ought to be of greater interest to women than Dominion issues, or even the great bulk of municipal affairs, says the London Advertiser.

Provincial Government deals with matters of education, framing our school laws, and in the majority of cases women are more closely in touch with schools than the men.

Provincial Government deals with the attitude of the people toward the liquor question, and it cannot be said for one minute that the women are not alive to this issue.

Provincial Government deals with public ownership matters, and women are just as anxious as any man could be that this policy shall be carefully managed and zealously guarded.

Provincial Government deals with courts, with the enforcement of many of our laws, and women know the importance of having these matters attended to fearlessly and honorably.

The Mercury's claim of indifference of women to Provincial issues is almost inconceivable. The hope of getting full benefit from the women's vote lies in the fact that it should not be so carefully hived into political areas as the men's vote used to be, but rather that it should be quick to sense any great moral issue and throw its influence in the balance in its favor. That, at least, would be the ideal use of the women's vote, and in that way it would become a great power for good and right.

DECORATING THE SENATE.

Senator McCoig, whose duties include attendance at the sessions of that seldom too lively body, is of the opinion that it would be materially improved if they let in the young women and let out the "old women." That is, he proposes to go to all the trouble of getting the British North America Act amended in order that women may be permitted to sit in the Senate on the same terms as men; and then he proposes to make sure that they shall not be too old by fixing a "dead line" at seventy, after which all Senators, both men and women, must retire. The worthy Senator must mistake himself for the manager of a Winter Garden show.

He also appears to have missed one of the chief purposes of the Senate, viz. and to wit: To provide an annuity for elderly gentlemen who have passed the earning age. It is precisely after seventy that they most need the Senatorial indemnity. No motion could be more brutally cruel than to take the best years of a Senator's life when he might conceivably be earning a fair wage and putting something by for his declining days; and then, just when he has accustomed himself to a life of luxury and leisure and totally unaccustomed himself to toil, to turn him out on the street where he must face all the shafts and sorrows of a hard world. Such a plan would undoubtedly greatly reduce the popularity of the Senate as an Old Man's Home. In fact, it is probably fair to say that the majority of Senators would prefer to have no one admitted under seventy than to compel retirement after seventy. And if the Senators themselves do not know what is good for the Senate, who does?

There is, of course, no good reason that we can think of why women should not be admitted to the Senate. There are lots of women who have every known qualification for the Senate, except that of taking snuff. And this latter virtue is not absolutely required. Quite a few of our present Senators are not "up to snuff." It is true that a really capable woman would be wasted in the Senate. But it ought to be possible for those who desire to see ladies in the Red Chamber—the Senate was painted red before Moscow gave the most beautiful of the colors a bad name—to recruit quite enough lady Senators to add liveliness to the scene without seriously interfering with the very real work in the world which the noble women of the home are doing.

Of course, if it ever should occur to anybody at any time to treat the Senate seriously, then both of these suggestions would be looked at in a different way. It is after seventy that most men attain to that ripe and well-informed wisdom which should make them true Senators. The very word "Senator" has about it the air of seniority, long experience, deep sagacity, the sapience we associate with white hair and a venerable mein. There are some men in the present Senate who are living examples of this sort of thing, and who would look quite in place in the ancient Senate of Rome. A young Senator is almost a contradiction of terms.—Montreal Star.

The only trouble about the Research Institute bulletin upon Edmonton's excellent financing is that it does not tell us how the showing was made.

From the ease with which prisoners get out of Ontario jails, it looks as if the Government will have to supply many of its jail officials with alarm clocks.

SAM CLARKE AGAIN NOMINATED BY WEST NORTHUMBERLAND LIBERALS

Unanimous Choice of Convention in Cobourg on Saturday Which Was Marked By a Large Attendance of Farmers--Was First Nominated Twenty-Five Years Ago —Two-Party Contest.

G. N. GORDON SPOKE.

COBOURG, June 4.—(Special to The Examiner).—No other name was even thought of by the Liberals of West Northumberland at their convention here Saturday afternoon when they once more nominated Sam Clarke, their veteran representative of twenty-five years' public service in the Legislature.

Farmers from the outer parts of the riding were just as unanimous as the townspeople from along the lake front in their acclamation for the little Napoleon of Northumberland politics, and predictions were freely made that his last majority of 654 would pass the thousand mark in the forthcoming elections. The presence of so many men from the country, with a fairly numerous proportion of women, was one of the striking features of the meeting, and it was generally understood that the local contest was resolving into a pitched battle between Colonel Fred. D. Boggs, Mayor of Cobourg, the Conservative candidate, and Sam Clarke, whose record and personality is known throughout Central Ontario almost as well as in his own constituency and county.

Mr. John D. Hayden, President of the West Northumberland Liberal Association, found an easy and congenial assignment before him as chairman. With him on the stage of the Opera House were Mr. Clarke, G. N. Gordon, M.P. of West Peterborough, who delivered the principal address, Chas. W. Kerr, J. B. McColl, W. J. Maher and others.

Mr. Clarke was proposed by John Craig, a farmer of Haldimand Township, and seconded by W. J. Jibb, auctioneer, also of Haldimand. No other name was suggested, and Mr. Clarke was declared the unanimous choice of the convention on a standing vote, and with a demonstration of affection that deepened and swelled into an ovation as he arose to acknowledge once more the confidence of his supporters.

Mr. Clarke said he was proud of the fact that he was a Liberal, and in sketching the progress of Ontario he pointed out that while the Liberal party was in power thirty-five years the Provincial debt had grown to $6,000,000, as compared with $97,000,000 under fourteen years of Conservative control, and finally to $225,000,000 under the administration of the Drury Government. He said that he was in favour of a sound system of road building and extention, and while he believed the Hon. Mr. Biggs had tried to do justice to all parties he had undertaken too heavy a programme, with consequent expenditures that had rolled up extreme costs.

Arraigned Ferguson.

Mr. Gordon in his speech referred particularly to the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative party, who, he said, had proved himself unworthy of public respect and confidence.

"At Thamesville in July, 1921," said Mr. Gordon, "the Hon. Mr. Ferguson was speaking of the timber enquiry which developed out of his failure to protect the interests of the public. On that occasion Mr. Ferguson described the members of the Drury Government as 'intellectual and political freaks who were projected into prominence by accident, and who grew out of the garbage.' Such language as that is not fit for any man to use who expects to attain a high position in public life and to receive the respect of the people. There are, of course, differences as to politics, but Mr. Ferguson's use of such opprobrious names is utterly unworthy of a man who seeks the Premiership of this Province."

Mr Gordon dealt at length with the timber enquiry. Hon. Mr. Ferguson was the Minister of Forests and Mines in the Conservative Government. Mr. Matthieu, also a member of the Government, was Vice-President of the Shevlin Clarke Company. He desired to obtain certain timber limits from the Government, but contrary to the ordinary practice these limits were not advertised publicly for sale, nor were they cruised by an official of the department. Hon. Mr. Ferguson appointed for the duty of estimating the quantity and value of the timber a young man who knew nothing about timber cruising. He had been a clerk in Mr. Matthieu's office at Fort Frances and was appointed Assistant Crown Lands Agent at Fort Frances on the recommendation of Mr. Mathieu. The result was that the company was presented with nearly one and a quarter million dollars worth of timber, one of the rich resources of this Province, from which the revenue is required. Mr. Gordon emphasized, for the maintenance of public institutions, such as the asylum at Cobourg.

Mr. Gordon said that the Hon. Mr. Ferguson was not acceptable to many sincere Conservatives. "Any man whose name is besmirched as much as Mr. Ferguson's is too great a load for Colonel Boggs to carry in this election."

Kapuskasing Failure.

Mr. Gordon also recalled that Mr. Ferguson had "blackguarded" Mr. W. F. Nickle of Kingston because of his honest report on the failure of the soldiers' camp at Kapuskasing. That camp had been established by the Hon. Mr. Ferguson for nearly 250 soldiers and their families, but after starting it he had practically abandoned it and let it become a complete failure.

Mr. Nieble was chairman of the commission appointed to enquire into the Kapuskasing project, Mr. Gordon said, and his truthful report drew down the ire of Mr. Ferguson because of the adverse finding. Mr. Gordon asserted that Mr. Nickle had no confidence in his leader, and that the Conservative party in Ontario could not pull itself out of the quagmire into which it had fallen under the present leadership. Sir James Whitney and Sir William Hearst had been men of honour, but the people of Ontario would never descend to the point of accepting Howard Ferguson as their Premier, Mr. Gordon concluded, with a final appeal for the re-election of Sam Clarke.

NOT GHOST OF SHOW FOR NEW POST OFFICE CAMPBELLFORD TOWN

So Replies Deputy Minister Hunter of Federal Public Works Who Adds "Many Liberal Constituencies Need Post Offices as Badly or Worse."

CORRESPONDENCE

CAMPBELLFORD, June 4.—"I am still engaged in the postoffice business. I recently visited the Department of Public Works and Mr. Hunter, the Deputy Minister, unblustering told me that he didn't think I had a ghost of a show when so many Liberal constituencies needed post offices as badly or worse."

The above is an extract from a letter written by Milton E. Maybee M. P. for Northumberland to Reeeve J. A. Anderson, with regard to Campbellford's chances for securing a badly needed postoffice building, a Federal gift which the town has been seeking for years.

Copies of Correspondence

Mr. Maybee encloses copies of correspondence that has passed between the Departments of the Post Office and Public Works on this subject. Under date of May 12 last, Acting General Superintendent P. Coolican of the postal service, wrote to the Public Works officials describing conditions as they exist in the Campebllford post office, the information which he submits being evidently based on the report of Inspector Strange, who recently paid Campbellford an unofficial visit.

Mr. Coolican states out by complimenting Postmaster Owen and his assistants, of whom there are two. He says that so far as the public is concerned the accommodation inadequate but that the working space for the employees is insufficient. Both the general delivery system and the money order department are too small. These rooms could possibly be enlarged but this would reduce the space in the lobby. There is only one entrance and this is used for the taking and delivery of mail as well as by the public. The interior, the letter adds, is very shabby and the fittings exceedingly rough.

An Important Centre

Mr. Coolican goes on to enumerate some of the leading industries of Campbellford, which he describes as an important centre, adding that the residents naturally feel dissatisfied with the present building.

"The question however," he concludes, is left for the consideration of your Department."

Deputy Minister's Reply

To this letter Deputy Minister Hunter of the Public Works Department, replies in part as follows:

"The present quarters (for the post office in Campbellford) are rented by the Postmaster out of an allowance made by your Department and if you consider the space at present occupied as unsuitable and you are not prepared to increase the rental allowance made your postmaster to provide better accommodation you should state definitelf, just what in your opinion, would be a solution of the question.

"Can the postmaster provide more working space in the building he is in if the rental allowance is increased by the Department supplementing your allowance or should another place altogether be rented, your postmaster contributing his rental allowance to whatever amount might be fixed as the fair rental of the new premises?"

Mr Coolican Replies

In reply to this communication Mr Coolican says that the situation at Campbellford has been gone into carefully and it is considered that the existing post office, is inadequate for a place the size and importance of this town. His department is not in a position to say whether there is any other suitable building that could be rented by the Department of Public Works, but promises that immediate inquiry will be made in this connection.

The Department of Works, he continues, when in possession of all the facts will be in a position to decide whether to rent suitable quarters or to erect a building on the Government lot to provide accommodation for the post office and the collector of customs.

Mr. Maybee's Action

That Mr. Maybee is still active in his efforts to secure a new post office building for Campbellford is evident from the following letter dated May 22nd and addressed to Dr. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works:

"With further reference to the Campebllford post office: As you are probably aware a report upon conditions relative to the above post office has been made by the Post Office Department; which report sets forth the very unsatisfactory housing of said office. I believe the report is in the hands of your Department and in view of the immediate necessity of some change being made at this office I would respectfully urge that an amount be placed in the supplemented estimates sufficient for the erection of a public building that would accommodate the post office and the Customs office which are now situated in separately erected buildings."

FOUND A DYING CHILD ON A ROAD IN DUMMER

George Winslow Appeared in County Police Court This Morning — Child Failed to Recover.

Finding a seven year old child by the roadside in Dummer township on Friday, Mrs McIlmoyle, a resident of that district, took the child in and cared for him, but failed to save his life He died at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning and George Winslow, who it is alleged left him to his death appeared in the County Court this morning

Owing to the holiday no action was taken, and he will be held pending an investigation

The child is a son of James Drain, who, with his wife, accepted work at Winslow's summer hotel at the head of Stoney Lake about two years ago. Differences of opinion caused altercations between the two men, as a result of which Drain left the hotel. His wife remained there until her death a few weeks ago. Constable Cookman has been investigating Mrs. Drain's death, which occurred under peculiar circumstances.

Winslow, it is alleged, neglected the two children, one of whom Ernest Franklin was an imbecile, and on Friday his cruelty is said to have culminated in his taking the imbecile child from his home near Burleigh to a spot about five miles away where he left him by the roadside. The child died twenty-four hours afterwards, and his body was brought to Peterborough where a post mortem will probably be held. The child's father has been brought into the city, but on account of his extreme deafness, nothing of value had been learned from him this forenoon.

THUNDER-SHOWER QUELLED FLAMES

Reports Indicate Danger From Present Fires Past For Time Being.

PORT ARTHUR, June 4.—(Canadian Press).—Reports on the fire situation east and west of Port Arthur would indicate that danger from present burnings is past for the time being. Reports are most encouraging in four days. Last night, Port Arthur and district was visited by heavy thunder-shower for over an hour, which must have damped down all bush fires and quelled the larger outbreaks.

Horne Payne, divisional point on the Canadian National East, reports fires burning in many localities, but they are not as serious as yesterday In some instances there are signs of the fire burning themselves out.

White River reports the fire now well under control and little danger from a re-currence is looked for. The district immediately surrounding Port Arthur appears worse if anything, but on the whole the situation appears improved.

Fires are said to have driven out large numbers of wild animals and young deer, and bears are reported feeding on the roadside.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

FOUR STATES REVOLT AGAINST DRY LAWS

NEW YORK, June 4.—(Canadian Press).—Three days after signing by Governor Smith of New York of the repeal of the Mullan-Gage prohibition enforcement law, four States, according to New York Tribune, are more or less definitely in revolt against the eighteenth amendment. These states are Massachusetts, Conecticutt, Illinois and Wisconsin. Others, including virtually all great Industrial States, are expected by wet forces to line up behind these before the week is out.

"Governor Smith's action in affixing his signature to the repealer," the Tribune says, "Appears to have given anti-dry forces in all quarters precisely that tangible initiative toward concrete action which, during months of miscellaneous grumbling, they have been waiting. In Massachusetts, according to the constitutional Liberty League, this will result immediately in action which it is believed ultimately will let light wines and beer into the Bay State."

MUSSOLINI HOLDING FASCISMO IN HIS FIST

LONDON, June 5. — (Canadian Press). — Some of Premier Mussolini's utterances in the course of his tour of the redeemed provinces are attracting wide attention, says a Rome despatch to the Morning Post. One sentence, obviously an allusion to Deputy Misuri's recent appeal for a return to normal constittuional methods, was: "I cannot abandon Fascismo because I created it, reared it, fortified it, chastized it, and still hold it in my fist." Another excerpt, which is taken as referring to the growing opposition to Mussolini in the Chamber of Deputies, is: "I am a descendant of the working people, but I am too aristocratic in spirit not to feel disgust at the low parliamentary kitchen."

INDEPENDENTS CAUSE ANXIETY

This Aspect of Election Campaign Situation Lends Emphasis to Uncertainty of Result.

TORONTO, June 4. Canadian Press. — "Independent' candidates, proposing to secure themselves nomination for the Ontario Legislature on Nomination Day, June 14, in various parts of the province, are causing the managers of party campaigns considerable anxiety. This aspect of the election situation also lends emphasis to the uncertainty of June 25.

There is no doubt that many of these "independents" although not endorsed by their party conventions, have considerable popularity among their "ain folk" and will draw some of the expected support from the convention nominees.

The supporters of the Drury government have planned a busy week in Western Ontario, where several members of the Cabinet take the 'stump' in their own constituencies, and the neighboring ridings, weather permitting.

It will be a great picnic week among the farmers of this section of the province. Thanks to the copious rains of the week end well seeded fields have been given a good impetus toward harvest, relieving the agriculturists and the horticulturists of some anxiety regarding their bread and butter, and giving them an opportunity to consider politics.

Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Conservative leader, opens his campaign to-day among the vineyards and orchards of Niagara peninsula, while W. F. Nickle, his chief lieutenant, continues his speaking tour in the far eastern section of the province, speaking at Morrisburg this evening.

Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader is in the extreme northwest end of the province—at the head of the lakes and beyond, a section which at times agitates that it should be a part of Manitoba or a separate province.

ST. CATHARINES June 4 (Canadian Press). — The severe drought in the Niagara District was broken yesterday by drenching rains, which at times assumed the dimensions of a cloudburst.

Fruit growers say the rain is worth many thousands of dollars, as the ground was very dry, interfering with the growth.

Hail fell thickly in some sections, but the growers say they do not think any damage was done by it, as the blossoms are pretty well set now.

Storm in Toronto.

TORONTO, June 4 (Canadian Press). — Bringing much needed rain to the parched ground and the thirsty vegetation, two brief but violent thunderstorms visited Toronto and the surrounding country yesterday.

At about 2 a.m. on Sunday there was a sudden outburst of thunder and lightning, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain.

At daylight the sky was still threatening, and clouds, which still retained much moisture, gave promise of another shower.

Shortly after noon the promise was fulfilled and rain once more descended in great sheets, drenching the ground and soaking to the roots of the field crops.

The Hydro sub-station at Edwin and Ruskin Avenues was struck while the electrical disturbance was at its worst, causing damage of from $10.00 to $15,000.

When the storm broke out again on Sunday afternoon, at least one home in Toronto, a house on Farnham Avenue, was hit, but the damage was nominal.

During the height of the electrical storm, lightning struck the street railway wires leading from the Hydro sub-station at the corner of Edwin and Ruskin Avenues, causing a loud explosion, and completely destroying the main switchboard, plunging the whole north-western section of the city into complete darkness, and tying up the street car traffic.

RETALIATE ON CANADA WITH DUTIES ON COAL

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 4. — (Canadian Press.)— If Canada cuts off exportation to this country of pulpwood, Congress will be asked by the American Pulp and Paper Mills' superintendents to retaliate by placing export duties on coal and other commodities obtained by Canada from the United States, according to resolutions adopted at the closing session of the International convention of the Association. William A. Anderson, St. Catharines, was elected vice-president.

EUROPEAN DIFFICULTIES CAN BE READILY SOLVED

PARIS, June 4. — (Canadian Press).—In a statement to the Petit Parisienne, Premier Baldwin of Britain says that if European questions now pending were approached in the same spirit which attended the settling of the Anglo-American debt there was no reason why they could not be solved. "In any case you can count on me to do my part with the greatest determination," he said.

OBITUARY

The funeral took place at Macdowall, Saskatchewan, on May 17th, of William Lyttle, a native of this district, and a brother of Mrs. H. Jackson and Thomas Lyttle of Peterboro, and Robert Lyatle of Buckhorn. The deceased, who was 73 years of age, was one of the first settlers in the Prince Albert district in Saskatchewan. He was born in 1849 on a farm near Peterboro. In 1873 he went west and took part in the survey of the international boundary line and in the construction of the first telegraph line from Winnipeg to Edmonton. In 1887, he took up a homestead in Macdowall. During the rebellion of 1885 he played an important part in the transport service. He is survived by three daughters and one son.

The Daily Herald, of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, commenting on the achievements and character of the deceased, says: "Mr. Lyttle had a remarkable reputation for physical strength, being known for many years as the strongest man in the settlement. This he had gained, in part, from his rugged pioneer life on his boyhood home at Peterboro. Among his neighbors in Prince Edward and the Macdowall district he was known for his kindliness of heart and his ready willingness to help others at any time. He had inherited in full measure the wit and humor characteristic of the Irish race and an evening spent with Mr. Lyttle was one looked forward to by his friends. Thanks to his good judgment in the selection of his land when he came to the country and his own perseverance and hard work, in which he was ably assisted by his wife, he had established one of the most beautiful homes in the country with its nearby brook, the admiration of the country, always open to their many friends. Their home and that of Mrs. Lyttle's father, Angus Cameron, a stopping place for travellers coming to Prince Albert situated across the road from the Lyttle home at what was known as "the forks of the road." were among the best known and most popular in the northern settlement in the early days."

RAIN OF DEATH FROM THE SKY IS FORECASTED

Opening of Microbe War Will be Sudden, Destructive, Quick—England Near Starvation.

UNKNOWN DISEASE

If, twenty years ago, somebody had predicted that in the next war the European capitals would be bombarded from the air; that long-range gun would hurl projectiles 80 miles; that troops would be mowed down by liquid fire or put out of action by poison gas, he would have been laughed at. But it happened.

If somebody predicts to-day that within a week after the start of the next war the attacked nations will be prostrate, millions of people dead, their armies powerless, their science futile in face of an invisible terror spreading desolation with the speed of lightning, is he to be laughed at? The story is fantastic, but it has called attention to the dangers of another war.

One of the great scientists of France declares it is possible. The next will be the "Microbe War," biology taking the place of chemistry, according to this man who hides his identity under the title "Professor X."

"Professor X"—whose name is known to scientists throughout the world, but who, for professional reasons, will not reveal his identity—told the United Press that his imaginative forecast is based upon incontrovertable evidence in the hands of French scientists that the Germans are already preparing to make the next war a "War of Microbes"; that the Allies discovered during Mackenson's retreat vast numbers of tubes of deadly disease germs and only a few weeks ago General Degoutte received a threat that unless the French evacuated the Ruhr the Nationalist organisation would spread disease germs among the French troops.

French military leaders including Marshal Foch, are so firmly convinced that the Germans intend to wage a "War of Microbes" that extraordinary measures are being taken to improve French biological labratories. The officially inspired newspapers are running campaigns to collect money to endow the work of biological research. Thousands of francs have already been collected. "Professor X" declared that French research work is aimed solely to offset and minimise any discoveries the Germans may make — not to invent more deadly germs or gases. His forecast, in a volume which has just been published, is presented in substance in two articles, which follow.—The United Press, Paris.

BY JOHN O'BRIEN.

PARIS, June 4 (United Press).—Right after the Armistice, with the Kaiser and the Crown Prince in flight, Marshal Ludwigburg called his partisans together and decided on the course of action to be followed in preparation for the war of revenge. As a result, Dr. von Brueck, noted authority in chemistry and biology, was ordered to take charge of the scientific organisation.

Marshal Ludwigburg, a soldier by profession, but above all a conqueror, instructed Dr. von Brueck to produce a weapon which would annihilate an enemy.

Three years later Dr. von Brueck announced that he had succeeded. His "Virus 246," composed of a mixture of the microbes of half a dozen deadly diseases, had been perfected to such a point that the slightest inoculation would kill the victim in a few hours and the corpse would become immediately a source of infection of such potency that every person coming within the radius of infection, even without contact, would inevitably succumb, the malady being thus propagated in geometrical progression.

Dr. von Brueck had also discovered a serum to counteract the effects of the poison, and a vaccine to give immunity. The "virus" would kill only human beings, sparing cattle, needed by the conqueror after the victory, and insects, needed by the invader to spread the disease during the short conflict. Marshal Ludwigburg took care of the rest—the organisation of the corps of aviators who were to drop the glass bombs containing the microbes, the vaccination of the army, the transport of the bombs to centres near the frontier. He decided that the declaration of war should be made on the morning following the dropping of the deadly mixture on a hundred cities of France, England, and Belgium.

Troop movements toward the Rhine were called in preparation for the annual manoeuvres. There were only one hundred thousand men, after all, in accord with the stipulations of the Treaty of Versailles. Two hundred airplanes from widely separated places in Germany were ordered to proceed to Dusseldorf, Cologne, Aix-la-Chapelle, Coblenz, Mayence, Worms, Treves, and Friburg-in-Brisgau. They were "commercial" airplanes, but their pilots knew exactly whither they were going.

Little Flasks Rained.

When, therefore, on the morning of 17th August, 19——, the people of Paris were suddenly brought out of their summer quietude by an extraordinary bombardment of little flasks from the sky, which exploded on touching the ground, spreading tiny pieces of glass which jabbed tranquil promenaders on the boulevards and workers in the market places, it was some time before anybody thought of a German invasion. But when those hit by the pieces of glass began to drop in the streets with all the symptoms of a virulent disease, the police authorities got busy.

The German ambassador and his staff had vanished, leaving an under-secretry to convey a note to the Foreign Office to the effect that Germany had declared war on France at midnight on 16th-17th August. Meanwhile telegrams from the provinces arrived. Every city of Northern France from Nancy to Cherbourg and Brest had had a similar experience. The Government ordered general mobilisation and called a council of scientists to consider the situation. The stupefaction was increased by the news that similar attacks had been made on Belgium and England. From the eastern frontier came despatches telling of the bombardment of all garrison towns, causing many casualties among the troops.

Unknown Disease.

Stricken people in Paris were taken to the hospitals, but it was impossible to do anything to relieve their sufferings, because the medical authorities realised immediately that they were in the presence of an unknown disease. The wounded soon filled the hospitals. Every serum known to French science was tried in vain. The hospital attendants and the doctors were likewise infected. The dead were piled high in courtyards. Men, women, and children untouched by the missile launched by the invader, were stricken by a strange malady. Biologists and bacteriologists confessed their utter ignorance of the nature of the microbe. Within twenty-four hours Paris was a city of the plague.

All of Northern France was in like plight. The army was decimated. The government could do nothing. On 19th August the Ministry of Foreign Affairs received by wireless a despatch from Berlin, offering to end the war on condition that France announced her readiness to sue for peace and receive the German plenipotentiaries.

Berlin boldly admitted that Germany had launched a Microbe War, and possessed the secret by which it could be stopped. The French Government was considering resistance when news arrived that the epidemic had spread to the south.

On 22nd August the German ambassador, who had returned to the embassy, sent to the Pasteur Institute a Berlin scientist with everything necessary to cope with the plague. But before undertaking the use of the curing serum, the Germans declared they would wait until the peace treaty was signed.

The plenipotentiaries arrived on 25th August. The terms were drastic. All of Northern and Northwestern France, north of a line passing from Cherbourg to Belfort, was to be handed over to Germany. The French president refused to accept. He told the Germans to go ahead and do what they pleased. Marshal Ludwigburg, head of the delegation, promised to ask Berlin to send at once sufficient quantities of the vaccine and the serum to arrest the epidemic.

In London and in Brussels the scenes of horror through which Paris was passing were duplicated. The heart of the British Empire had almost ceased to beat. The great ports were idle. England was within a week of death by starvation. She capitulated. So did Belgium. Germany had won the first stage of the war. But worse was to come.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

A NOVEL STATEMENT OF QUANTITY

A live salesman recently put into practice a clever Want Ad idea.

A vegetable specialty which within the past year or two has gained greatly in popular favor is the onion set. This seedsman uses Want Ads to get new customers and new names to which he can send catalogues. He picked onion sets as being, because of the popular interest in them, an excellent leader. Then he put a special price on a dollar purchase.

Onion sets are currently sold by the quart. However, so many quarts for a dollar struck this advertiser as too "usual." So he counted the number of his small sets in a dollar's purchase. It exceeded 1,000, and he ran his Want Ad like this: "1,000 Onion Sets for $1.00." Excellent returns proved the soundness of the idea.

A dealer in second-hand building materials advertised, "Sufficient material for a henhouse for 16 chickens—including doors, windows, nails, paint,"—at a given figure. The Want Ad was far more effective than if he had priced various sizes of boards, roofing paper, glass, etc.

Translated quantities—quantities, that is to say, express in an equivalent not commonly used—can often be employed to put a fresh, novel quality in a Want Ad. In the change, the proposition will gather appeal which the common measure did not give to it.

Thus, the woman doing home washing can advertise, instead of a per hour or per dozen charge, "A complete washing and ironing for a family of six," at a flat price. A window cleaner, instead of quoting rates in the prevailing manner, can advertise flat charges on a five-room house, six-room house, etc.

Besides having the appeal of novelty, translated quantities like the foregoing make readers realize what a lot they will really get for their money.

exceptionally fine cattle, two special trains of United Grain Growers' cattle being shipped from Winnipeg, Edmonton, and Calgary There were also two special trains of cattle from the Harris Abattoir Co, Limited, which included about 1,000 head of Harris Abattoir cattle which were fed on their own Ontario farms

There is no doubt that this is the heaviest movement of export cattle in any one week from any one firm in Canada, and the outlet developed has certainly been beneficial to the producers of live stock. The Western cattle bought by the United Grain Growers, Limited, ranged in price from 6½ to 8 cents per pound. On the Toronto market prices ranged from 7¾ to 8¾ cents per pound. Mr. George Rowntree, of the Harris Abattoir put together 750 head of the finest exporters seen in Toronto this year.

In addition to the export cattle handled during the week, H. P. Kennedy, Ltd., handled through their consignment alley between 50 and 60 cars of live stock, besides 12 cars of stockers and feeders which were handled on the Toronto market for the United Grain Growers of Western Canada.

These shipments included some choice straight loads of good quality dehorned yearling steers and also short-keep feeders of from 900 to 1,000 pounds weight. The shipping of Western feeder cattle to the Toronto market has developed keen interest on the part of Ontario farmers, it having been shown by the experiende of the past year that these cattle do exceptionally well in this Province.

It is well to note that exceptional service has been rendered by the transportation companies, stock being moved from Winnipeg to Quebec in 78 hours 40 minutes by the Canadian National Railway, this time including two feeds en route. The C.P.R. also made the fastest run on record, from Toronto to Buffalo, with a consignment of live stock, in 7 hours 40 minutes.

The steamship companies and the railways have done everything in their power to facilitate the movement of live stock in the best interests of the trade generally.

OH! SKINNAY! CIRCUS COMING! AND IT'S JOHN ROBINSON'S

John Robinson's Circus and Trained Wild Animals, with elephants, clowns, wild and savage jungle beasts, spangled folks, peanuts, red lemonade, and everything that makes the big top dear to all of us, is coming to town, and all the boys and girls from six to sixty are a quiver with anticipatory joys. The two performances, afternoon and night and the grand free street processions are scheduled for Wednesday, June 13, so only a few days will pass before the "Oldest and Best" will be in our mist.

The John Robinson Circus and Trained Wild Animals are now making the 100th anniversary tour of the United States and Canada, and the management asserts that never in the century-old lifetime, has a better program been presented. Wild animals displays are offered in great numbers while the pick of the star American and European acrobats, aerialists, riders and other arenic performers, will show their skill and daring in three rings, two steel arenas and on the hippodrome track.

During the past century the John Robinson Circus underwent transition from wagon to steamboat, from steamboat to ordinary freight cars, and from these small cars to its own double length flats, stock, elephant and sleeping cars. The John Robinson was the first show to use electric lights, the first to introduce the present huge oval tents in place of the old one-ring top, and the first to experiment with motor stake drivers, tractors, canvas spools, and other auxiliary equipment.

The performance this year will be opened with the gorgeous and beautiful spectacle, "Peter Pan in Animal Land," with over 700 human actors and 500 animals participating. For the convenience of the public a downtown ticket office will be established on Circus Day at the Kent Drug Store, where tickets for both afternoon and night shows, will be sold at the same price as charged on the circus grounds.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TO HON. E. C. DRURY.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Mr. Drury speaks on the issues of this campaign in the Opera House Tuesday next. I think it is up to him, or to some one connected with his campaign, to reply to my oft-repeated charges that the O.T.A. as a prohibition act is a swindle. Therefore, I challenge him to deny, (1) That the O.T.A. permits wines of any alcoholic strength to be made in Ontario from grapes grown in Ontario and to be consumed as any other food by the people of Ontario. (2) That this wine, exempted and permitted by the O.T.A., has been proven by sample to contain all the way from 14 to 33 per cent. of proof spirits, and may be therefore (by permission of the O. T. A. and Mr. Drury and Mr. Raney) a most intoxicating beverage. (3) That anybody is at liberty to buy and consume this wine, and that immense quantities are consumed here and elsewhere, and that (4) the O.T.A. as a prohibitive measure is a lie and a common vulgar political dodge to catch the votes of the grape-growers and wine manufacturers and of the prohibitionists of Ontario. (5) And that it tends to undermine the faith of the coming generation in our honesty and candour and pollutes and corrupts public and private life at its very source.

J. H. BURNHAM.

P.S.—If invited to do so, I would gladly repeat my charges on Mr. Drury's platform.

Peterborough, June 4, 1923.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Having learned of a rumour to the effect that the Peterborough Cereal Co., Ltd., of which Mr. J. W. Meyers, Liberal nominee of the West Riding, is the president and general manager, does not employ returned soldiers, I feel called upon, in the interests of the Peterborough Cereal Co., and the public generally, to take up cudgels in defence of Mr. Meyers as the rumour is malicious and has no foundation in fact.

Now, I am a returned man and after receiving my discharge, on demobilization, I spent one year at the Peterborough Business College, where I received a thorough training in pen and mechanical bookkeeping, also stenography. At the expiration of my term, I heard that the Peterborough Cereal Co. had installed an electric bookkeeping machine and system, so I applied to Mr. J. W. Meyers for the position, which I was fortunate in securing, as there were numerous applicants. I was welcomed into thir staff more particularly because I happened to be an ex-soldier. That was nearly four years ago and in that time, owing to my intimate knowledge of the accounts, I have been appointed collection manager. In fact, owing to the kindness and consideration accorded me on every hand by the management and considering the exceptional nature of my promotions, I would not trade places with any other executive in the same line in Peterborough.

Furthermore, from a census taken to-day of the staff and mill employees, it appears that the Peterborough Cereal Co.'s employees are 25 p.c. returned soldiers. This record is hard to beat.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, in advance, for your valuable space and feel sure that if you publish this letter you will have been instrumental in righting a wrong against as loyal a British subject and as generous a business man as ever trod shoe leather. I remain,

Your sincerely,
Frank G. Stinson,

CHURCH AND FOREIGN MISSIONS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir—Four familiar echoes are: (1) "Denominations can never give the Gospel to the world. (2) "Denominations prevent the heathen accepting Christ". (3) "Denominations perplex and distress the native Christians," (4) "The Missionaries are all for Union." On these four points, note:

1. Denominations have already given the Gospel to the world the history of union congregations shows that "Union would tend to dry up the source of revenue; the appalling Deficit, owing in part to the pressure of "Union" foretells the blight that it would bring to our Foreign Missions.

2. It is doubtful if one in a thous of the fifteen millions of heathen in all our missions fields in India, China, Formosa and Korea ever heard of Denominations for there are no other Churches working in our fields, and the missionaries do not reach Denominations but Christ. If a heathen should hear a missionary of another Church he would hear the same Message and would see all working in unity.

3. Some of the Christians do know about "Denominations" and a story only a few months old but worn threadbare, tells of some Chinese Christians in conference, the burden of their thought and prayer being of "the speedy healing of the broken body of Christ in the West."

Please note (a) the statement "broken body of Christ" is a slander, a near-blasphemy. Christ's body is not broken It has "many members, but one Body." (b) The only gospel these converts ever heard was carried to them by Denominations, members of the Body of Christ. (c) These converts never saw anything but unity and harmony between Denominations, and would not—of themselves—dream of a "broken body of Christ." (d) It is more than probable that the idea was inspired by Unionists from Western lands to send back West for home consumption. (e) It would be better for the missionaries to teach these converts that all in Christ are one, that they are free to form for China—any type of church they prefer, and to devote their efforts to their heathen fellow-countrymen.

4. "The missionaries all for Union" is echoed so constantly that many believe it. Even if it were true, they are no better fitted to judge of our work here at home than are the rest of us. They are free to advise the native church in any way they think best, but if all the Missions in India or China were made one outward organization tomorrow, a church two thousand miles long and wide, with many different tribes and tongues, would not remain long under one central control. Toat however is a matter for Chinese and Indian Churches to decide.

But the missionaries are not "all for Union." Some of them proclaim it in season, out of season, but most of them say little about it. In Honan, Mr. Slimmon, now retired, who was longer in North China than any other of our missionaries, was strongly opposed it. The Luttrells there are opposed to it. I know not how many others for I have only heard a few express their minds.

In India, Dr. Wilkie with his forty-four years of service, in a recent private letter, writes—unasked—"You can say that all at this station are opposed to Church Union and there are some at the other stations." Dr. Margaret O'Hara with her thirty-two years in India is strongly opposed to it. Rev. Frank Russell, thirty years in India does not approve of the Coercion here at home. Rev. Dr. Buchanan, thirty-five years in India, in a private letter received a few days since, says unasked "It is a matter for the home base to settle and so one does not want to say much but from little things, little words let fall I shall not be surprised that if this Union, perhaps better called Disruption is forced in spite of fairly large ernest conscientious opposition, there may be a munber here who will elect to stay with the Presbyterian Church."

From South China Dr. Jessie MacBean in a recent private letter to a friend writes: "It is too bad if people have made the sweeping assertion that all missionaries are in favour of our home churches uniting, for such is not the case. All are in favour of the Chinese church being one, but I do not believe one of us would like to think of working under any other but our own Board."

"Yesterday at dinner I read part of your letter and all our family (i.e.,) all the other women missionaries of the station who were present) said they were not in favour of this Union and would vote against it if they were given a chance. Miss H. who came out two and a half years ago, said she was then sick of the word union and is now absolutely opposed to it, and I feel sure we members of the W. M. S. here in South China are not peculiar in any way and are probably the same in attitude as are most of the members of the Women's Board against Union."

Or go on to Korea. The only ones there whom I have heard speak of it are the McDonalds, and they are strongly opposed. But another whose judgment will be honoured by all who know her is Mrs. Foote. She is one of our pioneers in Korea, going out twenty-five years ago. Dr. Foote is in Korea, but she is at present in Halifax eduating her children; all four of her daughters looking forward to work in Korea, the eldest having already returned there. In a recent private letter to a friend Mrs. Foote writes:

"As to Church Union in Canada, I never heard our missionaries there discuss the question. What some seem to want here at home is a great machine. If they would leave the churches alone and let them go on with the good work, I am sure it would be better. The talk of Denominations hindering the heathen from accepting Christianity is nonsense."

Peterobrough, Ont., June 4, 1923

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir, — I note with a great deal of pleasure that J. W. Meyers has offered himself as a candidate in the coming provincial election. As I am a laborer. I have given the matter very serious consideration, and have come to the conclusion that J. W. Meyers, will represent labor exceptionally well. I do not know Mr. Meyers personally, but I meet him nearly every morning going to his office about seven o'clock and again returning home shortly after six in evening. I do not think he knows who I am, but I always receive a "Good morning" and a "Good evening" from him. Therefore, I would say that Mr. Meyers is not only a manufacturer, but a real laborer, and he is going to get my vote.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this valuable space, I remain,

Yours very truly,
ROBERT PALMER.

Peterboro Won From Kingston--Criqui Knocked Out Kilbane

CRIQUI VICTOR OVER KILBANE

French Champion Captured World's Featherweight Title With a Knock-Out in the Sixth.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, June 4.—(Canadian Press.)—A lithe-limbed, panther-like warrior of France boxed and punched his way to dramatic victory and a world championship here Saturday.

Eugene Criqui, ex-Poilu, who came back to the ring after his jaw had stopped a German bullet at Verdun seven years ago, rose to the greatest heights of his pugilistic career when he knocked out Johnny Kilbane, veteran holder of the world's featherweight crown, in the sixth round of an international battle, before a crowd estimated at 25,000 in the Polo Grounds.

It was a battle between master ring men, veterans of two continents, but in the end Criqui's greater stamina and punching ability carried him to triumph. Kilbane, who had held the world title for eleven years, had a shade the best of the defensive fighting, but at critical moments he was unable to stem the tide of Criqui's cyclonic attack.

The finish came with sensational suddenness in the sixth round when Kilbane's generalship appeared to have baffled the former Poilu's fiery onslaught. Time after time he had weathered a storm of rights and lefts to the head and body, but Criqui was not to be denied. Starting from his corner in the sixth round with determination in his features, he feinted, then whipped in a terrific left to the body that staggered the champion. Kilbane drew away, expecting another left, but Criqui shot in a right across to the jaw and sent Kilbane back on his heels, and toppling to the canvas. At the count of six, Kilbane tried to rise and succeeded in getting to one knee, but, groggy and weak, he fell back as Referee Jack Appel tolled off the count of ten.

It was only the second time in his long ring career that Kilbane had been counted out. In 1917, when at the height of his career as featherweight king, he went out of his class to meet Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and was knocked out in the third round.

Dramatic ringside scenes followed Criqui's sudden triumph. The challenger, himself almost stunned by the quickness of his victory, was quickly seized by his jubilant seconds. Freeing himself for a moment, however, he rushed to the fallen titleholder's corner and kissed Kilbane on each cheek.

Then, as the crowd enthusiastically acclaimed the new champion, Criqui was carried from the ring by his manager, Robert Eudeline. It was several minutes before a way back to the dressing room could be cleared.

Criqui's victory was clean-cut and decisive, but experts were agreed that Kilbane had shown far from the form that won the featherweight crown for him in 1912 in a 20-round battle with Abe Attell at Los Angeles. Defensively, Kilbane retained much of his old-time skill, but his stamina and punching power were not the same. is footwork from the start showed that his legs did not have the strength to carry him through a gruelling championship contest. They failed him when he tried to rise after that stunning punch on the jaw.

PARIS, June 4. — (Canadian Press).—The news of Criqui's victory over Johnny Kilbane in New York Saturday reached Paris before the close of the theatres and aroused tremendous enthusiasm. The event was celebrated in royal manner, although many Frenchmen backed Kilbane heavily.

PETES WIN OPENING GAME ON HOME LOT BEAT KINGSTON BY 4-2

Big Crowd See the Ponies Walloped in First Local Big Four Fixture, the Win Putting Petes Up a Notch in Race.

Tied With Belleville.

The Petes opened their home season in the Central Ontario League most auspiciously on Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park by beating the Kingston Ponies 4 to 2 and as Dick Turpin's Cobourg crew were at the same time administering a neat coat of whitewash to Belleville the day's doings left last year's champions and the Petes holding the top rung of the Big Four ladder between them.

Each has two wins and a loss and the Petes have a slight edge inasmuch as the Solomn gang are the only Big Four team to win a game away from home.

The two old rivals tie into each other twice this week the Petes playing at Belleville Wednesday and Mills, Williams and company perform at Riverside on Saturday.

The fur should fly in both engagements.

To get back to Saturday's clash the Petes were handed three soft runs in the first inning a result of three errors in a row followed by a hit and this early lead was enough to carry them through to a win, although they added an unnecessary—albeit the only clean counter of the day—run in the eighth. With perfect baseball that last marker would have been the only run of the game for Kingston's two runs scored in the third were tainted because of the error that started them.

Heckman was on the mound for the Petes and although he was bothered at the go in with a stiff arm he improved steadily as the game went along. Five of the visitors' eight hits were jammed into the first three innings. From the third on they could only collect three scattered singles and with men on the bases the necessary safety was not forthcoming. "Heck" gave only one base on balls and he was going along so steadily in the latter stages that Gallagher's single in the ninth was the only hit marked against him in the last four frames.

Moore the Queen's University boy who finished Wednesday's game was the Kingston selection on Saturday and he justified the choice by allowing the Petes but seven hits and one earned run. Deliberate in his delivery and with a tantalizing hook, Moore slowballed most of the Petes into helplessness at the plate and the top of the batting order went hitless all day. Herb Wolfe was the only homester to solve the Kingston gunner's delivery with any marked success. The Petes centre fielder who at Kingston on Wednesday had greeted Moore with a home run with two on, cracked out three hits Saturday, the first a single that drove in two runs and the next two good for two bases each. Wolfe's record in the two games against Kingston consisted of a single, three doubles, a triple and a homer in nine trips up, which is surely landing on the old pills.

Although in remarkably good shape considering that most of the park was under water at the beginning of the week, the grounds were naturally dead and the infielders had some trouble in gauging the speed of the drives, a feature that miligated against fast fielding. In spite of that handicap there was some good defensive work. W. Evans the Kingston shortstop handled ten chances without a skip and Johnston the Petes second baseman accepted six opportunities. Ansaldo's catch of a fly back of third was a feature.

A big crowd saw the season opened. The ceremonies that started the local Central Ontario League season on its way were brief. His Worship Mayor Taylor after declaring the season open pitched the first ball with Ald. Holloway at the bat and Ald. Phelan catching. The Mayor's offering was a wild pitch that got away from both batter and catcher.

Kingston wasted two hits in the first. After Nicholson and Jack Evans had fanned, Twigg singled through short. Batstone singled to right sending Twigg to third. Somerville flied to Wolfe for the third out.

The Petes on the other hand got three easy runs on one hit. Ansaldo was safe when Daley missed Evans' toss. Johnston bunted for a sacrifice but Moore threw high to first, Johnston being safe while Ansaldo went to third. Johnston stole second. Swanston tapped to W. Evans and was out at first, the runners being held. Comolli's long fly to centre was muffed by Cherry and Ansaldo registered. Heckman popped to W. Evans. Wolfe fine single to left scored Johnston and Comolli and the batter went to second on the throw to the plate. McElroy rolled to Moore.

In the second for Kingston, Daley led off with a double to right. Cherry was safe on Collins' low throw, Daley remaining on second. W. Evans fanned, Moore hoisted a foul fly to Comolli and Ansaldo tossed out Nicholson.

Collins opened the Petes half with a single, stole second and went to third on Legon's infield out. Ansaldo fanned and Johnston hoisted one to W. Evans.

The Ponies did all their scoring in the third. J. Evans was thrown out by Swanston. Twigg got a life on Comolli's miss and sped around to third on Batstone's single to right, Batstone going to second on the toss to Collins. Somerville's rap past third score Twigg and Daley's sacrifice bunt to Comolli allowed Batstone to register. Sommerville stole third. Collins threw out Cherry.

The Petes interjected two hits into their end of the frame but failed to score. Swanston flied to W. Evans and Comolli was tossed out by the same player. Heckman singled to left centre and Wolfe cracked a long double over Nicholson's head, Heckman pulling up at third. McElroy ended the brief rally by whiffing.

In Kingston's fourth W. Evans singled to right but was doubled up on Moore's fly to Johnston back of second. Legon grabbed Nicholson's drive to left for the third out.

For the Petes Collins rapped a hot one at Somerville and was out at first. Legon doubled down the left fiel dfoul line but Ansaldo was thrown out by W. Evans and Cherry was in the right place for Johnston's fly to right centre.

Jack Evans first up for Kingston in the fifth fanned. Twigg beat out a slow roller to short. Batstone hoisted one to Johnston. Somerville rolled to the same player. Heckman covering first in clever style.

Swanston rolled to W. Evans, Comolli walked. Heckman flied to Nicholson in left and Wolfe popped to Somerville.

In the sixth for Kingston Daley flie dto Legon, Ansaldo made a nice catch of Cherry's fl, back of third and then threw out W. Evans on a fast play.

The Petes also went out in order in their half, the only inning either team failed to get a base runner on. McElroy, Collings and Legon all rolled weakly to the box and were tossed out by Moore.

Moore started Kingston's seventh by flying out to McElroy, Nicholson fanned, J. Evan's was safe on Collins' low throw. Twigg struck out.

Ansaldo got a life on Batstone's wide toss to first and was sacrificed to second by Johnston. Swanston's line drive to centre was gathered in by Cherry. Comolli was hit. Heckman rolled to W. Evans and was out at first.

Johnston thre out Batstone the first Kingston man up in the eighth and Collins extinguished Teeple who had deplaced Somerville at second in the fifth. Daley got a life on Ansaldo's high throw to first but was forced at second, Johnston to Ansaldo on Cherry's rap.

The Petes got the only earned run of the game in the eighth. Wolfe opened with a long double over Nicholson's head, his third hit of the game and rode home when McElroy smashed a line single over McElroy, W. Evans to Teeple and went to second on Teeple's wide throw in an attempt to complete a double. Legon was tossed out by Moore and Ansaldo fanned.

Kingston ran in a couple of pinch hitters in the ninth and threatened trouble for a while. Rice batting for W. Evans drew a walk and Gallagher hitting for Moore cracked a single past second. Rice tried to go to third on the play and was sunfed out on Ansaldo's good throw to Collins. Gallagher reached second on the play and went to third when Collins was tossing out Nicholson. J. Evans also rapped to the Petes' third baseman and the game was over.

OLD RIVALS TO MEET SATURDAY HOME GROUNDS

Belleville and Petes Will Tie Into Each Other at Riverside Park.

The Petes' next home game will be on Saturday, when the Belleville team, last year's champions and the Petes' old rivals, will clash with Manager Solomon's outfit in a Big Four battle at Riverside Park. No other team in the Central loop attracts as big a crowd here as Belleville, for the Grand Trunks have always fought until the last man was out, and every time they backed into the Peterborough gang there has been a memorable contest. There is every reason to believe that Saturday's fixture will be of the same nature. Quite a bunch of Belleville rooters will accompany their favourites to Peterborough, and if "Slats" Kerr and company cut loose there is sure to be a bunch of excitement. The fans are already looking forward to Saturday's clash as one of the real features of the ball season.

DANFORTHS WENT DOWN IN TORONTO

Lacrosse Season Opened With a 17 to 4 Victory For the Motor Town Boys.

OSHAWA, June 4.—(Special.)—Oshawa Shamrocks got away to a big start in the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association on Saturday afternoon with the Regimental Band playing the National Anthem, Mayor Trick facing the fall and a 17-4 victory over the Danforths of Toronto in their first game of the local intermediate group. The Mayor in addressing the players and large crowd present emphasized that the sporting public in Oshawa wanted good clean lacrosse and both teams lived up to the entreaty, as the officials, Jacks and Clark of Toronto, only had occasion to send four men to the side lines and they were for minor offences. In the early moments of the game the purple clad boys from the Queen city threw a scare into the home fans by bulging the nets for two counters in as many minutes. The local defence appeared to be staked to the ground, but after a shaking up from Coach Kervin, who was on the side lines, they got away from their anchor and, holding the opposing home players safe for the balance of the period, while the local attack soon evened up the score and before the whistle blew for the first rest the score was Oshawa 7, Danforths 2.

In the second period Maunders made it eight on a shot from the side that Graham, in goal for the visitors, never had a chance to get his vision on. N. Irwin was chased to the side lines for too strenuous a check, and while he was doing time Miller made it nine. Ganton made it ten and shortly after Mighton and Ganton were ruled off, the score for the half being Oshawa 10, Danforths 2.

In the third it was all Oshawa, Irwin, Ganton and Miller being responsible for six more counters and Dwan doing time for Danforths, the score stood, Oshawa 16, Danforths 2.

In the final period Ganton got Oshawa's only tally, while the City lads took a renewed spurt and notched two, Mighton and Porter being responsible, and the final score stood Oshawa 17, Danforths 4.

The teams lined up as follows:

Danforths—Goal, Graham; point, G. Smith; cover-point, W. Hubbard; 1st defence, Dixon; 2nd defence, D. Mighton; centre, G. Dwan; 1st home, R. Porter; 2nd home, G. Bateson; outside, R. Johnston; inside, Morgan; spares, Knowles, Wood and Knowles.

Oshawa— Goal, Garrison; point, K. Irwin; cover-point, McDonald; 1st defence, E. Walsh; 2nd defence, Phillips; centre, Maunders; 1st home, D. Miller; 2nd home, N. Irwin; outside, Ganton; inside, Sarles; spares, Clark, Saunders and W. Luke.

Referee, Jacks; Judge of play, Clark, both of Toronto.

Next Saturday games—Oshawa at Danforths; Leaside at Todmorden.

BASEBALL COMMENT

The standing of the Big Four is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Peterboro	2	1
Belleville	2	1
Cobourg	1	2
Kingston	1	2

Games Wednesday—Kingston at Cobourg; Peterboro at Belleville.

There were some unusual features in Saturday's game. For one thing every man on the Peterboro lineup had at least one put-out. And only three Kingston players had an assist although fifteen were credited to their team. Another peculiarity was that both teams had at least one man on the bases in all but one inning—and that was the sixth in both cases.

The Examiner's prediction that Cobourg would make lots of trouble for everybody is being fulfilled. After chasing Belleville ten innings in Belleville on Wednesday they turned the tables on the Trunks Saturday with Jahren doing the twirling for the winners and Oulette working for Belleville.

The Petes journey to Belleville on Wednesday and as Oulette worked on Saturday it is likely that Indian Jack Williams will be Belleville's gunner for the mid week battle.

C.G.E.—Goal, Naish; backs, James Feeley; halves, Monks, William, Millard; forwards, Jenkins, Cross, Schwier, Houghton, Armour.

"Has Floyd Johnson quit fighting since he was knocked out by Willard?"

G. F.

Johnson has not quit the rink and it is probable he will be busier now than ever, as he is young and is a good card. He probably will be matched with Jack McAuliffe as the semi-final in the Willard-Firpo that Tex Richard is arranging.

The Young Men's Christian Association is being attacked along similar lines.

CHURCH PARADE CITY FORESTERS

Inspiring Message by Rev. R. B. Grobb, of All Saints', to Canadian Order.

The annual church parade of the local lodges of the Canadian Order of Foresters was held last night in All Saints' Church, where an inspiring message was imparted by Rev. R. B. Grobb.

Preaching from the text contained in Matthew 22, 35-40, the speaker pointed out the connection between the two commandments, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself."

A man cannot have a feeling of love for anyone on earth without realising that life is a good thing, and his impulse is towards God who made him. "You cannot call your fellow-man 'brother' without calling God 'Father,'" the speaker said.

"Religion is th foundation of society and of fraternal organisations. Our first duty in this world is not to our fellow-men, but to the Church and God."

It is not necessary to harp on the achievements of the church, the speaker said. As reasonable, rational creatures we know that it is responsible for whatever is good in the world.

There would not be a fraternal society in existence were it not for the Church of Jesus Christ, and if the Church is not first upheld, the heart will be removed from the fraternities.

"There is a tendency," the speaker pointed out, "to try to hold the fraternity together just because of itself and the good-fellowship found there. The organisation will not be cemented by calling a man by his first name. Religion is the prop of the world and of the community. I mean by religion a God-fearing, Church-going, Sabbath-keeping religion."

Don't Look On.

The way to reform the Church is not to stand on the outside and criticise what is done inside. It is the duty of everybody to uphold the Church. It needs moral support, the kind of support a man gives to an institution by his presence, the support that a man contributes to the kingdom of God by being seen in the House of God—by his influence. "What does your annual church parade signify," asked the speaker. "It is an admission of the truth of what I claim. You come once a year at least back to the source of what is best, back to the heart of all fraternal societies. A pertinent question is, who supports the Church for the other 51 Sundays?"

Man's inbuence, the speaker continued, is either for or against an institution. All a man needs to do to help the devil is just to do nothing. There is great danger to the Church, not from active opposition which she can withstand, but from the cold indifference and disloyalty within on the part of people who profess to be Christians, and look forward to the dignity of a Christian funeral which they are doing nothing to deserve.

The love mentioned in the text is not merely a matter of sentiment. Sentimental love cannot be bestowed promiscuously on commandment. This love is enjoined upon us as a duty, and duty is the biggest word in the world. We are far bigger than our hearts, and the commandment includes our minds and our souls.

ORGANIZING GENIUS IN MOVIE BUSINESS

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, June 4. — All right, Sparks. Put the big white "spot" on Irving G. Thalberg, youthful prodigy of the movie industry!

Thalberg, who at 23 directs a film business grossing $4,000,000 a year, commands a personal income of over $100,000 and is proclaimed an organization genius!

He brings to the executive side of pictures a blending of personality and achievement ranking with that of the foremost stars in romantic interest, as well as a vision which should help rid the industry of much that is now stultifying.

Thalberg has just been given a substantial interest in the Louis B. Mayer studio. As vice-president he will guide the destinies of that big concern. Prior to that he was three years director of Universal, to which he came as assistant to the president's assistant, because he saw a brighter future in films than in the New York exporting business he then managed.

He looks like he was meant to play the violin or write poetry rather than galvanize and expand big business concerns. And as a matter of fact, it is from sentimental and idealistic impulses seldom associated with finance that his executive talents spring.

* * *

A melodramatic title for Thalberg's career might read, "Peter Paving His Way to Plutocracy," for millionaire he is certain to be, barring decided mischance, before he reaches 30.

Actual dollars, however, by no means comprehend his idea of success.

"I feel happy," he told me with boyish earnestness, "to have some share in molding the destinies of an agency of entertainment and enlightenment reaching some 20,000,000 Americans daily.

"That implies tremendous power and responsibility, almost awesome at times. Think of its effect upon people whose lives would otherwise be drab! How it stimulates imagination. Builds dreams. Recreates waining ambition. Fires new hopes. Stirring a nation with a new culture.

"Why, the fact that thousands of people heretofore inarticulate have been prompted by motion pictures to write, not only for the screen, shows its influence in quickening mental activity.

* * *

"Success," he said, cutting back, "is the measure of one's vital relationship to the rest of the world, a relationship made up of an infinite number of sentimental reactions and their material coin of exchange.

"In this business you must have a great faith in the weight of emotions. You've got to be a sentimentalist to risk from $200,000 to $400,000 for a picture in the reasonable assurance that its sway upon human hearts will reimburse and profit you.

"You can readily see that motion pictures can't be based on cold-blooded finance like raising potatoes or selling cotton. The movie maker can't simply pour in so much money and sit back awaiting returns. He must be unusually alert to the social and economic changes that react upon fundamentally unchangeable emotions. He's got to get that into his pictures or his product is unsalable."

* * *

It is Irving Thalberg's canny ability to do just that—to sense the changing psychology of a people and to shape all the activities of a movie producing plant to the heart hungers and mind gropings of a public—which brings him an income of $100,000 a year at 23.

Over his dynamic personality and the consciousness of his abilities, he wears a becoming mask of modesty and quiet, unfailing courtesy. Not a trace of swagger—for which, Sparks, please keep the spotlight on him a moment longer!

FEMININE EXERCISE AN AID TO BEAUTY

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, June 4.—"My face is my fortune," sang the pretty milkmaid.

"My knees are mine," sings pretty Ann Pennington.

That's the reason she had them insured for $250,000.

Artists have agreed that this petite dancer has the most perfect pair of knees out of captivity. Rounded and dimpled as those of a child and covered with a pink skin as soft and satiny as advertisements say one's face could be.

Need I tell you that Ann wears her stockings rolled?

"Of course I do," she assured me. "And I advise every other girl to do the same. It's infinitely more comfortable and more healthful than the old way.

Aids to Beauty

"Fla shoes and rolled stockings have done more to make walking, hiking and dancing popular than any two other fads than we have ever known. Consequently they have made women lovelier.

"Women couldn't enjoy exercise formerly because they wore high heels and tight clothing. I thoroughly believe that all fatigue and ungracefulness can be traced to violations of the laws of health and comfort. Whatever restricts a woman's freedom restricts her capacity for development.

"And of course believe in going without corsets. The only reason women ever were slaves to them was because they were too lazy to keep their figures trim by diet and exercise."

Jumps Rope

Dancing and walking are two methods by which Ann firmly believes one must court beauty. Her favorite exercise, however, is jumping rope.

In her dressing room at the theater, between the acts of "Jack and Jill," Ann takes out her rope and skips about with all the zest and joy of a seven-year-old—and she really doesn't look much older.

"I don't advise this for anyone but myself, or for those who really enjoy it," she said. "Some people say it hurts their hearts. I'm sure it doesn't hurt mine. I believe it keeps my weight right and my circulation peppy.

"And," she whispered confidentially, "I'm absolutely sure it's the best thing in the world for the knees."

PRINCE'S DRAGOONS TO CAMP IN PETERBOROUGH

The Third Prince of Wales' Dragoons will hold a camp at the Peterborough Exhibition grounds from june 14 to June 22 this year. The Armouries will be open on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday this week from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. for the purpose of issuing clothing.

WHAT DO YOU VALUE MOST?

What part of your body do you value most? Ann Pennington thinks so much of her knees that she has insured them for $250,000. Do you value any part of your body that highly?

Are your fingers, for instance, worth $10,000 each? That's the value Paderewski, the famous pianist-politician, has placed on his digits. He's insured them for a tota of $100,000 against injury.

Other high lights in the world of song and story have done likewise. Mary Pickford, for instance, is insured for $1,000,000, it is said. A large part of that is due not so much to any part of her body as to her personality.

But Charlie Chaplin's feet may be said to be the cause for his $1,000,000 policy. Babe Ruth's hands and eyes may be behind the $225,000 policy covering him for accident and life. And Doug Fairbanks' agile limbs are credited with the greater part of the $1,000,000 poli y that covers him.

Based on these figures, how high insurance would you take out for the most valued part of your body?

GOOD MANNERS

On leaving home for an extended stay, it frequently happens that one owes calls it is impossible to make.

In such a case one should leave at each home where an indebtedness exists one's visiting card, with the initials "P.P.C." written in one corner. The letters mean "pour prendre conge," a French expression signifying "to take leave."

It is quite proper to drive from house to house, leaving the cards with whatever servant opens the door. Or, if there is not time for this, the cards may be mailed.

NEWS FROM BURNBRAE AND IN THE DISTRICT

Lawn Social in Connection With St. Andrews' Church—Personals.

BURNBRAE, June 4.—On Friday evening the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church, Burnbrae, held a successful social on the commodious and beautiful lawn of Burnlea Farm, owned by Mr. John Oddie.

The purpose of these social gatherings held by the ladies periodically during the summer months is not primarily to make money but to afford wholesome entertainment and good fellowship for the people of the community.

The Rev. J. J. Black, D.D., was chairman of the evening, and opened the programme by telling a number of stories which were enjoyed by the crowd. Instrumental music was furnished by Miss Marjorie Rannie and Miss Lottie Thain. Solos by Mrs. Charles Milne. Several cornet solos by Mr. Murray Meiklejohn.

Our three chief entertainers were Miss Lillian Hay of Campbellford. Mrs. Frank Little of Menie and Miss Gladys Meiklejohn of Rawdon.

Miss Hay is always a welcomed visitor at Burnbrae, and the dry humor of her recitations is always enjoyed.

Mrs. Frank Little has come to us recently from Cobourg. She has had considerable training in elocution, and we welcome her as a distinct asset to our community life.

Miss Gladys Meiklejohn has a natural and inimitable way of giving readings, and even old familiar pieces seem different when Gladys touches them. We regret that she, with her parents, are leaving the old farm and are going to take up residence in Campbellford.

The community singing was vigorously led by Harvey Donald. Harvey always makes things go. We hope for a better line up next time.

The programme was prepared by Mrs. George Craighead, Miss Pearl Donald and Mrs. J. J. Black.

Admission to these socials is only 15 cents, including lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Staples, of Cobourg, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Frank Little, of Menie.

Miss Marjorie Rannie has returned, after spending a holiday at Kingston.

Mrs. Robert Linn is out again, after her recent operation in Peterborough.

Mr. R. Walker and Mr. A. T. Donald spent Thursday in Belleville.

Major J. F. B. Belford, the Conservative candidate, spoke to his constituents in Menie Hall Thursday evening.

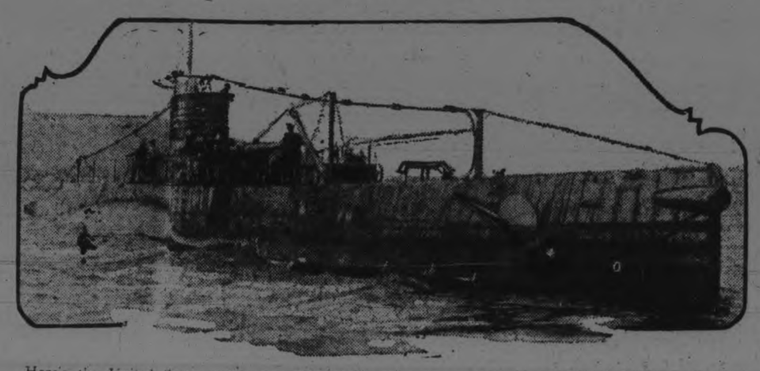
Rev. J. J. Black, B.A., B.D., conducted preparatory services in St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford. Rev. C. F. MacIntosh, minister of the church, received a large number of new members into the fellowship of the church.

Burnbrae church services every Sunday morning at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Miss Edith Gibbons, of Toronto, is spending a couple of months at the home of Robert Ketcheson.

We regret to announce the illness of Mr. Alex. Milne, storekeeper at Menie, and also of Mrs. Atkinson of Menie.

Shatters All Deep Sea Diving Records



Here's the United States submarine S-37, which set a new record when it dived 208 feet off the east coast of Belvedere Island in recent tests. "Jerry," a Boston terrier mascot, was permitted to make the plunge with the crew. Lieutenant Paul Glutting commands the S-37.

ELECTION NOTES

From Liberal - Conservative Committee Headquarters.

(Advertisement.)

It is quite certain that no candidate from the Liberal-Conservative side, or any other, for that matter, ever brought back from the back townships a nomination paper signed with so many names of residents and voters as Candidate Bradburn produced at the committee rooms last Saturday. The array of signatures was certainly impressive, and taken as indicative of the handsome vote he will receive on polling day. Both in Galway and Harvey, including the three meetings held, was the very highest confidence in a bouncing majority felt.

This week the candidate and friends start out on another tour completing the roster of appointments already made. Then Smith has to be attended to and North Monaghan in due course. Smith and North Monaghan can be served by trips directly from the city to each meeting, but away back it is another story. Candidate James Mark, for North Victoria, was met and he reported large success at his meetings and a fine spirit amongst the party and friends.

A dtae has finally been arranged for the visit of Hon. Mr. Ferguson, the Liberal Conservative leader, to Peterborough. Arranged for Monday 18th. It can be easily understood that he is in large demand to address gatherings in other constituencies, and is working day and night. Full announcement will be made in the press and by posters, of the occasion. In the Opera House, of course.

As an evidence of the interest taken in the contest by the Women's Liberal Conservative Clubs throughout the Midland District is seen in the constant and urgent applications coming in by wire and 'phone to secure the services of Mrs. Fallis to address gatherings of women, and in cases mixed audiences. The lady has a message for the women electors, an dbeing gifted and self-possessed, and having a platform manner all her own, and a line of argument at once convincing and appealing, is exactly what is needed to drive home to the women the aboslute necessity for a change. It is almost certain that at the elections of 1927 Mrs. Fallis will be one of the candidates, and almost certainly a sitting member in the House.

The committee is planning a big rally at Bradburn's committee rooms on Saturday night next. The incessant work of the registration has taken up all the time and attention but as that will be over in the next three days, other work can have attention. Meetings of the ward committees and workers are being arranged for. Saturday was a busy day and the night especially so. All the sheets of records of registrations have to be in the hands of the several clerks for the revising officers, by Tuesday night, so if you have not registered get busy right right now. It is not known if the list of accepted voters, as per the registrations will be printed, but that is to be found out. If not officially done, possibly the two candidates may arrange to share, jointly, in the expense. For the information is likely to be of service. At date of writing it is not known how many have registered, but cetrainly a large number have done so.

Don't forget that Bradburn's committee rooms are open every day and in evenings. There is a warm political welcome for you. A political welcome, because it is politics that will bring the men and women to the rooms. The Ladies' committee room is also open, on George street, about opposite the Examiner office, and everyone knows where that it is. But don't go into the newspaper office by mistake, for while one might be in the right church, certainly in the wrong pew. Look on the east side of the street and possibly save a life, or vote, which is the same thing. What we have we hold any anything we lack we want. That is in votes. The bigger the majority the better the decision is settled.

The attention of the ladies is called to a meeting in the Women's committee rooms, on Wednesday evening June 10th. A real good get-together meeting, it is to be. All members of the Executive of the Woman's Association, workers and those who have general cognizance of the ward activities are urged to come. Many things are to be planned and a general conference is desirable and will be helpful. Ward chair women, particularly, for they can assist in getting things rolling along nicely. The rooms are over 418 George street. Just look for Grant & Thorpe's store and then go upstairs. Placards are on the walls of the stairway.

APPLE FRITTERS

Mix a cup of flour, a quarter teaspoon of salt and a teaspoon of baking powder. Then slowly add a well-beaten egg and two-thirds of a cup of milk, until a smooth batter is made. Next add two apples, pared, cored and cut into small pieces, and drop the mixture from a tablespoon, having all the spoon will hold into hot fat.

Fry four minutes and drain on soft paper.

Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

The fritters should be golden brown and thoroughly cooked in the center. It is best to try one; and see if it is cooked, before removing the others from the fat.

RIBBON SASHES

Ribbon sashes are seen in varied styles this season. Those finished with picot edges of the same color, or of contrasting colors, are frequently seen.

ENFORCE VOLSTEAD ACT IN NEW YORK STATE

NEW YORK, June 4.—(Canadian Press.)—Despite the repeal of the Mullen-Gage State Enforcement Act made effective by Governor Smith's signature last Friday, police and state officials yesterday continued to arrest offenders of dry laws and the State courts proceeded with prosecutions of offenders arrested up until Saturday night. The only apparent effect of the repeal was the transfer of prosecutions in the case of new offenders from the State to Federal courts.

The police commissioner declared that the police would continue to enforce the Volstead Act.

LOVING CUP PRESENTED TO JOHN H. RENWICK

At the annual meeting of the Male Voice Choir, held a few days ago, a loving cup, suitably engraved, was presented to Mr. John H. Renwick in recognition of his faithful services to the choir, and as an expression of the high esteem in which he is held by every member of the organisation.

This completes Mr Renwick's third year as musical director of the choir, the members of which attribute to his untiring efforts during that time the success of the organisation's endeavours.

¶ A wedding in June means a lot more than orange blossoms and confetti.

¶ In the first place there is the trousseau to plan and buy.

¶ Not to mention equipping and furnishing of the new home over which the bride-to-be will preside.

¶ Cellar, kitchen, dining-room, parlour, hall and bed-rooms must bear the stamp of their mistress's taste and approval. This involves scores of shopping problems and decisions.

¶ Follow the store news in our advertisements when buying for your home; the world has endless wealth of new, useful and beautiful wares which you can learn about in no other way.

MODERN GOLF

No. 8—GOLF DONT'S

Don't try to keep the head still, absurd as this may sound, for the stationary head is the result of a good swing, and not the cause of it. As we have seen, although the head does not move up or down, or from side to side, it does twist a small but appreciable amount because of the turning of the shoulders. Any attempt to fixate it, as in a vise, will, in all probability, result in two things—either stultifying the body or causing it to break at the waist. There is nothing more assinine and irritating than to be told continually, as an explanation of every fuzzled shot, that the player moved his head. The head can be kept ever so still and yet the worst kind of shots follow. Any instructor who persists in this sort of advice should be "cracked" over the head with a niblick, and I am sure the perpetrators of this charitable act could be acquitted by a jury of twelve beginners on the plea of justifiable homicide.

Don't try to accomplish the impossible. A player should have a fifty-fifty chance of "pulling off" a proposed shot. Some players attempt to get out of a bunker when close to the wa with an iron, which feat would be difficult with a niblick.

Don't be short either on the green or when approaching on the hol. Statistics show that over ninety per cent. of all shots to the hole are short.

Don't try to remember every point about the swing while executing the stroke. The swing should be made automatically, with everything eliminate except the ball which should stand out as prominently as a red flag to a bull.

"The centipede was happy quite,
Until the toad in fun
Said, 'Pray which foot comes after which?'
She worked her mind to such a pitch,
She lay distracted in a ditch,
Considering how to run!"

Don't give up until your opponent has holed out in fewer strokes, for who knows, as the old Scotch caddie says, that "he may no fa' doondeid!"

Don't make excuses for your bad play or belittle your opponent's good shots, or commisserate his bad ones. Even if sincere, you will be misunderstood. Your duty is done when you are not patently elated at his bad shots, nor unduly depressed over his good ones.

Don't deliberately try to get your opponent's goat," for it is just as much a breach of rules and spirit of the game to get on your opponent's nerves by insinuations and suggestions as to interfere with the physical execution of his stroke.

Don't be upset by an adverse turn of luck. Remember that in the long run luck neutralizes itself.

Don't take things for granted. Play every hole to the card. When once a player lets up it will be difficult to concentrate again, and the winning of a hole under such circumstances has a stimulating effect on your opponent.

Remember a sick man is the hardest to beat. Apparently golf being a game of repressed energy the sick man is naturally in this frame of mind.

Don't follow the advice of anyone unless the reason is clearly understood Then follow it only if it fits in wit general mechanics of the swing. Tips are good if they go to the root of the matter; but if merely antidotes, reject them.
